QUINCY CETA INVITES YOUTH PROPOSALS

Quincy CETA is accepting proposals from government and community agencies interested in sponsoring training and work programs for local youth.

The projects funded under YETP will emphasize basic education and job training, with strong supervision of participating youth. Special consideration will be given to effective program designs [especially those with measurable outputs], efforts to restructure jobs to encourage upward mobility and the breakdown of sex stereotyping, and project sponsorship by community-based organizations and local educational agencies.

Quincy CETA is also soliciting proposals under the Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Projects [YCCIP]. These projects should provide constructive work experience for unemployed [out-of-school] youth [16-19] in labor-intensive projects having lasting, tangible and beneficial community impact. Proposals selected by Quincy CETA will compete with proposals from 17 other Subgrantees for $1.6 Million in YCCIP funds in the Balance of State CETA Prime Sponsor area. The U.S. Department of Labor retains final approval of YCCIP projects.

The projects funded under YCCIP will emphasize youth with severe difficulties in obtaining employment [high school dropouts, minorities, offenders, etc.] and meaningful and well-supervised work experience which will enhance the youths' long-term career prospects. Likely projects include improvements to public facilities, neighborhood conservation, weatherization and basic repairs to low-income housing, energy conservation, and natural resource conservation on non-federal publicly-held properties.

Agencies eligible to apply to sponsor projects include units of local government, community organizations [public and private non-profit], and local educational agencies. Sponsoring agencies must have at least two years experience and demonstrated administrative capability in project operation. Community-based, minority, and private non-profit agencies are encouraged to apply.

Applications are available from Quincy CETA Youth Coordinator, 773-3983 and must be returned to Quincy CETA, 1073 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169 No Later Than 4:00 p.m. Monday, October 17, 1977.

Mayor Claims Propaganda

Chamber Says LaRaia Criticism Result Of 'Typographical Error'

Mayor LaRaia has accused the South Shore Chamber of Commerce of spreading untruthful political propaganda against him in the midst of an election campaign.

The Chamber, in its Sept. 20 Legislative Bulletin, concluded that the LaRaia Administration's low $2.40 tax rate hike would be made up by an $8 million increase in taxes on the business community.

"I only hope that this so-called news article is just a massive typographical error and not the attempt to spread political propaganda that it appears to be," said the Mayor.

"I note that former Mayor (Walter J.) Hannon now works in an administrative position at the Chamber and the former Mayor should have realized that the figures used were not accurate."

In response to the Mayor's charges, Eric Swider, Executive Police, FBI Continue Paint Program Investigation

Quincy Police and the FBI were continuing their investigation this week into alleged irregularities with payroll checks in the South West Neighborhood House Painting Program.

Mayor LaRaia ordered one worker fired and his final week's salary withheld in connection with the case.

Police and FBI were reported to be investigating allegations that payroll checks continued to be issued to an employee who left the program last May.

The FBI is in the case because federal funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the CETA program are involved in the painting project.

Dukakis Pledges State Help To Keep ENC Here

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy brought in reinforcements from the State House Tuesday in its efforts to keep Eastern Nazarene College on the Wollaston campus.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis came to Quincy to address the Eastern Nazarene Board of Trustees at their annual meeting.

The governor, in a half hour session with the trustees, asked them to reconsider their April vote which would move the school from its present campus to another location.

He told the Trustees that he would make available to the college the resources of the State Departments of Education and Planning in helping to find answers to its problems.

Dukakis said that officials from the various state departments would be free to meet with representatives of the college at any time to offer any expertise the state has in any field necessary.

The governor's appearance at the board meeting was requested by Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy], who is a graduate of the college. He introduced Dukakis to the board.

Sheets told the board that the city of Quincy also was willing to cooperate in retaining the school, emphasized the strong neighborhood feeling for keeping it in Quincy.

The board was scheduled to meet yesterday [Wednesday] afternoon with city officials to go over plans the city has started to implement to help alleviate some of the college's problems.

Due to appear for the city at the 8:30 a.m. meeting were Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, Council President and Sen. Arthur H.

Tobin Says LaRaia Flyer 'Act Of A Desperate Person'

A Mayor LaRaia campaign flyer attempting to link Sen. Arthur H. Tobin to former Sen. Joseph J. C. DiCarlo [D-Revere], who was convicted of extortion, has been labelled by Tobin "the act of a desperate person."

Tobin, who opposes Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia in the race for Mayor, in response to questions by The Quincy Sun specifically denied:

● That his departure as vice chairman of the Legislature's Ways and Means Committee had anything to do with the extortion trial of DiCarlo and Sen. Ronald C. MacKenzie [R-Burlington].

● That there was anything underhanded about DiCarlo's support for three bills filed by Tobin in April, 1973, giving three Quincy city employees civil service jobs without competitive examinations.

In fact, said Tobin, he filed a fourth bill at the time giving LaRaia himself the same exemption but LaRaia asked that it be withdrawn when a Patriot Ledger reporter began asking questions about it.

The LaRaia flyer said:

"Sen. James Kelly, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of which Sen. Tobin was vice chairman, also figured prominently in the [DiCarlo-MacKenzie] extortion trial. Prior to the trial Tobin was removed from his post and transferred to another committee."

"It's been explained before," said Tobin. "When Sen. James P. Rurack of Haverhill did not come back into the Senate, the Senate president asked me if I would consider assuming the chairmanship of the Bills in Third Reading Committee, which is a very important position in the Senate. He also promoted me to the Rules Committee."

Senate President Kevin B. Harrington. [D-Salem] confirmed Tobin's account.

"Many months in advance of the appointment," Harrington told The Sun, "we discussed the Ways and Means Committee vice chairmanship and the vacancy of the Third Reading Committee, which handles the legal parts of bills in the final stage."

"There had been a non-attorney, Sen. Rurack, in the post for many years. I always wanted to have an attorney in the job. I asked Tobin if he would mind making the financial sacrifice and take

Prospects Bright For End To Shipyard Strike

Prospects of a settlement of the strike at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard, which enters its 81st day today [Thursday], brightened this week.

Former Labor Secretary W. J. Usery Jr., who was instrumental in settling a similar 17-week strike in 1974, arrived last Saturday and management and Local 5 began talking again.

Usery said some progress was being made but that the main stumbling block was still money. General Dynamics has offered $2 an hour increase over three years. Local 5 has asked $3.44.

Faxon Commons Gets Extension

The City Council granted developers of Faxon Commons, a 600-unit planned unit development on Southern Artery, a four-year extension to Oct. 1, 1981, to finish the project which is now under construction.

THE 1000 SOUTHERN ARTERY Senior Citizens Center has purchased a new bus for its senior citizens' trips. Shortly after delivery, some of the community leaders interested in the Center were taken for a short trial trip around Quincy. The new General Motors bus, in various shades of blue inside and out might have been named the "Bluebird of Happiness" but the overwhelming choice of a name for the bus was "Blanche", in honor of Mrs. Blanche Wellman, associate director of 1000 Southern Artery and the Citizens Center. CROWLEY GAINS 18 VOTES IN WARD 1 RECOUNT

David J. Crowley Jr. is still on the November ballot for the City Council seat from Ward 1.

Crowley, son of a former city councillor, picked up 18 votes in the recount that was asked by James F. Miller Jr., who lost to Crowley by 56 votes in the original count Sept. 20.

Crowley now faces Councillor Leo J. Kelly, lopsided winner in the preliminary election, in the final voting Nov. 8.

The results of the recount were:

Kelly 2,284, Crowley 905, Miller 831, blanks 169, total 4,189.

The original count was:

4,189.

The biggest change came in Precinct 1 [the Merrymount School] where Crowley added on 17 votes which apparently had been erroneously credited to Kelly, who lost a like amount.

City Clerk John Gillis said the recount cost Quincy taxpayers about $3,000, mostly for the police detail to guard the ballots. The recount took two hours Saturday morning.

'Appointees Should Be Included' Mayor's 'Disclosure' Resolve Tabled After Council Criticism

The City Council Monday night reacted strongly, negatively and politically to a resolve submitted by Mayor LaRaia that would have candidates for public office file tax returns and net worth statements.

But the Council stopped short of retaliation when Councillors Paul D. Harold and Daniel G. Raymondi objected to "playing the battle of resolves just before election."

The Mayor's resolve would have candidates "file with the City Clerk... a copy of their last year's tax returns and a net worth statement. This information will become a public record..."

Shortly after losing the preliminary election to Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Mayor LaRaia disclosed his own income tax return and promised to reveal his assets.

Later, however, the Mayor said it would take about three weeks to get a statement of assets together.

Councillor Dennis E. Harrington noted that the resolve is "not an order and, of course, if it was an order it would be unconstitutional since no one in this city has the right to regulate to any degree elections or candidates for public office."

"When we ask people to do what they cannot be required to do by law we set a very, very bad precedent... anyone who does not disclose as the Mayor wishes would be the subject of innuendo."

"It creates a field day for those people who wish to talk about corruption in this city. I think that it is bad for the city of Quincy."

"We have an attempt here to create an image of dishonesty for politicians in the city of Quincy. Quincy has always had a reputation for honesty."

"This is an obvious attempt on the part of Mayor LaRaia to place before this City Council a problem that is of his own making."

"I would suggest that one thing could be required by ordinance in this city and that's that appointed officials be required to disclose their income and the sources of their income."

"I think the Mayor is struggling for what the people want and he almost found it. He picked on candidates when they really want to know about appointees."

"I think he ought to have his appointees, those that are under suspension, those that are under indictment, and those that have already been convicted, disclose their net worth and their sources of income."

However, a move by Harrington to recommend that the Mayor submit such an order was blocked by Harold and Raymondi.

Raymondi observed that the Mayor's resolve could be interpreted to include the Hospital Board of Managers, the Park and Recreation Board, even the Historical Commission in disclosure of income and assets.

"Any resolve that has such far-reaching and important ramifications," he said, "should be well considered by this Council and not used in a blatant political maneuver after a primary."

He accused the Mayor of "indicating that certain disclosures would be made within a matter of hours, then indicating it would take some three or four weeks to make the disclosures."

"I for one don't have the kind of machinery that the administration has or the financial capabilities to hire an accountant as he obviously has to look through his assets and whatnot."

"It's going to take the Mayor three weeks to comply and he has all this kind of capability. Certainly my finances aren't anything that anyone would want to take a look at."

"But I would not want to get involved in a battle of resolves."

Raymondi moved that the resolve be tabled, which precluded any more debate and ended the matter for the time being, at least.

Talent Bank To Continue

Women's Commission Discusses Programs

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women met recently to discuss new programs that will deal with women and employment and women and young children.

The Commission will also continue its efforts in the areas of legislation, money management, battered women and the Talent Bank during the coming year.

A newly formed task force on employment is considering apprenticeship programs, employee opportunities and affirmative action policies. Another task force was formed to examine the needs of mothers with young children.

Among the task forces which will continue work from last year is one on women and money, aimed at helping women realize the options which exist in money management.

direction of Alicia Coletti will be the focus of another task force.

The task force on battered women which conducted extensive research on this problem last year will be looking at alternative ways to combat this issue.

Special committees which will continue this year include the Talent Bank committee and the legislative committee.

Designed to encourage more women to become involved in civic activities, the Talent Bank provides a means for women to express interest in serving on city boards and commissions.

The legislative committee will continue its review and study of legislation pertinent to women and, when appropriate, will work for passage of legislation supported by the Commission.

In other business, the Commission reviewed the proposed changes to its by-laws. The next meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 17.

POST WAR KILLER

It goes without saying that wars have caused millions of deaths and injuries to Americans. But a recent research into death and accident reports dating back to 1920 has uncovered a new danger. You might call it a post-war "hangfire".

This homefront killer is known as the "war trophy". And it is responsible for an estimated half-million reported accidents in this country since World War I. The most frequent disasters are caused by loaded guns that go off while being cleaned or when they are simply mishandled.

Other mishaps occur because too many owners of war souvenirs assume that ammunition cannot explode unless fired from a gun. Not true. Certain chemicals in shells and cartridges can deteriorate with time, causing the ammunition to explode if exposed to extreme heat or even to a slight shock.

In Boston recently, a Vietnam veteran was severely wounded when a souvenir shell, serving as a paperweight on his office desk, suddenly went off during a thunderstorm. So, if you own any "war trophies", deactivate them at once.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

Some plants get right down to business and thrive on the click of the typewriter and the hum of the dictaphone. If your office has air conditioning and fluorescent lights, so much the better - get busy and start a garden at work. Buy yourself a miniature Ming Tree and enjoy a beautiful lacy plant with fern-like leaves. Or bring a spider plant on the job and watch it grow and grow with normal care and good light. If you are facing North from nine to five, try a Grecian Urn plant - a bromeliad with lovely rosettes of powdery green and striped leaves. Cheer up a dreary corner or a harried boss with a Velvet Plant or White Flag Plant and work wonders for the corporate environment and your spirits.

Whether it's a lobby, office or home, plants or flowers from NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100 can add a great deal to both the environment and your spirits. We invite you to inquire about our service where we will make arrangements to change your flowers or plants on a regular basis, according to your wishes. Another service we offer businessmen is that we will be happy to send gifts of flowers automatically on those important dates to those special people and we will simply send you the bill. Hours: Mon. - Sat. 8-6, evenings by appointment.

Jewels & Gems

by Stan Manin

Contemporary silver design, largely influenced by Scandinavia, favors elegant simplicity of style. How different this trend is from those of other eras! In the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, silversmiths displayed their talents in the ingenuity, ornateness, and range of their patterns. Even small items were treated lavishly. The caddy spoon, for example, was created in an astounding variety of forms. This spoon was used for measuring tea from its container - the caddy - into the pot. Today, one can see examples that are embossed and chased, filigreed and stamped, pierced and engraved. The bowl was shaped as a seashell, a bunch of grapes - even as a jockey cap! Contemporary or traditional, whatever you prefer for your family in jewelry designs, we have it at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490. We have many fine pieces of estate and antique jewelry and have people coming from long distances to make their selections from our displays. If you like this kind of jewelry check with us from time to time to see what we have available. Open: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Mon. thru Sat.

HELPFUL HINT
Be careful when you purchase a silver item with an indistinguishably worn hallmark.

SUNBEAMS

By Henry Bosworth

Harold 'Arrives' As Political Power

Paul Harold, you would have to say, has come far, fast. And, it would seem, he has far to go.

In just four short years he has taken the political elevator from the basement to the penthouse.

In 1973, making his first run for city office, Harold bowed to Leo Kelly by 48 votes in a spirited battle for the Ward 1 City Council seat vacated by Edward Graham. To lose by 48 votes is a heart breaker for anyone.

It was enough to drop Harold into the political basement - for awhile. But he quickly recovered and pushed the "up" button. And did it with a touch of class.

While most of his friends were urging him to play it safe and run for the School Committee in 1975 [there were two vacant seats] Harold rejected the idea. He had once said he would never run for the School Committee just for the sake of being elected to office. He wanted to be a City Councillor and that's what he was going to run for.

Well, he ran. And, he really ran. He finished second in the six-man council at-large field, winning the seat vacated by Joseph LaRaia who was elected mayor. Only Arthur Tobin topped Harold. Tobin got 20,453 votes and Harold 19,125 - only 1,328 votes behind.

Harold topped veteran John Quinn [who won his 10th consecutive term] by 1,938 votes.

In last month's city preliminary election, Harold powered his way into the top spot not only in the council at-large race but on the entire ballot.

He racked up 12,681 votes. Nearest council at-large candidate to him was Joseph Brett who took second place honors with 8,234 votes, but trailed Harold by 4,447.

Harold's 12,681 votes slightly topped Tobin's 12,216 mayoral vote [by 465] and easily surpassed LaRaia's 7,411 [by 5,270 votes].

Of course, councillor at-large and school committee candidates can get one of three votes whereas a mayoral candidate can get only one of one. Thus it is easier for a councillor at-large or school committee candidate to top the ballot than a mayoral contender.

But that doesn't take any luster from Harold's performance. He has "arrived" as a powerful political figure.

At age 29, he has parlayed a boyish charm and a political independent image almost into instant success a promised bright future.

No doubt he one day will be a mayoral contender - perhaps in the near future. He no doubt one day may enter the state arena as a representative or senatorial contender. And [or] he seems like a certain contender one of these days for the 13th Congressional seat now occupied by James Burke.

He still has his hand on the "up" button.

ONE OF THE big surprises of the city preliminary election [besides Tobin's margin over LaRaia] was the strong showing of former Councillor-Rep. Joseph Brett.

Brett, attempting a political comeback after an upset defeat at the hands of young Mike Morrissey in last year's state election, finished second in the council at-large race.

Although he trailed top man Harold by over 8,000 votes, he led School Committeeman Francis McCauley [by 643], incumbent John Quinn [by 992], Ward 6 Councillor Dennis Harrington [by 2,754] and sixth nominee Michael Faherty [by 3,078].

Brett it would appear, has a good shot at winning the seat being vacated by Tobin to run for mayor. But he cannot afford to sit back and rest on his laurels. McCauley is right on his heels. Harrington, who did little campaigning for the preliminary election, no doubt will mount an active one hereon in as will Faherty.

Quinn, seeking his 11th consecutive term, is also going to have to do some hustling between now and Nov. 8 to hold his seat.

For 20 years, Quinn has never really done too well in a preliminary election but has always come back with a strong finish in the finale. But he's going to have to work for it this year with Brett or McCauley breathing on him if the other wins the vacant seat.

LOOKING AHEAD to the 1979 city election, you're almost sure to see Michael Kelly taking another crack at the Ward 6 council seat. Kelly finished a respectable third to Joanne Condon and Walter Hickey in the five man field for his first try. And right now plans to make another bid.

Kelly polled 699 votes to Condon's 1,376 and Hickey's 1,066. Consensus is that Patrick Conroy who got 443 votes hurt Kelly.

Incidentally, Kelly and his wife, Pat, both clocked a lot of campaign miles. Enough for her to lose a total 15 pounds while Mike is now down two suit sizes.

HAVE BUS, WILL TRAVEL: Rep Michael Morrissey is converting a school bus into a mobile district office and will drive it to various areas of his legislative district to confer with constituents. "If they can't get to the State House, then I'll bring the State House to them," he says. "I believe in being available to my constituents."

When the first cameras were used about 150 years ago subjects had to sit still for close to six minutes.

Morrissey Supports Proposed 'Son Of Sam' Law For Mass.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] has co-sponsored legislation which would require all monies accumulated as a result of a criminal's notoriety to be placed in an escrow account to aid victims or families of victims.

The main sponsor of the bill is Rep. William Keating [D-Sharon], who modeled the legislation after New York's recently enacted "Son of Sam Law".

The purpose of the bill is to prevent a person convicted of a crime from being rewarded with large sums of money in return for rights to his story.

The bill also sets up a mechanism for victims or their families to recover damages from convicted felons.

"Too often, criminals have been rewarded for violent crimes they have committed," said Morrissey. "This bill will set up an escrow account for profits a convicted persons' life story or monies they may receive for movie, magazine or book rights."

The treasurer of the account would be required to advertise in newspapers in each county of the state every six months for three years from the date he received such monies and the victims families will be advised that such money is available to satisfy any money judgement as a result of civil action.

The bill further provides that funds from the escrow account could, upon the order of the court, be used for the exclusive purpose of retaining legal counsel.

READER SPEAKS OUT

A Tribute To John Flavin

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Fifty years of civic involvement and community interest cannot pass without due recognition, and since my association with John P. Flavin approaches that span of time, I can testify to such involvement and interest.

No tally of his concerns and participation would be complete without mentioning some of the high spots of his endeavors - the rebuilding of Wollaston Beach, expanded traffic and parking programs for the city, harbor development and waterfront projects, the U.S. Naval and Marine Reserve Training Center, the Quarry Street entrance to Quincy, educational programs resulting in the fine film, "A Place For You", establishment of building lines for the city, broadening the industrial tax base, and long-range planning for our area.

He prevailed upon the Quincy City Council to enter into a Historic Quincy Festival in 1955, which rekindled the community's interest in its history. His support of plans to gain additional land for the birthplaces of the Presidents Adams was the thrust towards a successful conclusion. These historic buildings thus acquired an improved setting and a little more breathing space.

The evidence shows that in the world of business and public service John Flavin established an enviable record of accomplishment based upon a high code of business ethics and civic responsibility. It was my privilege to have known him.

Congratulations On Sun's Ninth Birthday

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, the Quincy City Club, the Koch Club of Quincy and other community, health and charitable organizations, it has been my good fortune to be associated with, I should like to extend sincere congratulations to the Quincy Sun, its owner and staff, on the 'Ninth Anniversary of this outstanding and successful weekly newspaper that has served the City of Quincy so faithfully.

To observe the struggle and growth of this weekly news media during a time when many obstacles would discourage others, reflects a dedicated effort by you as an individual to succeed and provide the highest quality product for the public to enjoy. Certainly, few will ever know the time and sacrifice the Bosworth Family expended to achieve the recognition it so richly deserves today as the owners of the Quincy Sun.

The Koch Club is planning its Thirtieth Anniversary in 1978 and the amazing success of this organization is in no small measure due to the assistance and cooperation rendered by the news media within the City, The Quincy Sun, The Patriot Ledger and W.J.D.A.

The many non-profit organizations within the community are dependent on the newspapers and radio for successful programs and activity announcements with news releases needed to effectively keep its members informed.

Next year, on the Koch Club's Thirtieth Birthday, we shall be proud to share 1978 with the Quincy Sun's Tenth Anniversary Year and my own Sacred Heart Church's Diamond Jubilee.

Once again, congratulations and many happy returns to you, your family and staff and continued success.

Sincerely,
Richard J. Koch

Councillor Kelly Commended By Yacht Clubs For Quincy Bay Efforts

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

This letter is being written to praise the persistent and tireless efforts of Councillor Leo J. Kelly, in behalf of, not only the boating enthusiasts that we represent, but also in behalf of anyone who has ever received pleasure from Quincy Bay or its surrounding shoreline.

Efforts began about four years ago to erect a secondary sewage treatment plant in Quincy Bay. If constructed it would have entailed the further filling of the Bay, on a site adjacent to the present Nut Island treatment facility. As most of us are aware, the present structure, fill and functioning of Nut Island causes serious problems with regard to Ecology, Pollution and Aesthetics, any further fill, which would have been required, had it not been for Kelly's efforts, would have increased the problems tenfold. Thus drastically deterring the recreational use of the Bay.

The secondary treatment plant will be built, but Kelly's efforts have resulted in Federal Legislation which will result in its placement at Deer Island, and the saving of Quincy Bay from further desecration, for this Councillor Kelly has earned our highest praise.

Senator MacKay Hits Alcohol, Horse, Dog Racing

Sen. John D. Mackay [R-Quincy] lashed out at the general public for its toleration of alcoholic beverages and horse and dog racing in a talk at the Missionary Union banquet in Tremont Temple, Boston.

Noting the popularity of "high society" cocktail parties, Mackay said that "you can't expect the legislature to make much progress in curtailing the liquor traffic until public sentiment demands it more forcibly than at present."

He called horse and dog racing "vile rackets."

"According to the director of accounts of the State Department of Taxation," he said, "large sums have been stolen by town treasurers and gambled away at the races."

Don't blame the Legislature, Mackay added, since "voters themselves voted for it when the proposal was submitted to them five years ago on referendum."

TAX BILLS EXPEDITED

Four women clerks at City Hall worked 150 hours overtime since Sept. 2 preparing 20,000 real estate tax bills for mailing to Quincy homeowners by Treasurer Ralph G. Messenger.

Congratulated by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin for their extraordinary efforts were Miss Evelyn Barrett, Mrs. Edith DeWolfe, Miss Esther Hinchon and Miss Serena Randall.

Messenger said speed was essential in getting out the bills because announcement of the tax rate had been delayed for two months by the State Legislature.

Seek 125,000 Signatures

Cerasoli, Common Cause Petition For 'Code Of Ethics With Teeth'

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] and Common Cause are circulating a petition that would provide Massachusetts with "a code of ethics, with teeth" for its public officials, including legislators.

The petitioners are seeking 125,000 signatures, at least 55,644 to be certified by Nov. 30 in order to get legislative action on the code or, failing that, to get it on the 1978 statewide ballot.

Cerasoli and Common Cause in December, 1976, filed two bills spelling out the code but they have not been reported out of the Judiciary Committee. The petition would force a vote on them.

"I don't believe they will ever come to the floor of the Legislature," said Cerasoli. "The people in the Legislature don't want to go on record against it."

The petition would force the next session of the Legislature to vote the code up or down by May 3. Then petitioners would need 9,000 more signatures to put it on referendum in November, 1978.

The proposal would set up a five-member State Ethics Commission, no more than three from the same party, three appointed by the Governor, one by the State Secretary and one by the Attorney General.

The Commission would make the rules for implementing the code and "act as the primary civil enforcement agency, with subpoena power, for violations of this act and the present conflict of interest law."

It would require a financial disclosure from elected state and county officials and from certain appointed officials of state and county and from declared candidates for public office.

Financial disclosure from local officials would be optional with the community involved.

Disclosures filed with the Commission and with town and city clerks would include:

- Name, nature of association and amount of interest in any business with which the public employee is associated and details of business done with or regulated by the state.

- The names of businesses or persons from whom income of more than $1,000 was received, stating amount and services rendered. The spouse and dependent children will report only sources of income, not amounts.

- Identification and amount held in stock or other securities worth $1,000 or more.

- A description of all real property held in the state worth over $5,000 in aggregate.

- Name and address of each creditor to whom over $1,000 is owed, medical, dental and mental health matters being excluded.

- A report on any appearance, with or without compensation, before a state agency on behalf of a business in which the official is associated or holds an interest of over $1,000.

- The names and addresses of persons from whom gifts of over $50 in aggregate were received.

The code also would require public officials to:

- Prepare a statement describing potential conflict of interest if he is called upon to take an action that would affect his financial interest or of his family.

- Limit gifts, including entertainment, tickets and services, from individual lobbyists to $10 a month per official.

- Decline to represent, for compensation, any person or act as an expert witness before a state agency.

It would also specify that "the majority of members of a non-elective body, committee or subcommittee [that is, a legislative committee on insurance or banking] shall not have a financial interest in matters subject to the jurisdiction of that body."

Former officials, including Legislators, would be forbidden to represent persons for compensation before government bodies with which they were associated for one year after leaving the office or post.

Penalties range from "being fined not more than $1,000 to paying into the treasury a sum equal to three times the financial gain resulting from the violation."

Also, "a person guilty of violating the confidentiality of a commission proceeding in the course of an investigation of a possible violation of conflict of interest regulations shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned for not more than five years."

The code would make a public official or employee convicted of a felony involving an abuse of office subject to loss of state pension rights.

"The Massachusetts Legislature," said Cerasoli, "has plenty of rules of ethics but a lot of them are ignored. We have to find other ways to get elected officials to live by the rules."

"The rules of ethics that we have now must be re-adopted by the Legislature every two years. When the furor dies down, a new Legislature might not see the need to adopt a strict ethics code."

"That's why we need it in law."

Tobin, Rep. and City Councillor Sheets, Eric Swider of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and members of the Planning Department.

One of the problems faced by the school is lack of room for expansion since its campus is in a residential zone surrounded by predominantly single family homes.

Another is the increasing problem of security and vandalism which is made critical by the fact that bounds of the campus are ill-defined with city streets running through the grounds.

There is also the problem of decreasing enrollment because the constituency from which Eastern Nazarene recruits its students is centered in Pennsylvania.

For a time, trustees were looking into the purchase of the site of a defunct college in Media, Pa., just outside Philadelphia but the property is no longer available.

However, the April vote of the board of trustees is still valid and the active search for a new location is still on.

It has been estimated that the fiscal impact of Eastern Nazarene on Quincy is $10 million a year. If the college moved, more than 200 jobs would be lost.

Response Good For Red Cross Blood Appeal

Response to Red Cross appeals for blood donations during the month of August was so good that the usually hectic Labor Day weekend passed without crisis.

Mildred Ambrosia, blood

volunteer chairman for the Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter, attributed the increase in donations to improvements in the donor emergency blood appeal.

"Media support was just great," she said. "As a result, we pulled out of the crisis much sooner than we ordinarily might have. It was a real community effort."

The Red Cross' Northeast Regional Blood Program showed blood collections in Massachusetts and Maine for August reached a total of 29,722 units, an increase of nearly 5,000 over August, 1976.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

THE EIGHT-HUNDRED-DOLLAR-ROOM starts with sturdily traditional all-wood furniture from SK Products and finishes with everything else from the dime store to make a room that is low on budget and long on imagination.

Charming new decorating for the dime store budget

The most attractive ways to decorate do not always depend on what you pay. To prove that imagination is more important than money, designer Shirley Regendahl created a highly functional dining room filled with immense amounts of comfortable, cheery furnishings—and a bill that was less than $800!

The sturdy, well-made wood furniture in the Country Pine finish was budget-priced for a start, and then everything else—from the fabric on the walls to the dishes in the buffet—were found in dime stores.

It all began with SK Products' oval table that expands to 60 inches and costs only $105. Comfortable chairs were about $50 each and the commodious buffet hutch was $340, for a total of $645 for the furniture.

With the $150 that was left, here's how the room was furnished:

Walls—10 yards of blue-and-white bandana fabric at $1.99 a yard, stapled to the wall.

Windows—11 yards of white fabric at $1.09 a yard, edged with 10 yards of ball fringe at 30 cents a yard.

Floor—A do-it-yourself stencil painted on a solid color border, either with a stencil kit or from a stencil you can cut yourself. Cover the paint with a protective coating.

Lamp—a $10.98 shade was made into a hanging lamp with a socket and cord that runs through a large cup hook in the ceiling, and then down to the nearest electrical outlet.

Charming bird prints with gay red mats were found in the dime store. So were traditional china and flatware patterns as well as the stemware and glass accessories.

Hanging baskets and colorful fruit add the finishing "country" touches.

The furniture's rich hand-rubbed finish and the deeply-carved details on the buffet and hutch helped add dignity as well as convenience to a deceptively budget-conscious room.

Appliance economics

According to the National Home Improvement Council, homeowners about to invest in appliances for their newly-remodeled kitchens are well-advised to consider investing in energy-saving models.

For example, selecting a new refrigerator will most likely be a surprising experience for the average homeowner. He'll find some amazing innovations, particularly power-saving features and improved insulation.

One energy-saving model uses about a third less electricity than other models not equipped with its special thermostatically-controlled motor. While it is true that the amount of electricity consumed by the refrigerator each operating hour is a modest amount, it is also true that it is operated twenty-four hours around the clock, 365 days a year.

Even though frost-free refrigerators do use more kilowatts of energy annually than non-frost-free models, they avoid the extra energy drain resulting from frost accumulation.

Today's power-saving refrigerators also preserve food longer during power failures, which become alarmingly more common each year.

Operating savings in the long run compensate for the higher initial purchase price.

Paint: delight for decorating

Walk into virtually any room, and you will find paint. The reasons, says Sue Barna, national decorating consultant are threefold: cost, versatility, and simplicity.

"Today's paints are the most inexpensive decorating options available," Barna says. "You can decorate an entire room with paint for less than $20."

Decorating with paint doesn't have to mean a white ceiling and four white walls. Paint comes in hundreds of colors, for dozens of uses. Walls and ceilings are obvious.

Other options cited by Barna include painting and stenciling unfinished furniture or even wood floors; creating dramatic effects with trim (leave it white, or paint it in bold accent colors); applying textured paint in swirls; and creating striking supergraphics.

Once you have decided on how and where to use paint, the application is simplicity itself, says Barna. If you are unsure about paint products and techniques, talk to the experts. At the more than 1,500 Sherwin-Williams Decorating Centers nationwide, how-to advice is available free of charge, including an illustrated brochure titled, "How to Paint Interior Surfaces."

Homeowners beware . . .

Select a contractor with care!

The National Home Improvement Council encourages homeowners to exercise caution in their selection of a contractor for their home improvement projects.

The Council stresses that while most contractors are ethical, qualified businessmen, especially contractor members of NHIC, there are always exceptions. These are likely to be among the itinerant contractors who call at the homeowners' doors and try to sell an "improvement" job on the spot, or a high-pressure salesman on the telephone.

The banks, savings and loan associations, Better Business Bureaus, lumber dealers and real estate boards are good sources of information on reliable contractors, in addition to the local chapter offices of the National Home Improvement Council.

It is advised that the homeowner ask for at least three bids from competing contractors. It should be stressed that each contractor should be given exactly the same plans and specifications on which to bid.

The homeowner should make sure the following provisions are contained in his contract:

1. It states that the contractor will provide both labor and materials.
2. The contractor agrees to maintain required insurance coverage, including workman's compensation.
3. Starting and completion dates are stated.
4. Plans and specifications are made a part of the contract and substitutions cannot be made except by mutual agreement.
5. Complete cleanup and removal of all waste materials is specified.
6. Work is guaranteed for a standard period, usually one year.
7. Payment is scheduled on satisfactory completion of the work or in installments that match the progress of the work, with an amount, usually 10 per cent, withheld pending final approval of the job by the owner.
8. The contractor agrees to secure all necessary permits.
9. Consent of homeowner is required for any advertising or promotion of the job by the contractor.

Wrap up the house in vinyl for a money-saving package!

When you think about it, almost anything worth keeping needs some kind of protection. We protect ourselves with clothing and umbrellas. A sailboat is protected with spar varnish. A valued photograph is framed behind glass. "To protect the exterior of your home, the most recent technological development is solid vinyl siding," say experts from the CertainTeed Home Institute, Valley Forge, Pa.

An important characteristic of vinyl siding is that you can literally wrap your home in it. There are accessories that make turning corners easy and you can have vinyl soffit and fascia installed.

There is even special fiber glass insulation which fits snugly behind new siding to keep out drafts and prevent heat or air-conditioning waste.

Since color is molded right through solid vinyl siding

during the manufacturing process, it can't ever scratch or peel off. Consequently, nicks and scratches don't show and you never need to repaint.

Vinyl offers additional advantages over the common siding products—even over the more familiar painted or coated metal ones. It doesn't require grounding, can't corrode and is virtually maintenance free.

By wrapping your home in vinyl you are actually preserving it with a protective layer, like wax on a car. The big difference is that once it's on, your worries are over for at least the next 20 years.

Roofing guide for do-it-yourselfers

CertainTeed Corporation, leading manufacturer of building materials, has just published a pamphlet providing simple "how-to" guidelines on applying asphalt roofing shingles for the home craftsman or the professional.

In addition to providing basic safety information, the pamphlet includes illustrations to help the homeowner install his new roof correctly. It is available, free of charge, from the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860-M, Valley Forge, Pa. 19482.

Tobin Seeks Tax Incentives For Insulating Homes

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] says a recent report by the State Energy Policy Office has confirmed his prediction that consumers would conserve energy despite record-breaking low temperatures last winter.

Tobin is working on legislation that would provide tax incentives for those who properly insulate their home attics.

"There can be no question that the consumer is cooperating, given the results of this report," Tobin said.

"It ought to be the policy of this Commonwealth to help homeowners conserve fuel by providing tax incentives to assist them in properly insulating their homes."

According to the Energy Policy Office report, oil consumption dipped by about 4 per cent last winter from the 1975-76 heating season.

The reduction included drops of between 7 and 14 per cent during the winter heating months, the 14 per cent drop coming in February, one of the coldest months.

A previous Energy Office study, which Tobin said inspired his work on tax incentive legislation, showed that consumers could save 55 million gallons of oil per year just from adequate attic insulation and could save $29.4 million in heating costs if their entire homes were properly insulated.

Turn a screw clockwise to tighten it, counterclockwise to loosen it. Same goes for most faucets you'll find in the house.

Time-savers to help working homemaker

Almost half the women in the United States have jobs outside the home and each year more and more women go out to work.

If you're a working woman who finds household chores taking up too much of your time, there is a more practical solution to your problem than hiring an upstairs maid, a wardrobe mistress and a cook: it's organization.

Delegate!

Here are some time-saving tips that can help you shorten the hours spent on house-keeping:

1.) Count on your family to help around the house. Keep a list of duties for them on a bulletin board in the kitchen where it's an easy reminder.

A youngster can be responsible for picking up his toys; older children can be in charge of their rooms and also take turns setting and clearing the dinner table.

Husbands can pick up and drop off drycleaning on their way home from work and help with other chores, too.

Efficient cuisine

2.) Plan ahead: decide on menus for an entire week and then buy all your groceries at once. Shop on a weekday night, when the stores are less crowded, and take your older children along to help.

When you do cook, prepare foods in large quantities; many soups, stews and casseroles can be stored in the refrigerator or freezer and warmed for quick, nutritious meals—even by your "all thumbs" teenager.

Stitch in time

3.) Don't turn little jobs into big ones. Fingerprint smudges and dirty spots are often cleaned more easily if you wipe them right away.

For quick, effective clean-ups, use Glass® Plus® glass, appliance, and cabinet cleaner in every room of the house. Just spray this versatile cleaner on all washable surfaces—windows, mirrors, chrome, countertops, plastic lamps, and tables, appliances—and wipe with a clean cloth or damp sponge. (Remember to always disconnect small electrical appliances before cleaning.)

Just a moment

Spending a few extra minutes during the week to handle small jobs can make major clean-ups on the weekends easier.

4.) An un-made bed can make the entire bedroom look messy. Instead of the usual blanket and bedspread combination, try having your family use quilts. At night, just turn down the quilt and jump in; in the morning, simply smooth it out and fluff the pillows. Even a five-year old can take care of his own bed that way!

Build beautiful barbecue area with durable, stylish ceramic tile

With everyone diet conscious, barbecuing of meat and fish rather than frying is increasingly the way to go. An outdoor barbecue is great fun—except in cold weather or in the rain—so bring it inside.

A year-round inside unit faced and countered with ceramic tile is a "natural," and easy to keep clean. Along with those nice fragrances from a well-flavored steak sizzling on the grill come spatters of juices.

What's easier to wipe clean of spatters than ceramic tile? The smooth, glass-like finish of the ceramic tile won't hold the grease. And if scouring is necessary, a plastic scouring pad won't harm it.

Tile is a natural for the counter, too. Hot pans or oven-heated serving dishes won't burn or warp the surface. Ceramic tile is fired in kilns at temperatures ranging up to 2100° so a little old hot pan presents no problem.

A dark colored grout (the material between the tiles) is recommended for easy maintenance. If a light colored grout is used, an acrylic or silicone sealer be used on the joints.

The glazed tile itself needs no sealer and indeed should not be sealed. If an unglazed, absorbent ceramic tile such as quarry tile is used, a sealer to prevent stains is then recommended.

Count on the ceramic tile to add color as well as practicality to the barbecue area. Make it a decorative plus in your kitchen or family room with a bright blending or contrasting color.

Create a pattern by installing a brick-shaped tile in a herringbone or basketweave design. Add a Mediterranean look with a softly curved shaped tile. The choice of colors and shapes and combinations of both is unlimited. Create your own design.

Allow enough space on either side of the barbecue unit for the food to be prepared, utensils, serving dishes and seasonings.

Cabinets under the unit provide space for that special equipment and keep everything needed close at hand.

A built-in ventilator will help to carry out the fumes. A recessed light is helpful, too.

Plan this special cooking area away from other food preparation areas so that two happy cooks can work together without bumping into each other.

CERAMIC TILE ON A BACKSPASH and counter in a barbecue area contribute practicality and color.

Home fire safety depends upon careful choice of smoke detector

By the end of the year, upwards of 12,000 persons will lose their lives in home fires in this country. Many of these fatalities, unfortunately, could probably have been avoided by a simple and relatively inexpensive device called a smoke detector.

Operating electronically, home smoke detectors come in a variety of styles, all designed to provide early warning of fires by sensing the presence of smoke.

Most are designed for ceiling mounting, while others may be affixed to a wall. And, while some are self-contained, operating on batteries, others are built to be connected to the home's standard 110 volt electrical supply.

Key decision

Because lives—yours and those of members of your family—can depend on the efficient operation of your home fire alarm, selecting the correct unit for your home can be a critical decision.

According to ADT, a national supplier of alarm systems and services, these are some points to consider when selecting and installing a home smoke detector:

- Be certain that the unit you plan to purchase incorporates test features that allow you to check on its operation. It is important that the test be a functional one that tests the electronic circuitry as it would respond to smoke, not just the horn.

- Most approved battery-powered detectors are engineered to automatically emit an intermittent beeping sound when battery power falls below proper operating levels. Be sure the detector has this feature.

Look for listing

- Check to determine that you are selecting a detector that is listed by Underwriters Laboratories and also meets National Fire Protection Association standards that stipulate that detectors should be capable of sensing grey smoke having a minimum smoke obscuration of four per cent per foot, a sign of a fire somewhere in the home.

This concentration of smoke is considered the level that will drive most people out of a house.

- Installing one electronic smoke detector is a step in the right direction for home safety. However your home will probably require two or more units for basic protection.

In most homes, the accepted smoke detector location is the common hallway outside the bedrooms, through which smoke generally travels to reach sleeping occupants.

Smoke detectors should be installed between the sleeping family and the rest of the house as well as at the top of each stairway leading to a living area, for minimal protection.

• Installing an approved or listed smoke detector, whether an ionization or photoelectric-type unit, is a step in the right direction in averting death and injury. But think before buying.

Many fire experts believe that photoelectric units, because of their early warning responsiveness to the smoky conditions that characterize over 75 percent of residential fires, actually can do a better job of sensing a home fire in its early stages and thus provide extra minutes of escape time.

Also, sit down with the members of your family and map out a plan of action, including escape routes, to take if a fire is detected, and conduct periodic fire drills so that family members will know what to do in case of fire.

Plan a program
And finally, ADT suggests,

Prepare summer homes for winter

Vacation homes are a relaxing hideaway, but they also are a responsibility, especially between seasons. If you spend a few hours in the fall preparing your house for the winter, you will save both time and expense when it is reopened in the spring.

Here are some helpful reminders to put on your winterizing checklist:

- Broken water pipes are no way to begin a summer season; remember to turn off the main waterline and drain pipes to prevent them from freezing during the winter.

- Strip the linens off all beds. If you leave the beds made-up, the sheets may become damp and musty and attract unwanted, pesky insects.

- Phone the utility company to turn off service for the winter months; discontinuing gas and electric service is not only economical, but an important safety precaution as well.

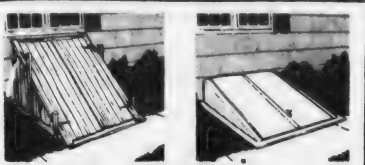

lower your monthly bill and avoid a re-installation charge next season.

Inform the post office to stop all delivery and to forward mail to your winter address.

- A thorough cleaning of all walls, floors, and other washable surfaces to remove spills and splatters left-over from summer fun will make reopening of the house and spring cleaning less hectic. To make the fall clean-up task quick and easy, use Fantastik® spray cleaner in every room. Just spray soiled areas with the spray cleaner and wipe with a clean cloth or paper towels.

- Cover large pieces of furniture—couches, chairs, tables, lamps—with old sheets to prevent them from fading and gathering dust which will accumulate over the winter months.

- Make sure all windows and doors are securely locked. Leave a key with a trusted neighbor in case of an emergency and also so they can make periodic checks.

The Home Improvement Firm
With over 40 years experience

Energy program for homes

According to the National Home Improvement Council, 70 million households in the United States use almost 20% of all the energy consumed in the country.

The Council urges American homeowners to take the appropriate steps to comply with the President's call to "retrofit" the American housing inventory. Retrofit is a general term which applies to any improvement in the home which will contribute to saving and management of energy.

The Council points out that since about 54% of a home's energy goes into heating and cooling, a homeowner can make his greatest savings in those two areas.

Thermostats in summer should be maintained above 78 degrees and in winter no higher than 68 degrees. If faithfully followed, this practice can result in a cut in fuel bills by as much as 50%.

In addition, proper insulation, storm windows and doors, opening and closing draperies to let in the sun or screen it out depending on the season, dressing warmly or coolly to adjust to the seasonal temperatures, caulking and weatherstripping doors and windows—all of these practices will help save on costs at the same time that they improve the livability of the home.

About 15% of a home's energy bill goes for heating water. An average dishwasher uses 14 gallons of hot water per load. The hot water heater should not be run higher than 140 degrees.

A homeowner should consider installing an inexpensive (about $10) flow restrictor in the pipe to the showerhead. This device reduces the flow of water to an adequate four gallons of water per minute as opposed to the normal seven to nine gallons.

Lighting represents 16% of home electricity consumption on an average. By reducing the wattage consumed in lighting, and by purchasing energy-saving appliances, electric bills can be further reduced by $10 to $15 monthly.

A WEEKLY MESSAGE FROM MICHAEL E. FAHERTY, CANDIDATE COUNCILLOR-AT-LARGE

"I'd like to address this week's message to the senior members of our community... The 'Forgotten Legion'. The men and women who sacrificed so the lot of each of us might be a little easier... So that Quincy might be just a little better place in which to live. The Forgotten Legion left behind after many a successful campaign to fend for themselves. The Forgotten Legion so fought after by the politicians before elections, and so quickly dropped from thereafter.

As a candidate for One of your Three votes for Councillor at-Large on November 8th... I can only say that today my phone number is 773-6598 and it won't change on November 9th. You can rest assured your call will be answered."

2 Floors Of Parking Garage Re-opened As Harold Intervenes

Two floors of the Ross Parking Garage, badly damaged by a speeding car two weeks ago, were reopened in time for a Quincy Center merchants promotion last Thursday.

But only after City Councillor Paul D. Harold intervened to cool a jurisdictional dispute between Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson.

Finn opened all but the roof of the garage to parking last Wednesday but City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams ruled that the Public Works commissioner had authority over the garage.

Anderson was reluctant to reopen it until an engineer who was not involved in the building of the garage had examined it to determine if it was safe.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association had scheduled a major promotion for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, which needed the parking space for customers.

Members of the QCBPA consulted Harold Wednesday afternoon and the councillor was able to work out a compromise between Finn and Anderson whereby two floors would be opened and the roof closed.

Harold said he insisted the building with Police Capt. Roy Cavicchi and Supt. Edward Lynch and "I was satisfied that proper precautions had been taken by the Police Department to protect the public safety."

"The roof area was barricaded and closed, the two stairways on Cliven St. were closed as was the auto entrance. In addition there were two metermaids and two attendants at the garage as a further precaution.

"I was satisfied that proper steps had been taken and urged the Commissioner to authorize use of that area of the garage not closed by the police.

"It's tough enough doing business in downtown Quincy without having hundreds of parking spaces closed off during a major promotion.

"I'm glad that we were able to work out a compromise in time to benefit the merchants and shoppers."

Collins Suggests Basic Skills, Competency Tests For 8th, 11th Graders

Mrs. Mary Collins, candidate for School Committee, has expressed gratification that Scholastic Aptitude Test scores in Quincy schools have gone up, reversing a downward trend that is still continuing on a national level.

She suggested to a recent coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Feeney, Sachem St., Wollaston, that a basic skills competency test be given to all Quincy students in the eighth and 11th grades.

This would insure that those students entering and graduating from high school would have attained a 'specified' level of competency in basic skill areas, she said.

"This need not, and should not, be threatening to students," Mrs. Collins said. "Rather, it would serve the dual purpose of having necessary material covered by teachers through the grades, because the students were to be tested, and thus it would improve the level of all students in basic skill areas."

The suggestion was made, she said, in response to assertions by parents that their children were not attaining adequate basic skill levels in the Quincy Public Schools.

Crusaderettes Volleyball Team Downs Boston State

The Eastern Nazarene College women's volleyball team defeated Boston State, 15-10, 16-14, to open its 1977 season.

The Crusaderettes, under coach Nancy Detwiler, have compiled a 59-8 record over the past five seasons, ranking them as one of the state's volleyball powerhouses.

The lead repeatedly changed hands early in the first game, and it wasn't until Boston State tied the game at 10-10 did the Crusaderettes finally take command for the 15-10 win.

In the second game ENC again had trouble getting untracked as Boston State ran off seven consecutive points before the Crusaderettes were able to score. BSC was able to hold the lead and came within two points of a win at 13-6. ENC then came back with eight straight points, led by the front line play of Lois Malvesti, to take a 14-13 lead.

Five area players are among the starters for ENC, with eight on the fifteen player squad. Seniors Donna Fandel, from Archbishop Williams, and Donna Brickley, a North Quincy grad, return as starters along with sophomores Cindy Tozzi, from Quincy, and Janet Ranstrom, from North Weymouth. Two freshmen, Lois Malvesti, from Quincy, and Sue Bish of Mayfield, Pa., complete the starting six.

The Crusaderettes face Bridgewater State tonight (Thursday) in a 6 o'clock match. Saturday, the squad faces Smith College and tough MIT in a 1:30 p.m. home match. For a complete schedule and game information call the ENC Athletic Dept. at 617-773-6350, Ext. 325.

Raiders Put Defense, Offense Together

Shades of Ed McElaney. North Quincy's football team pulled itself together last Saturday, after losing two in a row and displaying no offense at all, as it topped Weymouth North, 10-7, in its Suburban League opener at Weymouth's Legion Field.

For the past two years, the Raiders had an outstanding field goal kicker in McElaney and last week at Weymouth it was a 30-yard field goal in the final period by Kevin Greene which gave the Raiders their first win.

This week, North Quincy has an open date as it prepares for its next game Oct. 15, at Weymouth South.

"We showed a lot of improvement in this game, especially on offense," Coach Dave Burke said. "We weren't able to move against Milton and Taunton but we did much better in this game and our defense, as usual, was outstanding. We still have a way to go offensively, but with an extra week to prepare for Weymouth South, I hope we will continue to improve."

The defense contained Weymouth's attack, which had clicked for 19 points in an opening day win over Braintree, and the only score for Weymouth came as a result of a bad pass from center on a punting situation.

This gave Weymouth the ball on North's five and Weymouth's Mike Krowski scored in the opening period. Bill Jackson kicked the point.

"Don't single out any particular players on defense, the entire team did a great job," said Ken MacPhee, one of the defensive coaches. It wouldn't be fair to mention any particular player."

Burke started Kevin Cobban at quarterback and he did well. His 40-yard pass to John Wilkinson set up the North touchdown and Cobban scored from the five. Greene kicked the tying point.

"Wilkinson and Colin McEachern ran well," offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "And Greg Zoia blocked well. The whole line was excellent with Pat McKenna, Paul Ahern, Brian McGilvray and Russ Chisholm all blocking out well. Tom Quinn did an excellent job of running back punts and kickoffs."

"Greene was kicking well from good distances before the game and we decided if the occasion arose, we would call on him for a field goal," Burke said. "And he came through with flying colors."

Burke gave Fitzgerald much of the credit for the win because of his Knute Rockne-type pep talk before the game. The players voted the veteran assistant coach the game ball.

Presidents Seek Third Win At Waltham

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team put together one of its best two-way games in some time Saturday to wallop Revere, 25-0, in a non-league game at Veterans Memorial Stadium and Coach Hank Conroy hopes for a repeat Saturday when the Presidents play at Waltham at 1:30 p.m. in its Suburban League opener.

Waltham is 2-1, the same as Quincy, after topping Somerville, 6-0, bowing to Norwood, 9-8, and mauling Brookline, 40-8.

In winning its second in a row after a heartbreaking loss at Dedham, the Presidents shut off Revere's running game and did a good job against Vin Martelli, one of the top passers in the Greater Boston League.

For the second week in a row big Len Picot was the workhorse on offense. He carried 30 times for 132 yards. In his previous game he had carried 25 times for 110 yards. In addition, he excelled at defensive end.

"This is the kind of game I was looking for," Conroy said. "The defense was outstanding and we moved the ball well. Picot was again tremendous. We had groomed him as a power runner and he has done the job two weeks in a row."

"Mark Giordani did another excellent job at quarterback and in the secondary he came up with two big interceptions. We seemed to be physically stronger than Revere and this paid off for us."

Conroy moved Dave Eastwick from guard to fullback on offense for his blocking and he, Rich Gilbody and John Sullivan blocked well.

Pete Cassidy played a fine two-way game, while Mike Duggan, again working against a much bigger opponent, Vin Harte and Don Heath played well in the offensive line.

On defense Conroy singled out Rich Burnes, Tom Conine, Picot, Ralph Pickering, Harte and Giordani.

While the Presidents were gaining a net of 167 yards on the ground, they held Revere to just 44. Revere's Martelli hit on eight of 19 passes for 65 yards with two interceptions, while Giordani and John Houten were three for nine for 41 yards and one interception. Quincy had 13 first downs to six for Revere.

Quincy scored its first touchdown late in the first period after Giordani, with the help of a devastating block by Picot, returned a punt from midfield to Revere's 33. Giordani hit Harte for a 20-yard scoring pass and Jim Maze kicked the point.

The Presidents took advantage of a break to score their second TD midway in the second period. A Picot punt touched a Revere player and Harte fell on the ball on Revere's 18. A pass from Giordani to Sullivan was good for 16 yards and Picot scored from the two.

A little later Quincy drove from its 26, clicking off four first downs and Giordani scored on a sneak from the one.

Just before the half ended Giordani made a spectacular interception and returned it all the way to Revere's 18. Sullivan made a sparkling one-hand catch of a Houten pass for the touchdown.

The second half was scoreless as Conroy went with many of his shock troops but the Presidents continued to bottle up the Revere offense.

Revere's Marty Diliegro returned a Picot punt all the way from the 50 but a clipping penalty nullified it.

North Girl Swimmers In Good Performances

Although Bill Walker's North Quincy girls' swim team is off to a bad start with an 0-3 record, several of the Raiderettes have turned in excellent individual performances.

In last Friday's 101-68 loss at Randolph, two of the girls had record performances.

Mary Tenney won the one-meter diving with 135.05 points, a school record, and Maureen Santry won the 100-yard freestyle in 1:03.0, another school mark. She also won the 50-yard freestyle and anchored the 400-yard freestyle relay team which finished second.

North second places were taken by Jill Sweeney in the 200-yard freestyle, Lisa Costello in the one-meter diving, Sweeney in the 500-yard freestyle, Tenney in the 100-yard breaststroke and Jeanine Rich, Betsy Johnson, Sweeney and Santry, 400-yard freestyle relay.

Earlier in the week the Raiderettes bowed to perennial

Suburban League power Brockton, 116-50.

Donna Walsh took second in the 200-yard individual medley and was part of the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team. Betsy Johnson, Santry and Kit Harrow rounded out this team.

Santry was second in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events and Tenney was second in the one-meter diving.

The North girls will host Blue Hill Regional Friday at 3:15 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

North Booters Defeat Presidents, 4-2

This is a rough season for the Quincy and North Quincy soccer teams and the only satisfaction either team will receive will be winning the city title.

North is 1-4-1 and Quincy 0-6, but the Raiders last week took the first step toward the city crown with a 4-2 win over the Presidents.

Bobby Reed had two North goals and Mike Colon and Billy Harrow one each. Colon and Chris Sullivan each had two assists.

For the Presidents, Joe Zimmerman and Peter Martin had the goals, both unassisted.

ENC Soccer Team Wins, Loses

The Eastern Nazarene College soccer team played two contrasting games last week as it pounded St. Francis of Maine, 12-0, then on Saturday was blanked by Southeastern Mass., 4-0.

The Crusaders had a 4-2-1 record going into this week's games. Saturday they will play at Barrington College at 3 and Saturday, Oct. 15, they will host Thomas College at 2 in a homecoming game.

Against St. Francis Tim LaLone, who has been scoring well all season, had four goals. Bob Hooper, Lowell Parkes, Brian Kilpatrick, Walter Melton, Angel Gonzalez, George Stinson, Amos Saintiche and Randy Calhoun had one goal apiece.

The defensive work of Bradley, Sullivan, Baylis, John Toland and Carl Nord complemented the fine goaltending of P. T. Kelly and John Herald.

Against Milton, Chuck Hughes and Kyle Robertson excelled in the goal. Mark Zimmerman had two goals and Adam McGregor the other. Mike Benson had two assists and Matt Furtado and Billy Roche one apiece.

Chris Boussey and Kevin

Kustka had hat tricks, Billy Connolly and Furtado had two goals apiece and Roche one against Randolph. Connolly had four assists, Boussey and Kustka three apiece and Zimmerman and Benson one each.

Quincy's defense kept Randolph in its own end most of the game and the goalies were again outstanding.

The Mite A coaches are Bud Furtado and Tom Benson.

Squirt A's Rock Randolph, 10-4

The Squirt A hockey team bounced back strong from an early 2-0 deficit and walloped Randolph, 10-4.

Tobin Hits LaRaia Flyer As 'Act Of Desperate Person'

the job. We mutually agreed to it in January.

"Any suggestion that he was forced out of the vice chairmanship is simply not the case."

The LaRaia flyer quoted a Patriot Ledger article dated Dec. 14, 1973, as saying DiCarlo "quietly revived" and pushed through bills by Tobin bypassing civil service exams for John Browne and Bruce McLain of the School Department and John Koegler of the Forestry Department.

Commented Tobin: "The Massachusetts Legislature has the right of free petition and I have filed numerous pieces of legislation for people in my senatorial district because I think these people have a right to have a bill filed."

"After a bill is filed, it must go through public hearings; it must be acted upon by both branches of the Legislature and then it goes to the office of the governor for signature so there are checks and balances all along the line.

"Incidentally, I introduced four bills, not three. The individual who came to me and requested that I file the bill was Joseph J. LaRaia. It was in regard to his position with the Welfare Department.

"The bill was typed by my secretary; it was drafted by the office of the Senate Counsel; it was signed by me.

"When a Ledger reporter, Anne Jacobs, was inquiring as to the bills, Mr. LaRaia came back to me and asked me to withdraw his bill because he didn't want any adverse publicity."

Tobin acknowledged that the LaRaia flyer was correct when it pointed out that he and DiCarlo were classmates at Boston College.

"If my memory serves me correctly," he added, "Cardinal Cushing gave the invocation at our graduation so I hope they don't connect him into the trial too."

The flyer said:

"DiCarlo last year made a special trip to Quincy on Tobin's behalf to eulogize his colleague at a testimonial."

"Sen. DiCarlo did not attend a testimonial of mine," said Tobin. "I was chosen Man of the Year by the Jewish Brotherhood and Sen. President Harrington had the majority leader, Sen. DiCarlo, represent the Senate on that particular morning."

"Mayor LaRaia welcomed Sen. DiCarlo to the city of Quincy and thanked him for being there so I don't know why the Mayor should do such a thing."

Tobin was questioned by The Sun at the conclusion of a Quincy Rotary Club meeting Tuesday at the Quincy Neighborhood Club where Tobin was the guest speaker. Mayor LaRaia spoke at last week's meeting.

Vice President of the Chamber told The Quincy Sun that the Bulletin Story was "essentially a typographical error. There's been no attempt to propagandize anything."

Swider said the Bulletin should have reported a $5 million increase in assessments on the business community which will produce $1 million in increased taxes.

Swider added Hannon, despite his position at the Chamber, has nothing to do with the preparation of the Legislative Bulletin.

The Legislative Bulletin said: "In an effort to keep real estate taxes in Quincy to an increase of only $2.40, the Quincy Business Community will pay the penalty. If your firm is in Quincy, a surprise awaits you in your 1978 Personal Property Tax bill. By using this tax to raise an additional $8 million from the business community, real estate taxes will be spared an approximate $22 increase."

The Mayor replied:

"The fact that a normally reputable organization such as our fine Chamber of Commerce has been used as a mouthpiece to spread untruthful political propaganda comes as a saddening surprise to me."

"The facts on file in the office of the City Assessor show that the increase to be paid by the Quincy business community will be $1 million, not $8 million, and the real estate tax increase of $2.40 is entirely realistic as certified by the Bureau of Accounts."

"The Chamber would be wise to consult with the City Assessors Office before releasing any more articles in the future so that the figures used in such articles would prove accurate."

United Way South Region Reaches 13% Of Goal

Francis J. Mitchell, executive vice president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, and South Region Chairperson for the United Way of Mass. Bay Campaign, reported at the first report luncheon meeting of Mitchell said the Quincy Cooperative Bank already has reported eight percent in its solicitation.

Mitchell's division includes the city of Quincy and 20 surrounding towns.

The goal of the entire campaign is $18,600,000. Herb Roth Jr. is General Campaign Chairperson.

HELP WANTED

QUINCY CETA INVITES YOUTH PROPOSALS

Quincy CETA is accepting proposals from government and community agencies interested in sponsoring training and work programs for local youth.

Quincy CETA has $565,000 available for Youth Employment and Training Projects [YETP]. These projects should provide a variety of services to low-income in-school and out-of-school youth [14-21], including work experience, career exploration, on-the-job training, classroom training, counseling and other supportive services.

The projects funded under YETP will emphasize basic education and job training, with strong supervision of participating youth. Special consideration will be given to effective program designs [especially those with measurable outputs], efforts to restructure jobs to encourage upward mobility and the breakdown of sex stereotyping, and project sponsorship by community-based organizations and local educational agencies.

Quincy CETA is also soliciting proposals under the Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Project [YCCIP]. These projects should provide constructive work experience for unemployed [out-of-school] youth [16-19] in labor-intensive projects having lasting, tangible and beneficial community impact. Proposals selected by Quincy CETA will compete with proposals from 17 other Subgrantees for $1.6 million in YCCIP funds in the Balance of State CETA Prime Sponsor area. The U.S. Department of Labor retains final approval of YCCIP projects.

The projects funded under YCCIP will emphasize youths with severe difficulties in obtaining employment [high school dropouts, minorities, offenders, etc.] and meaningful and well-supervised work experience which will enhance the youths' long-term career prospects. Likely projects include improvements to public facilities, neighborhood conservation, weatherization and basic repairs to low-income housing, energy conservation, and natural resource conservation on non-Federal publicly-held properties.

Agencies eligible to apply to sponsor projects include units of local government, community organizations [public and private non-profit], and local educational agencies. Sponsoring agencies must have at least two years experience and demonstrated administrative capability in project operation. Community-based, minority, and private non-profit agencies are encouraged to apply.

Applications are available from Quincy CETA Youth Coordinator, 773-3983 and must be returned to Quincy CETA, 1073 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA. 02169 No Later Than 4:00 p.m. Monday, October 17, 1977.

Tobin Plans 'Modified' Version Of Downtown Phase 1

Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin has committed himself to at least "a modified version of Phase 1" of Mayor LaRaia's plan for the revitalization of downtown Quincy. Tobin, who faces LaRaia in the Nov. 8 mayoral election, told the Quincy Rotary luncheon Tuesday that "I think we are all committed that something ought to be done."

"I'm committed to a Phase 1 of obtaining a major retailer to come to the city of Quincy. I'm committed to the depression of the tracks and to the Upland Rd. Extension. But I want to see facts and figures."

Tobin also promised:
● "No individual will be barred from consideration for appointment in my administration by the fact that he either served in this administration or he saw service in a past administration."

● "We are going to institute a zero-based budget because we're not in that great financial posture at the present time...the city of Quincy has a $2 million deficit in free cash."

● "It's unequivocal and unchangeable that I will serve the office of Mayor of the city of Quincy for the salary of $1... because I am very disturbed at the direction our city has taken in the past two years."

● "Another thing I'm going to do is to restore the dignity of the office of the auditor, who is the chief financial officer under our ordinance. This seems to have been taken away from him in past years...."

Fall Foliage In Colorful Show This Weekend

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, reports fall foliage is expected to reach its peak during the weekend in New England and notes that Southeastern Massachusetts offers some excellent sites.

In the Quincy area, Koch says, a number of locations will provide a variety of fall leaf color changes for these persons unable to travel a long distance to admire the fall beauty.

Merrymount Park in Quincy has an outstanding view with the William F. Ryan Recreational area [Pageant Field] overlooking Merrymount Park, Pine Island and Quincy Bay while Faxon Park in South Quincy provides the beauty of a heavily wooded area with an observation circle to view several miles of tree color change and the Quincy Bay shoreline, he said.

Restrooms are located at both Pageant Field, Merrymount Park and Faxon Park, South Quincy and picnic tables are provided at both sites for residents to enjoy.

The Blue Hills, within short driving distance, provides the expansive fall color change with hundreds of acres of trees offering outstanding beauty, he noted.

School Budget Subject At Taxpayers Meeting

Extortion Case Witness Says:

Reppucci Asked $7,000 For Campaign 'Chest'

By TOM HENSHAW

Herbert Reppucci was given $7,000 in cash for a political campaign "war chest" in return for a letter of intent guaranteeing the Rocheford Construction Co. a nearly $1 million contract to build an addition to the Merrymount School, it was alleged in Federal Court Tuesday.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Alan D. Rose, in his opening remarks, said Reppucci received the money from Robert J. Rocheford, vice president of the company, during a meeting between the two last Dec. 23 at the Howard Johnsons on Route 138 in Canton.

But his brother, David E. Rocheford, testified that Reppucci told him: "If you say 'no' it doesn't mean you won't get the job."

Testimony of the Rocheford brothers of Natick highlighted the opening day of the trial in Federal Court of Reppucci, former assistant director of Quincy RSVP, and Vincent R. LoCicero, who was commissioner of Public Works, on charges of conspiracy and extortion.

Reppucci and LoCicero have both pleaded innocent.

Only witnesses summoned by the government, including Helen Duffy, assistant to the commissioner of public works, were called to testify on the first day of the trial before Federal Judge Walter Skinner. It was to resume Wednesday morning.

David Rocheford testified that last Nov. 18 he received a call from a man who identified himself only as "Herb," who said he would like to get together with him to talk about "the thing in Quincy." They arranged to meet at the Howard Johnsons on Route 138 in Canton.

In the restaurant parking lot, he said the man introduced himself as Herb Reppucci and told him, "I want to be straight with you. We need campaign money."

David Rocheford said Reppucci told him that it looked like the Rocheford company was low bidder on the Merrymount contract and asked him how badly the company needed the job. Rocheford said he told him the company wasn't desperate "but work was hard to get."

He said he asked Reppucci why he wanted a campaign contribution in November, 1976, when the election was not until November, 1977, and Reppucci told him, "We like to keep the kitty going."

David Rocheford said he told [Cont'd on Page 10]

HUMBERTO CARDINAL MEDEIROS visited historic United First Parish Church this week to renew an old friendship between that parish and the Archdiocese of Boston. Accompanying the Cardinal on his tour of the historic site were, from left, Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, Prof. Walter Wrigley who conducted the tour, Cardinal Medeiros, Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy, and Bishop Daniel Hart, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston for the South Shore area.

Renews Old Friendship

Cardinal Medeiros Receives Cross As Memento From First Parish Church

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, visited United First Parish Church in Quincy Monday and was given a wooden cross carved from the old belfry of the church.

The cross was presented by Mable F. Pratt, who arranged the Cardinal's tour of Quincy, which included the Adams Birthplaces, the Adams Mansion and the Adams Academy Building.

The gift was made in remembrance of the day in 1964 that Richard Cardinal Cushing, predecessor to Medeiros, donated $1,000 to the fund for repair and rebuilding of the belfry of the church.

Cardinal Cushing, noting that before there was a Catholic Church in Quincy catechism classes for Catholics were held in the church, sent a note with the donation saying, "I am happy to remember an old friend."

Cardinal Medeiros was accompanied on his tour of Quincy by Bishop Daniel A. Hart. The Cardinal and Bishop Hart were guests of Rev. William McCarthy, Pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy.

Also in the party were the Rev. Cornelius J. Heery of Sacred Heart Church, the Very Rev. Msgr. Henry Monroe of Cape Cod, and the Revs. David F. Delaney, Daniel M. Graham, Joseph M. Connolly and Joseph F. Byrne, all of St. John's Church.

The group was transported in a limousine, offered and driven by Richard Sweeney of Sweeney Brothers Funeral Home, Independence Ave.

Each of the Cardinal's party was also presented a piece of granite from the now closed Adams Quarry as a memento of the visit to the church.

Cardinal Medeiros, Bishop Hart and Fr. McCarthy were also presented with copies of The Quincy Sun's special Bicentennial issue of June 17, 1976.

After 3-Month Strike

Shipyard Workers Expected To Return

Striking workers are expected to start back to their jobs at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard this week following a work stoppage of nearly three months.

Members of Local 5 and Local 90, who went on strike July 17, were scheduled to vote on ratification of a new contract Wednesday at a 9 a.m. meeting in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Some were expected to return to work late Wednesday or Thursday.

Officials of the two unions recommended membership approval of the contract, which was negotiated in its final form Friday afternoon following mediation by former Labor Secretary W. J. Usery Jr.

Union officers said the new agreement will bring Fore River workers on a par with those at other East Coast shipyards with most of them receiving a $2.40 hourly increase spread over three years.

Usery came to the South Shore last week, held mediation sessions at Kimball's in Cohasset and the Sheraton Tara in Braintree. He left before final agreement was reached.

"But when he left everything was there for the settlement," said Stanley Kyler, president of Local 5.

It was Usery whose mediation talents also brought an end to a 17-week strike at the General Dynamics yard in 1974.

Harrington Goes To Court For 'Re-election' Status

Ward 6 City Councillor Dennis Harrington went to court Wednesday hoping to win a 'candidate for re-election' designation on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Harrington, running for a council at-large seat, contends he is a councillor seeking re-election despite a ruling to the contrary by City Solicitor Thomas Williams.

Williams, according to Harrington, ruled that ward councillor and councillor at large are two different offices and Harrington, therefore, is not running for re-election.

In his complaint, Harrington asks for a temporary restraining order preventing City Clerk John Gillis from having the ballots printed until the legal question involved is settled. He asked the court for a final ruling before Monday, Oct. 17 so mailing of absentee ballots will not be delayed.

Harrington said Williams' ruling came after an opposing candidate, Francis X. McCauley, asked the city solicitor to strike "Candidate for Re-election" from Harrington's name.

Harrington said there have been other similar cases in Quincy's history and previous rulings have supported the use of "Candidate for Re-election" in those cases.

"Every person on the City Council is a City Councillor," Harrington said, "and the fact that he chooses to run at large or in a ward does not change his responsibilities or duties. Therefore I am a candidate for re-election."

Sheets To Meet With Brewer's Corner Residents On Vandalism, Traffic Problems

Rep. James A. Sheets will meet with the residents of Brewer's Corner area of Southwest Quincy to discuss the problems of security and traffic within the neighborhood.

Sheets said many of the residents have recently complained about the increasing speeding and parking problems. Last month at a meeting with the same residents and Captain Roy Cavicchi, chief of the Quincy Police Traffic Division, these problems were discussed.

Captain Cavicchi promised Sheets and neighbors present that he would increase the amount of traffic patrols in the area and set up speed traps in an effort to control some of these problems, Sheets said.

In this week's meeting, the foot patrolmen that police the area along with the sergeant in charge of that section of the city and another officer will meet with Sheets and residents to see if ways can be found to reduce the amount of vandalism and crime in the area.

Sheets is hopeful that people and the police who patrol the area can together find methods to control their problems. In addition he has requested new street lighting, some of which has already been installed, and an increased number of no parking signs and tow zone signs to help facilitate traffic flow.

EYE-DROPPER TECHNIQUES

A most frequent question asked of doctors and pharmacists is, "I'm having an awful problem trying to give eyedrops to my youngster. Can you give me any hints?"

Like everything else, it's not hard to administer eyedrops to yourself or your children once you know how. Adults and children require slightly different techniques. Here's what to do:

For Adults: Face a mirror to see what you're doing. Pinch the skin of the lower eyelid and draw it gently forward to form a little cup between the lid and the eyeball. Place one drop of medicine in that cup without touching the eyelid or the eye with the dropper. Then tilt your head back and squeeze both eyelids gently together. Repeat after 60 seconds if more than one drop is prescribed.

For Children: Place the child on his back, face up, eyelids tightly closed. Place a drop or two of the medicine at the corner of the eyelid nearest the nose. Then have the child open his eyes while still lying down, and presto! The job is done. Once a child realizes that it's not going to hurt, he'll cooperate fully.

Fine porcelain china is surprisingly easy to take care of. For many years, simple washing by hand in mild soap and water was the common cleaning method. With the advent of dishwashers, the situation became more complicated. The harsh detergent and heat of the water could crackle the glaze and erase metallic trims. Nowadays, china manufacturers have used modern technology to produce dishes that beautifully withstand machine washing. It is important to check for this aspect before you purchase a given set. The company's brochure or we can supply you with this information. For information and displays on jewelry see us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490. One of our services is to help private owners, banks and estates to discreetly dispose of unwanted jewelry. We are happy to accept an old piece of jewelry as a trade in towards a new piece or help you redesign old stones, out of date or unwanted jewelry into a piece to suit your present life style. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Witness Testifies Reppucci Asked $7,000 For Campaign

Reppucci he would have to talk it over with his brothers, Robert and Irving.

He did, he said, and they decided "we would not mind giving a small campaign donation, provided it was legal." Robert Rocheford was appointed to call Reppucci back at the number he had given David.

Under cross examination by John A. Irwin, Reppucci's attorney, David Rocheford conceded that Reppucci told him, "If you say 'no,' it doesn't mean you won't get the job."

Robert Rocheford testified he called Reppucci and told him his company would be willing to make a contribution to a legitimate political party if it was guaranteed the contract. He said Reppucci told him he'd get back to him after he talked to the commissioner.

"I made the decision then to call the FBI and offer to cooperate," said Robert Rocheford.

Rocheford said he got a call from Reppucci on Nov. 22 and Reppucci introduced him over the phone to LoCicero, who asked him to hold his bid until Dec. 21 because "there is a problem with the project."

He said LoCicero told him: "I am a builder myself and I know how much fat there is in these contracts."

Robert Rocheford testified he met LoCicero and Reppucci at the Howard Johnsons in Canton and, over hamburgers and coffee, he was told that it should be understood that Reppucci worked for the Mayor's office in Quincy.

He said LoCicero explained to him that the Rocheford company would be the low bidder on the Merrymount contract if its basic bid plus all three alternate bids [that is, optional contracts for additional minor work] were accepted.

He said LoCicero told him, "I am inclined to take all three alternates."

Robert Rocheford testified Reppucci said that political campaigns cost money and he responded that his company would have to be guaranteed the job.

Whereupon, he said, LoCicero interjected: "I have nothing to do with this. It is on a one-to-one basis."

He quoted Reppucci as saying: "I am not a holdup artist but we have to keep the war chest up.... LoCicero knows nothing and hears nothing." He said Reppucci urged them to "keep our voices down."

Rocheford said he told them that the contribution would be in cash and LoCicero responded: "I hoped you were smart enough to know that."

LoCicero went to the men's room at that point, Rocheford said, and he asked Reppucci how much he wanted. Reppucci told him to name an amount, he said, and he suggested $5,000. Reppucci thought $7,000 would be better, he said.

Robert Rocheford testified that when LoCicero returned to the table the subject of the $10 million-plus North Quincy High School addition came up and he said he would have to talk to his brothers before bidding on it.

He quoted Reppucci as saying, "If you bid on the North Quincy job, put the rest of our war chest in the bid." He said Reppucci mentioned a figure of $75,000.

Robert Rocheford said he was asked if his company could put certain individuals on to work and he told them, "I'll put them on but if they're bums I won't keep them on the payroll."

He said he got a phone call from Reppucci and LoCicero on Dec. 21 and they told him everything was all right; they had the letter of intent in which he was guaranteed the contract and they wanted to arrange a meeting. They agreed on Dec. 23 at the Howard Johnsons.

Robert Rocheford testified that he got together with FBI agents on Dec. 23 and they put $7,000 in an envelope - $500 of Rocheford funds in $100 bills and $6,500 in federal money.

At that point, Judge Skinner recessed the trial until Wednesday morning.

It was testified that Rocheford was not the low bidder on the Merrymount job. J. T. Scully Corp. of Malden bid $946,000. Rocheford bid $948,800. And Hass Corp. of Natick bid $948,900.

But there were also three "alternates", that is, items of work on which the basic bidders must submit additional bids. If certain combinations of alternates were accepted, either Scully or Hass would be low bidder. If all three were accepted, Rocheford would get the contract.

Helen Duffy was called to testify mostly to the duties of the public works commissioner and the procedures of submitting and opening bids.

She also produced LoCicero's appointment calendar for 1976 on which was written under Nov. 26: "Canton Herb Reppucci." Under Dec. 22 she read the notation: "Herb Mayor's and a word I can't read."

Paint Program Evidence

Turned Over To Delahunt

Evidence obtained in a Police Dept. investigation into an alleged larceny scheme involving payroll checks of the South West Neighborhood House Painting Program will be turned over to the Norfolk County District Attorney's office for possible grand jury action.

Police Capt. Frederick Tighe said Tuesday he has asked Dist. Atty. William Delahunt to review the facts and present them to a grand jury.

Tighe said the investigation concerned a number of payroll checks for the painting program allegedly issued to a person who did not work for the program.

Delahunt said Asst. Dist. Atty. Peter Casey, the county's white collar crime specialist, would review the evidence with him and determine if grand jury action is warranted.

THE Y'S WAY TO A HEALTHY BACK

Do you suffer from back pain?

The Quincy YMCA announces the beginning of a new special exercise program entitled: Y's Way to a Healthy Back. The program has been developed by medical specialists and is designed for people who suffer from back pain and low back discomfort. Studies show that 80 percent of low back pain is due to muscular deficiency. The program will help to relieve your aching back pain and nervous tension; increase your flexibility and basic muscle strength.

The "Y" will offer two, six-week coed courses. Each meeting twice a week.

Monday and Thursday, 6:15 p.m. to 7 p.m., beginning Oct. 17 and Tuesday and Thursday, 7:15 p.m. to 8 p.m., starting Oct. 18.

Paul Harvey and William Johnson are the Professional Staff at the "Y" who have been recently certified to coach this program. For further information, contact either at the Quincy YMCA by calling 479-8500.

The three-part campaign, including public information, and school and community outreach programs, is being tested in the Boston area because of the Shriners Burns Institute and Massachusetts General Hospital, two of the major burn treatment centers in the U.S.

In the community outreach campaign in Quincy, community leaders will conduct programs with various adult groups focusing on protecting young children, emergency procedures and dealing with flammable liquids. Materials available to the leaders include filmstrips, booklets, posters, audio cassettes, case studies and game cards. Participants are encouraged to share the information with family, friends and neighbors either informally or by planning a program for other age groups.

Similar campaigns run in the Boston area include elementary and high school campaigns being held in Lynn.

Project Burn Prevention will be evaluated by testing people's knowledge before and after exposure to the program. If the campaign proves effective, it will become available nationally.

Barron To Stay Neutral Unless . . .

Tom Barron, whose impossible dream didn't come true in last month's city preliminary election, might try again sometime.

In the meanwhile, he plans to remain neutral in the battle between Joseph LaRaia and Arthur Tobin for the mayor's office unless...

"Unless," he says, "one of the candidates takes a real bad shot at the other. I might say something then. But if the campaign is kept on a decent level, I have no intention of endorsing either candidate. I'll just stand off and let them alone. It's their campaign."

Barron finished third in the six-man mayoral field in the preliminary runoff with 2,552 votes to Tobin's 12,216 and LaRaia's 7,411.

It was his political debut and he impressed a lot of people. He came across with class and sincerity—a likeable fresh face in the local battle-scarred political arena.

He didn't have the money or organization and he didn't have the time or exposure to really get a campaign rolling.

But some political observers see him as a "comer". Well, would he run for mayor again?

"I might. But I just think that this was the time to do it. It was a chance for the unknown candidate. But if I thought the time was right again, I would think of running again."

What about city council at-large?

"Maybe?"

Or Ward 3?

"I have no plans."

Barron discloses he really thought he had a chance of winning a nomination for mayor in the preliminary election.

"We had hoped we could slide into second place," he says. "But I'm not disappointed, discouraged, or bitter. We gave it a good try. "We got over 300 votes in each ward but one [Ward 2]. And over 600 in my home ward [Ward 3]. That made me feel good."

"I enjoyed meeting a lot of nice people, the discussions, the give and take with the other candidates. I was proud of everyone who worked so hard for me. At best I was a real long shot but they went out and worked hard for me. I loved it all. So did my wife [Dorothy]."

If he had been elected mayor would he have a priority for his first days in office?

"I'd get the city into automation and computerization. Not buying computers but sharing time on them. I think we could be more efficient in city government -- get more for our money, get more out a working day."

Has he decided who he will vote for mayor Nov. 8?

"I'm pretty much decided," he smiles. "But I'm not saying."

THE NOV. 8 ballot will have a bit of a 1959 look to it as far as the city council at-large lineup is concerned.

Three of the names on this year's ballot also appeared on the one in 1959: Francis Brett, Francis McCauley, a newcomer, and John Quinn.

When the votes were tabulated, that year, Quinn was the only winner among the three.

This year, ironically, both McCauley and Brett are seen as a threat to Quinn who is now the "dean" of the council.

WARD 5 COUNCILLOR Warren Powers has been in considerable pain for weeks now because of a disc problem. But he's out there knocking on doors in the Wollastan area.

THE COMMITTEE TO Elect Mary Collins to the Quincy School Committee will hold a fund-raiser Friday, Oct. 21, at Montello's, Massachusetts Ave., Quincy Point.

There will be dancing from 8 p.m. to midnight, with music by the Melodic Moods. Tickets may be purchased by calling [479-0222] or [773-7852] or at the door.

IT TOOK 17 years but a dream will come true Sunday for a group of former Quincy High School students. Back in 1960, a 16-year-old junior by the name of Steve Dunleavy and friends noticed something was missing in Quincy: a statue of John Adams.

They organized a "Quincy Should Have A Statue of John Adams Committee" and set out getting all kinds of support—but no statue. Even Gov. Foster Furcolo was with them.

But this Sunday a statue of John Adams will finally be unveiled at Freedom Park thanks to another group who thought Quincy should have one: the Freedom Park Committee headed by Dr. Donald MacLeod.

Incidentally, young Dunleavy is now a top aide to Boston Mayor Kevin White.

The Treasury Department has a special fund to which people claiming to have defrauded the government on taxes can contribute anonymously. It now has $3.5 million in it.

READER SPEAKS OUT

The Panama Canal

An open letter to our Senators:

1. How did the Republic of Panama come into existence?

2. Why did the French fail to build the canal before the U.S. took over the project?

3. How much money has been poured by the U.S. since the beginning of its involvement in Panama and the canal?

4. How many French and American lives were sacrificed to complete and maintain the canal?

5. How much good will, towards the U.S., has been purchased by all the billions of dollars poured into all of Latin America in the past, including private investments? Look at the record! What a bottomless pit! Will future billions be more productive? Why worry, it's only taxpayers' money!

6. Failure to return the canal to Panama increases the potential of riots in Latin America. But haven't riots and revolution been a way of life for a couple of hundred years, and won't they continue regardless of the canal issue?

7. Failure to return the canal will be construed by the world's nations as "U.S. Imperialism". How come there hasn't been as much concern for Russian "Imperialism"? Look at the record - Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Czechoslovakia, Finland, etc., all gobbled up in whole or in part. Surely they [the Russians] don't give a fig for world opinion. So why take this false premise seriously?

8. Should the U.S., in its present spineless foreign policy, give back the canal in the year 2,000, and prior to that we were to build a second and larger canal in Panama. What assurance is there, that having established the precedent, Panama will not later make similar demand that the U.S. give back the second canal, like the first?

U.S. Senators - stop making Uncle Sam, Uncle Sap - before the eyes of the world!

HEALTH FOR ALL

Snoring No Laughing Matter

"Laugh and the world laughs with you," British novelist Anthony Burgess once said. "Snore and you sleep alone."

Snoring is no laughing matter for hundreds of thousands of snorers and their spouses. These very loud snorers - who are only a tiny fraction of the estimated 35 million inveterate snorers - may suffer from a condition called sleep apnea, which can have serious effects.

Snoring itself occurs when muscles at the back of the mouth relax and vibrate noisily as air passes in and out. Although the causes of sleep apnea and very loud snoring are unknown, one of the contributing factors may be a collapse of muscles in the throat. At any rate, the condition involves a disruption in breathing, which can occur hundreds of times every night - without the sufferer even knowing it.

According to Dr. William C. Dement at the Stanford University Medical School, these are the clinical features of sleep apnea, in addition to very heavy snoring: Excessive daytime sleepiness; episodes during sleep when the afflicted person seems to have stopped breathing; and high blood pressure. Another specialist at Stanford is attempting to treat very severe cases of sleep apnea by inserting a tracheostomy tube through a surgical opening at the base of the throat - a tube which is plugged during the day but opened before sleep. This allows air to enter and leave the lungs without passing through the throat.

Such drastic measures are not required by most snorers. However, very heavy snorers should be convinced to take their snoring seriously - and check it out with a physician.

The Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association - the "Christmas Seal" people - provides information about different kinds of breathing disorders and lung disease. To help support the struggle for healthier lungs, answer your Christmas Seal letter today.

Notify Mail Sources BEFORE You Move

Notifying friends and other mail sources at least a month before you move will help insure prompt receipt of correspondence and save post offices thousands of dollars in processing costs, the U.S. Postal Service says.

More than 12 million American households changed their mailing address last year alone, producing more than three billion pieces of mail that were undeliverable as addressed. The cost of extra handling required for forwarding that mail was more than $300 million, the Postal Service said.

Postal authorities say advance change of address notification would significantly reduce the number of pieces of "moved mail" currently handled by the Postal Service. Notifying publishers and businesses a month in advance of your move allows them to reflect the new address in their next mailing cycle.

It can also mean avoiding service charges on bills and timely receipt of magazines or newspapers, the Postal Service said.

A simple, eight-part Change of Address Kit, available free from letter carriers and post offices, speeds change of address notification, the Postal Service said. Each kit contains seven Notice to Correspondents and Publisher cards and one Change of Address Order card for the post office.

Furcolo Campaigns

State Treasurer Foster Furcolo was escorted by Joseph F. X. Doherty, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, on a visit to Quincy during his campaign for the U.S. Senate.

At night, Furcolo joined other statewide candidates, including Robert F. Murphy for governor, John F. Kennedy for treasurer and John F. Collins for attorney general, at a reception at the Elks Home.

Also at the reception were the Democratic candidates for State Legislature: Thomas N. Byrnes, Thomas R. Burke, Joseph P. McDonough, David J. Crowley, William A. Connell Jr., William F. Donoghue and George A. Lydon.

Meanwhile, Ward 1 Republicans promised an all out fight in defense of Rep. William Jenness, who was being challenged by Crowley for the Second Norfolk District seat in the Legislature.

HAZEL SKIPS QUINCY

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. placed the Quincy Civil Defense on standby alert as Hurricane Hazel, eighth tropical storm of the season, turned northeast off the Carolina Coast.

However, the storm went up the Hudson River Valley, leaving little damage in Quincy from winds that were clocked at 43 miles an hour, 68 miles an hour in gusts, at the Blue Hills observatory.

At the same time, Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbst said the cost of cleaning up after Hurricanes Carol and Edna was $96,000 in payrolls and $69,000 in equipment rental.

RESTORATION ASKED

The Hall Cemetery Association indicated it would ask the city to take down a protecting fence and restore the site of the first iron works as it existed before it was uncovered in West Quincy in December.

Association President Robert Hunter, noting that the City Council appropriated $7,000 for further exploration, requested a halt in the work until the problem of city ownership was settled.

"Why don't they get down to brass tacks and tell us what they want to do and what they will do?" he asked. "We don't want to give away the cream of our cemetery land for nothing."

COMEBACK WINS FOR QUINCY

The Quincy High School football team spotted Weymouth a first half touchdown and then roared back for a 26-6 victory, the first by a Quincy team over the Maroons in seven years.

North Quincy was set back by 80 yards in penalties and New Bedford took advantage of three pass interceptions and a fumble for a 13-6 Whaler victory at New Bedford.

The Cup Is Half Full!

I've always been a pushover for a good old-fashioned "let me set you straight about life" speech. So when Tom Sampson, retiring president of the Boston Chamber, gave one at their annual meeting recently, I obtained a copy so I could share this very worthwhile oration with you:

Several months ago I received a letter from a small local investment counseling firm. The letter was not the usual solicitation to make a purchase. It would best be described as a funeral dirge on Boston and Massachusetts. To me it was very convincing in a way I am sure the writer did not anticipate. I was not convinced that Boston and Massachusetts were sinking into economic oblivion, but that I would never seek that firm's counsel on investments - they were just too dismal and dreary in their outlook.

For those of you who have already leaped or are in mid-air on the way to the conclusion that I am not a realist, hold on a minute - it's a real trick to do it in mid-air.

Life itself is imperfect.

It reflects the imperfections of human nature. It reflects my great imperfection and your small ones. It reflects tears of sadness and gales of laughter. It reflects anger, greed and hatred and gentleness, compassion and love.

All of those characteristics are inherent in men and women in business, politics or other professions.

It should be no great wonder that communities reflect in varying measures the collective perfections and imperfections of the people who make them up, whether that community is defined as Boston, San Francisco or Atlanta.

There are any number of wondrous things about human nature, people and communities, not the least of which is the ability to improve - to come closer to perfection. Let us think about one of the ways in which the business community could improve - it could improve its attitude toward our community, Boston, or broader still, Massachusetts.

First, I suggest that businessmen and women draw on the experience of their personal and business lives and translate that into their posture toward the community.

When something goes wrong in the family or in the company, we do not go out into the street and curse it loudly. We don't tell the investment bankers about the bad decisions and imperfections of ourselves and the other company personnel. We do not rush out to tell the neighbors that Johnny is smoking pot and that Mary Lou didn't come home until 1 a.m. after we told her to be home at 11 o'clock. We do not tell the investment banker about the dumb so and so who lost the best prospect we had in years.

No, we tell the neighbors that Johnny made the hockey team, not that he is flunking math. We tell the stockholders that things look very good for next year and better for the year after that, not that we do not at this point have a sound plan for holding off Company X that is beating our brains out on sales of Product A. We then apply ourselves diligently and quietly to strengthen out Johnny and Mary Lou and perfect a plan to stop that competitor.

Why not accentuate the positive about our community?

Yes - labor costs are lower in the south and we might move there if they put an awning over it so we will not suffocate in the heat.

Taxes are lower in New Hampshire, but so is the quality and extent of such basic services as primary education, care for the elderly, etc.

No, I could not get that man to transfer in - and I could not get anybody to transfer out either.

Yes, we had some wild referenda on the ballot but the populace of Massachusetts rejected them and undoubtedly will again.

In my business we need young people to fill the pipeline and Boston sure does attract them.

Yes, taxes are high but I get to my comfortable suburban home in half an hour, the golf course is ten minutes from there, the family gets the best medical attention you can find and at the most it is an hour away.

You say there are some great educational institutions in the south and west. I agree with you, but my wife and I like to see the kids once in a while on weekends and it's not a very long drive to Amherst and Williams and Smith and Mt. Holyoke and none at all to Boston College, Harvard and MIT.

I hope you see what I am driving at. Being positive does not mean that we must resign ourselves to imperfection, unsound concepts or mismanagement of municipal or State government. Being positive means that we recognize and cherish the good and valuable attributes our area has and work to improve on its imperfections. That improvement will come a bit more quickly if we are a little less noisy in complaint and a lot more imaginative and dedicated to quietly thinking and persistently working toward solving our difficulties.

We are living. We are dying. Although seemingly contradictory, both statements are true as they apply to each of us as individuals. It all depends on your point of view. If you constantly portray the bad side to visitors and those you visit in other parts of the country, it follows that they will view our community as dying - and in all likelihood, the messenger with it.

And for me, I am living and I wish each of you a long life and a lot of living.

Taxpayers Association Still Unhappy Over 1976 Hike

The Quincy Taxpayers Association has expressed its pride in the city's AA credit rating and the 46.6 per cent of registered voters who turned out for the preliminary election, but "We are not too proud of the 1976 property tax increase of $34.90, which was an increase of 21.8 per cent, the highest increase in Quincy's history."

"With a study of the factual figures and the best qualified men to substantiate, a tax rate of $10.90 could have been set and accepted by the commissioner and the Department of Corporations and Taxation."

The QYA's 45th annual report noted that the group had extended its revaluation suit and recommended a defendant's

Eastern Nazarene Presenting

'Man Of LaMancha'

DAWN HECKMAN as Aldonza, Randy Fish as Don Quixote, and Linda Shamlian as Sancho Panza in the musical comedy "Man of La Mancha" on the Eastern Nazarene College campus in Wollaston.

Eastern Nazarene College is presenting the long-playing Broadway musical, "Man of La Mancha" Oct. 13-18 on its Wollaston campus in the Mann Student Center Auditorium.

Directed by Ronda Rice Winderl, Weymouth North High Drama and Semantics teacher, the performances are open to the public Thursday at 8 p.m., Friday at 9 p.m., Saturday at 6 p.m., Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Reservations should be made by calling 773-6350 Ext. 241 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

"Man of La Mancha" portrays a vision of the unlimited potential in every man. Written by Dale Wasserman, it is a tribute to Miguel de Cervantes, from whose book the main characters are taken. Cervantes led a life filled with one misfortune after another - including slavery, prison terms, and physical disablement - yet his faith, courage, and humor never dimmed.

In the play these attributes are seen in the character he originally created, Don Quixote. The play opens with Cervantes awaiting trial by the Spanish Inquisition in a dreary dungeon along with other assorted criminals. The plot unfolds as he uses his fellow prisoners to portray the various characters in his story "Don Quixote", playing the part of Don Quixote himself.

Director Ronda Rice Winderl, who is also a Resident Counselor on the ENC campus, has an active theatrical background. She has directed over 25 productions at high schools, colleges, and community theatres - including the off-Broadway staging of "1776" in New York.

She has a B.A. in Speech and Drama, and is now completing her M.A. in Theatre Arts from Emerson College.

John Quincy Adams Speaker

John Adams Statue To Be Unveiled Sunday At Freedom Park

John Quincy Adams, vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., will be the principal speaker Sunday, Oct. 16, at 3 p.m. at the unveiling of the statue of John Adams in Freedom Park.

Adams is a sixth generation descendant of the second president of the United States.

The statue of John Adams, seven feet, six inches tall, was carved from fine grained Westerly, R.I., granite by Franco M. Marchini of Barre, Vt., who learned the craft in his native Carrara, Italy.

The six foot, six inch base, done in three sections by the Monti Granite Co. of Quincy, is carved from the coarser grained Quincy granite and weighs seven tons.

The statue portrays John Adams at about age 63 with profile obtained from the Charles de Saint-Memin physionotrace from life, the general body proportions from Copley's portrait of 1783, and other details from Gilbert Stuart's oil done in 1798.

The statue will be unveiled by members of the Freedom Park State Committee, including:

Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, Mark L. Feeney Jr., Gertrude Roy, Claire Hanley, the Rev. John Banks, Joyce King, Sarah MacLeod, William A. O'Connell, Russell D. Hodgkins, Rep. Thomas F. Brownell and Lawrence D. Gall.

Dr. MacLeod will introduce sculptor Franco M. Marchini and designer Linda Montilio of the Monti Granite Co. The North Quincy High School band will play "America" for group singing.

Other guests will include Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia with greetings from the city and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin with greetings from the state.

Freedom Park, Inc., was founded in 1974 by a group of concerned Quincy citizens for the purpose of sponsoring and assisting in the creation of a Bicentennial Memorial Park.

The effort was successful and the park on a narrow strip of land between Upland Rd. and the MBTA tracks, was dedicated on July 4, 1976.

Then the group turned its attention to creation of a statue of John Adams, a citizen of Quincy and the second president of the United States, to be placed in the park.

Those who contributed to the statue included:

Andre Realty Trust, L. Antonelli Foundation, the Rev. and Mrs. John Banks, Baybank Norfolk County Trust Co., Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Blair, Dr. and Mrs. Milton Brougham, Rep. and Mrs. Thomas F. Brownell.

the media center. Dr. Henry F. Paterson Jr., principal, will welcome all parents and friends and will outline the coming year's activities.

John Laverly, assistant principal and sixth grade teacher at the Adams School, will conduct a metric workshop for all parents and friends present. Following the workshop, Dr.

Paterson will introduce the staff to the parents and an informal reception will be held for the teachers and other members of the staff.

4 School Committee Members Attend Workshop

Four members of the Quincy School Committee recently attended a Saturday workshop entitled "Board Action" sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of School Committees in Framingham.

They are Frank Anselmo, Christopher Kennedy, Charles T. Sweeney and Patricia Toland.

Participants in the workshops lived through a year in the life of a school committee through the use of film and text.

The main theme of the film was committee-superintendent relationships but it also dealt with drugs, declining enrollments and evaluation of the superintendent.

16 Pollard Students Visit Quincy Sun

Sixteen students from Grade 6, Room 2-3, visited The Quincy Sun recently and viewed the workings of a newspaper first hand.

The students attending the Thomas B. Pollard School, Quincy Point, were Sean Aruda, Dorothy DeGizzi, Lisa LeBlanc, William Bissett, Jennifer Downey, Susan Dextradeur, Sandra Dunn, Julie Ryan, Lisa Joseph, Daryl Koss, David Burns, Michael Stalker, Douglas Tocchio, Cathy Lomanno, David Smith and Caryn Lewis.

School teacher, Laura DiTullio accompanied the students on their tour.

The boys and girls first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun. They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer typesetting system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

The students watched a paste-up artist place the story of their visit on a page of The Sun.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by Agfa Gevaert Repromaster camera in the Sun's camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the boys and girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each student received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Collins Would Maintain Close Communications With Parents

Mrs. Mary Collins, candidate for School Committee, recently attended a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Witham, Wall St., Houghts Neck and said that she intends to maintain close communication with parents if she is elected.

"I intend to meet with parent groups at all 29 schools in Quincy," she said, "and this will be my way of keeping a campaign promise. I have always advocated parental involvement in schools, and as a School Committee member, I intend to make sure that the School Committee is close to the situation at each school and responsible to community concerns."

Workshop To Help Parents Understand Teenagers

A six week workshop helping parents to understand and build better relationships with their teenagers will begin Monday, Oct. 17, at 10 a.m., at the Germantown Center, 9 Bicknell St.

The series will be conducted by John Eaton, Family Life Education Coordinator of Family Services Association of Greater Boston, Inc.

Participants will learn how to better understand their teenagers, and better resolve the everyday problems that occur. Since teenage years are difficult for parents as well as teenagers, this workshop is designed to help find answers to questions like: Is he drinking or using drugs? Why doesn't he listen to me? How can I improve our relationship? Why does he come home late?

The workshop will consist of brief lectures, educational films on teenage development, discussion and some practice exercises.

Babysitting for children over three will be provided. A fee per session will be charged, based on income eligibility guidelines. To register for the workshop call Patricia Peers at the center [471-1189], or Grace Thompson at the Harborview Residents Committee office [471-0617].

The Language of Flowers Flower tips from Andre Moreau

The flowering dogwood, Cornus Florida, has some lovely cousins you ought to meet. They are actually shrubs and one beauty, the Swamp Dogwood grows along the banks of lakes, streams, and you guessed it - swamps. The twigs are dark maroon and the shrub sprawls along the waterways preventing erosion and providing food and shelter for wildlife. The Gray stemmed Dogwood has smooth gray stems with flower clusters at the tips and meanders through fields and meadows. Birds love them for nesting and for their delicious berries. The most striking of the dogwood shrubs is the Red Osier Dogwood with its bright red bark. Look for all three in winter and enjoy their distinctive branch formations.

Enjoy looking around our lovely display area at NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100 where you will find a breathtaking array of floral designs and plants. We specialize in turning random selections of flowers into exquisite works of art. Remember a plant or flowers make the "Perfect" gift for most everyone, for those who have everything and for those who have nothing...for the young and the old". Master Charge and BankAmericard honored. Hours: Mon. - Sat 8-6, evenings by appointment.

Montclair Men's Club Endorses 7 Members

The Montclair Men's Club has voted to endorse seven members of the club who are running for city office in the Nov. 8 election.

But the membership abstained from endorsing a candidate for Mayor since both Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Council President Arthur H. Tobin are also members in good standing.

The same procedure was followed in the 1975 election campaign between LaRaia and Walter J. Hannon.

Those endorsed were Joseph E. Brett, Paul D. Harold and Dennis E. Harrington for councilor at-large, John J. Lydon Jr. for Ward 3 councilor, Warren E. Powers for Ward 5 councilor, and Thomas J. Mullaney and John J. Sullivan for school committee.

New members approved at the business meeting were Steven Barry, Leon Dzygala, Dennis Gildea, Michael Greene, James Grogan, Kenneth McConnell, Larry McCue, Michael Misink and John Quinn, who was reinstated.

The club will hold its annual costume party and Halloween dance at the clubhouse, 93 Holbrook Rd, Saturday, Oct. 29.

Harrington Seeks Traffic Signal Study In Squantum

City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington plans to introduce a resolve at the next Council meeting requesting a traffic commission study of the feasibility of traffic signals at Sagamore St. and Commander Shea Boulevard, Squantum.

Harrington said that a dangerous condition presently exists in the area with traffic on Sagamore St. turning into Hancock St. required to cross two lanes of oncoming traffic.

The problem, along with the large number of young people who use Welcome Young Park in the area, necessitate that a study be conducted and some positive recommendations made to improve the traffic facilities, said Harrington.

Crowley Circulating Petition To Expand HN Development Program

David J. Crowley Jr., candidate for Ward 1 Councillor, is circulating a petition to expand the Houghs Neck Urban Development Program along more natural lines to service more homeowners with the program.

The extended lines will include the area along Sea St. from the boardwalk to the Sea and Palmer commercial district, including Post Island Rd and Pequod, Oneida and Noanet Sts.

Crowley said the extension, containing approximately 100 homes, was discussed with Lars Norman Lundin Jr. at which time Lundin agreed to its feasibility and promised Crowley his cooperation.

The petitions, demonstrating the desire of the people to have the program, and a formal written proposal will be submitted to HUD early in October.

Mullaney Proposes Separate

Graduation Ceremonies For High Schools

Speaking at a house party at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Blyth, of 117 Standish Ave., Wollaston, J. Thomas Mullaney, a candidate for the Quincy School Committee said:

"I think the time has come to hold at least two and possibly three high school graduation ceremonies. Historically Quincy High, North Quincy and the Vo-Tech seniors have graduated in a combined ceremony. Many graduating seniors and their parents have felt that the combined graduation severely limits the available space and reduces the number of tickets allocated to each candidate for graduation. They also feel that separate graduation ceremonies would be more meaningful to all concerned.

"I will definitely support a separate graduation ceremony for North Quincy High School and if the demand is there I will support separate ceremonies for Quincy High and the Vo-Tech.

"Graduation Day belongs to the seniors and their families and as a member of the school committee I will respect their wishes."

Condon Stresses Her Administrative Ability

"I have worked on budgets as part of my job as administrative assistant for the Community Action Program," said Mrs. Joanne Condon, candidate for Ward 6 City Councillor.

Speaking to a group of supporters awaiting primary results at her home, Mrs. Condon discussed her administrative ability which she said helps to qualify her to be a city councillor.

"Preparing and understanding budgets is a skill I have attained," she said. "I also have worked writing grants and preparing proposals for federal funds. The City budget is partly determined by variable amounts provided by the Federal government for particular programs. I feel my experience working with federal funds will be an asset to the Council."

McGrath Cites Sidewalk Parking Ordinance

At the request of some area residents, Ward 5 Council candidate Steve McGrath has written to City Clerk John Gillis regarding enforcement of the city ordinance barring parking on sidewalks.

"Apparently in some areas, parkers are not aware of this ordinance, which was enacted in the interest of safety and also to prevent harm to curbing and grass areas between the street and sidewalk," he said.

"Any help from your office would be greatly appreciated in making drivers aware of the existence of this ordinance."

SOUTH SHORE YOUTH BOXING CLUB

Volunteers Time To Help Youngsters

Former Champ Ray McPeck Now Fights For A Cause

Ray McPeck is a fighter.

An amateur boxer in his teens, Ray won the 1937 New England middleweight championship and fought right up until his civilian career was interrupted by the service in 1942.

In the Army, he boxed competitively while stationed in London and Northern England, but has not stepped into a ring for an official match since a battle wound knocked him out of action over 30 years ago.

But McPeck, who lives at 91 Dundee Rd. Squantum, is still a fighter. Employing the boxing techniques and skills learned in his youth, Ray for the past year has been fighting for a social cause, giving up at least three hours of his own time every evening after work to help train and counsel young boys in the South Shore Youth Boxing Club.

The non-profit youth organization, headquartered in the basement of St. Ann's parochial elementary school in Wollaston, is run entirely by volunteers who endeavor to teach boxing to some 250 boys aged 12-20.

But club administrators and coaches are concerned with much more than just imparting boxing skills to their charges.

"Many of these kids either come from broken homes or are referred by the courts and the police," explains Club Director William Halpin. "When kids reach a certain age there's nothing really for them to do except hang around the corners or down on the beach; this gives them something to do and an outlet for their hostility."

It was Halpin who in 1976 recruited his old friend, McPeck, whom he had known since his pre-World War II boxing days, to summon his dormant talents and join the Club coaching staff.

"I've been following fights right along for 30 years," says Ray, a Boston Gas customer service dispatch foreman, "so it wasn't hard to get back into it; I enjoy working with the kids."

Ray invariably leaves the Boston Gas Operations center in West Roxbury after his dispatch shift ends at 3:30 and goes straight to St. Ann's School, where he spends a minimum of three hours, four nights a week. Ray teaches the boys how to box, pairing them off according to weight and size. About 40-50 boys attend "regularly", and each of these contributes $3 a month for equipment.

"It's a nice hobby," he declares quietly, "and I feel I'm doing good. We teach them a little bit about conditioning, diet, the right way to box, a little bit about defending themselves. They just seem to be nice kids, and you can watch them improve."

Referring to their meeting place, Ray says he wants to particularly express his gratitude for the kindness of St. Ann's pastor, Monsignor James Lally, who made the basement of his church and school available for Club use, from 3-7 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 12-5 Saturday.

Describing an average night at the club, Ray relates how he "moves along from one pair to another."

"I might spend time with about six boys altogether in one evening. Most of the boys have fun at it."

According to Bill Halpin, however, Ray's impact goes far beyond simple coaching:

"Many of these kids look on Ray as a father figure," he reports. "His ability to relate to the boys is unbelievable; it's as if he's a professional counselor. Without dedicated guys like him, the club just wouldn't be."

Most of the young men Ray counsels and trains just enjoy boxing among themselves at St. Ann's and at special exhibition matches conducted around the South Shore. But as many as six or eight will eventually use their acquired skills to compete in amateur boxing matches throughout New England.

Inter-club bouts are held occasionally with a South Boston organization and the South Shore Youth Club's annual boxing show in April drew hundreds of benefit dollars.

"Every kid who wanted to participate was matched up," recalls Ray, "in everything from flyweights [112 pounds] to heavyweights, and trophies were given out."

The money generated by this second annual show, supplemented by contributions of the boys themselves, will help keep the club functioning, and enable Ray and his co-volunteers to send some of their charges to the Golden Gloves, sponsored by the Lowell Sun in Lowell, which begin in October and continue through January. They will compete against other boys from all over Massachusetts.

When asked, Ray stated that he plans to attend the Golden Gloves matches to support the boys he devotes much of his time coaching and counseling. The New England middleweight boxing champion of 40 years ago still has plenty of fight in him.

Presidents Host Undefeated Newton N.

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy High's football team ran into one of the Suburban League's powerhouses last week and absorbed a 34-14 defeat at Waltham and the Presidents appear to be going from the frying pan into the fire Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Hank Conroy's Quincy team, with a 2-2 record, will be host to undefeated Newton North, which has rolled by Medford, 12-0; Framingham North, 14-0; Brockton, 25-6, and Weymouth North, 25-0. Kick-off time is 1:30 p.m.

Waltham, unbeaten in league competition, just had too much for the Presidents as it rolled up 363 yards on the ground to 77 for Quincy and clicked off 19 first downs to the Presidents' seven. The only edge Quincy had was in passing as John Houten and Mark Giordani combined for seven for 12 and 73 yards and both touchdowns.

With its running game clicking so well, Waltham did little passing. The winners were led by John Nocera, who ran for 235 yards and scored the team's first two touchdowns.

"Waltham has a great team and is very aggressive and quick," a disappointed Conroy said. "They stopped our running game and their backs ran well."

Len Picot was the only Quincy ball carrier to penetrate the Waltham line as he gained 70 yards, the first time in three weeks he had been held under 100 yards.

Conroy singled out Ritchie Burnes and Ralph Pickering for their efforts on defense.

Quincy trailed, 28-0, before it could score in the final period. The Presidents drove 84 yards, paced by Picot, for their first touchdown, which came on an eight-yard pass from Giordani to Ron Donovan. Giordani rushed for the extra points.

Late in the game Picot sparked another march from Quincy's 35. A pass for 19 yards from Houten to Donovan brought the Presidents to the 17 and Glenn Lydon made a great catch of a Houten pass for a 17-yard scoring play.

● Cross Country

North Wins Pair, Quincy Bows

North Quincy's cross country team, with a 2-1-1 record after two fine performances last week, will run at Newton North next Tuesday.

Last Friday Lou Tozzi's Raiders topped Brookline, 20-38, as John Saville and Mike Barrett tied for first place. Paul McCormick placed fourth, John McGuigan sixth, Jim Coughlin seventh and Mike Ricciuti eighth.

Earlier in the week North made an excellent showing against Brockton, before bowing, 27-31, as the Boxers ran to their 52nd straight win. Brockton has lost only one meet in the last nine years.

Saville and Barrett again tied for first but Brockton took the next three spots. North's McCormick placed sixth and Bill Murphy took 10th.

Quincy, which lost its top runner, Saville, to North, was defeated by Weymouth North, 18-39. Quincy's John Fury was third, Robbie Grogen seventh, Joe Irvine eighth and John Banuk ninth.

Later Than You Think:

Skating Areas Being Readied

Its later than you think. City park department employees are preparing the natural ice skating ground area throughout the city in anticipation of the winter skating season.

Heavy vegetation and overgrowth has been cut, raked and removed from the site adjacent to the Furnace Brook School while the tall grass protruding from the water at Sailors Home Pond on Rice Road in Wollaston has been cut to provide a large and smoother skating surface when freezing temperatures arrive.

Tree Pond at Faxon Park,

Shea Rink Open

For Season

Shea Rink in West Quincy, one of 13 enclosed skating rinks operated by the MDC, opened for the season last Saturday.

The fee schedule is 50 cents for those over 18 years of age, 10 cents for senior citizens, and 10 cents for those under 18, except evenings and Saturday, Sunday and holiday afternoons when it is 25 cents.

On school days, the rink is available at no charge from 9 a.m. to 12 noon to youngsters from public and private schools within the MDC Parks District for recreational skating.

The rink will be closed on Thanksgiving and Christmas Day. It will close at 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 24, and Saturday, Dec. 31. It will open at 2 p.m. on New Years Day.

South Quincy is being prepared, to be followed by Manet Lake in Houghs Neck to complete the process. The remaining asphalt surface natural ice skating rinks require only sweeping, removal of tennis nets and capping the drains, a project that is undertaken immediately previous to the prediction of freezing temperatures.

The ground area skating pond involves a great number of man hours. In past years the areas could be burned of the dried vegetation, but cannot now because of the ban on open burning.

New Year Subscription Rates For Wollaston Facility Golfers

Among recent improvements in the Wollaston Recreational Facility as announced by the Norfolk County Commissioners are the full operation of all 18 holes of the golf course and new year subscription rates for golfers.

All of the 18 holes on the Presidents' course have been open for play since early August, reports Supt. James Fitzroy. Only nine had been ready when the course first opened in July.

Looking forward to its first full golfing year, the public recreational facility is offering special year subscriptions good from now to January 1979, giving early subscribers the benefit of the present fall season free.

Plans also call for a fleet of powered golf carts to be added in the spring of 1978.

The 5,625-yard, par 70 course was redesigned by George

Fazio, a foremost course architect whose achievements include the Pinehurst, Westchester and Butler courses, when the county purchased the facility in 1972 from an existing private club.

In its short first season, according to Fitzroy, the public course has attracted a cross section of golfers and he expects the number to increase greatly in the next full season.

Openings For Koch Club Boys Bowling

A few openings remain in the Koch Club Boys' Saturday Morning Bowling League and boys, from ages 9 through 16 years, are invited to join and participate.

The league bowls each Saturday morning at 9 at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., Quincy., adjacent to the Quincy Police Headquarters.

Boys, 9 through 13 years, are assigned to the Junior Division and those 14 through 16 years bowl with the Senior Loop.

Saturday morning will be the final week the league will bowl to determine averages and the following week each boy will be assigned to his team for the season.

The league, in its 15th season is directed by Anthony T. Delmonico, league founder, assisted by Gary DeMole.

The newly organized Tuesday afternoon Koch Club boys bowling program has 85 participants in Grades 1 through 6 and bowls at 1 p.m. each week at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome, 679 Quincy Shore Drive.

Next Tuesday will be the final week of bowling to determine averages for the team assignment for each boy participating in the league.

The Koch Club girls bowling leagues have the Termites, girls of elementary school age, participating every Tuesday afternoon at 1 at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome, while their Senior High School counterparts bowl Friday evenings at 5:45 at the Wollaston Lanes under the direction of Mrs. Marilyn Nestor., founder of the girls leagues, enjoying the 14th year of competition.

Kincaide Field Lighting Completed

Ward 4 City Councillor, James A. Sheets, announces the completion of the lighting of Kincaide Field, Water St., South Quincy.

Sheets said the lights will double the amount of playing time organized teams and the community will have at Kincaide Field.

"It is the first step", Sheets said, "to the overall improvement and upgrading of the facility. We are also planning to resurface the existing tennis courts at the field, along with putting in a new tennis and basketball court with lights behind Sterling Junior High School."

There is also a possibility of putting a fifth or quarter-mile track behind Sterling, he said.

Sheets added that he is hoping the Park and Recreation Department will add supervision to the area. The work is being done through the South West Community improvement program.

A WEEKLY MESSAGE FROM MICHAEL E. FAHERTY, CANDIDATE COUNCILLOR-AT-LARGE

"A young newspaperman once asked the political veteran, James Michael Curley, for the secret to his political success. Curley thought for a moment, then looked benevolently at the cub reporter and said. "Well my friend of course there's no secret at all. Just two simple words... Be Available."

I like that philosophy. I like to know I have an auto mechanic who's Available in case of emergency. I like to know there's a pharmacist who's Available when sickness strikes at odd hours. I like to know I have a neighbor like Rocco Ruggeri who's Available in time of need. I promise you, that with One of your Three votes... As one of your Three Councillors At-Large, I'll be Available to plead your case in anyway I can, at any time.

Weekend Of Sports For ENC Homecoming

A full weekend of sports highlights the 1977 homecoming festivities at Eastern Nazarene College Friday and Saturday.

Varsity soccer, women's volleyball and cross country, as well as the annual alumni-varsity basketball game, fill the Saturday schedule.

The action begins Saturday morning at 9 when the women's volleyball team, with a 3-4 record, takes on traditional rivals Gordon College and Barrington, R.I., College.

This year's squad, led by Co-Captains Donna Brickley and Donna Fandel, both of Quincy, has had early season problems which resulted in losses to Bridgewater State, Keene State, MIT and Smith. However, hopes are high for the rest of the year.

The play of freshman Lois Malvesti of Quincy and Sue Bish, both seasoned high school players, has complemented veterans Brickley, Fandel, Janet Ransstrom of Weymouth and Cindy Tozzi of Quincy in wins over Boston State, Southeastern Mass. and Colby Sawyer.

At 2 o'clock the Crusaders' soccer team, coming off tough 2-1 losses to New Hampshire College and Barrington, returns home for the final time this season to face Thomas College.

Sporting a 3-4-1 record, the squad is looking to generate some offense in support of the fine play of goalkeeper David Wilfong.

Offensively, the Crusaders are led by freshman Bob Hooper and senior George Stinson, each with six goals and five assists, and junior Tim Lalone, with five goals and six assists.

At 2:30 the cross country team, led by junior Tim Woodbridge, faces New England College. Woodbridge, who has taken first place in four of six meets this year, and Mike Mello, a junior are the main hopes for a Homecoming Day victory.

At 8:30 the varsity basketball prospects will take on the Alumni in an annual contest which always proves exciting. At halftime a gymnastics exhibition will be presented by ENC students.

The public is invited and admission to all events is free.

Fenway In Good Hands

New Sox Owners Plan Major Trades To Beef Pitching

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

As the people at Allstate would say, the Red Sox appear to be in good hands for the future.

When it was announced that the executors of Tom Yawkey's estate were about to announce the sale of the team, it was believed the syndicate headed by Sox Vice President Haywood Sullivan and former Sox trainer Buddy LeRoux would be the choice to buy the club.

Sullivan was a big favorite of Yawkey and remains a favorite with his widow. It was felt his group would be Mrs. Yawkey's choice if they could come up with the necessary financial backing.

When Mrs. Yawkey joined the 13-member group it seemed to sew up the deal and assure financial security.

At a press conference at Fenway Park, Sullivan, LeRoux and Joseph LaCour, one of the executors, assured us that finances were no problem and it is expected that the American League owners and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will approve the sale with the deal expected to be finalized by Oct. 31.

Baseball has been Sullivan's life since his days at the University of Florida and he have always found him a square shooter and a man of his word.

While we were covering the Red Sox for the Patriot Ledger in the late 1950's, Sullivan was catching and was living in Quincy at the time.

We have conversed many times at Fenway, talking a lot about his son, now at his father's alma mater where he was converted from shortstop to Haywood's old spot, catcher. We saw him play several games for Canton Legion against Morrisette, Quincy and Wollaston Legion teams.

Sullivan received a $75,000 bonus to sign with the Sox, was a backup catcher with them and later with the Kansas City Athletics, whom he later managed under Charlie Finlay. He left the A's to become vice president in charge of player personnel for the Red Sox.

LeRoux, native Bay Stater, was trainer for the Sox from 1966 to 1974 and previously was Celtics trainer and assistant Bruins trainer.

Only three of the 13 partners in the new syndicate do not have New England or Greater Boston ties.

Sullivan and LeRoux are the general partners and the limited partners are Mrs. Yawkey, former Celtics star Frank Ramsey, Dr. Arthur Pappas, former Harvard football player and now a prominent orthopedic surgeon in Boston; Albert F.

Curran, Boston lawyer; Samuel Tamposi, a New Hampshire industrial developer; Harold Alford, head of a Massachusetts shoe firm; Thomas DiBenedetto, a New England native who recently joined a New York investment firm; Earle Groper, a businessman related to the owners of the Montreal Expos; Ernest Dade, a retired local businessman; H. M. Stevens Inc., concessionaires, and Rogers Badgett, a Kentucky coal executive.

"Buddy and I will make all final decisions, although we will confer with all the limited partners," Sullivan stressed.

Haywood said he and the others were pleased with the work of Manager Don Zimmer and assured us he will be back next year.

"Pitching is our major need and we hope to make some major trades," Sully added. "And we definitely will participate in the free agent draft."

There are expected to be some front office changes, although neither Sullivan nor LeRoux would comment on that at the press conference.

Yes, the Red Sox appear to be in good hands.

Hot Oilers Await Shamrocks

The Randolph Oilers, leading the Eastern Football League with a 9-1 record following last Sunday's 14-7 win over the Old Saybrook, Conn., Tides, will host the Marlboro Shamrocks Sunday, Oct. 30, at 2 at Randolph High Field in a benefit for "Baby Bobby".

Bobby, the son of Marianne and John Boothby of Randolph, was born without arms or legs. The 14-month old boy has been fitted to $1,500 arms and in four months can be fitted with $2,000 legs. Hundreds throughout the South Shore are doing what they can to raise the necessary funds.

Tickets for the Oilers-Shamrocks game are on sale at the Randolph Cooperative Bank and all proceeds from the game will go to the Boothbys.

The Oilers, sparked defensively by former Quincy High lineman Ed Sylva and former North Quincy standout Ed McElaney and receiving strong performances from North's Billy Fong and Quincy's Chuck Matherson, will meet old rival Plymouth Rocks Sunday at 2 at Randolph High Field. The Rocks, who lost in the playoff finals last year, are coached by former Patriot star Rick Cash. Randolph's coach is Al Scibetta of Quincy.

7 Quincy Rotarians Attend Institute

Seven members of the Quincy Rotary Club were among more than 200 Rotarians who attended a recent Rotary Information Institute at BILLY SULLIVAN, president of the New England Patriots, addresses the kick-off ceremonies of the United Way campaign at the Raytheon Quincy plant.

Billy Sullivan Keynote Speaker At Raytheon United Way Fund Kickoff

William H. [Billy] Sullivan Jr., president of the New England Patriots, says he feels that "you enhance the value and prestige of your company when you give your fair share to the United Way campaign."

Sullivan was the keynote speaker at the Quincy Raytheon Co.'s annual kick-off of its in-plant United Way campaign attended by some 800 employees.

"If you are gainfully employed and have an opportunity to share in a small degree the resources you earn you should snatch that opportunity and give to those less fortunate than yourselves," said Sullivan.

"No team is a good team if the entire team doesn't perform as a team. You can't expect others to do the work if you don't do it. Become a team and bring in 100 per cent in your giving for your company."

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia urged the Raytheon employees to continue their work for the United Way to raise money for 160 agencies.

"The goal of $18.6 million is high but it can be reached with your complete support," said the Mayor.

Daniel Foley, executive director of the South Shore Association For Retarded Citizens, Inc., said his agency couldn't function without the United Way.

"We get no other support, no state or federal funding. Our only income is from the United Way and private donations," he said.

Foley said the agency conducts a shelter workshop in Weymouth and they sponsor a bowling league, two Boy Scout Troops, a Girl Scout Troop and a swimming program.

He said his agency received national acclaim for its recreation program. The agency is a member of the Citizen Advocacy program, similar to the Big Brother and Big Sister programs.

"Thanks to people like you at Raytheon the United Way is working to support 160 agencies," said Foley.

Irving Levy, operations manager at Raytheon said the Quincy plant received the award for outstanding plant participation last year and he would like to see the award to the plant again this year.

Jack Williams, United Way chairman for the plant, was master of ceremonies.

The North Quincy High School Band and drum majorettes under the direction of Daniel Watson presented a musical program.

WHEN YOU VOTE FOR MAYOR, THERE ARE SOME THINGS YOU SHOULD REMEMBER AND SOME THINGS YOU SHOULDN'T FORGET.

In 12 years of public service, Arthur Tobin has done a lot of things worth remembering.

He's been leading the fight against 100% reevaluation.

He stopped the MDC from filling in Quincy Bay.

He's fighting plans to build a prison in the Squantum area.

He cleaned up the rubbish mess.

He slashed millions from the City budget.

He sponsored housing and reduced fare transportation for our elderly.

He improved our schools.

And he expanded development and job opportunities for the people of Quincy.

In the past two years, the present mayor has done a lot of things we'd rather forget.

The present mayor has handcuffed the police with political infighting; he raised taxes $35; let downtown Quincy go downhill; made a mess of rubbish collection; grossly misrepresented the cost for North Quincy High School; and appointed four people to his administration who were either indicted or were under investigation by local police or the FBI.

Clearly mismanagement, scandals and bungling have brought Quincy shame. And these are things that should not be forgotten!

This year we have a choice. We can elect a mayor we'll be proud to remember.

Arthur Tobin will put Quincy back on its feet and make us all proud of our City again.

He'll set up screening panels for all City appointees to eliminate the corruption we've seen in the past two years.

He'll take politics out of law enforcement so the police can fight crime in the streets without political interference.

He'll avoid duplication of services, a move which can save Quincy $250,000 a year; and set up a Zero Based Budgeting system that will require each City Department to justify every dollar it spends.

He'll improve City playgrounds and recreation programs; attract new business downtown; and bring good fiscal management to our City.

This November 8, elect Arthur Tobin mayor, so we can have a leader we'll be proud to remember, rather than one we'd like to forget.

1,500 Shipyard

Workers Return To Jobs

Shipbuilders began trekking back to work at the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard this week with no one apparently overjoyed by the contract that ended their three-month strike.

About 1,500 of the yard's complement of 5,500 workers were back in the job Tuesday but a spokesman for General Dynamics said he could not predict when all of them would return.

"That depends on how many of them get their cards in saying that they want to go back to work," said Alex Piranian.

Piranian said that there have been some layoffs of returning workers in certain departments where there is not yet enough work to keep a full staff busy.

They were laid off by seniority, he said, so that they could collect unemployment.

"We hope to get to the point soon where we will be able to call back everyone who wants to work," he said.

The contract was signed Monday shortly before 9 a.m. with little ceremony and with such lingering bitterness that the two sides in the signing did not shake hands.

Workers who arrived at the shipyard gates at 7 a.m. Monday refused to report to work until Stanley Kyller, president of Local 5, told them that the contract had indeed been signed.

The contract was ratified by the union members at a mass meeting Wednesday, Oct. 12, in Veterans Memorial Stadium but the company delayed signing until Monday, a move that angered the union.

corrected, but he hopes anyone who has a concern will attend this open public meeting.

"By holding a meeting in early fall to pinpoint all problem areas," said Sheets, "it is hoped that when the snow falls this winter, we will be in the best possible position to deal with it."

He has asked the Public Works Department Commissioner Paul Anderson to be present to gain first-hand knowledge of some of the problems.

Meeting Oct. 27 On

Ward 4 Snow Plowing Problems

Ward 4 City Councillor James A. Sheets announces he will hold a meeting Thursday, Oct. 27, at Quincy City Hall, at 7 p.m. to discuss snow plowing problems throughout Ward 4.

Sheets said he has been working over the last couple of years to develop the best possible system to plow all the streets within his ward.

According to Sheets, many of the problem streets have been

Sheets Seeks Rigid Controls

Illegal Dumping Has Cost City Over $1.5 Million

City Councillor James A. Sheets figures that Quincy has lost more than $1.5 million due to unauthorized dumping at the City Disposal facility over the past four years.

He said in the final installment of his report to the City Council that "private commercial packers are overusing the disposal by as much as 48 per cent, even with the cutbacks of 1977."

Sheets recommended that dump fees be raised, that rigid controls be placed on dumping and that locally owned roll-offs be registered at the beginning of each year.

Sheets said his inquiry into operations of the dump in March and April, 1976 and a police investigation in June, 1976, showed that not all loads brought to the dump were recorded.

"For example," he said, "our full-day surveillance of the disposal entries on March 12, 1976, and subsequent comparison with the daily log filed by the checker at the gate indicates that approximately 40 to 45 per cent of the trucks from one disposal firm were unrecorded."

He said dumping from outside the city has been constant at 90-100,000 cubic yards per year for the past four years. If all the loads were paid for at $40 per load, he said, the city would net some $98,000 a year, including the cost of fill.

"If we were to buy space for 100,000 yards a year at the going rate of $17 a ton in the Plainville facility," he said, "it would cost us $517,000. If we subtracted the city net for one year on 100,000 cubic yards coming from the outside we have lost $419,000 worth of space per year. For four years it

Reppucci, LoCicero To Be Sentenced Nov. 8 On Extortion

By TOM HENSHAW

Former Public Works Commissioner Vincent R. LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci, once assistant director of RSVP, are free in $1,000 bail awaiting sentencing Nov. 8 on conspiracy and extortion.

LoCicero and Reppucci were convicted in Federal Court on charges of extorting $7,000 from the Rocheford Construction Co. of Natick in connection with a $1 million contract for an addition to Merrymount School. They had pleaded innocent.

The defendants, both without previous record, accepted the verdict without visible emotion after a four-day trial before Judge Walter J. Skinner. Under Federal Law, they may appeal after sentencing.

The government's case was based strongly on tapes made of meetings in the Howard Johnson restaurant in Canton on Nov. 26 and Dec. 23 through an FBI recorder taped to the person of Robert J. Rocheford.

Senior Census Takers In Ward 5

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia announces that six census takers are going door-to-door, taking a Senior Citizen Survey in the Ward 5 area.

Outer perimeter is Beale St. to Adams St. to Furnace Brook Parkway to Newport Ave.

Positive identification of the census takers may be verified by calling the Quincy Police Department [479-1212]

Reppucci was arrested by the FBI as he left the Dec. 23 meeting with $7,000 in an envelope in his pocket and LoCicero was arrested, also by the FBI, on the same day near the DPW office on Sea St.

The case, as pieced together from the FBI tapes and witnesses, including Reppucci and LoCicero, went like this:

It began Nov. 3, 1976, when the bids were opened for the addition to Merrymount School.

J. T. Scully Co. of Malden was low with $946,000. Rocheford was next with $948,800. Hass Corp. of Natick was third with $948,900. On the face of it, Scully was the winner.

But there were also bids on three alternates, that is three items of work that the city would like to include in the contract if there was enough money to pay for them.

If the city accepted the base bid plus Alternates 1 and 2, then Scully would be the winner. If it accepted Alternate 3, then Hass would win. If it accepted all three, then Rocheford was the winner.

Rocheford protested the Scully bid on grounds that statements of prior, and current work, requested by Kent Corp., the management firm, were not included. LoCicero, on advice of the City Solicitor, rejected the protest.

The following day, Nov. 4, LoCicero and Reppucci met for lunch, as they had done frequently in the past, and the government contended that the conspiracy was hatched during that lunch.

Reppucci said he learned

Harrington Wins 'Re-election' Status, Second Spot On Nov. 8 Ballot

City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington has been restored to the second spot in his race on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Norfolk County Superior Court Judge Henry Chmielinski ruled that Harrington is a candidate for re-election despite the fact that the seat he holds is from Ward 6 and the seat he seeks is at-large.

Since incumbent candidates are listed first and alphabetically on the ballot, Harrington's name will go below that of Councillor Paul D. Harold and above that of Councillor John J. Quinn, both incumbents.

The non-incumbents will be listed after them, alphabetically.

Harrington's status as an incumbent was challenged by Francis X. McCauley, an at-large candidate whose name will appear sixth and last on the ballot. City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams ruled he was right.

Williams said his ruling was based on one made in 1967 by then City Solicitor Harry Pavan when he said that McCauley, then a Councillor from Ward 1, could not run as an incumbent for an at-large seat.

Harri. tton's attorney, Edward Masterson, argued before Judge Chmielinski that both ward and at-large councillors have the same duties and the city does not make a distinction between them under law.

The top spots on ballots are regarded as choice locations since it is believed that many voters who have no personal interest in the race will simply vote for the top lines and let it go at that.

MBTA Bus Shelter Installed Near Point Congregational Church request the MBTA is installing a shelter at the bus stop on Washington St. adjacent to the Quincy Point Congregational Church.

"This plexiglass shelter will benefit many of the residents who live in the Quincy Point area and will mainly be used in waiting for buses going to Quincy Center and other points along Washington St.", Cerasoli said.

"This shelter would certainly provide protection from the weather for many residents who depend solely on this bus route for transportation."

"I asked the MBTA to install this shelter a month ago at the request of many of my constituents in this area of Quincy Point and the MBTA is installing the shelter this week. Last year I had a similar shelter placed in the Lower Quincy Point area on Washington St. adjacent to Pagnano Towers."

"Providing my constituents with this shelter is another accomplishment in my continued efforts to upgrade Washington St. for the best interests of the residents of Quincy Point. The MBTA should be commended, in this case, for their concern and the speed with which they complied with my request. The residents of Quincy Point will surely be pleased with this added convenience."

Sheets Asks Meeting On Flight Patterns Over City

Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) has asked the Massachusetts Port Authority to meet with Quincy residents to discuss with them flight patterns over the City.

Sheets said the request to the Port Authority was made by him after attending an Atlantic Neighborhood Association meeting and hearing the air traffic problems of those in attendance.

"The purpose of the meeting will be informational," said Sheets, "but it is my hope that it will be only the first of such meetings to keep residents better informed and help to work out some of the problems we have due to air traffic over our city."

Sheets said he is hopeful a representative of the Massachusetts Port Authority will be able to attend the next Atlantic Neighborhood Association meeting, Wednesday evening, Nov. 9.

$450,000 Renovations, Repair Project Planned For Masonic Temple

To mark the 50th anniversary of the opening of Quincy Masonic Temple at 1170 Hancock St., the Masonic Association has announced plans for a $450,000 fund raising drive to repair and refurbish the building.

It was in 1927, after more than 100 years of moving from meeting place to meeting place, that the Masonic Association opened its own building to serve the needs of various Masonic bodies meeting in Quincy.

Since then, time and use have taken their toll on the present structure so that extensive repairs and restoration have become necessary. The association reports that with only custodial care and emergency repairs, the condition of the building has become dangerous.

The repair work has been divided into three phases costing a total of $450,000.

Phase 1, which must be done immediately to avoid further structural damage consists of outside repairs to walls, window and exterior doors and the roof, as well as basic structural repairs to the building. This phase will cost about $198,000.

The second phase, at an approximate cost of $210,000, will cover a wide range of interior work including repair of the banquet hall floor, restoration of the front entrance, beautification of the main lodge room and paint, upholstery and general repairs where needed. The construction of a ladies room in the basement and updating of the heating, ventilating and electrical systems will be undertaken in this phase as well.

The final phase of the program will carpet the lobby areas on the first floor and main stairs to the banquet hall at a cost of $5,000.

The Masonic Association describes the repair work and the fund raising as a challenge to all the Masonic bodies which have used the Temple to restore it to its original glory where it will again be an asset to the city of Quincy.

Harold Seeks MDC Police Beef-Up In West Quincy

Councillor-at-large Paul Harold has called upon MDC Commissioner John Snedeker to increase the MDC police force in the Blue Hill district to provide for better police protection of MDC properties in West Quincy.

Harold noted that 40 MDC policemen are scheduled to be hired and that a number of them should be assigned to the Blue Hill district.

"Additional men are needed to properly patrol vast MDC properties in the Blue Hills as well as the area surrounding the Shea Rink and the length of Furnace Brook Parkway to Hancock St.," he said.

"Speeding and commercial traffic on Furnace Brook Parkway has been a constant source of aggravation for residents of West Quincy and these problems can only be lessened with increased MDC personnel," Harold said.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

No matter who you are inviting to Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner, the Schlumberger family should be included in your holiday plans. An unusual group of cacti, to be sure, but so lovely to have around. These flowering beauties bloom at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter - depending on the variety you choose. And the colors brighten up the festivities in tones of soft pink, salmon and purple. The more crowded and potbound, the better the flowers. Keep them well watered, allow good drainage and enjoy their company all through the holiday season.

Jewels & Gems
by Stan Manin
December has two blue birthstones, turquoise and lapis lazuli. Success is their sentiment - success in love and money. The blue-green turquoise was used by the Egyptians 8,000 years ago. This lovely semi precious stone is relatively soft and porous in quality. Sometimes turquoise appears in a green form, an especially popular one with Mexicans. In ancient Egypt lapis lazuli was more precious than gold. This gem is a deep dark blue, once said to cure fever and melancholy. Most lapis have flecks of pyrite grains which appear to be gold. These flecks add a dramatic quality against the blue, although lapis without the gold is more valuable. Precious and semi-precious stones in all types of jewelry are available from us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490. If you are not familiar with jewelry, knowing and having confidence in your jeweler is of utmost importance. I was recently awarded the degree in diamond grading and evaluation from the GIA. Master Charges honored and other credit terms available. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

HELPFUL HINT
Because of its tendency to fade, many turquoise are treated with artificial colors.

THE OTHER DRUG ABUSE
You could be addicted to drugs without even knowing it. Addiction to hard drugs like heroine or cocaine is only part of America's drug problem.
Prescription drug abuse - When you take a prescription drug [tranquilizers, sedatives, amphetamines, pain killers, etc.] without a doctor's advice or dispense your prescription drugs to others, you're contributing to the drug problem.
Over-the-counter drug abuse - When you take "over-the-counter" drugs without following the directions, or take them in large doses, you may be endangering your health.
Common drug abuse - When you smoke cigarettes or drink alcohol or coffee, you're taking dangerous drugs. More Americans are addicted to nicotine, alcohol and caffeine than all other drugs combined.
Drug abuse is self abuse. Be good to yourself. Don't abuse drugs.

LaRaia Reports Net Worth As $87,795

Mayor LaRaia reports his net worth is $87,795.

The Mayor, who disclosed three weeks ago that his 1976 income was $25,189, added a net worth statement to his disclosures at a news conference Monday.

"I feel that it is imperative," he said, "especially today when the people's trust in elected officials is at a low point, that all public officials make public their financial status."

LaRaia's disclosure listed as "key figures":

Real estate [assets over liabilities] $56,528.

Life Insurance $7,167.

Savings $14,050.

Pension Trust $10,050.

Total $87,795.

The Mayor said the statement was "prepared in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards," by the CPA firm of Gallagher and Gallagher of Quincy.

By releasing the statement, he said, "I hope to further prove to the citizens of Quincy that I have conducted the business of the City in the same open and honest manner."

"My sole income for last year was the salary [$25,000] which I received as Mayor of the city."

"I am an administrator and not a lawyer with a private practice or involved in other private business on the side, nor do I hold another elected office. My only job is that of Mayor."

"By making public my net worth, I hope to show to the people that my personal financial status has been completely detached from my position as Mayor."

"The disclosure of an elected public official is not mandated by law but mandated by the will of the people. Disclosure is strongly supported by citizens organizations such as Common Cause.

"I feel it would be healthy for Quincy, politically, if all candidates for city office made a public financial disclosure as I have presented to you."

A WEEKLY MESSAGE FROM MICHAEL E. FAHERTY, CANDIDATE COUNCILLOR-AT-LARGE

"My friends, I'm not going to dwell on the piggy-backing of political signs which you see all around you. I don't want to analyze the desperation evidenced by the recent court fight for ballot position in the Councillor-at-Large contest. What I would like to do is address an issue of concern to the residents of Ward Six. . . An apartment complex on the Squantum Marina.

You wouldn't have had to have lived in that Ward, as I did on Alstead and Aphorpe Streets, to know the damage such an undertaking would do to the area. It'd be like constructing a replica of Columbia Point right here in Quincy. Yet some of my opponents recommend Light Industry for the area. Well we'd better be very careful about that. I've seen Light Industry neighborhoods. I've seen the smog that hangs over them. . . The highway traffic stalled on one lane roads. I've seen Light Industry change the profile of the people of an area. And before we go too far with this Light Industry idea, I think we'd better sit down and look for some alternatives."

The effective way to insulate your home

Insulation effectiveness is measured in its resistance to heat flow . . . either moving out of the house in winter or flowing in, during the summer.

Celsius foam insulation has a high "R" rating which creates an efficient thermal barrier in ceilings, attics and walls. Celsius foam is pumped into walls cavities and flows around pipes, electrical outlets and other protrusions. It effectively seals against heat loss and drafts by completely filling the spaces without settling.

With Celsius foam you save on heating/cooling costs all year round and you get a return on your investment every time you receive your utility bill. You'll enjoy extra living comfort too!

Health Planning WJDA Spotlight

Diana C. Imbimo, President of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston, and Carlton Smith, Director of the VA Hospital and Chairman of the Health Systems Plan Committee of the Council will share the featured guest slots on the Friday, Oct. 21 edition of "Operation Health", a special feature of WJDA-Radio 1300's Community Spotlight Program, aired at 3:10 p.m.

Hosted by Win Bettinson, "Operation Health" features different health topics each Friday and is produced in cooperation with the Quincy Community Action Program and the South Metro Health Council, the local unit of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston.

Health Planning and the Health Systems Plan for the Greater Boston area will be the major topic of discussion on this Friday's program. Miss Imbimo will discuss the importance and need for consumer involvement in planning for meeting the health needs of the residents of the area.

Smith will address the issues surrounding the recently published Draft Health Systems Plan for the area, as mandated under Public Law 93-641, the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act.

Compiled over the last 15 months by consumers and health professionals working with the Council, the Draft Plan seeks to develop a regional strategy for restraining health care costs and upgrading the availability, accessibility, and quality of health care.

Copies of the Draft Plan are available for public review at a series of local libraries throughout the area, with Public Hearings set for five different locations throughout the Greater Boston area. On Monday, Oct.

24 at 7:30 p.m., the public will be welcome to respond to the Plan at the Fisher School on Gould Street in Walpole. Braintree High School will host another Hearing Tuesday, Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m. Additional times and places of Hearings include Tuesday, Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m., at the Lexington Town Hall; Wednesday, Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m., at City Hall, Council Chambers, Government Center, Boston; and, Wednesday, Nov. 16 at 7:45 p.m., at the Newton City Hall.

The Health Planning Council is the non-profit, federally-designated Health Systems Agency serving 65 communities. Its purpose is to support the cooperative efforts of consumers and health professionals in addressing the major issues - cost, quality, and availability of health care - affecting the delivery of services in the region.

Morrissey Backs Boston Harbor Clean Up

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] recently spoke at a public hearing in favor of the clean up of Boston Harbor, proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers.

"The proposed clean up will cost about $16 million with two-thirds of that money coming from the federal government and the other third from non-federal sources," said

Morrissey. "The clean up will greatly benefit and help the city of Quincy, especially along the Neponset and Town Rivers."

The clean up calls for the removal of old piers, derelict boats, and debris along the shore.

"The property values of land will increase and the waters will become safer for recreational use," said Morrissey.

Koch Club Receives

500 Gifts For Needy Children

Five hundred gifts have been received to date for the annual Koch Club Christmas Program for Needy Children reports Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club.

Dolls, toys, games, books, bicycles, doll furniture and a variety of other items are in the process of being refurbished, cleaned and painted for packaging to be delivered and distributed during the Christmas season to children from the South Shore and Greater Boston area.

A series of Santa workshops are conducted before Christmas to prepare all the gifts for delivery in time for the holiday season.

The dress-a-doll for Christmas program will continue this year. Any woman or girl interested in participating in this activity may contact Mrs. Simone Koch of the Quincy area or Mrs. Ginny Derringer of South Weymouth.

Dolls are donated but require repairing, cleaning, dressing, washing and grooming to provide a new look for the little girl receiving the present at Christmas time. Those interested in picking up dolls may choose the one they desire to dress and prepare.

Those wishing to donate items should make sure the toys require little repairs with cleaning and painting the major need. It is important that the gifts are presentable because it is the only Christmas present that a number of children receive.

Started in 1971, with 300 gifts donated to fire victims, the program has increased with a total of over 5,000 distributed in the past six years.

Open House, Back To School Night At Central

Central Junior High School will hold its annual fall open house and "Back-to-School Night" tonight [Thursday] Oct. 20, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Parents will have the opportunity to observe the curriculum and in some cases participate in science and social studies activities. Goal of the evening is learning the contents of each course of study, the expectations that are planned to meet the needs of students, and how parents and staff can best help the student. Members of administration and guidance, as well as special needs instructors, will be available to answer inquiries in these areas.

Moscardelli notes, "the evening is an excellent opportunity to observe the school program and actually take part in it. We encourage all parents to attend and spend an informative and exciting evening at Central Junior High School."

Extortion Convictions Will Hurt LaRaia

Mayor LaRaia's hand at the city's helm was shaken considerably in last month's preliminary election when Arthur Tobin piled up a 4,805-vote margin victory, sweeping 34 of the city's 39 precincts enroute.

The conviction last week of two of the Mayor's appointees on extortion and conspiracy charges could well be the equivalent of taking twin torpedoes amidships.

If LaRaia had any chance of overtaking Tobin, they went down the tube in U.S. District Court last week, most political observers believe.

Ironically, Judge Walter Jay Skinner, has set Nov. 8 - election day - as the date for sentencing the two on charges of extorting $7,000 from a Natick contractor for LaRaia's campaign "war chest", in exchange for the $1 million Merrymount School addition contract.

The seriousness of the charges is underscored by the penalty they carry: up to 20 years imprisonment and/or a $10,000 fine.

During the trial, there was also testimony of a suggested $75,000 kickback from the same contractor if he bid on the North Quincy High School addition. There were no charges in connection with this, but that testimony is political dynamite too.

There was no evidence during the trial to indicate that Mayor LaRaia had any before-the-fact knowledge of the extortion.

No man can be held personally responsible for the actions of another.

But these two men were appointed by him, and their actions reflect politically on his administration. It now means four men appointed by him in less than two years have been convicted of criminal wrongdoing.

His administration has been tarnished badly.

You would have to look a long way back to find - if you could - another Quincy administration so rocked by scandal.

And that is ironic, too.

As a City Councillor, Mayor LaRaia portrayed the role of crusader in the investigation of cemetery department irregularities in 1974. He produced bold newspaper headlines and rode them into the mayor's office in 1975.

And when he became mayor, he appointed to that very same cemetery department post a man who was under indictment at the time for embezzlement and later convicted of income tax evasion.

The irregularities that produced all those cemetery headlines seem to pale when compared to some of the things that have been going on the past 22 months.

Mayor LaRaia's administration has been a turbulent one to say the least, from the "January Massacre" of 1976 on. There has been little on a positive note, other than an election year downtown development plan and a $2.40 election year tax hike after a $34.90 skyrocket blockbuster last year.

Mayor LaRaia, from the results of the preliminary election, had his work cut out for him trying to overtake Tobin. It seemed he needed a miracle back then.

Last week's extortion convictions are now seen by many political observers as the "crusher". They don't see how he can come out and up from under.

If the pair had been found innocent and cleared, there is little doubt the LaRaia camp would have used that fact to its political advantage. "See," they could have said, "we told you all along there was nothing wrong." Thus the guilty verdicts will be a serious political disadvantage in a mayoral campaign in which the words corruption and creditability are being hotly debated in campaign literature.

The series of one-way articles in that North End newspaper portraying LaRaia as a "reform mayor" being obstructed by just about everyone who criticized or opposed him seem more ridiculous now than when they first appeared.

If anyone has done the LaRaia administration in, it isn't his enemies. It's his friends - a few of them anyway. And he would have to take some of the blame himself because he is the city's chief executive and he never got things going forward.

For Mayor LaRaia last week's convictions are both a personal and political blow. The two men were friends of his. They were his appointees - not any previous administration's.

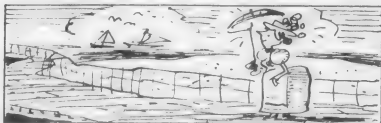

And their convictions are a blow to other friends of theirs.

But the biggest blow of all is to Quincy. A city that has long had a clean image now has a big black eye that may take a long time to go away.

We're not trying to kick someone when he's down. And certainly none of us is perfect. We all certainly have our faults.

There are times when being a newspaperman in the town you grew up in and love becomes difficult because you are writing about people you know and often are friendly with or once were.

This is one of those times.

The first boardwalk in America was in Atlantic City, N.J., and was opened in 1870.

'We Need Campaign Money'

from an article in The Patriot Ledger that Rocheford was the low bidder, which roused his interest since he thought he might be able to get a donation for Mayor LaRaia's re-election campaign.

He called Rocheford from his home at 10 a.m., Nov. 18, and spoke to David Rocheford, president and treasurer of the company. He identified himself as "Herb" and said he'd like to "talk about the thing in Quincy."

They arranged a meeting at the Howard Johnsons Restaurant on Route 138 in Canton, which was chosen as roughly the halfway point between Natick and Quincy. They met about 11 a.m. on the same day.

David Rocheford testified that Reppucci's first words to him after they had introduced themselves was: "I want to be straight with you. We need campaign money."

Reppucci told him that political campaigns are very expensive, that they would need "close to a $75,000 war chest," and, Reppucci testified, "I asked him if he was in a position to help me financially."

David said that his brother, Robert, vice president of the company and a former DPW commissioner in Framingham, was the politician in the family. "He knows how those things go. I'd have to get back to him."

Rocheford testified that Reppucci told him: "If you say 'no,' that doesn't mean you won't get the contract."

The brothers, David, Robert and Irving, met later that day and decided that they would not mind making a small donation to a legitimate political party, if the company was guaranteed the contract.

Robert testified that he called Reppucci at the number given him but Reppucci denied on the stand that such a call was made.

Rocheford said he told Reppucci of the brothers' decision and Reppucci, after commenting that they needed "front money" for the campaign, said he would talk to the commissioner and get back to him.

Robert Rocheford's next call was to the FBI with an offer to cooperate.

Reppucci called Robert Rocheford on Nov. 22 and introduced him to LoCicero over the phone. They discussed the Merrymount job and LoCicero asked Rocheford to hold his bid until Dec. 21 because there was a financial problem with the job.

Reppucci suggested that they meet again at the Howard Johnsons to continue the discussion on Nov. 26.

Reppucci denied being on the phone with LoCicero and Rocheford on Nov. 22. He said the first he knew of the meeting at Howard Johnsons was on Nov. 26 when LoCicero said, "Herb, I've got an appointment with Rocheford company," and asked him to go along.

The FBI tapes of the Nov. 26 meeting were played for the jurors.

LoCicero told Rocheford that he wanted to set the record straight, that Reppucci works in the Mayor's office, and "he's that close."

The Commissioner explained the alternates, what would happen if he exercised them individually or all three. He said the three competing firms were qualified and that it was strictly a matter of exercising the alternates. He said, "I am inclined to take all three."

Reppucci said his job was making friends "for the boss" and help him put on a good campaign. "I think you understand the game and that is why I recommended you to the Commissioner," he said.

Rocheford told him that he wanted a guarantee that his company would get the job.

LoCicero said that he would not have to contribute if he did not get the job. Reppucci said he told him that "nothing would be transacted unless he got the contract, it was signed and he was working."

Rocheford persisted in asking for guarantees but he conceded that LoCicero never gave him a guarantee in so many words.

Reppucci told Rocheford that he and LoCicero "may recommend certain individuals" for jobs with the company and Rocheford responded by saying he'd hire them "but if he turns out to be a stiff, he's gone."

"My mind is made up as of now," said LoCicero.

"Thank you," said Rocheford. "We can always use new work around Christmas."

"This will put turkey on everybody's table," said Reppucci.

In his testimony, LoCicero said that what he meant by his mind being made up was that he had decided the low bidder would get the contract.

"I'm not a holdup artist," Reppucci told Rocheford. "I want you to make a buck. I don't want to ask for too much."

"Any money I give you will be in cash," said Rocheford.

"Definitely," said LoCicero. "You're smart enough to know that."

"We have to build up the boss' war chest," said Reppucci.

Reppucci told Rocheford that only the day before they had purchased 81 turkeys, that they were going to feed 138 people, that campaigns cost money.

"You've got to do it even though you don't want to do it," he said.

During the conversation, LoCicero told Rocheford: "I have nothing to do with this. It's on a one-to-one basis." And Reppucci said of LoCicero: "This man knows nothing, hears nothing."

LoCicero went to the men's room and Rocheford asked Reppucci how much he wanted. Reppucci suggested that he name the amount. Rocheford suggested $5,000.

"I was thinking of 7 per cent," said Reppucci.

Rocheford asked how much that was.

"Seven grand," said Reppucci.

"Done!" said Robert Rocheford.

"I felt good, like I was 10 feet tall," Reppucci testified. Throughout his testimony, Reppucci constantly belittled himself as a "gopher", a hanger-on who goes for coffee, cigarettes, etc. He said he felt a $7,000 campaign donation would "make me look big in the eyes of the Mayor."

Reppucci told him that the money "is going to be washed but it won't be in our fund until I see you start work."

And he added: "If anything goes wrong we can make it so f--- miserable for you guys..."

"I understand," said Rocheford.

LoCicero came back to the table and they talked about the North Quincy High School addition, a $16 million job that was going out to bid. Rocheford was reluctant to bid on a job that size.

"Take a look at it," Reppucci urged him. "You may like it."

Robert Rocheford quoted Reppucci as telling him that if the company bid the North Quincy job to put the rest of the "war chest" in the bid. He mentioned a figure of $75,000.

They talked about Quincy politics. Reppucci told of how LaRaia won the election on a recount after "they stole blocks of votes from us." He said they had to "put guards on the cops" who were watching the ballots because the Police Chief had contributed to the other side.

Reppucci weighed LaRaia's chances for re-election.

"Things look so good that I don't think they will be able to put anyone up against him," he said. "I anticipate we will be in there another six years before it is over with."

Reppucci told Rocheford, a bachelor, that after he was "on board we will introduce you to the boys." He added jokingly that Rocheford would not have to bring his girl to Quincy because "we'll find you one there."

On Dec. 6, Reppucci testified, he handed his resignation as assistant director of RSVP to Robert Tweedy, director of the Council on Aging. He said "the job just got to me" because there were so many things he wanted to do for senior citizens but was prevented from doing them.

The FBI taped a telephone call between LoCicero and

Other Building Jobs Discussed

Reppucci and Robert Rocheford on Dec. 21 in which Rocheford was told that they had a letter of intent for him on the Merrymount job, that Reppucci would deliver it and he would have to have a receipt.

The letter said Reppucci, is "as good as money in the bank."

Reppucci and Rocheford arranged to meet for lunch at the Howard Johnson in Canton at noon, Dec. 23.

The first thing Reppucci noticed about him was that Rocheford was on crutches, the result of a fall. He helped him to their table. Rocheford was happy because the company had just received a $1 million contract in Wayland.

"Gee," said Reppucci, "you got this job too."

Rocheford told him that he had the money with him and Reppucci responded: "Beautiful. Beautiful." Reppucci said he had the letter of intent.

Rocheford asked him if he wanted the money now but Reppucci said it would be all right to give it to him on the way out. Nevertheless, Rocheford gave him the envelope and Reppucci, without opening it, put it in his pocket.

Reppucci told Rocheford that there would be other construction jobs coming up in Quincy. He mentioned a proposed addition to the Hospital and a PUD [Planned Unit Development] project. Rocheford was interested.

"I almost had the Mayor with me," Reppucci noted in passing. "I left him off just a few minutes ago."

Reppucci explained on the stand that he had taken the Mayor Christmas shopping for a present for his secretary that morning. They bought a desk set at Barkers and Reppucci asked him to lunch but the Mayor had other things to do.

There was no testimony indicating that Mayor LaRaia had any knowledge of what Reppucci and LoCicero were doing.

Rocheford said that all the staff his company planned to send into the Merrymount job was a superintendent and a labor foreman. He said he'd hire local people and asked if he should check with Reppucci or LoCicero.

"Either," said Reppucci. "We have to take care of our friends."

Rocheford said that he would put the Quincy people to work but he added that if they did not do a good job he would let them go.

"Absolutely," said Reppucci.

Reppucci suggested a name which he wrote on the back of his business card. He asked Rocheford about a second man but Rocheford said that the man's trade came under a subcontractor.

"I could influence my subs," he added.

Rocheford asked Reppucci how he planned to "wash" the money and Reppucci answered: "It'll be washed legitimately. Don't worry. You made us happy and I think you're happy, too."

Reppucci left the restaurant. As he was about to put the key in the door, he was suddenly surrounded by cars. Men jumped out of the cars.

"I was shocked," said Reppucci. "I thought I was going to be mugged."

The men, who were FBI agents, had him put his hands on the top of the car. They frisked him. One of them took the envelope with the money from his pocket. Then they handcuffed him and took him to Boston.

At about the same time, LoCicero was notified by radio from his office that there were some men there to see him. He went to the office and was placed under arrest. He was taken to Boston without handcuffs.

LoCicero gave the FBI a statement but when it was written out he refused to sign it until he had talked with an attorney. He made the call and the attorney told him not to sign.

"I took his advice," said LoCicero.

LoCicero was driven back to his Sea St. office by the FBI after arraignment. The agents, armed with a search warrant, searched his office. Then they thanked him and Special Agent William Long wished him a "Merry Christmas."

"What a Christmas!" said LoCicero on the stand.

The first question put to Reppucci on cross examination by Asst. U.S. Atty. Alan D. Rose was:

"Mr. Reppucci, how do you wash $7,000?"

Reppucci said he had planned to take the cash to a Quincy bank and get a check. He said the term "wash" was just an expression he had learned from the Watergate investigation, a common political phrase.

"I thought I was being a big shot," he said.

He agreed that he may have told Rocheford that if his company had gotten the North Quincy job, "I kind of figure my war chest would be complete. If he wanted to give me more I would accept it. But if the guy gave me $75,000 I would have died right there."

He said the phrase "complete my war chest" was "just talk."

LoCicero explained that some of his words on the tapes that appeared to be damaging were simply taken out of context, that there were several conversations going on at the same time and what he said in one sometimes appeared to be in another.

Once he referred to a transcript of the tapes as "a jumble," and when Rose jumped on the word, LoCicero complained:

"The only one who was talking business was myself. It appears from this transcript that I was talking to myself."

John Quinn Cited By Blue Cross

City Councillor John J. Quinn of 86 Grandview Ave., Quincy, was cited for 25 years of employee service by Blue Cross of Massachusetts at the recent 40th anniversary observance of the health care organization.

Quinn, a senior representative in the Brockton Eastern Regional office who joined Blue Cross in October, 1952, was commended by Blue Cross President Arthur G. Carty.

"The success that Blue Cross has achieved since its founding in 1937, is due primarily to the continued dedication of its employees," Carty said. "A recognized commitment to public service has enabled Blue Cross to become what it always will be, an integral part of the Massachusetts health care delivery system."

Established in Massachusetts as the nation's first prepaid, non-profit hospital care plan, Blue Cross was officially adopted as a national symbol in 1938. From a first year membership of 10,000, the Massachusetts plan now enrolls more than three million subscribers and paid nearly $600 million in member benefits last year.

Marking the anniversary year, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts have launched a state-wide health education campaign, "Health thyself."

This is the 20th in a series of articles written
By Rep. MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY

The legislature has recently discussed a number of important pieces of legislation. The most important is the Supplemental Budget which is now in the Senate. The budget includes the pay raises for state employees. The abortion question attached in the House, has not been removed by the Senate. The two branches have not been able to agree on the same budget. A conference committee, made up of members of the House and Senate will soon sit down and work out a compromise.

The legislature recently gave initial approval to a revised Blue Laws. The compromise legislation will enable stores to be open on four [4] Sundays between Thanksgiving and Christmas. A local option amendment and complete repeal amendment were defeated by the House.

The House also gave approval to a tax rebate for the State's Home Base Life Insurance Companies. It has been estimated that the insurance companies will get a $200 million tax break over the next ten [10] years. In return the insurance companies have promised to loan $100 million to help set up and administer a Capital Resource Company, which will provide additional monies to Massachusetts industry. Some members of the legislature have been fighting for increased local aid to the homeowner and taxpayer. I do not think it was the right time to grant a $200 million tax break to insurance companies and not provide more aid to local cities and towns.

The Massachusetts House recently voted down legislation that would have prohibited discrimination against homosexuals in civil service employment. After three [3] days of debate gay rights was turned down by a close vote.

Major issues that have still not been resolved are Judicial Reform [Cox Commission] Ethics Committee recommendations and financial disclosure.

If I can be of assistance, I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or in the State House by calling 727-7035. My district office, 69 Billings Road, Quincy is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and Wednesday evenings 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Morrissey Wants 3-Year Trial Period

House Approves Retail Store Openings On 4 Holiday Sundays

The State House of Representatives has given approval to a compromise repeal of the Sunday Blue Laws, to allow retail stores to be open four Sundays between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

There had been attempts to completely repeal the Blue Laws and there was even an amendment for local option, but all of these failed, Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] reports.

Morrissey tried to add an amendment that would have allowed for a three year trial period of the four Sunday openings.

"The repeal of the Blue Laws could cause employee-employer problems. There could be increased trucking and traffic in areas that are mixed residential and retail areas. My amendment called for a three-year trial period, and at the end of three years the Legislature could examine the good and the bad points of the law."

The Retail Clerks Union of the South Shore, in a letter to the House Chairman on commerce and labor, asked that the committee include provisions for employees to receive premium pay and also asked for a trial period.

Morrissey also agreed with the Clerks Union in that Sunday openings could lead to higher prices for the consumer. The operating expense of a business would be increased by one-seventh, he said.

A three-year trial period would have allowed the Legislature to look at this aspect of Sunday openings, said Morrissey. The amendment failed and the House sent the Blue Laws to the Senate.

Brett Suggests 'Traveling' Polling Place For Seniors

Joseph E. Brett suggests that if senior citizens can't get to the polling places on Election Day perhaps the polling places ought to come to them.

"Such a plan would be of great advantage to many of the seniors who find it physically difficult to travel to a polling place," said Brett, a candidate for an at-large seat on the City Council.

"Perhaps some sort of a traveling van system with specific hours assigned to each apartment complex would be a reasonable solution."

Brett said that some other communities in the greater Boston area provide such facilities for seniors.

McCauley Protests Regional Post Office

Francis X. McCauley, candidate for City Councillor at-Large, has written to Boston Postmaster Philip Sullivan, protesting the post office department's plans to cut back postal service in Quincy by constructing a regional post office in Braintree.

McCauley pointed out that the reduction of postal services in Quincy would create a hardship for businesses and individuals, particularly senior citizens, many of whom pick up their monthly social security checks at the post office.

McCauley strongly urged Sullivan to abandon the regionalization plan.

Musical units entered by Bay State high schools will be competing for the Massachusetts High School Marching Band Championship. One of the bands from this state or one of the other New England states taking part in the parade will be selected as the area's representative to go to the Cotton Bowl in 1979.

Richard Venna, chairman of the floats division of the committee, is still accepting entries and expects the number will exceed that of last year. All entrants are asked to conform to this year's parade theme of "Christmas is Love".

Condon Urges Students To Participate In Community

Stressing the importance of involvement while addressing the senior class at North Quincy High School recently, Mrs. Joanne Condon, candidate for Ward 6 Councillor, said:

"In a few years, our community will be a reflection of your ideas and efforts. Welcome the opportunity to participate, the rewards are endless, and your involvement will make a difference."

Citing the success of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, which she founded, she said the strength of a neighborhood is determined by the commitment of its residents and the effectiveness of its elected officials.

"Since the ward councillor is closest to the people, he or she must be available and able to involve the residents in decisions affecting the ward," she noted.

She said her work with the Neighborhood Association and in obtaining community development funds for the area demonstrated how she would work as Ward 6 councillor.

"I will always do my homework on all issues, keep the residents of the Ward informed, and involve them, through meetings and communications, in decisions," she said.

Her experience in working with city departments will enable her to act as a liaison between residents and departments to solve problems, she noted. The need to continually improve the communication between resident and city departments was stressed.

Mrs. Condon emphasized the rewards of involvement, the need for positive citizen action, and the need to strengthen the confidence of residents in the city.

Collins Suggests Full Job Description Be Published

At a coffee hour held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ormon, of Chickatabot Rd., Merrymount, Mrs. Mary Collins, candidate for School Committee, suggested complete job descriptions for main office administrative personnel be published.

"These individuals, who are outside the Quincy Education Association, bargain directly with the school committee," she said, "and while I am not criticizing them or the jobs they are doing, I feel that the taxpayers are entitled to full knowledge of what they are doing to earn their substantial salaries.

"I also feel that, as a school committee member, I would have an obligation to take a hard look at future negotiations on these positions."

Council Refuses $1 Appropriation

City Hall Addition May Not Be So Free

That free City Hall addition is turning out to be not so free after all.

The addition is scheduled to be built in back of the 133-year-old City Hall with a Federal grant of $2.4 million.

But Monday night, Planning Director L. Norman Lundin and City Treasurer Robert Foy went before the City Council seeking an appropriation of $1 in city funds to get the project started.

Intrigued, the Council learned that the $1 was to be used to open an escrow account so that the city could borrow $100,000 in anticipation of the Federal funds in order to pay vendors for preliminary work.

Interest on the $100,000 could cost the city $500.

The Council also learned that it had apparently given the administration authority to borrow up to $2.4 million in a similar manner when it gave its approval to the request for a grant in the first place.

Councillors finally voted to place the appropriation order on file on motion of Councillor Daniel G. Raymond.

"When the Council was asked to approve the request for a grant," said Raymond, "we were told that not $1 of taxpayers' money would be involved. Now we find that this is not so."

Lundin explained that the Federal government had changed the guidelines on the grant and that he was not aware of the change until he was notified on Sept. 23.

He said the city was required to begin on-site labor within 90 days of the grant but that the first of the federal funds would not be available until 45 days after the start.

It would not be fair to the vendors who had already started work to make them wait until Dec. 15 to get their money, said

Lundin.

Raymond pointed out that if the city started the wheels turning to borrow $100,000 right now, it wouldn't have the money until Dec. 1 at the earliest so all they were arguing over was a matter of 15 days.

In the midst of the debate, Councillor Dennis E. Harrington stirred up a hornet's nest when he noted a letter from Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone apparently blaming the whole thing on Auditor Charles Shea.

"This situation," she wrote, "was obviously brought about by an assumption of immediate federal funding by the Auditor--this aspect of the grant should have been thoroughly reviewed for details prior to his signing of the two contracts which has established a liability on the part of the city."

Shea, of course, could not let that go.

"There was no assumption on my part that federal funds would come down immediately," he snapped at Lundin. "It was a statement by you."

"That's correct," said Lundin. He acknowledged that the assumption of immediate federal funding was made by everyone concerned. He said he did not learn of the delay until Sept. 23.

The two contracts to which Miss Saccone referred turned out to be with Owen Trainor, the architect, and CPI Associates, an architectural management firm. They totalled $370,000 of which some $70,000 was to go into escrow.

Councillor James A. Sheets said he wondered if the contracts were legal--since the city did not have the funds when they were signed. City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams opined, however, that they were legal.

The briefest and perhaps most blunt speaking role in the debate was taken by Councillor Warren A. Powers.

"This is an incredible waste of money," he snorted. "It should have been spent on people things in the wards, like roads and curbs. I voted 'no' on the original resolve. I'm going to vote 'no' on this one."

Nevertheless, the city planned to go ahead with test borings in the parking lot behind City Hall.

And the vendors, apparently, were prepared to wait for their money.

Women's Republican Club To Hear Candidates Friday

The Women's Republican Club of Quincy will hold a meeting and coffee hour Friday, at Wollaston United Methodist Church at 1 p.m.

Speakers will be Francis X. McCauley, a candidate for City Council, School Committeeman Francis Anselmo, and Louis Compton, a candidate for state treasurer.

The coffee hour will begin at 1 p.m. and the meeting at 2 p.m. Members are asked to use the Chapman St. entrance to the church.

ENC Women's Volleyball Team Wins 3 At Homecoming

The ENC Women's Volleyball team hiked its record to 8-4 with victories over King's, Gordon, and Barrington as part of last weekend's Homecoming festivities.

Led by the strong play of 6-3 senior Donna Fandel, the Crusaderettes defeated The King's College 15-9, 15-2, Gordon College 15-10, 15-6, and Barrington College 15-4, 15-11. Sophomores Janet Rånstrom and Cindy Tozzi, and freshmen Sue Bish, Lois Malvesti and Nanette Baumgartner all contributed to the impressive display as ENC dominated every game.

The Crusaderettes traveled to Boston College Tuesday night to take on B.C. and the University of Lowell in a 6-30 match. The next home match is Oct. 27 when ENC hosts Wellesley at 6 p.m.

In other Homecoming action, ENC junior Tim Woodbridge finished 18 seconds in front of his closest competitor to take first place in a four-team meet. Woodbridge has finished first in six of eight meets this year. Overall, Babson finished first with 31 points, followed by ENC [47], New England College [60], and Suffolk [95].

In a game played at O'Rourke Field, Quincy, due to poor field conditions on campus, the ENC soccer team lost to Thomas College 6-3. The game began with two quick ENC goals by Bob Hooper and George Stinson.

The rest of the contest was controlled by a well-disciplined Thomas squad. The Crusaders record now stands at 3-6-1.

Saturday Gym Program Schedule

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces its schedule of the Recreation Department's Saturday morning gym program.

10 a.m.; Junior High boys, 10 a.m. to noon and Senior High boys, 12 noon to 2 p.m.

The following schools will be open for the program beginning Oct. 29:

Atherton Hough, Atlantic Junior High, Beechwood Knoll, Central, Merrymount, Montclair, Point Junior High, Snug Harbor, Squantum, Sterling and Wollaston.

Well Rested Raiders Face Tough Newton N.

Some people have all the luck.

But not, apparently, Coach Dave Burke and his North Quincy football team.

The Raiders haven't seen any action in two weeks and on Saturday have to face tough undefeated Newton North at the latter's field Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

North is well rested, but Burke hopes, not rusted.

Two weeks ago, the Raiders had an open date on their schedule.

Last Saturday they were to take on winless Weymouth South at Weymouth but drainage problems due to the rain forced postponement to Monday.

And on Monday more rain brought on another postponement, this time until Friday, Nov. 18, with the kickoff time to be announced later.

Last week Newton North defeated Quincy 19-14 but if it were not for a few errors, the Presidents might have come up with the biggest upset of the season.

Until last Saturday the Tigers had been scored on only once this season.

Newton North, one of the top Eastern Mass. teams, played in the Super Bowl last year. The Tigers defeated Medford, 12-0; Framingham North, 14-0; Weymouth North, 25-0; Brockton, 25-6, before downing Quincy, 19-14.

The Raiders will have their work cut out for them this week.

Evening Gym Program Schedule

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces its schedule for the Recreation Department's evening gym programs beginning Oct. 24.

Evening programs - Girls, 6 to 9 p.m. and Boys, 6 to 10 p.m.

Atherton Hough, Boys, Tuesday and Thursday, 6 to 10 p.m.; girls, Wednesday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Beechwood Knoll, boys, Thursday and Friday, 6 to 10 p.m.; girls, Tuesday and Wednesday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Lincoln-Hancock, girls, Wednesday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Montclair, boys, Tuesday and Thursday, 6 to 10 p.m.; girls,

Wednesday and Friday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Merrymount, boys, Monday and Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m.; girls, Tuesday and Thursday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Snug Harbor, boys, Monday and Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m.; girls, Tuesday and Thursday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Squamant, boys, Tuesday and Thursday, 6 to 10 p.m.; girls, Monday and Wednesday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Sterling, boys, Monday and Friday, 6 to 10 p.m.

Wollaston, boys, Monday and Friday, 6 to 10 p.m.; girls, Tuesday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Charles Regatta Sunday

The 13th annual Head of the Charles Regatta will be held Sunday with more than 3,000 rowers, many from the Quincy area, competing over the three mile course from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Cambridge Boat Club is sponsoring the event.

Spectators can watch the day-long regatta from almost any point along the course. Six bridges cross the Charles between the starting line at the Boston University Boat House near the B.U. Bridge and the upstream finish line opposite the WBZ-TV tower.

Programs will be available. Each boat in each of the 18 events is listed in the program by number. Most competitors are listed by name and by position of the boat.

The boats will include eights, fours, pairs, doubles and singles, from schools, colleges and clubs. The event is recognized as America's fall rowing festival.

The regatta is the biggest single-day rowing event in the world in terms of numbers.

QUINCY QUARTERBACK Mark Giordani had another good day for the Presidents but it wasn't quite good enough to turn back strong Newton North. [Quincy Sun Photos by Steve Grochowski]

INTERCEPTION LATE IN fourth period just about eliminated Quincy's chance of upsetting undefeated Newton North Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Quincy's Vin Harte [22] and Ron Donovan [86] wait for ball that didn't come down.

Presidents Hope To Rebound Off Malden

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team bowed to Newton North, one of the top clubs in Eastern Mass., last week despite one of its best efforts of the season.

The Presidents hope to rebound from two straight losses to Suburban League powers when they host Malden of the Greater Boston League Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy, following its walloping at Waltham, gave Newton its toughest game in two years but beat itself with fumbles and other mistakes to drop its record to 2-3.

The Presidents were only the second team to score on the Tigers and were the first to score twice as it dropped a hard-fought 19-14 decision at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Malden, Saturday's non-league rival, is a former Greater Boston League opponent of Quincy. This year it defeated Chelsea but lost to Peabody and Revere.

"I was very pleased with our performance today," said Coach Hank Conroy following the Newton game. "I was especially pleased with the way we bounced back after trailing, 13-0, at the half."

"If we had been beaten badly and the boys gave up after dropping behind by two touchdowns, I would have been very disappointed."

"But they didn't die and gave a fine performance. Actually, we beat ourselves with some costly mistakes. After all, this team is undefeated and had been scored upon only once. It played in last year's Super Bowl and has a good chance of going there again."

Conroy came up with a ball carrier to help out workhorse Len Picot and Ralph Pickering ran well as did Dave Eastwick, who recently was moved from the line on offense.

"They all ran well and Mark Giordani did another good job at quarterback," the veteran coach said. "And Ron Donovan made some great catches of Giordani's passes. He had been hurt and his return enhances our offense."

In the offensive line, Conroy singled out Vin Harte, who did some outstanding blocking, Kevin Zambruno and Pete Cassidy.

Conroy also had praise for Jim Maze, who played his best game of the year; Pickering, Harte and Don Heath for their performances on defense.

"The defense was outstanding and it was the offense which gave Newton its touchdowns," Conroy added.

A Quincy fumble midway in the first period led to Newton's first touchdown, Eric Dimartino recovering for the Tigers on Quincy's 38. Charles who did the bulk of the running from his quarterback slot, scored from the one and Dallas Morgan kicked the point.

Midway through the second period, Picot was back to punt on his own 10 when the pass from center went over his head and into the end zone. Instead of falling on the ball and giving up two points, Picot tried to kick, the ball was knocked loose and Tom Parker recovered for a touchdown. The try for point failed.

Quincy came out roaring in the second half and drove 89 yards for a touchdown following the kickoff. The Presidents clicked off seven first downs as the line blocked well enabling the backs to pick up consistent yardage.

An 18-yard run by Giordani started the march and it was climaxed by Giordani's pass to Donovan in the end zone from the 12. Maze kicked the point. In the second period, Donovan had made two fine catches of Giordani passes, one for 34 yards, the second for 27.

A few plays after the first Quincy score a penalty set Newton back to its 15 and Chris Flaherty, trying to punt on third down, had the kick blocked and Quincy's Mark Assad recovered in the end zone. Maze's kick put Quincy ahead, 14-13.

Late in the third period a short Quincy punt gave Newton the ball on its own 49. Sophomore Gary Frechette raced 34 yards around the left side to Quincy's 17. On the third play of the final period, Frechette scored from the three. The try for a two-point conversion failed.

A few minutes later, Newton's Flaherty punted to Quincy's 40, but Quincy was penalized for roughing the kicker and Newton had the ball back. Flaherty's next punt carried to Quincy's 14 and the Presidents were unable to do much, despite four Newton penalties for 65 yards. Giordani did complete his fourth pass to Donovan for 24 yards.

Newton out-rushed Quincy, 243 net yards to 106, but Quincy had 110 yards passing on seven for 12, while Newton gained just 12 on one for seven. Quincy had 12 first downs to seven for Newton.

'Identicar': Giving Your Car Anti-Theft Fingerprints

The Quincy Independent Insurance Agents Association will sponsor an "Identicar Day" Saturday, Nov. 5, at the Acme Glass Co., 636 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Identicar, developed in Australia, is a system of engraving a computer-coded identification mark into every window of an automobile. The mark cannot be removed or altered.

Since replacement of all the windows in the average car costs about $1,000, it is economically unfeasible for a car thief to steal an auto marked with Identicar for resale.

"The code is like the vehicle's own set of fingerprints," says Richard Frye, president of the Independent Agents group.

"Once the system is in place, the vehicle can always be traced. When the vehicle is sold or otherwise legally transferred, the code is assigned to the new owner upon proof of transfer of title."

Developers of Identicar report that since the system was installed in Australia nine years ago not a single car bearing the identification mark has been stolen.

It was introduced to the United States early this year and some 5,000 cars in New England have been processed. None of them has been reported stolen.

The code consists of a series of five small letters with each vehicle assigned its unique mark.

ANTI-THEFT DEVICE — Jim Tucceri, an installer at the Acme Glass Service Center, engraves an Identicar code on a vehicle. Markings cannot be altered or removed, an almost unbeatable foil for potential auto thieves.

Identicar Corp. maintains a national registry of all codes and owners at its headquarters in Watertown and the information is made available to law enforcement agencies throughout the country.

Normally, the engraving costs the car owner $29.95 but there will be a $10 discount on Identicar Day.

Once the car has been marked, the vehicle is then eligible for a discount on the comprehensive insurance policy amounting to about $10 a year, with the amount varying from company to company.

'Collecting Bad Debts' Seminar At Chamber

"Collecting Bad Debts," a seminar for the small businessperson, will be held at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Thursday, Oct. 27, from 10 a.m. to noon.

The Business Information Center (BIC) at the Chamber has been assisting small businesspersons on the South Shore since August. An area of concern which has become increasingly apparent is poor debt management.

"For the small business which extends credit, the ability to collect accounts may spell the difference between the success and failure of the firm," says BIC Director Donald Rielly.

"Experience shows that unless the firm extending credit is continually alert to the danger of slow accounts, its owner may find himself in a hopeless situation before he even realizes something is wrong."

Rielly, who has owned and operated a small business, feels the seminar will be of immediate value to small business owners on the South Shore. "It's just amazing how many come to me for advice who have no idea of where their books stand," he said.

The two-hour session will cover, among other areas: Credit and Collection methods; Collecting Overdue Accounts; Cash Flow, and Credit - Who? How Much?

Participants will include Robert P. Murray of N.E. Telephone and Telegraph Co.; Michael Howley, credit manager for Dunkin Donuts, Inc.; and Paul Sulla, a partner in the Quincy law firm of Flavin, Corcoran, Davis and Sulla.

Reservations can be made through the Chamber office, 479-1111.

Illegal Dumping

is $1,676,000."

He recommended:

"That a formula be set up on the basis of dumpster pick-ups for each firm. Each firm be allowed a certain number of trips to the disposal each year based on those pickups. If a firm has the entitlement to 350 loads, they have 350 tickets, each good for one trip. When the tickets are gone, no other admissions to the disposal area are allowed to that firm."

"It seems that the dumping fees at Quincy are much too low. These should be increased to the average of the major commercial disposals in the area."

"All those in Quincy who permanently own roll-offs [businesses] must register these with the city at the beginning of each year. Disposal firms should be required to monthly register with the commissioner of Public Works office all the temporary locations for the previous month and number of times each was picked up."

"The above should be written into the City Ordinance. This would require specific legislation since the City Council does not now have the power."

"General legislation should be passed requiring disposal firms to keep regular and precise records of the number of loads picked up and the location where these loads are."

Kelly Proposes, Crowley Opposes Presidential Walk

A "Presidential Walk" which would provide a strip of parkland between the Adams Birthplaces on Franklin St. and the Adams Mansion on Adams St., has been proposed by Ward 1 City Councilor Leo J. Kelly.

The walk, made up of rest areas and greenery would be tied to the construction of the Upland Rd extension and would connect to Freedom Park creating a green belt across one end of Quincy Center.

Kelly said many of the historic sites of the area would be easily accessible from the walkway which would cross the MBTA tracks at several points.

In response to Kelly's proposal, David Crowley, Kelly's opponent for the Ward 1 Council seat called it an "asinine idea" when "government costs for necessities and the tax rate are growing out of sight and when the City of Quincy can't afford to even maintain the presidential birthplaces."

DON'T FORGET LAST YEAR'S TAX RAISE WHEN YOU VOTE FOR NEXT YEAR'S MAYOR.

Right now, take $35 out of your wallet and think about last year's tax raise. Multiply that $35 by the valuation of your house and think about how that money was spent.

Think about how things were so poorly managed that even though you paid higher taxes, many city services — like rubbish collection — got worse.

Think about how the present mayor appointed out-of-town political friends to high paid City jobs.

And think about his $2.6 million misrepresentation of the cost of North Quincy High.

Now put your money back in your pocket and think about Arthur Tobin — the man who opposed the big $35 tax hike from the very beginning.

Think about how he's broadened Quincy's tax base by helping bring in new businesses like Jordan Marsh, State Street South, and Kemper Insurance.

Think about how he brought in jobs and improved programs for our youth and our elderly.

Think about how his plans to eliminate the duplication of services and institute Zero Base Budgeting can save Quincy hundreds of thousands of dollars every year.

And when you go to vote, think about your wallet and that outrageous $35 tax raise. Then vote Arthur Tobin for mayor:

So you don't forget, cut this out and take it with you when you vote.

Possible Court Action

Anderson Refuses To Open Top Floor Of Parking Garage

The possibility of legal action has been raised following an engineer's report that a damaged spandrel on the Ross Parking Garage may have been improperly connected to the garage roof.

The spandrel, a large slab of precast concrete, was knocked from the roof shortly before midnight Sept. 22 when a car, traveling at an estimated 35 miles an hour, crashed into it.

The report by Zaldastani Associates, Inc., consulting engineers, said, however, that even if properly installed the spandrel connections probably could not have resisted the force of the speeding car.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson forwarded the report to City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams for review and "possible legal action" against those involved in the 1972 construction of the garage.

Anderson also asked Williams to pay close attention to a statement in the report that Fire Prevention Regulations were violated by failure to provide a railing around the garage perimeter.

Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald declined to comment until he had a chance to read the report.

He did point out, however, that "we had a registered architect, a registered engineer and an independent testing laboratory that watched over the precasting and stamped all the pieces. It was put together like an erector set."

"I did everything I think that I should have done," said MacDonald.

Meanwhile, Anderson said that he intends to keep the top floor of the garage closed in spite of an appeal by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce that its 120 parking spaces be opened for holiday shoppers.

The Zaldastani Report contended that "several of the half inch diameter bolts intended to connect the spandrel to the garage roof deck were either not connected or only partially effective."

The codes applicable to the project in 1972 were the Quincy Building Code, the Massachusetts State Building Code and the Department of Public Safety Fire Prevention Regulations.

Neither the Quincy nor the Massachusetts Building Codes, however, specified load requirements for railings or parapets in parking garages. Fire regulations referred only to the need for curbs and railings.

The Boston Building Code, which was not legally applicable but could be used as a standard, specified that a spandrel should be able to resist a force of 2,500 pounds applied 21 inches above the floor.

"We have estimated," said the Report, "that a 4,000-pound automobile traveling at a speed of about 35 mph on impact with the spandrel may have been stopped within about a tenth of a second."

"In such circumstance, an average force of over 60,000 pounds would have been acting

LaRaia-Tobin Debate Set For Nov. 1

Bitter mayoral rivals incumbent Joseph LaRaia and challenger Arthur Tobin will clash Nov. 1 in what may be the most heated political debate in Quincy's history.

Mayor LaRaia, whom most political observers feel is trailing far behind Senator Tobin as the mayoral campaign heads toward the Nov. 8 home stretch, issued the debate challenge. Tobin accepted.

The face-to-face meeting between the pair has been set for Tuesday, Nov. 1, from 11 a.m. to 12 noon in a studio at radio station WIDA.

In view of the nature and heat of the charges that have been hurled during the campaign, the debate could prove to be the most attractive offering of the year over WIDA, which plans to broadcast the confrontation live, if possible.

LaRaia, fighting to overcome a 12,216 to 7,411 margin rolled up by Tobin in the preliminary election in September, issued the challenge to debate last Friday.

He specified at first that he wished to debate only the issue of his $34.90 tax rate hike of 1976-77, which the Mayor blames on the administration of his predecessor, Walter J. Hannon.

Tobin, who has been hitting hard at the $34.90 boost as unnecessary, claiming he could

Lydon Ward 3 Survey Shows

Quincy Seen As 'Hold-The-Line City'

By TOM HENSHAW

Most people who live in Quincy consider the City of Presidents to be a "hold-the-line" city, neither progressive nor regressive in community attitudes.

Their biggest concerns, broadly speaking, involve employment opportunities and a lack of citizen access to a government which really doesn't respond to them anyway.

And the most adequate service rendered to the citizens of Quincy by their government is fire control while the least adequate is control of pets.

Those are the results of a survey taken last summer by the UMass Cooperative Extension Service in Quincy's Ward 3 and announced this week by City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr.

Some 1,426 questionnaires were mailed on a random selective basis throughout the ward asking those surveyed to rate city services as adequate, barely adequate or inadequate. A total of 447 responded.

Lydon said he felt that the response from Ward 3, which stretches from the Neponset River in North Quincy right down to Quincy Center, would be typical of the city as a whole.

The Councilor for Ward 3 said the most significant response was the No. 4 position given to "employment opportunities" in the inadequate column.

Combined with No. 14, job training and retraining, and No. 15, economic development

Air Station.

Mayor Joseph LaRaia will receive the wreath on behalf of the city and Rev. Keith C. Munson will accept and place the wreath on the tomb of the second president on behalf of the church.

William O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society, will describe artifacts and memorabilia that belonged to John Adams that will be displayed at the Church.

Thomas S. Burgin, mayor of Quincy from 1935-1942 and from 1950-1951, and lifelong member of the church, will speak.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site, will also participate in the ceremonies.

The wreath will be escorted to the crypt by chairman of the Governing Board of the church, William Edwards.

The public is invited to the ceremonies.

More Complaints Of Political Signs In Residential Areas

Candidates for public office are still placing political signs illegally in residential zones and Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald wants it stopped immediately.

In a joint statement issued Monday, they said:

"Both the Police Department and the Building Department are still receiving complaints regarding illegal political signs."

"Whereas there are only two weeks until election day, we urge all candidates and citizens to uphold the law."

"It is a violation of the zoning ordinance to erect any political sign in a residential area."

"All violators will be held accountable."

South Division United Way Campaign At 18.9% Mark

The south division in the United Way of Mass. Bay Campaign, which comprises 20 communities including Quincy and 20 towns south of Boston and 187 employee groups, has raised $73,821 for 18.9 percent of goal of $390,000.

Reporting for the south division at the second luncheon meeting of the United Way at the Aquarium was Francis J. Mitchell, administrative vice president Quincy Cooperative Bank.

Mitchell, who reported to campaign general chairman Herb Roth, Jr., said "We on the South Shore have to push to reach the goal. The money is there and we'll get it."

Roth told more than 500 volunteers that the campaign has reached 49.1 percent of its $18,600,000 goal for a total of $9,120,764.

"We've reached the halfway mark for the '77 campaign," he said, "but in no way does our progress indicate a halfway effort. The returns to date are the result of 100 percent effort on the part of every volunteer at every level of the campaign organization."

'Rally' Planned At Shipyard Over Recall Procedures

By PETER BARNICLE

An ad hoc committee of some 60 to 70, unhappy over recall procedures at General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard following the recently settled three month strike, plans to hold a demonstration rally today [Thursday] outside the firm's main gate.

Stanley Kyller, president of Shipbuilders Local 5, told The Quincy Sun the rally "does not have the sanction of the union." "I can't say who they are," he commented. "At Local 5 we are quite capable of running our own affairs. We speak for our people in official releases which come from Local 5."

He said there have been instances where union workers in a department have not been recalled on a seniority basis. He said that in such cases the problem was referred to a grievance committee.

"The workers are happy with the contract, but they are not too sure that the recall procedures are being approved," Kyller said.

Alex Piranian, General Dynamics spokesman, said he thought the people involved are "a splinter group - some of them may have worked here."

He pointed out that GD has 2,400 employees back on the job and the company hopes to have the full complement of workers back to meet production schedules in the near future. He was unable, however, to give a date.

Early this week members of the ad hoc committee appeared outside the gates of the shipyard, distributing flyers written in both English and Spanish.

The flyers called attention to the rally and also called on GD to "rehire all laid-off workers." In bold type it demanded the company "Kick the Scabs Out," saying "unqualified scabs raised as mechanics put everyone's life in danger."

A young woman handing out the flyers at one gate declined to give her name but readily admitted she was a member of the group sponsoring the rally. She said they were just "some people who got together" and denied there was any organization. She also said that prior to the strike she had worked at the yard as a welder for three months.

"When I went to the union, they told me I ought to look for another job," she said.

Efforts to contact members of the committee who gave telephone numbers, but no names, proved futile.

New Yoga Classes To Start At YMCA Nov. 2

More and more people are becoming interested in Yoga as a way to relieve stress, according to Mrs. Berta Nota who has been teaching the technique of relaxation for the past 10 years.

The alternate stretch and relaxation relieves tension deep down in joints and muscles, she explained. It is a form of exercise which anybody can learn, and since there is no competition involved, each student can work to his or her own capacity.

Mrs. Nota said she became interested in Yoga a decade ago and continued the classes because she found it did wonders for her general well-being.

She will begin a new series of classes at the Quincy YMCA on Nov. 2. There will be two eight week courses to be held at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Wednesday for beginners and advanced students. There will also be a Yoga teacher's certification clinic to be held at the YMCA Nov. 11-13. Instructors from all parts of New England are expected to attend.

RELAXATION through Yoga is taught by Mrs. Berta Nota [center] to Barbara Koelsch [left] assuming a pose of tranquility, while Virginia Rose moves in twist position.

Further information can be obtained from the Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St., or by telephoning 479-8500.

FAT CAN BE FATAL

You are what you eat. Poor eating habits cause obesity, which is not only embarrassing, but dangerous. Obesity may cause high cholesterol and high blood pressure - major causes of heart attack. A proper diet can save your life.

Obesity is a national epidemic. Here are some "Fat Facts" to show what I mean: Americans spend $10 billion a year trying to control their weight. 3 out of every 10 Americans are at least 20% overweight. [A person who is more than 15% overweight is obese.] 10% of men in their 20's are overweight. 35% of men in their 50's are overweight. 25% of women in their 20's are overweight. 45% of women in their 50's are overweight. Excess fats put a strain on your body. The heart and circulatory system suffer the most from excess fats. High cholesterol levels may be accompanied by high blood pressure. In combination, these risk factors may set the stage for heart attack earlier in life.

Styles of engagement and wedding rings in America have changed periodically. In Colonial days the cluster ring was the most popular one for engagement. It consisted of small rose-cut diamonds encircling a large center gem. Hoop-rings - those with small diamonds all around the bands - were also common then. Rings became very elaborate in the Victorian era - yellow gold with ornate enamel decorations. The princess ring, imported from England, came into vogue at around this time. Three to five larger diamonds in a row on the top of the band composed this style. At the end of the 19th century, the simple solitaire, a single diamond set in prongs, brought attention back to the gem itself, instead of focusing on the setting.

When you're ready to select an engagement ring or wedding band, let our friendly people at GRONO & CHRISTIE INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490 help you. If you are not familiar with jewelry, you can have confidence in the quality of the items we handle. Our staff is personally concerned with each customer and want to be sure you make the right purchase. Hours: 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Mon. thru Sat.

HELPFUL HINT
The plain wide gold band was the most frequently used wedding ring until this century, when it ceded first place to a narrower type.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

Bring some of your garden plants indoors for unusual houseplants. A strawberry jar with side pockets makes a lovely home for semperviviums [hen-and-chickens]. Or use a flat container in an unusual shape - these lovely rosettes will thrive all winter in a dry spot with a minimum of water. Two evergreen garden beauties that will adapt to houseplants are Baltic Ivy and Japanese Spurge [Pachysandra]. They're both hardy with attractive foliage. Plant stems in moist vermiculite and by spring you will have extra plants for your outdoor garden. It is easy to enjoy the same plants for all seasons by transforming their environment - try it and see.

Senate Opposes Proposed Central Mail Facility

Senator Arthur H. Tobin announces the Massachusetts Senate had adopted a resolution in support of the postal workers in Massachusetts, and in opposition to the proposed centralization of mail sorting facilities.

The plans to relocate central mail services in Braintree, and to eliminate many customer services in the Quincy, Braintree, Milton and Weymouth post offices is ill-conceived, Tobin stated.

"The resolution adopted by the Massachusetts Senate today cites, among other factors, the additional million miles a year which will be driven by the mail carriers in Jeeps which average five miles per gallon of gas," Tobin explained.

"These plans - begun 10 years ago - are ludicrous now in view of our efforts in the Northeast to conserve energy and fuel."

"Centralization will end up costing the postal customer more money - not less."

Abassador Ryan To Discuss U.S.-Latin American Relations

Ambassador Hewson Ryan will speak on "Tensions and Promises of United States Latin American Relations" Thursday, Nov. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Presidents, Quincy. The meeting will be the second in the series sponsored this season by the United Nations Council of the South Shore.

Ambassador Ryan has been spending the last two weeks of October in Santiago, Chile as a consultant to the United Nations, advising on the restructuring of the U.N. Economic Commission for Latin America. He is a retired Career Minister of our Foreign Service, who before his retirement was Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs and Ambassador to Honduras. At present he teaches courses in Public Diplomacy and Inter-American Affairs at the Fletcher School, Tufts, and is Associate Director of the Fletcher Fulbright Fellows Program. His Foreign Service Inspection Assignments have taken him all over the world, and he has been a guest lecturer at the Council on Foreign Relations, Harvard Center for International Affairs, etc. He has also received many awards for his superior service and efficiency.

At this time, U.S. Latin American relations are in the news because of the Panama Canal Treaty, but there are other reasons for tension. Among them the emphasis on Human Rights by the Carter Administration and the needs of the least developed countries; some of which are in Latin America. The meeting ends with a question period, and is open to the public, admission free.

Before the meeting there will be a catered dinner at 6:30 p.m. For reservations and information about the charge, call either Miss Eleanor Brown (773-1817) or Mrs. Viola Ellis (773-5019) before Nov. 7. There is a reduced price for students.

A Cheap Shot, Mr. Mayor

There is a new low in Quincy politics being practiced by Mayor Joseph LaRaia, using the emotional issue of Senior Citizen Housing as an election issue. He knows that over 3,000 applicants are waiting for Senior Citizen Housing, and he knows that these 3,000-plus have families who vote.

I despise the cheap shot tactics of Mayor LaRaia in his recent flyer as it pertains to the Quincy Housing Authority. The Mayor knows that vacancies in Senior Citizen Housing only occur when our elderly can no longer inhabit their apartments. There are about 50 vacancies per year in State and Federal Senior Citizen Housing. Some of these are filled on an emergency basis (fire, eviction, physical handicap, etc.) With over 2,950 disappointed and needy applicants and their families, Mayor LaRaia is making their need for housing a sham.

What a sad state of affairs when a candidate for Mayor plays on the emotions of the elderly and their families because of the lack of public housing. What a sad way to run a campaign.

The Mayor, or at least his legal advisors, should know that H.U.D. regulations state that residency in any city is NOT a qualifying element for eligibility (court case -- Cole vs. Newport, Rhode Island Housing Authority.)

The Mayor stated in his flyer that the Q.H.A. refuses to make the waiting list available. Again, he or his legal advisors, should know that this is a violation of the Privacy Law. In his referral to the court case pending he, to this minute, to my knowledge, has not filed his pleadings in the appeal. He also knows that any individual, at any time, can go to the Q.H.A. office and see where his or her own name is on the list. The Q.H.A. does not intend to violate the Privacy Law by making it public. As Chairman of the Q.H.A., I sincerely believe that the Q.H.A. has and is working and operating within the guidelines of the Department of Community Affairs of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the Housing and Urban Development Department of the Federal Government, as they pertain to Quincy Public Housing.

As for the Mayor's statement in his flyer that he would "eliminate political influence in the Q.H.A." -- I was personally approached and contacted by Mr. Herb Reppucci who claimed to be a personal representative of Mayor LaRaia to talk to me as a Q.H.A. Commissioner "on behalf of the boss, the Mayor" -- "to get our fair share of people in public housing." And Mr. Reppucci has, in fact, delivered lists of people to the Q.H.A. offices to be assigned apartments on behalf of the Mayor.

I have been a resident of this City all my life and active in its concerns and elections, and never have I seen a Mayor try to capture votes using the plight of the elderly as a vehicle to City Hall.

7 QHS Seniors Receive Commended Status

Principal Lloyd M. Creighton announces seven senior students at Quincy High School have achieved commended student status in the 1978 National Merit Scholarship Program.

This honor is the result of each student's outstanding performance on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) which was administered nationwide to high school juniors in October, 1976. Letters of Commendation were presented to:

Linda J. Alpert, Constance Chamberlain, Laurence Darmiento, Christopher DeFazio, Mitchell Finnegan, Brian J. Jolley and Christopher M. McHugh.

Approximately 35,000 commended students throughout the United States are being honored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) which administers the yearly scholarship competition. Students in this group represent less than two percent of the total of graduating United States secondary school seniors.

A WEEKLY MESSAGE FROM MICHAEL E. FAHERTY, CANDIDATE COUNCILLOR-AT-LARGE

"I'm a firm believer in a good thing. I don't believe in tampering with a good thing. History bears witness to the fact that when civilization has attempted to improve on something that WORKS, more often than not that something doesn't work quite as effectively anymore. But I also believe when you DON'T have a good thing going for you then you'd better start looking for one. And one of the key factors in my decision to run for councillor-at-large, was the fact that I DON'T think we've got a good thing going for us in the deliberative bodies of our city government. Maybe the 'pols' that oppose me, in this election were viable fifteen, or ten or even five years ago. I say they aren't today. They say they attracted State Street to build here, which one of them has ever been in the personnel office of State Street South to explore employment opportunities for his constituents? They say they've improved education, and every Tuesday afternoon youngsters are dismissed to educate themselves...on the street. Spending dictates taxes and they voted for that spending...whether they were on the School Committee or the City Council. 16 From Pollard School Visit Quincy Sun

Sixteen students from Grade 5-6, Room 2-3, of the Thomas B. Pollard School, visited The Quincy Sun recently and viewed the workings of a newspaper first hand.

The students were:

Jeanne La Favre, Scott Owens, Kristin Howard, Lucia DeVito, Kevin Cameron, Michelle Dunn, Lee Rosen, Stephen Grazioso, Maria Pucillo, Tracey Cahill, Lesa Rosati, James Grassi, Tina Marie Sheehan, Elizabeth Sullivan, Lisa Pizzi and Jeannine Houle.

School teacher, Laura DiTullio accompanied the students on their tour.

The boys and girls first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer typesetting system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newstories being set on the Compwriter Junior.

The students watched a paste-up artist place the story of their visit on a page of The Sun.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the boys and girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office each student received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Harold Urges Increased Citizen Involvement

Councillor-at-large Paul D. Harold called for increased citizen involvement in city government at a recent candidate's day at North Quincy High School.

Harold made reference to a charter proposal he introduced which would allow for full citizen membership on City Council committees.

"By allowing for citizen members of council committees, we would be better able to draw upon the talent and expertise of residents and thus be better informed in areas in which the council lacks necessary background," he said.

Harold noted that as councillor he has appointed a number of citizens to city boards and commissions, including Susan Buckley of Squantum to the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women. At the time of her appointment she was a senior at NQHS and is one of the only high school students to serve as a member of a city commission.

Brett Seeks End To X-Way Diamond Lane

Joseph E. Brett thinks the diamond lane on the Southeast Expressway discriminates against those commuting motorists who choose to ride alone.

Brett, a former state representative and candidate for an at-large seat on the City Council, expressed his disdain of the plan in a letter to MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker.

He asked Snedeker to use his influence as soon as possible to discontinue the diamond lane, which is reserved for autos with three or more passengers during rush hours.

"Although I am no longer a representative," said Brett, "I have been receiving a multitude of complaints about the so-called 'diamond lane.'"

"It seems to be serving no useful purpose other than tying up traffic on the Expressway for miles to the rear."

"There also seems to be a reasonable question as to the propriety of such a discrimination as all taxpayers and car owners pay for our highways, so, presumably, all should be allowed complete access to them."

Collins Favors Taking Station Near NQHS

At a coffee hour recently at the home of Mrs. Virginia McEvoy, 79 Sharon Rd., North Quincy, Mrs. Mary Collins, candidate for School Committee, expressed her agreement with the proposed taking of the gas station which is located a few feet from the new addition to North Quincy High School.

"This is a step which should have been taken before," she said, "and one which is essential to the safety of the students and faculty at the school. I would hope that politics can be removed as a factor in this issue, and the well-being of students and faculty can be of primary concern."

Anselmo Delivers

He thinks, shoots and deals straight.

Again he asks for your support to be re-elected to the School Committee. Consider his achievements and service to the City of Quincy.

Frank has served four terms, 16 years, and during that time he has given over 16,000 hours to the job, FREE OF CHARGE to the city. This time has involved research, conferences, interviews with parents, and School Board meetings. This experience, hard to come by, should not be discarded.

Frank has always supported the school system in all that was constructive, progressive, and for the betterment of the educational process. Today, Quincy is recognized nationally for having a well balanced, modern and efficient school system.

He actively participated in bringing about the present existence of the Vocational-Technical School (one of the best in the nation), the new Hancock-Lincoln School, the Squantum School, the Quincy Junior College, the Merrymount School and the North Quincy High School.

Anselmo, with an independent mind and courage, has in many instances fought to defeat proposals that he felt were detrimental to the best interest of the school system and the taxpayers. As an example, he fought, for months, at times single handed, and then with the help of the City Council, to defeat the construction of the North Quincy High School on the Squantum marshes. In so doing, he saved Quincy millions of dollars. Compare a proposed bond issue of not less than $30,000,000, plus 20 years interest, as against $16,100,000 for the present North Quincy High School construction. This too was considered too high by Anselmo and other members of the School Committee, but this item was out of their control; and in view that accreditation was at stake, Anselmo and the rest of the School Committee accepted this action as better than none.

Anselmo has a world of experience: Salesman for Dayton Scale Co. (corner-stone of I.B.M.); Specialty Salesman for Armour & Co. (regional); Sales Manager, Club Aluminum Co. (mid-western states); and Superintendent, Quincy Post Office - 12 years.

Frank is a veteran of World Wars I and II. He is keen of mind and extremely active. He feels that in a sense of gratitude for all the blessings he has received, the least he can do is to continue his services to the city and to help others when it is in his capacity, as he has done in the past.

Cobblestone 'Coverup'

For the first time in many months it almost seemed like the "good old days" in Quincy for a little while last week.

The Mayor wasn't fighting—publicly at least—with the City Council, the police chief, the district attorney, former mayors, etc., etc., although he got in a dig or two at the local press.

And, the City Council, the police chief, the district attorney, former mayors, etc., etc., weren't fighting with the mayor—not publicly at least.

The issues of extortion, corruption, creditability, etc., even got put aside for an old fashioned-like hot potato: what the hell happened to the cobblestones on downtown Hancock St.?

It was the case of "The Cobblestone Coverup".

Suddenly, only blackout could be seen where once there were a few rows of cobblestones along the Hancock-Cliveden Sts. mini-mall neatly placed there for posterity by Mayor Walter Hannon's administration. They disappeared over night.

No one, however, was accusing anyone of any wrongdoing or irregularities. No one was demanding a recount of the stones. No one was hinting that the cobblestones were actually trucked off in the middle of the night to so-and-so's backyard to build an outdoor barbecue with next summer.

No one was claiming they went into the other guy's campaign "war chest". No one was accusing anyone of being prejudiced against cobblestones or insinuating that they were really part of the big granite machine from up the street.

No, all we had, were merchants and sidewalk observers debating the true merits of cobblestones on Hancock St. vs. no cobblestones on Hancock St.

It reminded you a little of those good old days of the 50's and 60's. Like when Edna Austin was suggesting growing roses along "Deegan Park", the traffic divider in Quincy Sq., and Carl Anderson would have liked to sprinkle them with Japanese beetles.

Or the time when former Councillor Richard Barry touched off a furor when he proposed that historic Hancock Cemetery be taken and tared over as an off-street parking lot.

Or when a municipal incinerator was proposed during Amelio Della Chiesa's administration and just about everybody thought it was a heck of an idea—providing it wasn't built in their ward.

Those were the good old days when people could disagree—sometimes heatedly—but still be pretty friendly when it was all over. And not stay up all night plotting revenge.

The few cobblestones were placed on Hancock St. by the Hannon administration to add an artistic touch to the mini-park built there at the time.

Another reason for the cobblestones was to slow down the speeding traffic so that little old ladies could safely cross from one side of Hancock St. to the other without getting bowled over. In fact, that's what Hancock St. used to resemble: a bowling alley with cars instead of balls whizzing down it.

Well, last week, the Joseph LaRaia administration resurfaced Hancock St. and covered up the cobblestones.

Now, argued the pro-cobblestone side, they're going to turn Hancock St. back into a speedway and make it dangerous for not only little old ladies, but anyone crossing Hancock St.

But the anti-cobblestone camp had a point, too. And, an ironic one.

Said Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, getting right to that point:

"Paving over the cobblestones was done deliberately as a safety measure. We've had complaints that pedestrians, particularly senior citizens, were catching their heels in them and falling down. The police and the meter maids who work in the area have said they think it's a good idea. It was a decision that I had to make and I made it."

So, no one should be falling down anymore.

And, if they're fast enough, they won't be knocked down either, on the new Hancock Expressway.

NORTH QUINCY'S Gino Marini has joined golfdom's prestigious hole-in-one-club. Gino turned the feat with a 7-iron on the 145-yard sixth at Furnace Brook Parkway. With him were Henry Berry Sr., who almost duplicated it. William Adams and Paul Serene.

CITY COUNCILLOR John Quinn and his wife, Lorraine, aren't straying far from their TV sets these Saturdays. Their son, Gary, has made the University of Michigan's traveling team as a second string left guard which means he could see some action wherever the team goes. Gary, a standout at B.C. High, was the first player ever recruited by Michigan in the Massachusetts-New England area.

A RECEPTION FOR School Committeeman John J. Sullivan will be held Sunday, Oct. 30 from 8 p.m. to midnight at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall. Dancing and a buffet. Tickets [$7 per person] may be obtained by calling John J. Sullivan Jr. [471-8894] or Mary Jane Fandel [479-8760].

FR. WILLIAM MCCARTHY, new pastor of St. John's Church, and Richard Coleman, are the two newest members of the Quincy Kiwanis Club.

THERE'S MONEY IN them that yard sales. The Paul Harold Committee recently held one at Harold's Adams Shore home and raised more than $320 for his re-election campaign. Chairman of the event was his aunt, Helen Norcott, who lives at 1000 Southern Artery.

planning, he said. It shows an overriding concern of Quincy people with the simple process of earning a living.

No. 2 on the inadequate list was "government response to citizen action," and No. 7 was "citizen access to government," indicating that the alienated voter is still around in Quincy.

Those two responses closely paralleled the result of similar questions asked on a poll by City Councillor Paul D. Harold in the spring.

The UMass survey of Ward 3 also asked respondents if they thought the community attitude of Quincy was progressive hold-the-line or regressive.

One out of four (24.5 percent) called it progressive; one out of two (55.6 percent) said it was "hold-the-line;" and one in five (18.5 percent) termed it city regressive.

Interestingly, nearly three out of four (72 percent) said they had lived in the city for 10 years or more — 49 percent of them for more than 20 years.

Detailed results of the survey appear in an adjoining column.

Lydon said he had the survey taken so that he could "gauge what is important to my constituents. I think it's a good index to citywide thinking because my ward is so diversified."

He said the fact that "pet control" is No. 1 among inadequacies and far down the adequate list indicates not only that a new dog pound is needed, but that people want strict enforcement of leash laws.

Of those surveyed, Lydon said, more than half (54 percent) were employed members of the work force; more than half (51 percent) earned between $10,000 and $25,000 a year; and three out of four (74 percent) owned their own homes.

It was determined that 3.2 percent were under 18; 19.4 percent were 18-29; 23.8 percent were 30-45; 37.7 percent were 45-65; and 15.9 percent were over 65.

Similar polls have been taken in other communities, said Lydon, but none

The Councillor said he hopes that department heads and other city councillors take

Morrissey Would Have Legislators

Meet 5 Days A Week

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey recently voted for an order that would have required the state legislature to meet five days a week.

But the vote (115 to 81) fell short of the two-thirds needed for adoption of such an order.

After 10 months on the job, Morrissey said, "I feel it is important that other members of the Legislature also devote their fulltime energies to legislative priorities such as judicial reform. "The Legislature is now faced with a number of important issues before the end of the session. The extra day could help extend the amount of time that the Legislature can spend on these important matters."

He pledged his support to future efforts to require the Legislature to work fulltime.

Shipyard Riveters Take 'Vacation'

Some 500 riveters at the Fore River Shipyard took a "voluntary vacation" for the third time claiming management had violated terms of the agreement that settled the earlier walkouts.

The strikers claimed that Fore River was five to eight cents an hour behind other Atlantic Coast shipyards in wages and that Navy yards were paying $7.53 a day to $6.40 a day at Fore River.

They said this time they wanted management's promises in writing.

General Manager Samuel W. Wakeman told the riveters to go back to work or consider their employment terminated. Nearly 700 of the 8,000 shipyard workers were laid off for lack of work due to the strike.

LODGE ASSAILS LEAGUE

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge [R-Mass.] criticized the League of Nations at a Republican rally at the Music Hall on the eve of balloting between Sen. Warren G. Harding and James M. Cox for the Presidency.

"If we were in the League of Nations they would say give, give, give and tell us how, when and what," he said. "But we are free and have the right to say when we shall give and what we shall give."

Among the other Republican candidates at the rally was Louis A. Frothingham, who was running against Cong. Richard Olney for the congressional seat from the 14th District.

In the election, Quincy voters went for Harding and Calvin Coolidge over the Democrats Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt by a margin of 10,048 to 2,431. Frothingham also won.

WAR DEAD HONORED

The executive committee of the Quincy American Legion Post met to discuss plans to rename three street intersections for Quincy men who lost their lives during the World War. To be renamed were: - Dobles Corner, West Quincy, for George F. Bryan, who died when his ship, the Jacob Jones, was torpedoed by a German submarine.

- The junction of Copeland and Crescent Sts. and the Boulevard in West Quincy for Cyril P. Morrisette, killed in France in February, 1918.

- Brewers Corner, West Quincy, for Thomas D. Kind, who lost his life in July, 1918, in the Champagne-Marne offensive.

The End Of Another Era?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Have we come to an end of another era?

I've sung with about a half dozen different choruses and for special occasions in the last 50 years. All of these groups have been disbanded for one reason or another.

At the present time I'm singing with the church choir at the Faith Lutheran Church, and have been singing with another member for about 50 years. I'm also with the Wollaston Glee Club since 1947. I've been told its one of the oldest Glee Clubs in the country starting in 1900.

When I started singing there were about 60-70 voices.

Today the group has dwindled to a very few voices, and it is only a question of time when the question asked will have to be answered in the affirmative.

I'm sure that question could be averted if enough men who have sung in High School, College, Church or other groups would get to the Wollaston Methodist Church on Monday evenings from September to June at 7:45 p.m., and lift their voices in four part harmony. We do sing a varied group of songs, including musical comedy, marches, spirituals, religious and other types of music. Our present director is Charlie Dillingham, a graduate of Eastern Nazarene College and who teaches music in the Braintree schools and our accompanist is Don Bradshaw, organist and choir director at East Congregational Church, East Milton.

How about it men of Quincy and the South Shore, How about a resounding "No" to my opening question?

Last Year's Tax Increase

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Mr. Tobin's advertisement in campaigning for the office of Mayor of Quincy states that you should think about last year's tax increase. I believe we should all think about it and decide who provided the figures for it.

A deficit from former mayors did provide the figure. The present Mayor established a figure to cover the present and past debts. The present Mayor was assailed and belittled and chided and told cold bloodedly that a $10. figure was realistic. The Senator and Council President assured us of his realistic figures and if his assurances are correct, why does he not explain wh. re our surplus funds are. Could he also explain why an increase was demanded by the State even over our so called excessive rate.

My understanding of Municipal Government is that the Executive proposes and the Legislative [City Council] disposes. If this is true, why does the City have practically no E & D funds or surplus available.

Simply put, the funding cannot be spent without authority of the City Council, checks and balances by the Auditor [responsible to the Council] prove to my way of thinking that the Mayor does not and can not spend one thin dime without Council approval.

Therefore, the Council President who controls this Council should assume his own share of any blame or mismanagement of our tax dollars.

Proudly, in advertisements declaring a desire to be Mayor, he claims our City is a mess, and proudly he advertises that he is and has been Acting Mayor for eight years.

Obviously the Senator doesn't care to assume any responsibility in what he loudly proclaims as fault or irresponsibility. But can he, in good conscience, not explain how or why the only faults are the Mayors.

An honest candidate with a long public record surely would like to keep his so called honesty open to the public, a Christian would certainly live up to the concepts of charity and above all would remember the adage of, "Judge not, lest ye be judged."

Mrs. Dennis LeFort

The Great Debate Set For Nov. 1

have held it to around $10, refused to debate on that single issue. He said he wanted the debate to cover all the issues. LaRaia then agreed.

The final details of the debate were set up Monday by Mary Flavin, president of the Quincy League of Women Voters, a member of which will serve as moderator of what is expected to be a heated clash.

Mrs. Flavin said that each candidate will be allowed a three-minute statement at the opening of the hour-long debate and a three-minute summation at the close.

In between, she said, they will question each other with the person questioned being given two minutes to respond and the questioner permitted one minute to comment on the answer.

James D. Asher Jr., president of WJDA, said the debate will be broadcast live, if possible, and taped for rebroadcast on Sunday, Nov. 6, two days before Quincy voters go to the polls.

Mrs. Flavin said the WJDA studio was chosen over the City Council chamber at City Hall to get away from the "candidates' night" atmosphere. She said the studio audience will be limited to 16-18 people.

Issues that are certain to be touched upon, with varying degrees of vehemence, during the debate include:

- Allegations of corruption in the LaRaia administration.

Tobin has frequently charged that the LaRaia regime has been the most corrupt in the city's history, citing four LaRaia appointees who have been convicted of crimes. LaRaia has answered those charges by saying that he has acted whenever wrongdoing has reared its head.

- The fact that, if elected, Tobin would hold two jobs as State Senator and Mayor.

LaRaia has said Tobin could not possibly serve the people of Quincy adequately while wearing two hats but Tobin, promising that he will not draw the Mayor's $25,000 salary, has cited past Mayors who have held office in City Hall and the State House successfully.

- The Central Maintenance Facility.

LaRaia has claimed that the facility, once located in a rented garage, now in the old city forestry building, has been successful despite the City Council's refusal to recognize its existence, and fund it. Tobin has been a leader of the opposition.

Most Important Thing Is To Vote, Says Picard

An estimated 400 people attended a recent fund-raising dance for Joan C. Picard, Quincy School Committee candidate, at Morrisette Legion Post.

Mrs. Picard noted that although the election is still three weeks away, residents of Quincy should be looking forward to going to the polls and voting. The most important part of any campaign and election is that people do vote, she said.

A birthday cake was presented to her husband, Thomas R. Picard, by Mr. and Mrs. Picard's three children, Suzanne, Renee and Scott.

McCauley Cites Experience For Council At-Large

Francis X. McCauley, candidate for City councillor-at-large, outlined the duties and responsibilities of the office at a recent house party at the home of Harry and Anneli Johnson, 36 Garfield St., West

Quincy.

McCauley noted that he had served four years as a ward councillor, serving for two years as chairman of the Council's Finance Committee. Citing the city council's involvement in school and public housing affairs, McCauley said that he believes he has five years experience on the housing authority and his six years experience on the school committee would be helpful in performing his duties as a councillor-at-large.

John Sullivan Reception Sunday

John J. Sullivan, candidate for re-election to the Quincy School Committee, will be guest of honor at a reception at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall, 5 Hollis Ave., Sunday, at 8 p.m.

Arthur Keefe of 22 Calumet St., North Quincy, and Charles J. Doherty of 47 Chester St., Wollaston, are co-chairmen for the reception. Other members of the committee include Mary-Jane Fandel, Stanley G. Radzik and Quentin E. Bloomer.

Candidate's Night

The Quincy Citizens Association has scheduled a candidate's night to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Woodward School. An open invitation has been extended to all to hear the candidates taking part in next week's city-wide election.

Full Traffic Control Signal On Centre St. Rejected

A petition requesting installation of a full traffic control signal at the intersection of Centre St., Albertina St., and Brooks Ave., South Quincy, has been rejected by the Traffic Commission, according to Greg Doyle, secretary of the commission.

Residents of the area renewed their appeal this week following an accident last Friday in which Michael Tusi, seven, of 98 Intervale St., was struck by a car. The boy's name is on the danger list at Quincy City Hospital.

Mrs. Kathy Sargent, 232 Centre St., headed the group which collected more than 120 signatures on the petition last July. This week she said residents are still demanding action.

Consumer Issues Top For Germantown

Edward O'Malley of the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division will speak on consumer issues at a coffee hour Wednesday, Oct. 26 at 10 a.m. at the Germantown Service that the traffic flow in the area does not warrant a change.

The coffee hour is a weekly event sponsored by the Harborview Residents Committee.

It was also pointed out that the present lights have a pedestrian control button which can be operated at crosswalks.

Doyle said Ron Kaufman, legislative aide to Rep. Sheets, appeared before the commission Oct. 5, and requested a traffic count be made in the area and consideration be given to installation of the full traffic control lights.

Police Capt. Roy Cavicchi, chairman of the commission, said that the present signals are not constructed to operate as a full stop traffic control. He indicated

The effective way to insulate your home

Insulation effectiveness is measured in its resistance to heat flow . . . either moving out of the house in winter or flowing in, during the summer.

Celsius foam insulation has a high "R" rating which creates an efficient thermal barrier in ceilings, attics and walls.

Celsius foam is pumped into walls cavities and flows around pipes, electrical outlets and other protrusions. It effectively seals against heat loss and drafts by completely filling the spaces without settling.

With Celsius foam you save on heating/cooling costs all year round and you get a return on your investment every time you receive your utility bill. You'll enjoy extra living comfort too!

on the spandrel during that period of a tenth of a second.

"Clearly, this force far exceeds the load requirement of the Boston Building Code, which may be considered to represent the force imposed by the same vehicle traveling at about 7 miles per hour."

Analysis of the data, the Report continued, determined that "the spandrel connections as designed could resist the 2,500-pound loading with a factor of safety within the normal limits."

"However, because the majority of the bolts in the vicinity of the accident were either not installed or partially installed into the inserts, sufficient capacity was not available to resist that loading."

Anderson said he has asked the Zaldastani firm to continue to investigate other spandrel attachments around the garage "in the interests of public safety and public confidence."

"Given the fact that the first spandrel was not connected properly," he said, "it is wise to check the other spandrels. We don't know for sure what condition the first spandrel was in before the crash."

The Report noted that an applicable section of the Fire Prevention Regulations calls for parapets of parking garages to be "securely attached," adding that "securely" is a statement of judgement.

It also called attention to an FPR section that calls for a "protective railing located around the outside perimeter of the structure approximately three feet, six inches high."

"This requirement, which is not relevant to the accident, is not complied with in the garage since the parapets are only three feet high and do not have a top railing," the Report said.

This is the section of the Report that Anderson asked Solicitor Williams to pay close attention to.

The Zaldastani firm concluded that "the accident has not caused damage which has created an unsafe condition as compared to the garage's undamaged condition."

"Restoration of the stair tower and provision of a new spandrel are clearly required, however, before the garage can be made fully operational."

The Report also concluded: "Although it cannot be stated that dislocation of the panel would not have otherwise occurred, it is considered that two factors contributed significantly to the sequence of events following the striking of the panel by the automobile."

"The improper installation and omission of bolts at the connection of the spandrel to the roof slab reduced considerably the ability of the spandrel to resist lateral load."

"The lack of ductility [stretch] of the connections prevented the energy of impact from being absorbed within the structure before the spandrel panel was dislodged."

The Report recommended: "Connections between spandrels and the floor slabs should be installed which are ductile in character and which have a greater capacity."

"A more direct manner for forces at the end of the spandrels to be transferred to the structure should be established."

In a covering letter to Anderson, sent with the Report, Zaldastani Associates said that during its investigation of the parapet panel "we noted cracks in the stem of each tee beam where the beams connect to the center columns."

"We have not checked the structural significance of these cracks as this work was clearly beyond the scope of our assignment; however, we do recommend that this condition be reviewed by a qualified structural engineer."

Anderson said he has asked the Zaldastani firm to continue the probe into the cracks.

Meanwhile, Eric Swider, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, called for an immediate reopening of the top floor of the garage.

"The continued delay in returning the facility to full use is beginning to have financial implications for Quincy Center businesses who depend on the garage to accommodate their customers.

"It is unthinkable that these 120 spaces will not be available during the up and coming holiday shopping season."

The Executive Committee of the Chamber asked an immediate opinion from Building Inspector Allan MacDonald on the extent of the damage caused by the speeding car.

Lydton Offers Halloween Costume Safety Tips

Simple costume decorating can do a lot to help protect children from accidental injury on Halloween, says John J. Lydton Jr., chairman of the City Councils' Public Safety Committee.

The key is for parents to make costumes that will be seen easily by drivers and that will not block the child's view of traffic, steps, curbs, and other hazards, he said.

"Adding retro-reflective material to a costume is the easiest and best way to increase its visibility to safe levels," said Lydton.

Retro-reflective material can be purchased in iron-on, sew-on and stick-on varieties in most hardware and department stores. It should be applied to the front, sides and back of the costume and can be incorporated into the costume design.

The other side of Halloween safety, Councillor Lydton said, is to throw away those masks and use non-allergic makeup instead. Masks can slip out of place and have small eye holes so that they restrict a child's view. Lydton cautioned that make-up should be applied carefully by adults to keep make-up particles and applicators out of the child's eyes.

Special Election Display At Historical Society

Quincy Historical Society will have a special showing of its Election Day Exhibit Saturday from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at its Adams Academy Building.

The public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

At 4:30 p.m. Guy Faiella, chairman of the Quincy Board of Registrars, John M. Gillis, clerk of the Board of Registrars, and Thomas R. Burke, assistant registrar in charge of elections, will explain present day election procedures and compare them with those of the past.

Students of government and others with a particular interest in the election process are especially invited.

The material on display relates to Quincy elections of the past starting with a town voting list of 1812. There is a call for the Town Meeting, lists of candidates for town offices, and newspaper articles on elections. There are slates of candidates from the Soldiers Party, Citizens Party, Republican Temperance Party, the Greenback Labor Reform Party, and others that have long since passed from the national as well as the local scene.

'The Man Nobody Saw' At First Parish Church

"The Man Nobody Saw", a play concerning race relations and prejudice, will be presented at the United First Parish Church, Quincy Square, at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The play, in the form of a courtroom trial, is being sponsored by the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights. The production deals with the affect of white institutions on blacks and the way in which well intentioned people can unconsciously be guilty of racist England at the 1979 Cotton Bowl. The Bay State high school units will also be competing for the Massachusetts High School Marching Band Championship.

Trophies for top winners in the various divisions are being designed and built by students at Quincy Vocational Technical High School. Laurence Babin, director of Voc-Tech, is overseeing the project. The trophies were designed by Pat Trifone, head of the drafting department at the school. Kenneth Worth, instructor in cabinet making, and his students are building the four-foot high trophies.

The cost of materials is being underwritten by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association with the school providing the expertise and craftsmanship.

Following presentation of the play the audience will be invited to participate in a discussion with the cast on the problems of racism and prejudice. A $1 donation is asked.

The Campaign Trail. . .

Condon Stresses Knowledge Of Government

Mrs. Joanne Condon, a candidate for the Ward 6 seat on the City Council, has stressed her knowledge of government operations during recent stops in her campaign.

"The ward councillor is the most 'accountable to the people," she told a coffee hour gathering at the home of Mrs. Judi Rochelle of 32 Sumac Rd, Squantum.

"To be truly effective, the ward councillor must be familiar with the function of the city departments, understand the decision-making process, and be constantly available to the residents of the ward."

She noted that, over the past several years, she had obtained this knowledge by consistently attending City Council meetings and becoming involved in the Community Development program.

In response to questions regarding the Community Development process, Mrs. Condon explained that the city held public hearings to obtain citizen input, conducted surveys of neighborhoods' conditions, and developed an application consistent with the federal guidelines.

She said that the city first received funds in July 1975 and at that time submitted a comprehensive three year program to HUD, with program priorities based on the condition of the housing stock, neighborhood income and need for overall improvement.

"Through our efforts we received a limited amount of money, $35,000, to start a self-help home improvement program and some money for street improvements in the area," she said. "With the cooperation of the city departments we have implemented a highly successful paint program which has already painted over 125 homes."

She noted that the next Community Development program year begins in July, 1978, and that the city must weigh the needs of each neighborhood and the requirements of the federal law.

The candidate said that her experience will enable her to determine if the program can be expanded in Ward 6.

"Through this involvement and my consistent attendance at City Council meetings, I have developed a good understanding of the functions of each of the departments," she explained.

"If you have a problem, I know whom to contact."

She cited recent examples of working with residents on problems of traffic along East Squantum St., vandalism, and senior services.

"This knowledge is also helpful at budget time," she concluded.

LaRaia Would Have City Take Gas Station Near NQHS

Mayor LaRaia says he plans to submit an appropriation order to the City Council recommending that land adjacent to the North Quincy High School addition currently occupied by a gas station be taken over by the city.

He has already taken the first step, he said, by directing the City Solicitor to have the land appraised.

"I can't imagine a more dangerous situation than having classrooms full of students less than 15 feet from a gas station," the Mayor said. "This particular gas station has a storage capability of 16,000 gallons of flammables."

"The potential for a serious incident exists, and, knowing that, I would be remiss in my duties as Mayor if I did not take steps to correct this situation."

"Of course, the land-taking procedure is subject to the approval of the City Council, but I feel the new incoming Council will realize the importance of this matter, and act quickly to correct it."

"This action is being taken following the requests of concerned parents, students and teachers. It is necessary to take it now in order to assure the safe opening of North Quincy High in September, 1978."

"I have spoken to the owners and assured them of complete cooperation on the city's part in assisting in relocating their business."

Remo DeNicola Reappointed To Radio-TV Technicians Board

Governor Dukakis has recently reappointed Remo DeNicola, owner of South Shore Television Service, to the Board of Registration of Radio and Television Technicians.

The seven-member board is responsible for establishing standards of professional conduct and quality of service criteria for radio and television repairmen, and registering repairmen who meet those standards. The board also handles consumer complaints relating to radio and television repair, and has the power to revoke a repairman's license if proven guilty of serious incompetency.

In making the appointment, Dukakis said, "Remo DeNicola has a deep concern for the character and future of the board as well as a keen knowledge of the business which he has acquired through his 30 years of experience in the field of radio and television. He has maintained high ethical standards in his dealings with the public, and is a fine example of the kind of appointment that is needed on consumer-oriented boards such as this one."

DeNicola attended Quincy public schools and Massachusetts School of Radio and the Saunders School of Electronics.

He has been active in the Electronic Technicians Guild, holding offices ranging from president to business manager. He served on the committee for the original licensing bill draft and presentation, and was instrumental in getting the support the bill needed to have it passed into law in order to offer the consumer more protection.

DeNicola was one of 12 recipients of the first nationwide G.E. "All-American" awards presented for outstanding community service in connection with youth activity groups.

He is president of Deltronics, Inc., which manufactures electronic components. He and his wife Helen live at 21 Burroughs Rd., Braintree. They have three children.

DeNicola will serve on the board until Feb. 27, 1978. Members of the board receive $25 a day plus expenses.

Local 1139 Babe Ruth Team Honored

The members of the Quincy Employees Union Local 1139 Babe Ruth League baseball team were recently honored by their sponsor at a reception and dinner at Fore River Clubhouse.

Parents, relatives and friends of the boys were guests at the reception.

Dinner was prepared and served for the 80 guests by members of Local 1139 and their wives, supervised by Paul Zambruno.

Robert Curran, chairman of the Babe Ruth International Board of Directors, was also a guest. Among the directors are Brooks Robinson, Elston Howard, Marty Springstead, Danny Litwiler, Gene Woodling, Carl Erskine, Wally Moon and Lefty Gomez.

Curran spoke about the $75,000 boys served annually by Babe Ruth Baseball's three division program, the largest teenage activity in the world.

After congratulating the players on finishing first in Quincy's Babe Ruth National League and leaving a gift from Babe Ruth Headquarters for each of the 20 boys, Curran presented Local 1139 Manager John L. McDonnell a Helbros Babe Ruth Watch on behalf of Babe Ruth Headquarters and himself personally to honor the completion last season of McDonnell's 40th year of coaching teenage boys.

Ray Cattaneo, coach of Morrisette Legion baseball team, congratulated the players and gave an inspiring talk, impressing on them that keeping the rules and living up to the sportsmanship they learned in their baseball careers will help them be successful in whatever path they choose to follow.

Wesley Clarke, president of Quincy Employees Union Local 1139, spoke on the need for more organizations such as this group to fill the void and help prevent juvenile delinquency. He explained it left a good feeling among all 1139 members that in sponsoring this group they are helping form these boys into tomorrow's men.

At the completion of the program, Clarke presented the graduates, Paul O'Toole, Bobby Howlett, Chris Petrillo, Brian Donovan and Bill Cooke, with engraved trophies and said that each year in the future the graduates will receive something appropriate.

Last Friday the Presidents played to a 1-1 tie with North Quincy, which earlier had topped Quincy for its only win of the year.

Raiders Hope To Keep It All Together

By TOM SULLIVAN

"We put everything together today and I hope we've turned the corner."

These are the words of a happy North Quincy football coach Dave Burke after his Raiders had pulled the upset of the year last week, ending Newton North's 15-game win streak, 20-7, at Newton.

North, which had trouble moving the ball in its first three games, hit on all cylinders despite a two-week layoff. It was feared North might be rusty after two weeks off, but the Raiders went right at Newton from the start and gained 214 yards, 157 on the ground and 57 passing, while the defense was at its best and held Newton to a total of 127 yards.

Burke hopes the Raiders will not suffer a letdown Saturday when they play their first home game in a month, hosting Brookline at 1:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Although Brookline has won only once, 12-6 over Weymouth South, it has improved each week and North scout Ted Sadowski was impressed with the team in its loss to Brockton last week.

Newton, which lost to Walpole in last year's Super Bowl, won all 10 games last year and was 5-0 this year until bowing to North. The previous week, Quincy just missed upsetting Newton.

"Everything went well today, the offense finally clicked and the defense was at its best," Burke said. "I just hope we will continue to play as we did today. My assistant coaches have done a terrific job."

Spearheading the Raiders' running attack was Colin McEachern, who had his best day with 81 yards in 21 carries and the first touchdown.

"Colin had a great day, and John Wilkinson also ran well,"

TD PAT FG Pts.

Cobban	2	0	0	12
Wilkinson	2	0	0	12
McEachern	1	0	0	6
Greene	0	4	1	7

offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "Greg Zoia did some more great blocking and Kevin Cobban was outstanding at quarterback. He threw some fine clutch passes, called the plays well and handled the ball flawlessly."

Fitzgerald had good words for the entire offensive line, especially Paul Ahern, Pat McKenna, Mike Gallagher, Kevin O'Sullivan, playing his first game at end and making two fine receptions; Dan McIntyre and Tom Quinn.

The defensive coaches, Ken McPhee and Jack Raymer, were ecstatic.

It was just unbelievable," McPhee said. "The entire defensive unit was superb. We went right at them and stopped them cold. We just ate them up. We completely bottled up their running game and they went mainly to the air and we also stopped them cold there, too."

Singled out were ends Jim Carroll and Ed Evanson, tackle Jim Marinelli, who played both ways and did a fine two-way job; Jim Butler and Bob Schaezel, linebackers Jim Hanrahan, Mark Robinson and Kevin O'Connell, cornermen Mike Pitts, Bruce Wilson and Pat Ennis, and halfbacks Tom McAleney, Harry Donaghue and Tom Burke.

"This is a new team now," Burke said. "The boys are getting experience and gaining their confidence."

McEachern put North in front in the opening period with a 14-yard scoring run and Kevin Greene kicked the point.

In the second quarter, Wilkinson went in from six yards out and the Raiders had a 13-0 halftime lead.

Newton scored in the third period on Steve Fleming's 20-yard run and Dallas Morgan kicked the point.

North clinched the big upset later in the period when Cobban, on a keeper, went six yards and Greene kicked the point.

"Maybe it was our new caps that turned the trick," Fitzgerald said with a smile. The coaches have new red and white caps with "Raiders" imprinted on them.

The win evened the Raiders' record at 2-2, but they are 2-0 in the Suburban League, trailing only Waltham, which is 3-0. North will play at Waltham Nov. 5.

● Cross Country

North Bows, Quincy Wins 1st

North Quincy's cross country team made three more impressive showings last week but the loss of three good scorers put the Raiders in a bad spot Friday and they lost to undefeated Weymouth South, 25-34, to drop their record to 5-2.

"It would have been bad enough facing South with our full squad, but even if we did have everyone they still would have won," North Coach Lou Tozzi said. "We did our best and I'm proud of the five boys we had available to run. South is the best in our league."

John McGuigan, who had finished seventh in a big win over league power Newton North earlier in the week, and John Ricciuti, ninth against Newton, were missing as was Bill Murphy, who had suffered a torn calf muscle earlier.

North's undefeated John Saville was the winner but Weymouth took second, fourth through sixth and eighth to win. Saville was going to try for the course record but admitted he was tired, running in his fourth race in a week and running 13 miles the day before. His time of 12:02 was the third best time ever run over the Weymouth course.

Mike Barrett, running in the excellent time of 12:10, finished third and Paul McCormick seventh. Mike Ricciuti was 14th and Jim Coughlin was 15th.

In its previous meet North Quincy had handed Milton Academy its first loss, 26-31, in a non-leaguer, as Saville again won. Barrett was third, John McVitey fourth, McCormick fifth, and McGuigan sixth.

North earlier in the week handed Newton North its first defeat, 26-29, as Saville won with Barrett second, McCormick third, McGuigan seventh and John Ricciuti ninth.

Quincy took its first win of the year, topping Brookline, 25-30, as John Fury took second, John Banuk third, Joe Irvine fifth, Dan Connolly sixth and Kevin Murphy ninth.

The Quincy girls won their second in a row after four close defeats, sweeping Waltham, 15-48, as they took the first five places.

Paula Constat, first or second in every meet, won the meet, followed in order by teammates Paula Church, Donna Reardon, Heidi Dolan and Dotti Irvine. Also running well were Ellen Caramanica, seventh; Frances Maloney, eighth, and Ann Marie Lydon, 11th.

North Quincy's harriers recently placed seventh among 35 entries in Division 2 of the annual Catholic Memorial meet over the Franklin Park course. Saville placed second and McCormick, 35th, also was a medalist. Saville was second to defending champion Wally Collins of Foxboro. Presidents Accent Aerial, Ground Attack

It was bombs away at Veterans Memorial Stadium last Saturday as Quincy's football team defeated former Greater Boston League rival Malden, 19-0, to even its record at 3-3.

Couch Hank Conroy hopes his passing game will continue to click and also hopes for a more potent running attack Saturday when the Presidents play Weymouth North at Weymouth's Legion Field in a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game.

It was a pair of bombs to Quincy's sure-fisted end, Ron Donovan, which sparked the Presidents to their non-league win last week. Donovan, who only recently returned to the team following an injury, had sparked against Newton North the previous week.

Ron's father, Shorty Donovan, former semi-pro baseball standout in the old South Shore League, credits basketball for his son's "good hands." "Playing basketball really helped Ron and I think it is one of the big reasons he has developed into a fine receiver," Shorty said. Shorty, incidentally, played baseball and basketball at the old Quincy Trade School, which had no football team.

Kennedy On St. Thomas Soccer Team

Mike Kennedy, a former Quincy High goalie, is playing in goal for the St. Thomas College soccer team this fall.

Quincy's running game failed to function in the first half against Malden, but the two bombs to Donovan gave the Presidents a 13-0 halftime lead. Malden's blitz succeeded in halting Quincy's ground game, but the two touchdown passes helped break the blitz and the running attack was much better the second half.

Ralph Pickering, who has developed in the past two weeks into a fine runner, paced Quincy's ball carriers with 42 yards and Conroy came up with a new runner in Mark Merlis, who carried seven times for 30 yards and will be used much more as a running back in the future.

Quincy's first touchdown bomb surprised Malden and most of the fans as Len Picot was back to punt on fourth down. Instead of kicking, he threw a long pass to Donovan, who went between two defenders to make the catch and run the final 15 yards to complete a 34-yard scoring play. Jim Maze kicked the point.

Later in the opening period, Malden's Steve Powell punted to Quincy's 36 and the ball was returned to the 50. On the first play, Mark Giordani lofted a long pass to Donovan for a 50-yard touchdown play.

Quincy's final TD late in the game came on a two-yard run by Tom Dedian after Powell had faked a kick but was downed before he could get a pass away, giving the Presidents the ball on Malden's 12.

"This is the first time Merlis has carried the ball and he looked good," Conroy said. "He had been hurting and only recently joined the team. He and Pickering did a good job and they will give Picot a lot of help in the running game."

"We had worked on the fake kick and pass in practice and this will give our attack more balance. Donovan is a real fine receiver and has a good pair of hands."

Conroy singled out Kevin Boudreau, Tod Calfish, Kevin Zambruno, Mike Duggan, Pete Cassidy, Vin Harte and Donovan in the offensive line for their performances.

Conroy also praised the defensive performances of Harte,

Tom Conine, Rich Coose, Rich Burnes and Dave Eastwick.

Conroy was upset at the condition of the field. "It was terrible and I apologized to Don Finn (Malden coach)," Conroy said. "The boys were slipping around so badly before the game, I had George Page and his men work to get the field into at least a little better shape." There were two junior high games there Friday afternoon and another Saturday morning.

The Presidents had a big edge in passing with 122 yards on five of 14 and one interception. Malden had only 34 yards on four for 17 and two interceptions. Each team had 12 first downs.

HN Hockey League Starts 7th Season

The Houghs Neck Hockey League has started its seventh year at the Squantum Marina rink.

Games are played at 4 and 5 p.m. Sundays.

The league was started by Dave MacMillan and John Duffy. MacMillan was the director of the Sgt. Grenham Youth Center at the time and Duffy was a young man just returned from duty in Vietnam.

The league is unusual because of the makeup of the teams. It consists of players from 12 to 18 years of age. There are three lines on each team, one for 12 and 13 year olds, another for 14 and 15 year olds and the third for 16, 17 and 18 year olds. Each time a home team coach puts a line of a certain age group on the ice the opposing coach must match with the same age group.

The four teams are Ronie's, Harvey's, Hurley's and Finlay's.

They have an hour of practice time in addition to game hours, but the league officials have managed to keep the expense down to less than $4 a week per player.

Anyone in Houghs Neck wishing to register for the league is asked to contact MacMillan at 471-2322 or Duffy at 479-8059.

Quincy, North Girl Swimmers Meet Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy girls' swim teams having their troubles as far as wins and losses are concerned but receiving outstanding individual performances, will clash Saturday morning at 10 at the Lincoln Hancock School pool in their annual meet.

Friday, North hosts Weymouth North at Lincoln Hancock at 7 while Quincy swims at Newton North at 4. Monday, Quincy entertains Canton at 3:15. Tuesday it will be North Quincy at Cambridge Rindge Latin at 7 and Wednesday Quincy at Brookline at 3.

Coaches Bill Walker of North and Judy Appleby of Quincy are delighted with the dedication of the girls and the fine individual performances.

This is only the third year of swimming at the two schools and most of the opposing schools have had the sport for many years.

"It takes a lot of hard work and these girls deserve a lot of credit," Walker said. "We are still inexperienced but some of the individual performances have been outstanding."

"The girls' dedication is tremendous and they practice every day from 3-5 when we don't have a meet," Miss Appleby said.

Last week Quincy was outclassed by Brockton, always a Suburban League power, 120-44, but again there were some fine performances on the part of the First Ladies.

Janet Sines won the 100-yard backstroke with her best time, 1:11.8. Patty Howe took a second in the 50-yard freestyle and Sue Murphy a second in diving. Sines, Murphy and Howe teamed with Mary Wright on the third place medley relay team.

Quincy received a tough break when Miss Wright suffered an injury and was unable to compete in her three individual events.

Junior Laura Davis is the Quincy captain and senior Murphy and sophomore Wright are co-captains.

The North girls bowed to Brookline, 102-65, despite several outstanding individual performances, led by Maureen Santry.

Maureen broke the 500 record by 12 seconds, winning in 6:35.8, and swam with the 200 relay team with Bernadette Feeney, Mary Tenney and Donna Walsh which won in the record time of 2:22.2.

Miss Tenney broke her own record set earlier in the week with a 1:24.8 in the breaststroke and the 400 relay team of Walsh, Betsy Johnson, Jill Sweeney and Santry broke the school record with 4:35.3 victory.

A number of records were also broken earlier in the week as the Raiderettes bowed to Newton South, 89-80.

Jill Sweeney broke two records in winning the 200 freestyle in 2:29.4, and the 500 freestyle in 6:47.3. Lisa Costello set a record with 150.85 points in diving. Donna Walsh won the 100 butterfly in a record 1:23.2 and Tenney set a record in the 100 breaststroke with a 1:25.4 effort. Santry won the 100 freestyle.

A GOOD MAYOR HAS TO BE A FIRM JUDGE.

One of a mayor's hardest jobs is appointing competent, honest people to work for the city.

And Arthur Tobin is determined to get the best people for Quincy.

That's why he is in favor of an independent panel of community leaders to help choose and approve appointees.

That's why he refuses to repeat the "January Massacre" that replaced hard-working civil servants with inept political appointees.

And that's why he thinks that Quincy people should be hired whenever possible, instead of outsiders.

If you're a hard judge of the person you want as mayor, you should vote for Arthur Tobin. Because he's going to be a good judge of the people who will work for you.

LET'S GIVE QUINCY A MAYOR TO BE PROUD OF. ELECT ARTHUR TOBIN.

LaRaia: 'Full-Time Mayor' Tobin: 'End Corruption'

By TOM HENSHAW

CONFRONTATION — Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia [right] and Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin face each other from far ends of the table in their campaign debate Tuesday at WJDA. In the middle are Mary Flavin, president of the League of Women Voters (left), and Jane Sullivan, chairman of the League's Voter Services Committee.

Tobin Favored

70% To 75% Voter Turnout Forecast For Tuesday Election

The most bitterly contested Quincy mayoral campaign since the Charlie Ross - Tom McGrath long wars of a half century ago reaches a climax next Tuesday — Election Day, 1977.

The city's 50,916 registered voters will have an opportunity to choose between embattled Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, leader of the opposition for the past two years.

Tobin is favored on the strength of a 12,216 to 7,411 decision over LaRaia in the five-man preliminary election in September. The challenger collected nearly 54 per cent of the total vote.

City Clerk John M. Gillis predicted that some 70 to 75 per cent of the registered voters will show up at the polls, a large turnout reflecting the bitterness of the campaign.

Some 71.3 per cent of the vote turned out for the 1975 election.

In addition to the Mayor's race, voters also will elect three members to the School Committee, three at-large city councillors and one councillor from each of the city's six wards.

LaRaia, 45, who lives at 54 Grogan Ave., West Quincy, has served one stormy term in the Mayor's office, during which time virtually every move has been blocked or questioned by a hostile City Council.

He won the corner office at City Hall by ousting Mayor Walter J. Hannon by a margin of 483 votes after a recount during which 600 votes changed hands in blocks of 50.

An inquest conducted by District Court Judge Albert L. Kramer determined that it was human error, not criminal intent, that caused the 600 votes to be credited erroneously to Hannon in the original count.

Tobin, 47, of 58 Huntly Rd, Quincy Center, a lawyer who is also a state senator, became the leader of the anti-LaRaia faction by virtue of his post as president of the City Council.

He has been critical of what he calls corruption in the LaRaia administration, which has had Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and his opponent, City Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, reiterated their campaign promises and charges in an hour-long debate Tuesday over radio station WJDA.

The debate was broadcast live and taped for replay Sunday, Nov. 6, two days before Quincy voters go to the polls to choose a Mayor.

Under the format designed by the sponsoring League of Women Voters, each candidate was allowed to ask questions of himself and his opponent.

As expected, Tobin hit hard on his frequently repeated charges of corruption in the LaRaia administration, citing the city officials who have been convicted of crimes in the past two years.

LaRaia leaned heavily on the charge that Tobin, if elected, would hold two fulltime jobs as mayor and state senator and would be unable to serve the people of Quincy adequately in both.

Mrs. Jane Sullivan, chairman of the League's Voter Services Committee, acted as moderator of the debate, which began with each candidate making a three-minute opening statement.

Swider In Line For N.E. Council Presidency

Eric M. Swider, executive vice-president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, is in line to be President of the New England Council for Economic Development, The Quincy Sun has learned.

He would succeed Edward J. King who resigned the $50,000 a year post, Oct. 24, to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the 1978 gubernatorial campaign.

Swider would neither confirm nor deny he will get the appointment but "I have been talking with them (the Council) and we have been in negotiation," he said when queried by The Sun.

He declined to discuss the matter further, saying he preferred any statement on the matter to come through an announcement from the NEC. Informants say the announcement will come Nov. 7.

Swider has been with the South Shore Chamber of Commerce for the past six years, coming here from Columbus, O., where he was director of the U.S. Chamber of

FREE PARKING DURING HOLIDAY SEASON

Mayor Joseph LaRaia announces that beginning Nov. 14, there will be free unmetered parking in specified parking areas in the central business district to compensate for the loss of parking space caused by the closing of the roof portion of the Ross Parkingway for repairs. The specified areas will include the Hancock parking area, the Della Chiesa parking area and the lower levels of the Ross Parkingway.

"The loss of those 120 parking spaces has caused a great deal of inconvenience to shoppers who have to drive into the downtown area, and with the approach of the Christmas shopping season, I felt that something had to be done to relieve the problem and make the business district more accessible to shoppers," said Mayor LaRaia.

The free unmetered parking will continue until completion of the repairs to the Ross parking facility.

The 21 cadets of the Quincy Composite Squadron Drill Team won the annual Northeast Civil Air Patrol Cadet Championship recently to keep the trophy in Massachusetts.

Representing the Quincy team, Cadet Lt. Paul D. Eldridge, Jr., Cadet Warrant Officer Peter J. Fontana, Jr. and Cadet Warrant Officer James B. Morrissey Jr., defeated two tough panels of teams from New York and Pennsylvania in the final rounds.

The cadet members, all between the ages of 13 and 18 are:

Cadets, Michael Bradbury, Keith Colon, Stephen DeLuca, Thomas Deren, Brian Donovan, Lt. Eldridge, Jeanine Hynds, Mary Leonard, Judith Mahn, Robert Parsloe, Denise Parsloe, Stephen Parsloe, Lawrence Reardon and Louis Reardon, John J. Kilduff Jr., all of Quincy. Peter Fontana and Diane Wall of Weymouth; Margaret Hauck of Duxbury; James Morrissey of Brockton; William Nolan of Braintree and Mary Reagan of Norwood.

Team escorts were Major Sandra L. Minsk of Brockton, Capt. Robert A. Peters of Quincy, and Major Laura Lee I. Grooten of Brockton, Squadron Commander.

The team took seven trophies in academics, panel quiz, physical fitness and innovative drill on its way to capturing the four-foot high "Sweepstakes" trophy that remains on display here for one more year.

Accepting the awards for the team was its commander, 17-year-old Cadet Warrant Officer Robert J. Parsloe.

As the defending champs, the Quincy team will now represent the Northeast Region in the National Cadet Competition at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, during Christmas week. Last year at the National, the team placed second in overall drill performance and Lt. Eldridge won as outstanding team commander.

Quincy Squadron meets Fridays, 7-10 p.m. at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 85 Sea St., Quincy. Additional information can be obtained from the Air Force Recruiting Office in Quincy.

Salaries Issue Again

Sheets 'Not Surprised' At Barilaro Legal Challenge

City Councillor James A. Sheets says he was not surprised when Albert R. Barilaro challenged the legality of his drawing salaries as a city councillor and a teacher at Quincy Junior College at the same time.

"We expected it," said Sheets, who faced the challenge once before four years ago and won.

Barilaro, who is Sheets' opponent in the Ward 4 Council race, asked City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams for an opinion Monday, eight days before Ward 4 voters are scheduled to go to the polls.

Barilaro was a city councillor for three terms before he was defeated by Sheets in the 1973 election.

After the election, Sheets sought a legal opinion on his status and Suffolk Superior Court Judge Harry Kalus ruled that there was no conflict of interest in the two jobs.

Since that time, however, the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court has ruled that Chicopee school teacher Edward Osek could not legally receive salaries as a city alderman and a teacher.

Barilaro asked Williams to rule on the following questions:

"Has Mr. Sheets illegally held office as a city councillor while being an employee of a city-supported junior college and collected a salary for both positions from the city for almost four years?"

"Was there a fraud or perpetration of a fraud committed in the case of Sheets vs. the City of Quincy [1973]?"

"If relevant facts were not delivered to Mr. Sheets' attorney for presentation to the court, it may well constitute perpetration of a fraud for which civil charges may be appropriate."

"An example, of such an omission would be the fact that Quincy Junior College is a city-supported institution and therefore unique. The transcript of this case should be reviewed for content to determine if all such relevant facts were presented."

"Can Mr. Sheets be required to repay illegally collected salaries to the city?"

"If the facts of this situation do, as I contend, constitute an illegal act, can part or all of the substantial amount of city monies collected by Mr. Sheets over the past four years be ordered returned to the city?"

"Is it not true that the recent Supreme Judicial Court case of Osetek vs. the city of Chicopee specifically overrules the case of Sheets vs. the city of Quincy?"

Sheets pointed out that it was he who went to court four years ago to ask for a judgement in the case and Judge Kalus ruled that "I had a right to serve, there was no reason why I could not."

"On that basis," he said, "I served almost four years. On that basis I hope to serve two more."

Sheets said that to his knowledge his attorney, Kevin Keating, had all the facts and made them known when he submitted his briefs to Judge Kalus.

He said that Judge Kalus' decision was based on a prior ruling in a case similar to the Chicopee case.

"There is nothing new in the Chicopee case," he said. "The same information was available to Judge Kalus."

Sheets has pointed out that his case also differs from the Chicopee case in that Quincy Junior College is the only municipal college in the state that is funded out of tuition, not tax dollars.

Barilaro's letter to Williams also took note of the fact that Sheets is sponsor of legislation for the Massachusetts Teachers Association which would authorize teachers to serve on city councils.

"Is it not curious," he asked, "that Mr. Sheets is sponsoring legislation to legalize a situation he has claimed is already legal for the past four years?"

Sheets, who is also a State Rep, said that he did indeed file the legislation for the MTA.

"They asked me because, more than anyone else, I was familiar with the problems involved," he said. "It didn't affect me. The court had already ruled in my case."

"I filed the bill for any teacher who wants to serve on the City Council in his or her community, so that he wouldn't have to go through what I am going through now."

"I can only say what I said four years ago. He has to live with his motives. I have to live with mine."

"I don't believe it is right to deny a person the right to serve simply because he is a teacher."

Sheets has been on a leave of absence from Quincy Junior College since he was elected to the legislature in 1975. He teaches one course from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. five days a week and is paid two-fifths time.

Stay Alive!

SELF POLLUTION

If you haven't smoked your first cigarette, you're a lucky person! Cigarette smoking is the greatest cause of preventable death in this country. If you smoke, you should be aware of the hazards: 70% greater chance of heart attack; 5-20 times greater chance of lung cancer; 10 times greater chance of mouth cancer; 18 times greater chance of emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

You can prevent half of your health problems by fighting self pollution. Preventive medicine works. The answer is in your hands. Here are some "Quitting Tips": Pick a target day and quit. Smoke one less cigarette each day. Make each cigarette a special decision -- and put off making the decision. Don't quit "forever". Just stop for a day and then the next day, and the next. Tell your friends and your family you're quitting. A public commitment bolsters willpower. Hide all evidence of cigarettes, ashtrays, matches, etc. so you aren't reminded of your old habit.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

You can grow a window of plants just for fragrance that love sun or part sun. Or choose plants that will live happily for a year in plain water. It's simply a matter of knowing who does what where. For marvelous aroma, there are nutmeg and peppermint geraniums, lemon vine cactus, sweet olive, gardenia, honey bells and persian lime. The scents waft from the window in morning sunlight and after watering. For the water gardener, use attractive glass containers, hanging or sitting, and watch the roots grow from colcus, glacier ivy, corn plants and common philodendron. Lots of fun and two good ways to make a window garden.

For a gorgeous selection of plants and flowers come on by NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100. We also have a bridal consulting service available so if you are planning a winter wedding let us help you select the flowers that will suit your personal taste and budget requirement. We are multi-lingual so we can assist you in French, Italian and Spanish. Member of ITD and Teleflora. Master Charge and BankAmericard honored. Hours: Mon. - Sat. 8-6, evenings by appointment.

Many barware glasses are available in stemware patterns. Barware includes glasses used to serve drinks from the bar, rather than strictly at the table. Tumblers-or highballs-are used for serving soft drinks or mixed drinks. They come in sizes which range from ten to fourteen ounces. Tumblers can have straight, flared, or rounded sides. Pick the shape you like and find most appealing. The iced tea has a capacity of twenty ounces, and it looks like a larger tumbler. It is a popular glass for drinks served over a lot of ice. The whiskey and soda-really a small highball-holds eight ounces. You'll find us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490 a popular place for buying all your jewelry, watches and gift items, because of our helpful staff. Arthur Tobin: The Better Choice

The Quincy Sun is in its 10th year and until now has never editorially endorsed any candidate for any elective office.

We believe the average voter in Quincy has the wisdom to cast his or her vote without influence from us.

We still feel that way—under normal circumstances.

But because of the unusual circumstances of the past two years we believe in good conscience we just cannot let this year's mayoral election go by without comment and without a review of those circumstances.

Some will agree and others disagree with the way we see it. But we think it is our duty this year to let you know how we really do see it.

Frankly, these past two years have not been very good or happy years for Quincy. Most of us would like to forget them. The city's good reputation has been tarnished and its good image ridiculed. It has become a city of suspicion, and at times—hate. It has become a community in which political revenge, personal vendetta and smearing by innuendo have become a cancer.

There has been little progress but much fighting. Overall, it has been a bad scene these past two years.

If everything was going well, Mayor Joseph LaRaia's administration would be claiming the lion's share of the credit and rightfully, so.

But very little has gone well and the LaRaia administration must accept the lion's share of the blame and rightfully so.

The mayor is the city's chief executive and under Quincy's Plan A charter the most powerful political figure in the city. The charter gives him both the authority and the tools with which to do a good job. We do not believe Mayor LaRaia has wisely used them and thus has not done a very good job.

The Mayor's administration has been one of alienation rather than one of accomplishment. The right move or two on his part in the first few weeks of his administration could have set his course on smooth rather than troubled waters.

But the Mayor from the start, has acted like a man with stubborn personal feelings that rule him.

There was the accusation someone tried to "steal" the election from him. And he underscored the charge by assigning his election workers to guard Quincy police assigned to guard the locked up ballots pending a recount. It made bold headlines in the Boston press and made all the television newscasts. But damaged both the city and the police department. It also set the stage for the suspicion that spread through the city like a crawling weed.

Even months later, when a court inquest found no criminal wrongdoing but recommended improved election procedures, the Mayor kept the fires of suspicion burning by insisting he still thought there were "deliberate errors". He wouldn't let go.

When he took office in January, 1976 he had the opportunity to show the people of Quincy that the city's future was more important than personal feelings. He also had the opportunity, back then, to win the support of certain City Councilors with whom he could have worked for the good of the city.

But he was off, instead, on his "January Massacre", firing a long list of previous administration appointees. A new mayor has all the right in the world to remove someone else's top level appointees to build his own team. But when he reaches down into the rank and file—down to the meter maid, the clerk typist, etc.—he is asking for problems in return.

The Mayor soon started meddling in the police department by placing a lieutenant—one of his political supporters—over the captains in the department. That shattered some more morale.

The police chief took the issue to court and won. The judge told the Mayor the police chief is the boss of the police department—not the Mayor.

As things continued to go wrong in his administration, a series of articles blossomed last January in a North End, Boston newspaper, continuing even until now.

The articles have portrayed the Mayor as Quincy's political saviour while crucifying his opponents and critics. The vicious, one-sided series claimed "obstructionists" were ganging up on Quincy's "young reform" mayor to keep him from doing his job. They blamed many, but especially Arthur Tobin and the rest of the City Council.

The Quincy Sun soon learned and reported it was the Mayor himself and his press secretary who went to that North End newspaper and furnished the information for the beginning articles.

Months later, under oath for a slander case deposition, both the Mayor and secretary admitted it. The Mayor also admitted being in contact with the North End newspaper at least some 19 times during the series of articles.

If there wasn't alienation before between the Mayor and the City Council, there was now. It left their relationship in a shambles with the city the loser.

As a City Councilor himself, Mayor LaRaia was cast in the role of crusader during the investigation of the cemetery department case in 1974. The headlines he generated then served as a vehicle to help get him to the mayor's office.

Ironically, after he became mayor he appointed to that very same cemetery department post a man who was under indictment for embezzlement and since has been convicted of income tax evasion. Another one of his appointees was found guilty of larceny in connection with a shakedown for a promised downtown Quincy restaurant license.

And just three weeks ago, two more of his appointees were convicted in federal court on extortion charges. The pair—both high level appointees—were found guilty of conspiracy and extorting $7,000 from a Natick contractor for LaRaia's campaign "war chest" in exchange for the $1 million Merrymount School addition contract.

And, according to the testimony, the $7,000 extortion was only the beginning of more similar ideas. There was the suggestion the contractor should bid on the $16 million North Quincy High School project and to put $75,000 into the figure for the Mayor's "war chest". The contractor was also told there would be other construction jobs coming up including a proposed addition to Quincy City Hospital.

These ideas, however, were short-circuited by the arrests of the pair by the FBI.

Also, according to the testimony, one of the two men was described as being "very close" to the Mayor and served as his "gopher"—errand boy. Yet while frequently with the Mayor, he was drawing a salary as the assistant director of the RSVP program. Why he was allowed to do so has not been explained.

There was no evidence during the trial that the Mayor had any prior knowledge of the $7,000 extortion. Somewhere along the line, however, he would have had to wonder where the money came from.

A man should not be held personally responsible for the actions of another. But these two men—and the other two appointees convicted of criminal wrongdoing—reflect on Mayor LaRaia's administration and his ability to pick the right people to serve with him.

Quincy has been a sort of Weirsville these past two years. In addition to all the fighting, charges and counter-charges, there have been most unusual goings on.

Like the bullet fired into Mayor LaRaia's unoccupied car. And the resulting wild speculation: Did a political enemy do it? Or was it done on purpose for sympathy?

Then, last week, the Mayor reported his office had been "bugged". More speculation:

Was it the other side eavesdropping on the big debate strategy? Or, did the Mayor's camp, knowing he is trailing in the mayoral race, plant the listening device for sympathy? Or, did the FBI which has been around town, do it? This kind of speculation Quincy doesn't need.

It has been like a two-year nightmare. We hope it will soon end.

The Quincy Sun has editorially in the past endorsed the concept of a full-time mayor. We still believe in one—but the right one.

Under Mayor LaRaia's full-time administration, Quincy has been a turbulent community with little to show progress-wise. It has come up with an election year downtown development plan and an election year $2.40 tax increase—after a $34.90 jump last year. Empty stores dot downtown Hancock St. The city has other problems.

Mayor LaRaia's overall performance, we feel, leaves something to be desired. There is little he can point to as factual accomplishment. He speaks of proposed projects and programs as though they were approved and completed.

LaRaia political advertisements are aimed at convincing Quincy voters that Senator Arthur Tobin cannot function properly as a part-time mayor nor serve Quincy loyally because he also represents Braintree at the State House. And there is the innuendo that because he is willing to serve as mayor without salary he will get the money back in some devious way.

The Mayor believes these are good campaign issues. We think they are good campaign camouflage—an attempt to hide what we think are the more important of the issues raised in this campaign: corruption, creditability and ability.

The fact is Mayor LaRaia's administration has had more scandal than perhaps any other in the city's history.

The fact is the LaRaia administration's creditability is questionable as a result.

And, the fact is that the Mayor's ability to run the city of Quincy in the manner it should be run, is at the very least questionable and debatable.

Quincy has had some good part-time mayors in the past, at least two of whom held a simultaneous second office. There was more progress and less turmoil then we have had the past two years under a full-time mayor.

Quincy cannot afford two more years of what it has had the past two years. Someone has got to get people pulling together again to get the city moving ahead again.

Quincy needs a mayor who can sit down with the City Council and work with them to solve its problems.

We think Mayor LaRaia has crossed the Bridge of No Return as far as effectively working with the City Council is concerned. Even if two or three council candidates sympathetic to him are elected next Tuesday it will not be enough to repair the virtually destroyed working link between the executive and legislative branches of Quincy's government.

Quincy needs harmony to move forward again. Mayor LaRaia, from his performance of the past two years, is not a conductor of harmony.

Mayor LaRaia would have you pre-judge Senator Tobin's abilities as a Mayor. How can anyone do that?

But we know what Joseph LaRaia has done as Mayor. Arthur Tobin now deserves the chance to show what he can do.

We would have preferred to remain editorially neutral in this election as we have in the past, but we feel we just cannot do so.

As a part-time mayor, Arthur Tobin may not be the perfect choice. But we believe this year he is the better choice.

Presidential Cooperative Makes $100,000 Advance Tax Payment

The Presidential Cooperative Bank has made an advance payment of $100,000 of tax escrow funds to the city. Francis S. McCauley, bank president announces.

He said that although tax payments are not due until 30 days from the postmark date on the bill, the payment was made to help the city avoid additional borrowing of money in anticipation of taxes to be collected on the due date.

McCauley said that the bank would pay in full, tax bills of all mortgage customers whose accounts are up to date. Deficiencies in tax escrow accounts after the tax due date, he said will be billed to the individual customers with no interest or service charges assessed.

He said the bank is in the process of phasing out the monthly collection of taxes and in the near future, will make collections only on accounts where such collections are required by law.

Public Hearing Nov. 29

On 'Peak Load' Electricity Pricing

The Mass Department of Public Utilities will hold a public hearing Tuesday, Nov. 29, at 10 a.m. in the Leverett Saltonstall State Office Building to discuss "peak load" pricing of electricity.

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] said the purpose of the hearing is to hear testimony from electric companies and the public on possible regulations to govern "peak load" pricing.

Peak load pricing is defined as the policy of charging higher rates for electricity during the hours of greatest demand in an effort to lower the demand for power during peak use times.

The book, "Don Quixote," has been more widely translated than any other book except the Bible.

The text of the debate follows:

TOBIN - Thank you. I wish to thank the management of radio station WJDA, the reporters from The Quincy Sun and Patriot Ledger for their coverage and a special "thank you" to the League of Women Voters for the opportunity to address the citizens of Quincy on my candidacy for the office of Mayor.

Unfortunately, the campaign for this most high and respected office has deteriorated in the past weeks to a barrage of deliberate, malicious and false personal attacks on my family name and my reputation. This type of campaigning is repugnant and an insult to the intelligence of each and every citizen of our city. I feel that the good people of Quincy deserve more than this. And that is why I have refused to answer or dignify these vicious allegations. And I shall continue in the remaining days of my campaign to maintain a high calibre and positive approach to the problems besetting our community.

I shall continue to address myself to the issues and to speak out and expose wrongdoing wherever it is found. And in the final analysis, the issue of this campaign should not be Arthur Tobin or Joseph LaRaia. That is unimportant. The real issue in this campaign is Quincy, her progress and her future, and which mayoralty candidate can best guide the destiny of our city in the next two years. I want this opportunity to restore Quincy's pride and progress. I want to attack the high cost of government. I want to hold the line in taxation. I want to institute a sound fiscal management system with zero-based budgeting. I want to restore the pride and professionalism, free of political interference in the Quincy Police Department. I want to form a select panel of Quincy citizens to screen and recommend qualified and competent appointments who will not be a disappointment to you.

I want to seek a practical solution to attract new business, to revitalize our business area and to continue the fight against 100 per cent revaluation to save the homes of our citizens. I want to continue my record of service to the senior citizens of our community. I want to bring an end to the corruption that has brought shame and disgrace to a proud and historic city, and to put the interest of the people above all else. As your Mayor, I know I can accomplish these goals and I need your help.

LAIRAIA - I would like to express my sincere thanks to the Quincy League of Women Voters and to WJDA for providing this opportunity, not only to myself but also to my opponent. This election campaign is most vital to the future of our city. It is most vital because the voters of our city must make a very important decision next Tuesday, a decision that will allow me to continue the many progressive programs that I have instituted over the last 22 months.

I believe my "People for Progress" programs have created enthusiasm and excitement. I believe my "People for Progress" programs are innovative and constructive because they have involved all of the people of the city. No longer is the city of Quincy being controlled by a chosen few. I have established more citizen committees than any previous Mayor and the members of these committees have been a valuable asset to my administration. I believe the most important project facing us is the revitalization of our downtown area. I have initiated a dramatic $300 million plan that not only will create thousands of jobs but will expand the city's tax base and eventually relieve the tax burden on the homeowners.

During the past 22 months, my administration has acquired more federal funds than any previous administration. Only yesterday we held a ground-breaking for a City Hall annex. The construction of the annex will be financed totally through a $24 million grant from the Economic Development Administration. It was the largest single grant ever awarded the city of Quincy and was provided to create 170 jobs for an 18-month period. During my administration, we have tripled the federal government involvement in block grants and low interest loans for home rehabilitation.

I am especially proud of accomplishments we have made at the City Hospital. We now have an affiliation with Tufts Medical School. We are providing the best patient care ever while increasing the revenues through expert management leadership. Senior citizen programs, such as the "Store on Wheels", have provided more opportunities for the elderly in our city.

A lottery for the summer job program has eliminated patronage abuse. And my appointments task force, comprised of respected citizens, will enable me to expand my plans for the future with the best available talent. During the past 22 months I've established a cost savings central maintenance garage, stabilized taxes, streamlined city government and initiated the construction of an amphitheater to enhance our cultural activities. Youth programs have been expanded and city-wide busing was averted through the construction of an addition to North Quincy High. Yes, I am extremely proud of the accomplishments we have achieved in the last 22 months and they will continue with the support of the voters next Tuesday.

MRS. SULLIVAN - The first question will be for Sen. Tobin. He will have two minutes to answer and his opponent will have one minute to comment. This question was submitted by Sen. Tobin, who will have an opportunity to respond to it. Sen. Tobin, there are allegations that you are part of a big political machine. What is your response?

TOBIN - I have been extremely fortunate in my 12 years of public service to have many wonderful people in this city and their families down through the years supportive of my candidacy and the things I stand for. Two of the gentlemen who have been my friends down through the years have taken much vilification and personal abuse. Two of these gentlemen were elected by the people of the city of Quincy as city councilors, state legislators and Mayors of the city of Quincy. They were elected by the people. They have never involved themselves in wrongdoing. They are two of the finest individuals that I have concerned myself with in or out of public office and I welcome this opportunity this morning to clear their names. My friend, James R. McIntyre, and Walter J. Hannon, have served the people of Quincy with distinction. I am very proud of that association. If I had to make a decision between the friendship I enjoy and that of being the Mayor of this city, I would take the friendship.

LARAIA - A political machine is nothing more than power politics. When the authority of an elected official is invested in one like my opponent, Sen. Tobin, as a senator, as a lawyer, as a local official overseeing a body of men comprising nine members of the City Council, two-thirds of which have a conflict and are under the intimidation of a Council President, senator and lawyer because of their professionalism with the courts. Concentration in one individual doesn't do the public interest any good.

TOBIN - Is there additional time on that if you didn't take the two minutes?

MRS. SULLIVAN - No. The next question is for Mayor LaRaia and was submitted by him. You have defended the tax increase of $34.90 last year as needed to pay for city services in the 1976-77 fiscal year budget. Can you explain how Councilor Tobin's recommended $10 tax plan was impossible and could not be accepted by state officials?

LARAIA - The $34.90 increase vs. Sen. Tobin's plan to be a $10 increase represents a difference of $6 million of needed revenue to run the city of Quincy for the last fiscal year. A $10 arbitrary tax increase as proposed by the senator was virtually impossible because it represented nothing more than the possibility of borrowing a large amount of funds at high interest, of hurting the city's financial picture in the bond market for other needed bonded items such as the high school, the addition of which is being built now. It meant increased deficit spending over and above a $4 million deficit that we realized in the first six months in office.

It suggested inflated hospital and excise tax receipts that were already inflated. It was actually putting the city into bankruptcy. I as a responsible city official who must make the hard decisions as Mayor could not possibly come close to entertaining an increase that would have obviously been refused by state officials, since they were looking for realistic figures in establishing the tax rate for the year. Since the previous year the budget was deficient, the tax rate had not increased, in fact, for the previous three years the total increase of taxes was a total of $4.50, not proportionately increased to the high cost of government that took place in that period of time. Again, the $34.90 was a true, honest, realistic increase approved by the assessors and the state board of corporations and taxation.

TOBIN - The $34.90 tax figure never should have been. The people of the department of taxation and corporation, after looking over the figures we submitted for $10.10 said they could have accepted those figures if we had the Mayor of the city of Quincy sit down with the City Council and work out the problems which the Mayor refused to do. The Mayor has said that he inherited a $4 million deficit from a previous administration. But what he has not told the people of the city of Quincy is during his term of Mayor he has increased the tax levy of the city of Quincy in excess of $25,000,623.

If he only inherited a $4 million deficit from a previous administration, what has he done with the other $21 million. In conclusion, I'd like to show every one in this room this morning a copy of a report from the Quincy Taxpayers Association, which is non-partisan, and the last paragraph said, "We are not to proud of the 1976 property tax increase of $34.90, which was an increase of 21.8 per cent, the highest increase in Quincy's history?" and with a study of the actual figures, the best qualified men to substantiate a tax rate of $10.90 should have been allowed.

MRS. SULLIVAN - Mayor LaRaia now asks Sen. Tobin: It has been said that Councilor Tobin has opposed, delayed, criticized and defeated the programs of Mayor LaRaia in the last 22 months. If this is not true, can you explain what programs of Mayor LaRaia you have supported?

TOBIN - I've supported every program that the executive secretary, Mr. Casey, came to me and the City Council to tell me it was important for the best interests of the city. We do not have that list in front of us today but the only things I have opposed of the Mayor were his cost of living increases to the people he appointed to his political machine in excess of 20 per cent on a supplemental budget. I have opposed the cost of living increases to the people he has under suspension while under convictions in court, that the Mayor granted cost of living increases, I did oppose that. And I opposed the high sweetheart management consultant deal at North Quincy High School. If we had saved the money we had spent on that sweetheart deal they would have the money today to take the gas station adjacent to the high school.

LARAIA - Sen. Tobin has not supported any programs whatsoever that we have introduced in the last 22 months. He has opposed the City Hall addition, the downtown revitalization plan; he's done nothing for the central maintenance facility. Public safety, he has not supported the increase in personnel for fire and police as needed. Energy coordinator we proposed last year, he did not support. He has criticized our best talent, our planning director, who has an architect's standing in the city of Quincy. He has criticized our budget coordinator, who spent nine years in the auditing department. He has criticized our hospital director who was an assistant governor. And he has criticized many other officials. He has spared very few people. There are very few programs at all that people can think of that he has supported during my 22 months of my administration.

MRS. SULLIVAN - Sen. Tobin asks Mayor LaRaia: In your campaign literature for Mayor in 1975 you told the citizens of Quincy that, if elected, Joe LaRaia would end cronyism and favoritism at City Hall. How many relatives and campaign contributors have you appointed to your administration?

LARAIA - That figure I would not be aware of because every candidate for the office has been put into that office provided he had the background to fit into the particular position. I think we can challenge any previous administration with the many individuals that we have placed in appropriate positions, appropriate to their background, that need any other officials appointed with the highest qualifications to serve the city of Quincy. Our budget coordinator, a woman who served nine years in the auditing department, is a graduate of college with an accounting degree, has tremendous amount of expertise in city finances.

The planning director, an architect who served in the previous administration, has made tremendous strides in bringing in additional federal funds for the benefit of the city of Quincy. A hospital director, an assistant governor, who has come in and replaced a former director, tool of patronage and cronyism as suggested by the senator, who has done remarkably well since he has been in there since last November, bringing to Quincy a Tufts Medical School affiliation and enhancing our medical services. Our purchasing agent was a 15-year career employee, a woman who we elevated as the purchasing agent to conduct the affairs of the city of Quincy. The commissioner of public health is a well-known doctor in the community who we have appointed. These people were put into these positions because of their backgrounds and their expertise in providing services to the city of Quincy.

TOBIN — Those are the individuals that Mayor LaRaia would like to talk about. I have a list of minimum of 15 people listed as making campaign contributions and political cronyism and nepotism to his campaign. Mayor LaRaia appointed his sister-in-law secretary to the office of the Mayor. He doesn't talk about that. Mayor LaRaia recently gave his cousin an upgrade in classification. But he doesn't talk about that. He also has uncles and cousins and other relations on the city payroll. Arthur Tobin has never appointed anyone to the city payroll in the city of Quincy. There is the real nepotism and cronyism in Quincy and these are the things Mayor LaRaia will not talk about.

MRS. SULLIVAN — This question is from Mr. LaRaia to Mr. Tobin: Three reputable newspapers, the Patriot Ledger, the Christian Science Monitor and the Brockton Enterprise, have reported that you have been conspicuously absent from your former senate duties as vice chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. How can you be a fulltime Mayor when your absences in the Senate show you can't meet all your commitments to the Senate responsibilities?

TOBIN — Had the reporters done their job and sought the leadership of the Massachusetts State Senate, they would have retracted that statement as I asked them to. Unbeknown to them when they wrote the statement, I had already gone to the Senate President and asked to be excused from the deliberations of the huge tax increase on the state budget because I informed the Senate President I had no intention of voting for it. That's a matter of record. The Senate President has verified that. I was not conspicuously absent.

I had permission from the Senate President not to sit in on that deliberation. I have never at any time been removed from any committee on the Massachusetts legislature. The senate President has already sent a letter to the editors of the Brockton Enterprise and the Patriot Ledger. Why they refused to print this, I do not know. The Senate President asked me personally to accept the position I am in. Had I not accepted the position of chairman of bills to the third reading, I would still be the vice chairman of Ways and Means today. All anyone had to do to verify that is to call the office of the Senate President. Subsequent to this happening, the Senate President elevated me to the important position of the Rules Committee. Now that ought to speak for itself and that is just another indication of the personal vilification and character assassination I have had to live with. But I don't think the people of Quincy are going to listen to this type of mudslinging. It is absolutely a false statement and the Mayor knows it.

LARAIA — I would think the people of the city of Quincy would judge the reports of three separate independent newspapers from the report of the statements of the Senate President, who is responsible for appointing the senators to various committees. We all know of the buddy-buddy system in the Senate. I think the record stands for itself. The senator, as a routine procedure, is one of 40 who is appointed to several committees. He's chairman of the Senate Bills in Third Reading Committee, vice chairman of the Federal Financial Assistance Committee, vice chairman of the Post Audit and Oversight Committee, a member of the State Administration Committee, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, Joint, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, Senate, a member of Local Affairs Committee. If the papers report that he can't attend and he's conspicuously absent, it's very obvious with his other obligations in the State Senate, he cannot fulfill his obligations on the city level as a fulltime Mayor.

MRS. SULLIVAN — The next question is from Mayor LaRaia: You have disclosed your income and financial worth, something that has been done by few public officials. How does this action benefit the public?

LARAIA — Public disclosure is something very few public officials are willing to do or have done. Public disclosure is another measure for the public to judge their officials. In this campaign the issue of credibility has surfaced and I can think of no better way of challenging that issue by doing what no other public official has done to the extent that I have done it.

I have disclosed my income tax for last year, which shows my total income, which is primarily from my office of Mayor. It also shows other statistics regarding my personal income. My net worth has been filed also in the city clerk's office. That has been painstakingly put together by a CPA firm and verified as to the assets over my liabilities and determining my net worth, by financial interests, my financial associations, which are very, very minimal. Show Joe LaRaia's not afraid to show to the public anything that the public expects of him. I do not need a law to tell me that I have to disclose my net income, or I have to disclose my finances, my assets over my liabilities. I have done it willingly and I hope that the public would accept it in the spirit it was given to them.

TOBIN — Do you really believe that your financial statement tells all if an elected official was trying to cover up something? Do the people in this room and the listening audience really believe that the two people extorted ... found guilty of extortion in federal district court were going to declare the $7,000 kickback they received? Does the listening audience really believe that the downtown store redevelopment coordinator that was found guilty and convicted was going to declare the $500 solicitation and bribe he received? Do your financial statements really tell what you're trying to cover up? I don't think the people want their intelligence insulted any longer. This is just another campaign trick, in the last weeks of the campaign so that Mr. LaRaia in collusion with the Post Gazette want to find out my net worth during a libel suit. And on the advice of my legal advisors, I am not going to make any statement until we're inside a court of law. But I don't think the people are being fooled.

MRS. SULLIVAN — Mr. LaRaia now asks: Councillor Tobin has made statements in his political ads that the bonded debt of the city has increased in the LaRaia administration. The official statement of the treasurer confirms that the bonded debt has decreased. If you do not accept the report of the treasurer then will you explain how your personal tabulation shows an increased debt?

TOBIN — In a conference with the city auditor of the city of Quincy, who I listen to for financial advice the bonded debt of our city has increased. More bonds have been let out under the LaRaia administration than in previous administrations. We had the bonded indebtedness of the North Quincy High School, with interest, and which he told the youngsters at North Quincy High School that there would be no interest. That's the intelligence that's coming out of the corner office.

We had the bonded indebtedness for road surfacing. We had the bonded indebtedness for buying new equipment for the city and cutting expense items in the bond issue to spread it out over a five-year period. And this was the very thing Mayor LaRaia chastised and criticized former Mayor Hannon for doing. Every criticism that Mayor LaRaia has levied against the former administration of this city. He tells the people one thing and then he does just the opposite. That's why I'm grateful for this debate here today. The bonded indebtedness, according to our city auditor, has increased.

LARAIA — Treasurer and collector Robert Foy on Oct. 11 submitted to me a written statement in his official capacity as treasurer, "Dear Mayor LaRaia. The outstanding and authorized long term debt of the city of Quincy is $40,165,000 as of Oct. 11, 1977. The outstanding and authorized long term debt of the city of Quincy on Jan. 1, 1976, was $44,045,000." So what we're saying here is, before I stepped into office, the outstanding authorized long term debt was greater by some $4 million over what it was when this report was issued on Oct. 11, 1977. How my opponent, Sen. Tobin, can state in a newspaper, the exact opposite without living up to the responsibility of giving the public the facts, is just beyond comprehension. So I am going on the record on the statements of our treasurer, Robert Foy.

MRS. SULLIVAN — Mr. Tobin asks you, Mr. LaRaia, in your campaign literature, you stated that Sen. Tobin has filed several pieces of legislation to allow promotional exams for city of Quincy employees. Did you request Sen. Tobin to file legislation for a promotional exam after you failed to pass the Civil Service welfare test and when the press inquired did you ask that the legislation be removed so that you would not receive any bad publicity?

LARAIA — I never requested of Sen. Tobin to have him do for me what I wouldn't want done for anyone else. As Mayor, I pick people off the Civil Service list as they appeared on the list. It takes an awful long time to prepare for an exam and to arrive at the top of the list. Nobody wants to be hurt by being bypassed. I've experienced that as a public official working for the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare. Let me say this, that I have ... before I left my position with the Welfare Department, was offered under the Civil Service list a position that he says that I did not pass. And I can document that response by providing that material to anyone here in this room and to Sen. Tobin, if he should like. No way would I accept bypassing the Civil Service list or using tactics that benefit some and not give the public an even chance when they take an exam and they've earned their right to be picked from that list when it is presented to any personnel department.

ARTHUR TOBIN

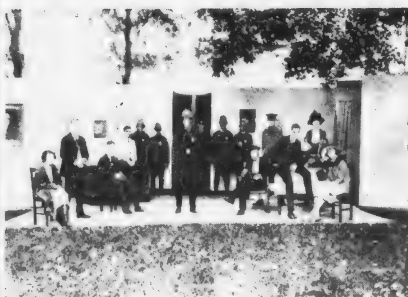

TOBIN — I hope you, as moderator, and the listening public notice that Mayor LaRaia did not answer that question. The truth is that the very individual that Mayor LaRaia labels as a machine in the city of Quincy, an honorable and decent man, James R. McIntyre, appointed Mr. LaRaia to his position in the Department of Public Welfare. And he now ridicules the very man that gave him his job. Subsequent to him accepting that position, Mayor LaRaia did come to me and asked me to file the same legislation that I have filed for other people down through the years for a promotional exam. Mayor LaRaia did request this of me. My secretary typed this legislation. It was drafted in the office of the Senate counsel. When the Patriot Ledger made inquiry, Mayor LaRaia asked, he didn't want bad publicity and asked that the bill be withdrawn. And that's the truth.

MRS. SULLIVAN — Mr. Tobin, there have been allegations that you control the Quincy Housing Authority. How do you respond?

TOBIN — I'd like to answer that question this way. There are five members on the Quincy Health ... er, Housing Authority Board of Managers. Two of these members were appointed by Joseph J. LaRaia. One of these members was appointed by a Republican governor of our Commonwealth. The remaining two members were appointed by a former Republican Mayor of the City of Quincy. Arthur Tobin has made no appointments to the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Managers. I think the facts speak for themselves. Mayor LaRaia has a Republican former sheriff coordinating his campaign. If anyone has access to a former Republican governor who now controls three members of the Board, it's Mayor LaRaia, not Arthur Tobin. This is another one of those vicious personal attacks. I did not appoint anyone. I control no one. I do the best I can for the senior

By Yacht Clubs For Quincy Bay Efforts

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

This letter is being written to praise the persistent and tireless efforts of Councillor Leo J. Kelly, in behalf of, not only the boating enthusiasts that we represent, but also in behalf of anyone who has ever received pleasure from Quincy Bay or its surrounding shoreline.

Efforts began about four years ago to erect a secondary sewage treatment plant in Quincy Bay. If constructed it would have entailed the further filling of the Bay, on a site adjacent to the present Nut Island treatment facility. As most of us are aware, the present structure, fill and functioning of Nut Island causes serious problems with regard to Ecology, Pollution and Aesthetics, any further fill, which would have been required, had it not been for Kelly's efforts, would have increased the problems tenfold. Thus drastically deterring the recreational use of the Bay.

The secondary treatment plant will be built, but Kelly's efforts have resulted in Federal Legislation which will result in its placement at Deer Island, and the saving of Quincy Bay from further desecration, for this Councillor Kelly has earned our highest praise.

Seniors Reduced MBTA Fare Registration Here Nov. 9

An MBTA registration team will be in Quincy Wednesday, Nov. 9, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to process applications for reduced fare identification cards for eligible senior citizens and eligible handicapped citizens of Quincy and surrounding communities.

Registration will take place at the Quincy Drop-In Center, High School Ave., Quincy Center.

To be eligible for a senior citizen reduced fare identification card, which contains the name and address of the holder and a color photograph for positive identification, senior citizens must bring proof of age -- 65 years or older -- such as a birth certificate, baptismal record, or driver's license; proof of residency such as a driver's license, library card or charge plate; and a 50-cent cash fee.

Medicare cards will not be accepted as proof of age.

The MBTA stresses that senior citizens who already have a reduced fare identification card do not need to register again. What appears to be an expiration date is used merely for internal auditing and control purposes. Once a reduced fare identification card is issued, it is good for life.

To be eligible for a handicapped citizen reduced fare identification card, good only during off-peak hours, handicapped persons must present acceptable proof of their disability such as a letter from the Social Security Administration; evidence of 70 percent or more disability as determined by the United States Veterans' Administration; or completion of MBTA Form No. SN-7, which must be approved and signed by a physician or state or federal agency serving the handicapped.

The MBTA forms will be mailed to anyone requesting them by calling the MBTA's Special Needs Office (722-5123).

Clarence Edwards Selected For Goldfarb Award

Clarence C. L. Edwards of Quincy, public health environmentalist and former chief sanitarian of the Quincy Health Department, has recently been nominated and selected as the recipient of the 1977 Goldfarb Award.

He was selected by the Goldfarb Award Committee of the Massachusetts Environmental Health Association, affiliate of the National Environmental Health Association. The honor is given in special recognition for outstanding achievements, leadership and competent professional practice in the field of Public Health and service rendered to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts during his career.

Edwards, a life-long citizen of Quincy, was educated in the Cambridge Public School System, and during his professional career had completed special advanced training at the Harvard School of Public Health and at the original specialized field training course of the Public Health Service at the University of Massachusetts.

He first entered Public Health as a Naval sanitarian specialist with the U.S. Navy serving under assignment to the Haitian Government as sanitation officer responsible for the building of sanitary facilities, malaria control irrigation projects and general sanitation.

Following this he was appointed to the Quincy Health Department as meat inspector and then promoted to chief sanitarian of the sanitation section of the Department until his retirement in 1969. He was recognized as first in introducing the sanitary swab test for the examination of eating and drinking utensils, the systematic inspection of day care and summer camps as a local program, the introduction of concentrated audio-visual aids together with lecture materials directed for food handlers training.

This material was originated and organized by Edwards through his interest in photography and his public health knowledge and background. Edwards was instrumental in the early days as one of the pioneers striving for the recognition of Sanitarians as a professional group and realizing the fruition of his efforts in the passage of the Registration Act for Sanitarians in August 1957.

Edwards has served as Chairman of the Sanitation Section of the Massachusetts Public Health Association, appointed by the Governor to serve as a member of the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Board of Registration for the Certification of Sanitarians and as past president of the Massachusetts Environmental Health Association in 1959. He has been an active member with the Association throughout his career until his retirement in 1969 whereupon he was conferred life-time membership.

Phinney Conference Delegate

citizens and all the people of this city.

LARAIA -- The board of directors of the Housing Authority, before I took office, represent primarily those who support very strongly the so-called Tobin-McIntyre machine, appointed or supported by that combination. And it is very obvious by the reported transactions that have taken place between the directors and other officials associated with the Housing Authority, where the power structure lies. It is true one of those members, or two of those members were appointed, one of those last year and one just recently, and I'm sure that power structure will be broken if I am re-elected to make a recommendation and nominate another official or citizen who will be more objective in the thinking of the affairs of the Housing Authority.

MRS. SULLIVAN -- Mr. Tobin asks Mr. LaRaia: You recently distributed campaign literature asking Mr. Tobin what does he have to hide. The Patriot Ledger reported on March 5, 1977, that the FBI requested your appointment book after the arrest of your commissioner of public works and your assistant director of RSVP. You refused this request. What do you have to hide?

LARAIA -- Two agents from the FBI appeared at my office unannounced and approached my personal secretary asking for certain information, such as the appointment book mentioned. I was not in the office that day. The decision not to turn over any personal data was based on her judgement, not knowing who these individuals were, the way they approached her and confronted her, using an intimidating approach that I'm sure would have frightened off any secretary. Subsequent to that we offered any and all material that they felt they would need to conduct further their investigation and they did not seek the appointment book following that.

TOBIN -- According to published reports subsequent to that happening the Mayor made a public statement that the FBI or any other agency would have to go to a court of law to get what they were seeking. That was public information. Now if one of the individuals found guilty and convicted of extorting money from a contractor, introduced evidence into a court of law that he was chaffeurring the Mayor of this city around for Christmas gifts shortly before he took off to accept a white envelope with $7,000 in cash, may be there are things that we don't want to talk about but that we should talk about. And these are the things I think the people have a right to know. Mayor LaRaia has made statements of a McIntyre-Hannon-Tobin machine. My relationship with my friends are personal but he doesn't talk about the Reppucci-LoCicero-LaRaia machine. And that I think is important.

MRS. SULLIVAN -- Mr. Tobin, would you please state your views on taxes and revaluation. How does your stand differ from that of Mr. LaRaia?

TOBIN -- My stand on taxes and revaluation has been consistent. I have always and everywhere voted against it, 100 per cent revaluation. Joseph J. LaRaia as a city councillor, when it really counted the most, when the people needed his vote to hire an outside firm to come in and implement 100 per cent revaluation, Joseph LaRaia voted yes, in favor of 100 per cent revaluation. Afterwards, when the heat came on and the people protested, he changed his vote. But when it counted the most, it's a public document, he voted for it. Arthur Tobin has never voted for it. That's the difference in the two candidates. It's also the difference between the two candidates in our stand on taxation. I think we ought to trim the fat in the budget and be concerned about those on fixed income. The city of Quincy never should have had a $34.90 tax increase in 1976. There was no sympathy and compassion for our senior citizens and people on low income then now... then. Now we have tons of sympathy and compassion during a re-election year. I hope the people aren't going to be fooled.

LARAIA -- Sen. Tobin circulated literature the past couple of weeks that was intended to be deceptive. He stated in his literature that Joe LaRaia voted for a revaluation order of the city council in 1965. The only thing he left out was the most important aspect of that whole activity and that was what caused the revaluation order even to be considered by the City Council. He doesn't tell you that a Superior Court Judge ordered the city to implement an appropriation to conduct a revaluation study. Otherwise he would have stopped the city from functioning by his legal authority as a judge. Why doesn't Sen. Tobin tell you the whole truth about the issue of the revaluation order in 1965. Nobody supported that order. They were under the duress of a judge to appropriate monies even though they opposed the whole idea.

MRS. SULLIVAN -- Mayor LaRaia, you have appointed numerous citizen committees throughout the city. Can you explain what some of these committees are and why they were formulated?

LARAIA -- The many committees that we have established were intended to provide as much public input into the decision-making policies of any Mayor, to afford them the opportunity to review and make recommendations as community leaders and those interested in their own neighborhoods. Some of these committees that we put together were the Animal Control Commission. Because of the demands made by the public for better treatment of animals, for control of animals, we've appointed a committee of skilled and interested individuals who are right now deliberating to present to me in January their recommendations how we can control the animal population of the city and guard against their reckless use of the facilities that really are not modern and up-to-date and because of the problems with animal control in the city of Quincy we have made a strong decision to implement a commission that will provide the remedies for this problem. Another particular committee that we have put together is the Boston Harbor Marina facility that was proposed over a year ago. The whole purpose of this committee was to give the residents of Squantum and Atlantic a watchdog supervisory authority to review and scrutinize this proposal to make a determination that I have said I would abide by regarding their approval or disapproval of this plan.

TOBIN -- I support the Mayor's position on citizen participation. Unfortunately, we didn't have enough of it when he made his original appointments to his administration. Sad to say, if he had appointed a blue ribbon screening committee at that time we may not have had four individuals who are now convicted felons who have brought shame and disgrace upon this city. And that's the sad thing.

MRS. SULLIVAN -- Each candidate will now have three minutes to sum up.

TOBIN -- It's been a long hard campaign. And you've listened to a lot of charges being made. The credibility of the candidates has been brought into question. I have been truthful throughout this campaign, as I have been throughout my 12 years of public service. There is a basic difference between the two candidates seeking the office of Mayor. Their actions and deeds tells you something about the individuals. Here is something to really think about.

Joseph LaRaia has antagonized and fought with the elected officials in our city. Arthur Tobin has worked with the elected officials of our city in a spirit of cooperation. Joseph LaRaia has had a running feud with the district attorney, the chief of police and has belittled the Quincy Police Department. Arthur Tobin wants to put an end to political interference in the Quincy Police Department. Think about it.

Joseph LaRaia has used the Post Gazette to smear my good name and reputation and tear down the city of Quincy. Arthur Tobin has exposed this collusion to the public for what it is.

Joseph LaRaia has levied just under $40 per thousand in new taxes during his term as Mayor. Arthur Tobin has opposed this outrage. Think about it.

Joseph LaRaia as city councillor, when it counted the most, voted for 100 per cent revaluation. Arthur Tobin has consistently opposed 100 per cent revaluation. Think about it.

Joseph LaRaia has appointed his relatives and political campaign cronies to high salaried jobs and his friends betrayed the public trust. Arthur Tobin has been free of scandal during 12 years of public service. Think about it.

Joseph LaRaia awarded a sweetheart consulting contract for North Quincy High School while his aides were discussing a $75,000 kickback for the contract and a close relative was being placed on the payroll. Arthur Tobin helped expose this coverup. Think about it.

Joseph J. LaRaia granted cost of living increases from taxpayers funds to convicted felons while still under suspension. Arthur Tobin exposed and voted against this outrage. Think about it.

Arthur Tobin wants to bring an end to corruption in our city. Joseph LaRaia has hidden these facts from you. Arthur Tobin has nothing to hide. Think about it.

I'm Arthur Tobin and you know me and know what I stand for. I want to restore Quincy's pride and progress and I need your help. Think about it.

LARAIA -- The most important issue of this mayoralty campaign is credibility. I have initiated positive and progressive programs for the city of Quincy while my opponent has spent his campaigning making promises and proposals. He has resorted mostly to criticism of my administration. As yet he has not outlined any programs for the future.

The choice the voters of Quincy must make Tuesday is whether they want a fulltime mayor or a parttime mayor. My opponent says he wants to hold two fulltime jobs, state senator and mayor. It can't be done. In 1972, my opponent voted that the Mayor of Quincy should serve fulltime. Today he is asking the voters to support him as a parttime mayor. The task of mayor today is a difficult one. He must administer an $85 million budget and 4,500 employees. It requires fulltime leadership.

The question the voters must ask themselves before making their decision Tuesday is that of a conflict which could develop with one man serving as mayor and senator. My opponent, as state senator, represents the residents of Avon, Braintree and Holbrook. Where will his loyalties lie if he is confronted with any decision involving the residents of Avon, Braintree and Holbrook vs. the residents of Quincy? My opponent has not revealed how he intends to serve fulltime in a senate capacity and fulltime as mayor of Quincy. If he has a special technique then he should let the voters know about it. The average work week, according to a recent survey, in the state senate is 35 hours. The duties of mayor, as I have experienced during the past 22 months, require 50 hours a week. My opponent, who serves on six committees in the Senate, cannot fulfill both fulltime jobs. It is an impossible task.

In addition to his claim he will serve two fulltime jobs at the same time, another area of credibility in which my opponent is lacking is his failure to make full disclosure of his financial status. My opponent has announced he will serve as Mayor for no pay. Yet he refuses to discuss his sources of income. In view of the fact he insists he will serve as Mayor for no pay and also give up his private law practice, I believe the voters of Quincy have a right to know his financial status. Over a month ago I made full disclosure of my finances and they are on record at the city clerk's office at City Hall.

At the time I challenged my opponent to do the same. Thus far he has not come forward. I believe this is an injustice to the voters of Quincy and definitely questions the credibility of my opponent. The voters of Quincy want to know. They want to know why my opponent wants to serve in two fulltime jobs. They want to know why my opponent is so willing to serve as mayor for no pay. He has not answered their question. Or either question. That's why I believe that credibility is the key issue of this campaign. I am confident the voters of Quincy want a fulltime mayor, one who has no other interests, one who has no possible conflicts with other communities and one who will represent them fulltime. Corruption is all around us. It's on the Senate level, as my colleague in city government and his two colleagues in state government were found convicted of a major extortion trial. It's on a local level in Quincy, throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It's in the courts. It's in Watergate. But the real test is the quickness and the swiftness that any mayor will act when he notices corruption of any kind and I have acted very quickly when I have noticed any corruption in the city of Quincy in my last 22 months of my administration.

MRS. SULLIVAN -- Candidates, thank you for your participation. Listeners, Nov. 8, is election day. Remember, your vote is your voice.

Candidates Present Views On Issues For November 8 City Election

The 25 candidates in the Nov. 8 Quincy city final election have been given the opportunity to speak out on what they consider to be the key issues through a questionnaire compiled by the League of Women Voters of Quincy.

The public service project was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Mary Flavin, League president and Mrs. Jane Sullivan, Voter Service Chairman. Assisting them were Mrs. Arlene Tenney, Mrs. Marion Marsh and Mrs. Anne Kane.

In addition to profile information, mayoral, city council-at-large, ward council and school committee candidates were each asked a question on issues pertaining to the office they seek.

The two mayoral candidates were asked not to exceed 150 words and the other candidates not to exceed 100 words in answering the questions.

● Mayor

Question: What do you see as the number one priority for your administration and in relation to this priority what specific goals would you set for your first year?

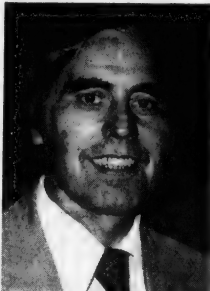

JOSEPH J. LARAIA, 54 Grogan Ave. Age: 45. Occupation: Mayor of Quincy.

Answer: In my first two years as Mayor, I have sought to make Quincy a sound and fiscally stable municipality. All my programs have been aimed at achieving this goal.

My top priority, if re-elected, will be to direct my energies, full-time, towards continuing programs I have started, such as the Downtown Development Project, revitalizing Quincy City Hospital, North Quincy High School expansion, and the Houghs Neck Community Development Program.

I further plan to institute other new and innovative programs which will bring substantial federal and state funds into the City to enhance services for the residents of Quincy.

I will give Quincy my complete and undivided time in administering programs and problems which we will face in the years to come.

ARTHUR H. TOBIN, 58 Huntley Rd. Age: 47. Occupation: Legislator Attorney.

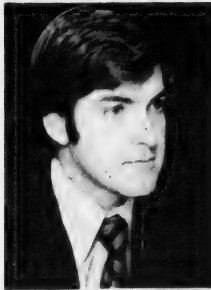

Answer: The first priority for my administration as mayor is to bring respect and harmony back to the City of Presidents. Without trust in city officials, no Quincy taxpayer can believe that a mayor will attempt to bring progress and activity to the city, or hold the line on the rising tax burden.

Each citizen should be able to point proudly to the high caliber and achievements of its city administration, not point with anger and embarrassment at its failures and transgressions.

Once the traditional spirit of Quincy is restored, my administration will proceed in a progressive manner to institute zero based budgeting, eliminate unnecessary expenditures, attract new businesses and federal monies to the city, and take the offensive on tax relief for all our people.

● Councillor At-Large

Question: What proposals would you make to improve city government? How would you deal with this as a City Councillor?

PAUL D. HAROLD, 31 Riverside Ave. Age: 29. Occupation: Lawyer.

Answer: At the annual council meeting in January I introduced a reform package of charter and rule changes which would improve city government in the areas of 1. finances and 2. citizen involvement.

1. In finances I proposed the establishment of a finance commission to serve as an independent advisory and investigatory body to advise the mayor and council. In addition, I proposed the establishment of a post-audit committee of the council to scrutinize how tax monies are spent after they are appropriated.

2. To increase citizen involvement in city government and to make it more meaningful, I proposed a charter change which would allow for full citizen membership on council committees.

DENNIS E. HARRINGTON, 10 Hillcrest Rd. Age: 35. Occupation: Attorney, City Councillor.

Answer: In response to the question, I will preface my answer by stating that Quincy's present Modified Plan A form of government is an excellent one. Within the existing Plan, and I believe without the necessity for major changes, government in Quincy can and should be improved.

It is my belief that Quincy's government will be improved when we have the best possible system for the efficient delivery of governmental services. Since services are delivered by appointed rather than elected officials, Quincy must appoint only those people who are best qualified by their talent, experience, education, temperament and common sense.

As City Councillor I plan to work directly with appointed officials to develop and promote a system of government which is both responsive to the needs of the city as a whole and to its neighborhoods.

JOHN J. QUINN, 86 Grand View Ave. Age: 54. Occupation: Representative for Blue Cross - Blue Shield.

Answer: This coming election will set into motion that type of representation and direction that will carry all of us into the 1980's. There will be numerous decisions that will directly affect every individual, residing in our community for years to come.

These deliberations must be based on sound fiscal judgement, complete knowledge of municipal government, ability to work with the leadership, and lastly, the capacity to relate the above factors back to a common denominator - you - the resident and taxpayer.

It has been a singular honor to have attained the respected title of "Dean of the City Council", through my 20 years of consecutive re-elections. You may be certain that this type of confidence extended to me by the electorate also reflects certain basic contractual obligations on my part, namely, to represent you faithfully and well and at all times to secure the goals of sound and decent government.

JOSEPH E. BRETT, 254 Fenno St. Age: 70. Occupation: Retired.

Answer: If I am elected to serve the citizens of Quincy as a city councillor on Tuesday, November 8th, I promise to do all I can to restore a standard of reasonableness between the office of mayor and the city council.

One of the most frequent complaints I have heard from many citizens as I have campaigned around the city is their dissatisfaction over the constant bickering and nitpicking that has been carried on by some of the present city councillors whose interests seem to be more concerned over their political futures, than with the interests of the entire citizenry.

As a member of government for the past twenty years, I have learned through experience that the best way to resolve differences of opinions over certain issues is to get together as a group and resolve the differences by giving a little and taking a little, ever keeping in mind the best interests of the entire citizenry.

Cooperation of this kind between the city councillors and other city officials will prove beneficial to all of us.

COUNCILLOR AT-LARGE:

Term: 2 years

Salary: $3,000

Job description: Three are elected from the entire city to represent all of Quincy's residents.

Please Remember:

The Quincy City
Election Is A Non-Partisan Election

MICHAEL E. FAHERTY, 28
Furnace Brook Parkway, Age: 54, Occupation: Director of Security for State Street Bank and Security.

Answer: As a Councillor at-Large I would not only propose...but would work hard to make the city council more representative of, and responsive to, the citizens of Quincy. I would encourage the ideas, the input, of our electorate by publishing on the Friday preceding the council meeting, the agenda of that meeting - so that citizens could know of and thus participate in, discussions of issues affecting them.

I would seek to abolish the "Executive Session", and the "Turned-off Microphones", which keep the citizens of this city from hearing how their destiny is being decided.

I would rotate the council meetings to meeting houses throughout the six wards, thus bringing government closer to the governed.

I would make it my goal to make the council of this city a body public ... rather than a body politic.

FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY, 210
Manet Avenue, Age: 47, Occupation: Bank President.

Answer: As a city councillor at-large, I would make the following proposals to improve city government:

1. Establishment of a closer working relationship with the ward councillors by holding joint meetings in each ward with the ward councillor, to determine residents' problems and concerns.

2. I would support "Truth-In-Taxation" legislation now pending before the state legislature. This bill provides for public hearings to be held by the Board of Assessors prior to the passage of the budget and before the tax rate is set. This procedure would eliminate the so-called "election year" tax rates.

3. I would continue to speak out on the issues - judging the city administration's proposals on their merits alone and would refrain from personality clashes which have proven so disruptive during the past two years.

The purpose of the League of Women Voters is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government

WARD COUNCILLOR:

Term: Two years
Salary: $3,000

Job description: One elected from each of the city's six wards to serve as a representative of the residents in that area.

Ward 1 Councillor

Question: What is the most important issue in your ward? How will you deal with this as a councillor?

LEO J. KELLY, 53 Stoughton
St. Age: 45, Occupation: Supervisor Juvenile Diversion Program, Dedham District Court.

Answer: Although many major issues benefit certain segments of the Ward, such as the Merrymount School addition, the fight against the filling of Quincy Bay, I feel the most important issue of this years Municipal election is the continuation of good representation in the City Council for the people of Ward 1.

As the Ward 1 Councillor for the past four [4] years I have endeavored to concentrate on the "Bread and Butter" issues which benefit all the people of Ward 1. To me the "Bread and Butter" issues like the filling of pot holes, repairing of street lights, obtaining stop signs, street and sidewalk repair, and improved municipal services are the basic services that each taxpayer in the city should demand and although it is important to sponsor and work for the passage of major issues the primary function of the Ward 1 City Councillor is to insure that these basic "Bread and Butter" issues are attended to.

DAVID J. CROWLEY JR., 882
Sea St. Age: 30, Occupation: small businessman.

[Edited]

Answer: My chief motivating concern for Ward 1 is for the quality of our representation.

[My opponent] has consistently followed the leader concerning everything from the housing authority appointments to the North Quincy High - Merrymount Elementary school package. Taking pride in passing the unneeded elementary school addition while doing nothing about the phasing out of both the Great Hill and Hunting schools.

Each of these having combined grades due to a policy of not refilling teaching positions.

My background, education, independence, and outspoken nature will bring a refreshing change to the council from Ward 1.

Ward 2 Councillor

DANIEL G. RAYMOND, 88
Elm St. Age: 29, Occupation: Practicing attorney in Quincy.

Answer: The ability to provide aggressive and effective leadership thereby insuring that government in Quincy is responsive and accountable to the people is the most important issue in Ward 2.

Quincy is facing a critical period in its history. It is a time when integrity, responsibility and positive attitude are essential to our future. I shall continue to respond openly to the issue of the day as well as attend meetings of the Traffic Commission, Licensing Board, Board of Appeals, Planning Board and civic organizations on behalf of the residents of Ward 2 to speak out in an effort to correct many neighborhood problems.

ROBERT K. BENIERS, 12
Beacon St. Age: 38, Occupation: Sporting goods store owner.

Answer: For a year and a half, I served as the city's recreation director. I was responsible for lowering the recreation budget by $9,000, increasing the department revenue by $15,000, instituting new senior citizen programs, initiating the purchase of sailboats and canoes and expanding men's and women's fitness programs.

Ward 2 needs positive representation, a councillor who can work with city officials to the betterment of Ward 2.

We must stop the constant bickering between public officials. I know I can work with all city officials for the benefit of Ward 2.

We need available, responsive, and positive leadership in Ward 2. My business is in Ward 2 and I can be available anytime during the day or evening to work with and for the residents and taxpayers of my ward.

Ward 3 Councillor

JOHN J. LYDON, 468 Beale St.
Age: 36, Occupation: Owner funeral home.

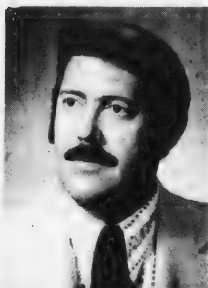

(Unopposed)

Answer: From the experience gained during my past two terms in office, I believe that the major issue I confront on a day-to-day basis at the local ward level is voter alienation. Time and again one hears the retort, "My vote doesn't make any difference. Why should I bother." People feel left out of the governmental mainstream, and this distresses me.

As a ward councillor, I am in a unique position to effect a change in this attitude, because in many cases, I am the resident's only contact with the political system. The issues that I deal with in the vast majority of cases are very basic: for example: complaints about potholes, snow removal, or vehicular traffic patterns. That does not mean they are unimportant.

If a resident takes the initiative to call me with a problem, it demonstrates his concern. If no action is forthcoming on my part, this perpetuates the alienation process. The voter expects both concern and a solution to his problem. This is what he deserves, and this is what I have attempted to deliver.

Ward 4 Councillor

JAMES J. SHEETS, 926
Furnace Brook Parkway, Age: 42, Occupation: Legislator.

Answer: I believe that the most important single issue in Ward 4 is flooding, although the increasing tax rate is of concern to all.

Flood relief both along the Furnace Brook in West Quincy and Town Brook in South Quincy, can only be achieved by the injection of large amounts of Federal money. As councillor it would be my responsibility to keep these two federal projects moving thru the U.S. Congress and keep the people of West and South Quincy informed.

ALBERT BARILARO, 65 Grove
St. Age: 61, Occupation: Field representative for Mass State Lottery.

Answer: Four years ago as Ward 4 councillor I had plans approved [1] a playground at the Lincoln School yard, [2] the completion of filling in of Badger's Quarry. [The top half of the ledge had been pushed in and a promise of the remainder to be completed the next year], [3] A program for replacing old street lights with new brighter-type in all of Ward 4. [4] Plans worked out with Planning Director Jeff Davidson for South-West Quincy area to revitalize this section - from Brook Rd to West Quincy Fire Station, under HUD.

Unfortunately these plans were not carried out by my successor who has recently stated he would like to be re-elected for another term so he may see these projects completed.

I assure the voters I will not take four years to complete these or any other projects for the good of our ward.

Ward 5 Councillor

WARREN A. POWERS, 3
Grandview Terrace, Age: 36, Occupation: Norfolk County Assistant District Attorney.

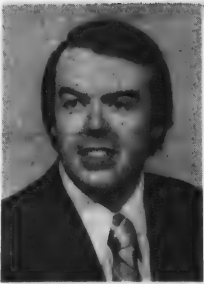

Answer: The important issue facing Ward 5 and Quincy today is taxes. I have taken the following actions to control local costs:

I have held up several appropriations or ordinances requested by department heads until modern business administrative techniques were introduced, or far more detailed financial records were prepared for the City Council.

Working with the Quincy Legislative Delegation, we were able to reduce Quincy's County Tax assessment. This results in an average annual saving of $1.00.

As a member of the City Council Finance Committee, I have regularly supported drastic reductions in departmental budget requests for the past two fiscal years.

I support the concept of zero based budgets rather than our current municipal budgeting system. Overall, I take a conservative fiscal view of municipal expenditures in order to control our local tax rate as much as possible.

STEVE McGRATH, 36 Bass St. Age: 24. Occupation: Third year law student, Suffolk Law School.

Answer: I believe the most important issue facing my ward is the availability and visibility of the Councillor.

Unless ward residents have good communications and a good working relationship with their Councillor, problems in Ward 5 won't be effectively addressed.

The ward councillor should make the effort to insure such communication exists. As a Councillor, I plan on making myself available to ward residents by door-to-door neighborhood visits. This is an excellent way for a councillor to stay in touch with the people who elected him, and gives voters a chance to express to their councillor their views on current issues.

● Ward 6 Councillor

JOANNE CONDON, 70 Botolph St. Age: 37. Occupation: Administrative assistant for Quincy Community Action Organization Inc.

Answer: Accountability and responsiveness are the major issues in the Ward 6 City Councillor campaign. Whether it be working on major neighborhood concerns such as taxes, crime, the Boston Harbor Marina proposed development, or individual problems such as street repair, snow removal, or elderly services, the ward councillor must be accountable and responsive to his or her constituents.

I would accomplish this by continually seeking the views of the ward residents, keeping all residents informed, and serving as a liaison between the city departments and residents to solve neighborhood problems. My prime objective is to make government more accessible and responsive to the residents and to involve as many residents as possible in decisions affecting the ward.

WALTER J. HICKEY, 55 Huckins Ave. Age: 56. Occupation: Consulting engineer.

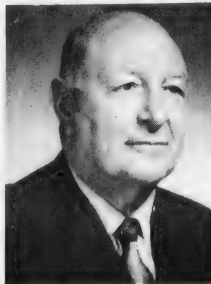

Answer: The most important issue in Ward 6 I say is keeping the character of our neighborhoods, which are, for the most part, individual homes and small businesses.

How I shall deal with this as a Councillor? My first order of business will be to make certain that any proposed new businesses or apartments do not materially alter the character of our neighborhoods. I will oppose zoning changes that might accomplish the same thing.

My record as an involved citizen is indicative of what I will do: I fought the proposed Messina Shopping Mall on Quincy Shore Drive. I also protested the Sports Arena slated for Montclair, and continue to oppose the projected 3000-unit housing complex at the Marina in Squantum. I am, however, wholeheartedly in favor of sensible and environmentally sound use of North Quincy's remaining open spaces.

● School Committee

Question: What do you see as the three most important issues facing the school committee in the next year? How would you deal with at least one of these?

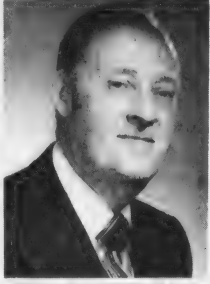

FRANCIS F. ANSELMO, 135 Quincy Ave., Apt. 406. Age: 79. Occupation: Retired Superintendent of Quincy Post Office.

Answer: 1. Declining enrollment: What to do with surplus teachers? Should some schools be closed? Should teacher-pupil ratios be adjusted? How much effect does all these have on the budget?

2. Basic Skills: Mandate, by law, a minimum standard of achievement for all the basic subjects, prior to graduation. The diploma should reflect this standard.

Discipline: Applied with fairness and control this will produce more respect and achievement. Problems related to drugs and alcohol must be closely watched. Quincy is doing a good job in this respect. Discipline is not the sole responsibility of the school; parents, churches and the courts must re-evaluate their responsibilities.

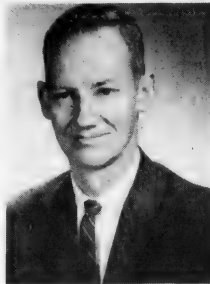

JOHN J. SULLIVAN, 23 Marion Street. Age: 58. Occupation: Commissioner in the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

1. Budget Tightening - During the present budget deliberations, earlier this year, I proposed more individual line item cuts than any other member of the committee. I intend to continue my policing policy in this area.

2. SAT Scores - Maintain Quincy's upward trend in both the Standardized Achievement Test scores in the elementary school level and the Scholastic Aptitude Tests in the high school level. [NOTE: The national average scores are in a downward slide while Quincy currently is enjoying an upward movement.]

3. Education Opportunity Broadening of both [A] the Adult Continuing Education Program and [B] additional vocation-tech opportunities for the female student.

CHARLES T. SWEENEY, 49 Ames St. Age: 61. Occupation: Contact Chief of Veteran's Administration.

Based upon 22 years of experience, I feel that all issues coming before the Quincy School Committee must be classified as important. Currently, I must say declining enrollment, continued curriculum development for a changing world, and intelligent budget building and decision rate high.

Budget deserves special comment. The Quincy Committee deems budget a year long process. Continuous, complicated, and controversial, its creation, refinement, and presentation is the serious responsibility of our professional staff - from the classroom teacher through the principal, the discipline coordinators, the learning management team, and the Superintendent. The Quincy School Committee in intensive special meetings, reviews the Budget on a line item basis. Decisions are based on the greatest need commensurate with the financial support available. We are dealing with a matter in excess of $32,000,000. Money spent wisely on education is an investment with ultimate significant return to the Community. I respectfully submit that my 22 years of experience provide an invaluable asset to this vital process.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

Term: Four years, three of the six members elected every two years.

Salary: Unpaid

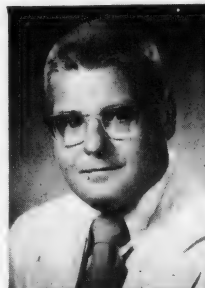

Job description: Duties are as described in the question to School Committee candidates in this special voter information section.

MARY P. COLLINS, 116 Lansdowne St. Age: 35. Occupation: Homemaker.

Answer: I feel that the three most critical issues facing the school committee are declining enrollments, the teaching of basic skills and budgeting.

The issues of declining enrollments and basic skills learning are also accountability items, and are clearly tied to dollar expenditure for education. Citizens are concerned with budgeting in an inflationary economy, and they want to be sure that their tax dollars are being spent wisely. I feel that education is the single most important service that we provide, and that it is a most worthy expenditure, but I also feel that the school system must be accountable in terms of overall performance of students, and that every expenditure must be approved only after close scrutiny and clear justification by the school committee.

J. THOMAS MULLANEY, 115 Standish Ave. Age: 42. Occupation: Senior Financial Analyst - Polaroid Corp.

Answer: The practice of the Quincy Public Schools is to promote just about everyone. The prevailing attitude seems to be that "Keeping students back" is psychologically destructive. Personally I have grave reservations about this practice at the elementary school level. I want parents to receive a written notification, 6 weeks prior to the close of the school year, when their children are not performing at their grade level. I believe this practice would help improve communications between the school and the parents.

Other issues include budgetary controls, discipline in schools and setting a policy for potential reductions in staff.

JOAN C. PICARD, 61 Rogers St. Age: 38. Occupation: Owner/Director Let's Have Fun Nursery School.

Answer: The School budget and declining enrollment, quality education [fundamental skills must be stressed] and discipline, which is essential for learning, are important issues.

Quality education and skyrocketing budgets don't have to go hand in hand. Priorities should be assigned wisely to achieve maximum effectiveness of our school dollars. Curriculum, class size and instructional materials should be constantly reassessed to achieve an equitable balance between quality and cost. Communication must be established between the School Committee and Quincy's parents and taxpayers. As your elected School Committee member I have the dedication and determination to serve the community well.

The following is a list of the Duties of the School Committee as defined by state law:

- Has charge of all public schools.
- Determines policy.
- Makes the budget.
- Appoints personnel.
- Approves courses and textbooks.
- Plans school services.
- Evaluates the educational program.
- Negotiates with teachers under the collective bargaining law.

10,000 Extra Copies For Distribution

Ten thousand extra copies of this Quincy Sun Special Election pullout section are going to school and then to homes of voters.

Council At-Large Incumbents Face Strong Challengers

three of its appointed officials convicted of crimes involving extortion.

A major theme of the Tobin campaign has been the $34.90 tax rate increase set by LaRaia for the 1976-77 budget year, a boost LaRaia blames on a $4 million deficit inherited from the Hannon years.

On the other hand, LaRaia has been critical of Tobin's plan to wear two hats, as Mayor and State Senator, if he is elected. Tobin has said he would decline the Mayor's $25,000 salary.

In a five-man preliminary race, Tobin prevailed over LaRaia easily, 12,216 to 7,411, collecting nearly 54 per cent of the total vote.

Both men are veterans of the Quincy political wars.

LaRaia was first elected to the City Council from Ward 2 in 1959, re-elected in 1961 and 1963, then lost to James R. McIntyre in his first bid for Mayor in 1965.

He narrowly lost out in a comeback bid for an at-large seat on the Council in 1969 but won in 1971 and again in 1973 before he left the Council to try his luck for Mayor for a second time, this time successfully.

Tobin was swamped in his first bid for the City Council from Ward 1 in 1961 but he came back in 1967 to capture an at-large seat. Since then he has been one of the city's best vote-getters.

He was elected to the State House in 1966, served three terms, and then succeeded his old friend and political mentor James R. McIntyre as state senator.

Three incumbents, one of them so designated by court order, face stiff opposition from two political veterans and a highly regarded newcomer in the race for the three at-large seats on the City Council.

The incumbents are Paul D. Harold, 29, of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore; John J. Quinn, 54, of 86 Grand View Ave., Wollaston; and Dennis E. Harrington, 35, of 10 Hillcrest Rd., Atlantic.

Harrington, who is currently City Councillor from Ward 6, was given incumbent status, which is alphabetically good for second place on the ballot, after an appeal to Norfolk Superior Court.

The opposition is Joseph E. Brett, 70, of 254 Fenno St., Wollaston; Michael E. Faherty, 54, of 28 Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy; and Francis X. McCauley, 47, of 210 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck.

Harold, an attorney, is seeking a second term on the Council. A political veteran at 29, he ran for state representative in 1971 and for Ward 1 Councillor in 1973, unsuccessfully, before winning in 1975.

The maverick of the Council, he has tried to steer a middle course through the constant fighting between Mayor and Council, sometimes finding himself at odds with both political factions in the city.

Harold was the top vote-getter in the preliminary election, amassing 12,681 votes, some 450 more than Tobin got for Mayor and more than 4,000 better than Brett, the at-large runnerup.

Harrington, also an attorney, is campaigning for a third term on the Council. He ran unsuccessfully for the Ward 6 seat in 1971, then ousted Councillor J. Vincent Smyth in 1973 and was re-elected in 1975.

He barely defeated Walter J. Hickey by 141 votes after a recount in 1975 and finished a disappointing fifth with 5,480 votes in the preliminary balloting for the at-large seat.

Harrington has been one of the most outspoken critics of the LaRaia administration on the Council, reserving his most caustic remarks for city finances and Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone.

Quinn, the dean of the City Council, was first elected to an at-large seat way back in 1957 and has been re-elected nine times since then, the last time by the narrow margin of 304 votes in a recount.

A Blue Cross-Blue Shield executive and longtime chairman of the Council's powerful Finance Committee, he has been a quiet critic of the LaRaia regime, takes pride in being the watchdog of the city budget.

Quinn, never a top vote-getter, came in an uneasy fourth in the preliminary election with 7,242 votes, but has been known frequently to improve his position in the final election in the past.

Brett, who served a term at large in the City Council back in 1958-59, was a nine-term State Rep before he was knocked off in the Democratic primary last year by Michael W. Morrissey.

He launched his political career in 1943 when he ran unsuccessfully for the Council from Ward 5. He lost again in 1945 and 1947 before scoring a breakthrough in 1957.

Brett registered strongly in his comeback bid from the defeat for the Legislature by finishing second to Harold in the preliminary race with 8,234 votes in his first citywide race since he was defeated by Walter J. Hannon for Mayor in 1971.

Faherty, a retired State Police captain who is director of corporated security for the State Street Boston Corp., is taking his first shot at public office.

His campaign has concerned itself with crime and corruption and the need for cooperation between the City Council and the Mayor's office and between City government and the people.

Faherty qualified for the final election by finishing sixth in the preliminary with 5,156, only some 300 behind the veteran Councillor Harrington.

McCauley, who is president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, was a City Councillor once before, serving two terms in the Ward 1 seat from 1964-67, when he tried and failed for an at-large seat.

He was elected to the School Committee in 1971 and re-elected in 1975, topping the list on each occasion. He was the No. 3 vote-getter in the preliminary election with 7,591 votes.

As a member of the School Committee, McCauley has paid particular attention to the school budget and has fought to secure for the Committee greater control over school spending.

The Ward 1 Council race pits incumbent Leo J. Kelly, 45, of 53 Stoughton St., Houghs Neck, against David J. Crowley Jr., 30, of 882 Sea St., also Houghs Neck.

Kelly won the three-man preliminary race by 2,284 to 905 over Crowley.

Kelly, a supervisor of the juvenile diversion program under Norfolk Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt, is seeking re-election to a third term in the post he first won in 1973 narrowly over Harold. He lost his first bid in 1971.

He too has been a leading critic of the LaRaia administration from his post as chairman of the Council's Public Works Committee. His forte in politics has been dealing with ward problems.

Crowley, who has a degree in marine and electrical engineering and operates a filling station in Houghs Neck, is the son of former City Councillor David J. Crowley Sr. [1946-55] and former City Treasurer Roberta M. Crowley.

A first time candidate, his campaign has emphasized expansion and modernization of Quincy Center, stabilization of the tax rate and efficiency in government.

Incumbent Daniel G. Raymond, 29, of 88 Elm St., Quincy Center is fighting back a challenge from Robert Beniers, 38, of 12 Beacon St., Quincy Point, in the Ward 2 Council race.

Raymond ran up a 2,537 to 1,390 victory in the preliminary.

Raymond, an attorney and public defender in Quincy District Court, is after a second [Cont'd on Page 30]

'Identicar Day' Saturday At Acme Glass Co.

Saturday will be "Identicar Day" at the Acme Glass Co., 636 Hancock St., Wollaston, under the sponsorship of the Quincy Independent Insurance Agents Association.

Identicar, developed by an Australian firm, is a technique of engraving a computer-coded identification mark into all windows of an automobile. The developers claim replacement of all windows in a car averages about $1,000, thus it would be economically unfeasible for a thief to steal a car marked with Identicar for resale.

Richard Frye, president of the Independent Agents group, said the code is "like the vehicle's own set of fingerprints." When the vehicle is sold or legally transferred, the code is assigned to the new owner upon proof of transfer of title, Frye explained.

Identicar Corp. maintains a national registry of all codes and owners at its headquarters in Watertown and the information is available to law enforcement agencies.

The engraving normally costs the car owner $29.95, but on "Identicar Day" a discount of $10 will be available at Acme Glass.

Morrissey Backs Bill To Increase State's Share Of MBTA Deficit

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has spoken out in favor of a bill that would call on the state to pick up a bigger share of the MBTA deficit and possibly save Quincy nearly $1 million.

The bill, filed by Rep. Louis Nickinello (D-Natick) is currently awaiting action by the House Committee on Ways and Means.

It calls for the state to pay the cost of the express service deficit, including all rapid transit service, commuter rail service and certain bus routes that fit express characteristics.

It also calls for the state to pay 50 percent of the cost of inter-regional service with the remainder assumed by the cities and towns, half on the basis of population and half on the basis of costs incurred.

"The proposal will lower Quincy's MBTA assessment from $2,080,700 to $1,159,445 for a savings of $921,324," said Morrissey.

"The changes listed and other changes should help clearly establish which party is responsible for paying for certain portions of the MBTA deficit.

"The bill should set up a fairer assessment system and allow local areas to have more authority over service and cost."

The bill would abolish the MBTA board of directors and replace it with an administrator who would be chief executive. It retains the MBTA advisory board and would create seven sub-regions and a core area within the MBTA district.

"The legislature is now trying to make the MBTA more responsive on the local level," said Morrissey.

Asks Burke To Support

Sheets Opposes Bill To Force Cities To Join SS System

Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) has asked Congressman James A. Burke to vote and work against House Bill HR9346 which would mandate coverage of all federal, state and municipal government employees under the Social Security System. Sheets said it would mean a larger increase in costs to the city of Quincy. At the present time, Social Security officers predict about a $5.6 billion deficit in 1977 in the Social Security System, he said.

"This follows losses of $3.2 billion last year and $1.2 billion in 1975," he said. "At this rate, the Social Security reserve funds will be depleted within five years."

Sheets said employees now working for the city and state are guaranteed retirement benefits which are higher than under Social Security and at a lower cost to the city than if the city were forced into the Social Security System.

He said he is hopeful that since Congressman Burke is chairman of the Sub-Committee on Social Security he will actively work to defeat this bill.

A WEEKLY MESSAGE FROM

MICHAEL E. FAHERTY,

CANDIDATE COUNCILLOR-AT-LARGE

"My Friends I'd like to tell you a few things I've learned from the professional 'polls' during this campaign. I bet you'll be as surprised as I was. For instance:

Did you know that a first time candidate is ineligible for election in this city? That's what They say.

Did you know that you don't have a prayer at getting elected unless you belong to a camp or a clique? That's what They say.

Did you know that although you're entitled to three votes for councillors at-large you should only use one of those votes?

That's what They say.

Did you know that as a candidate for public office, if you haven't been in a position to dispense patronage you might as well go home? That's what They say.

Well my friends I don't care what They say...I only care what You say.

And now I ask you...

Wha-da-ya say?"

Illegally parked cars, dead-end streets and vehicles parked on both sides of narrow streets are the major problems faced by city employees during snow removal work, according to City Councillor James A. Sheets.

In a meeting with more than 100 residents of Ward 4, Sheets discussed plans for more efficient removal of snow during the winter ahead. DPW Commr. Paul Anderson told residents he will work with Councillor Sheets in an effort to obtain special equipment for use on dead-end streets.

Sheets said he plans to bring several orders in the City Council for no-parking and tow zone signs. He expressed the hope that residents of Ward 4 will work together for same-side parking on narrow streets.

Anderson said his department is planning a new program for sidewalk snow removal near schools to ensure a greater degree of safety for children.

Morrissey Joins Effort For Coastal Controls

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] recently joined with surrounding coastal community representatives in an effort to file legislation that would guarantee the coastal communities maximum control over issues involving environmental impact and the economic development of the coastal communities.

This legislation would require the Secretary of Environmental Affairs to obtain the approval of the General Court before adopting a comprehensive Coastal Zone Management Plan.

"By filing this piece of legislation we can maintain an essential balance between the local community and the state agency," Morrissey said. "The legislature will have an efficient check and balance on any proposed regulations."

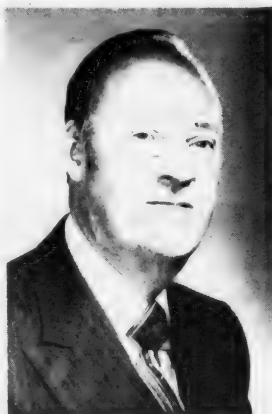

In addition, the representatives have called for a further study of the plan by the Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Commission.

Burke Seeks Public Hearing On Proposed Central Mail Facility

Cong. James A. Burke is requesting the U.S. Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailer to hold a public hearing in the Quincy, Boston and the South Shore area for a discussion of the proposed Southeast Incoming Mail Facility at Braintree.

In a related action Quincy Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia said the Office of State Planning has denied the A-95 approval needed. The A-95 form, the Mayor said, requires the state planning board give final approval on all construction in the state in which state or federal funds are used.

Burke said the Postal Service acted without consultation with local officials, or business and community leaders. He pointed out that the 1958

Intergovernmental Cooperation Act requires consultation with state and local officials at the earliest practicable stage in project planning.

Mayor LaRaia pointed out that locating the proposed facility in Braintree would mean that carriers would have to drive to that town to pick up mail. This would cause delays in delivery of mail to residents and Quincy businesses.

PERFORMANCE Not Idle Promises.

Ward Council, School Committee Races Spirited

term in the post he won for the first time in 1975 after serving a four year term on the School Committee.

He has been a dogged critic of the policies of the LaRaia administration, concentrating chiefly on spending. On the ward level, he has campaigned for park cleanups, traffic controls and closer supervision of drinking establishments in Quincy Point.

Beniers, owner of the Beacon Sporting Goods Store, was the city recreation director for a year and a half until he resigned to run for the Council. It is his first try for public office.

A supporter of Mayor LaRaia, he has campaigned on a platform of being able to work with other city officials and bringing a halt to the "constant bickering between public officials."

John J. Lydon Jr., 36, of 468 Beale St., owner of the Lydon-Russell Funeral Home, Wollaston, is unopposed as he seeks a third term in the Ward 3 Council seat.

The Ward 4 race is a rematch of the 1973 contest between James A. Sheets, 42, of 926 Furnace Brook Parkway, and Albert R. Barilaro, 60, of 65 Grove St., West Quincy.

Sheets upset the then-incumbent Barilaro, 2,584 to 1,627, in the 1973 election and defeated him handily, 2,567 to 688, in the preliminary election last September.

During the campaign, Barilaro asked City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams for a ruling on his contention that Sheets presence on the City Council is illegal since he also receives a salary from the city for teaching at a city-supported school.

Sheets took a leave of absence from his post as chairman of the history and government department at Quincy Junior College when he was elected a State Rep in 1975. He still teaches parttime.

When he was first elected to the Council in 1973, his election was challenged on the same grounds but it was ruled in Suffolk Superior Court that the law only applied to further compensation as City Councillor.

Since then, however, the issue has been confused by a State Supreme Court ruling upholding the conflict of interest law as it applies in cases of teachers elected to Councils in Chicopee and New Bedford.

Sheets lost his first election, a bid for an at-large seat on the Council in 1969, but since then has turned into one of the city's most consistent and prolific vote-getters.

After ousting Barilaro, he was unopposed for re-election in 1975 and he won the State Rep's seat in the same year in a special election in which he captured both Democratic and Republican nominations.

Barilaro, a field representative with the State Lottery, represented Ward 4 on the Council from 1968, after he defeated Daniel J. Joyce by 68 votes in a recount, until 1973.

In Ward 5, incumbent Warren A. Powers, 36, of 3 Grand View Terrace, Wollaston, is seeking re-election against Stephen J. McGrath, 24, of 36 Bass St., Wollaston.

Powers, an assistant district attorney, lost his first bid for the Ward 5 seat in 1971 to William D. Delahunt, now his boss as district attorney, but he won the seat in 1973 and was re-elected in 1975.

McGrath, a first time candidate, works in the law office of Robert Smith in Boston and expects to receive a law degree from Suffolk Law School in 1978. He has campaigned on the revitalization of the Wollaston area and the visibility of the City Councillor.

There was no preliminary race in Ward 5 since there were only two candidates from the start.

Ward 6 is a wide-open contest with incumbent Harrington leaving the race to Mrs. Joanne Condon, 37, of 70 Botoolph St., Atlantic, and Walter J. Hickey, 56, of 155 Huckins Ave., Squantum.

Mrs. Condon prevailed in the preliminary over Hickey by the narrow margin of 1,376 to 1,066.

Mrs. Condon, who is making her debut in elective politics, is an administrative assistant in the Community Action Program and a founder of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

If elected, she would be only the second woman to serve on the Quincy City Council and the first since the retirement of Mrs. Edna B. Austin in 1959.

Hickey, a civil structural engineer, narrowly missed election to the Ward 6 seat in his first attempt in 1975, losing to Harrington by 141 votes in a recount.

His campaign has been based on the need for a mixed bag of skills on the City Council, which, for the past two years, has had lawyers filling five of the nine seats.

All three incumbents are seeking re-election to new four-year terms on the School Committee.

They are Frank Anselmo, 78, of 77 Adams St., Quincy Center; Vice Chairman John J. Sullivan, 58, of 23 Marion St., Wollaston; and Charles T. Sweeney, 60, of 49 Ames St., West Quincy.

Their challengers are Mrs. Mary Collins, 34, of 116 Landsdowne St., Squantum; J. Thomas Mullaney, 42, of 115 Standish Ave., Wollaston; and Joan C. Picard, 37, of 61 Rogers St., West Quincy.

There was no preliminary election for School Committee.

Anselmo, a retired postal superintendent, is running for his fifth term on the Committee, having been elected for the first time in 1961. He lists his role in founding of the Quincy Vo Tech School and Quincy Junior College as past achievements.

Sullivan, who is employed as a federal mediator, was elected to the committee in 1973 in his first try for public office. His election as vice chairman in January, 1976, was angrily protested by Anselmo, who claimed that he had been assured the post.

Sweeney, who works for the Veterans Administration in Boston, is seeking his sixth term. He was first elected in 1955, re-elected in 1959 and 1963, defeated by 648 votes in 1967, then made a comeback to win election again in 1969 and re-election in 1973.

Mrs. Collins, a housewife, is a first time candidate for public office but she has been involved in a number of school functions such as Project LINC, the Squantum School PTO and the Educational Development Committee. She has four children, three of them in public schools.

Mullaney, a financial analyst for the Polaroid Co., is back for a fourth try to win a spot on the School Committee. He ran in 1971, 1973 and 1975, coming the closest in 1973 when he lost out by a mere 232 votes. He has two children in Quincy Schools.

Mrs. Picard, owner and director of the Let's Have Fun Nursery School in Quincy, is a first time candidate who recently served on the Mayor's Commission on Election Reform. She is secretary of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association and has three children in Quincy schools.

Francis X. McCauley, whose four-year term on the School Committee runs through 1979, would retain his seat if defeated for the City Council. Should he win, his successor on the School Committee would be chosen by combined vote of the City Council and the School Committee.

Odors From Nut Island Sewage Plant Reported Corrected

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) announces he has been informed by the MDC that the problem of noxious odors periodically from the Houghs Neck Nut Island Sewage Treatment has been corrected.

Rep. Brownell said MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker has required supervisory staff at the plant to implement a stringent monitoring program to prevent future odor problems. In addition, the MDC has established direct contact with local residents to assist them in maintaining and monitoring clean air conditions in the area.

Snedeker has reported also that extensive repairs have been made at the plant designed to eliminate any future odor problems. The incinerator exhaust system has been repaired, the waste gas burners have been rehabilitated, and the #1 main gas engine has been completely overhauled.

"These extensive repairs coupled with the MDC's monitoring program should practically eliminate any future odor problems with the plant. I want to thank Commissioner Snedeker and the MDC for their cooperation and promptness in dealing with this problem," Rep. Brownell said.

Anderson Commended On Efforts To Halt Illegal Dumping

City Councillor James A. Sheets has commended Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and his staff for their efforts in halting illegal dumping in the West Quincy disposal area.

Sheets is chairman of the Council's Oversight Committee, which recently completed a year-long probe of the city dump which indicated that illegal dumping has cost the city $1.5 million over the past four years.

"The dump could be better controlled," said Sheets in a letter to Anderson, "but I feel it must be noted that you, Connie Moriarty, John Catalano and George Ford have done a great deal to stop the illegal out-of-town dumping in the landfill.

"I am looking forward to working with the Department of Public Works on implementing the suggestions made in the Oversight study."

The Pay Raises

The Massachusetts legislature recently acted on a bill that would provide legislators and management employees not covered by the State Worker's Union, a pay raise. The pay raise will bring legislators salaries to $18,000 as of 1980. I voted against the raise for legislators and to take legislators out of the Group 19 level.

On January 1, 1979 the legislature will be reduced from 240 to 160 members. Districts will be increased from 22,000 people to 38,000 people per elected official. The increased size of the district will probably mean a larger staff and salary for legislators. The representative district will have doubled in size and the work load will definitely increase. I feel that the proposed increased salary will help encourage more full time legislators.

The State employee's pay raise which has been deadlocked in the Ways and Means Committee was sent to a conference committee on Monday to work out the problems in the budget. Late Monday night the Supplemental Budget was placed on governor's desk. The governor has threatened to veto the budget because of the Doyle-Hyatt rider, which was attached to the bill.

The Governor is currently seeking ways to detach the rider from the budget. He will call upon the State Supreme Judicial Court for an opinion on whether the item can be separated. The governor has also filed another $17 million for employees raises in case the Supreme Court does not allow him to separate the issues. In any case, no one will get paid until the State employees receive this raise.

The legislature also worked out a compromise piece of legislation to replace the current hindering arbitration and collective bargaining for police and firefighters. The bill passed the House on Monday.

The Mass House passed a bill that will regulate the noise level of motorcycles. This bill, if passed by the Senate, could prove to be of great benefit to the residents of the Wollaston Beach area.

I hold office hours at my district office, 69 Billings Rd, M-W-F from 8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m. and Wed. evening 6:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. I can be reached by calling 328-0900, or at the State House, 727-7035.

One Third From Single Family Homes

62% Of Quincy Tax Base Is Residential Property

As new property tax rates are announced for the South Shore's communities, many homeowners find themselves extremely distressed.

Many towns and cities in this area will be raising their tax rates this year to meet the demands of growing municipal services.

This is one of the problems most frequently mentioned in the growth policy statements published by each municipality last year. But many homeowners are unaware of the percentage that they, as a group, pay towards their town's property tax.

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has just completed the first part of an in-depth tax study of the South Shore area. Drawing from statistics provided by the Massachusetts Dept. of Corporations and Taxation, it computed the percentage of taxes paid by each classification of property for every community on the South Shore.

The results were interesting, and in some instances unexpected.

Residents of several towns might be surprised to see just how much of their tax base is provided by the business and industrial sectors. In Avon, for example, one-third of the tax base derives from these two areas and only 43 percent from residential property. At 22 percent, they possess the highest percentage of vacant land on the South Shore.

Scituate, on the other hand, shows an industrial contribution of less than 1 percent and a commercial figure of just 6.4 percent. As a result, homeowners there pay for 91.3 percent of the town's tax base.

In more heavily populated Quincy, 62 percent of the tax base is residential, but only about one-third of that comes from one-family homes. The 25 percent provided by multi-family units could well mean a larger than necessary drain on municipal services compared to other communities in the area.

As with Avon, commerce and industry account for only one-third of Quincy's annual taxes, but only 3 percent of the land in that city is still considered vacant.

Weymouth presents a unique situation. While only 6 percent of the town's taxes come from the industrial sector, most of that amount (88 percent) derives from a single industry, Boston Edison, which has announced plans to phase out operations there. If and when the Edison plant is closed, a probable lowering of the assessment of its land and facilities could have a drastic effect on the town's tax rate.

Many communities on the South Shore recognize the need for a broad, well balanced tax base. Stoughton, with a 15 percent industrial-commercial input, states in its growth policy statement that "jobs are not a major consideration in the desire for more industry. The concern is taxes." Scituate also recognizes an imbalance in its economic base and would like to attract some new light industrial and commercial growth there.

This is in direct contrast to a town like Norwell, which feels "the residents carry the town and should be given proper consideration" in all zoning matters. Norwell's private citizens pick up 83 percent of its yearly municipal tab.

Norwell's desired growth plan is to "preserve the rural character of the town." Its officials feel this can be accomplished only through an increased cost to the single-family homeowner (Norwell has no multi-unit housing.) Still, their growth policy statement calls for maintaining the "status quo."

As might be expected with the presence of the South Shore Plaza, Braintree has one of the largest commercial tax segments, at 25 percent. But nearly two-thirds of the town's taxes is still paid by its homeowners, with a resulting strain on municipal services.

Another 12 percent is contributed by industry, but Braintree feels its growth has been "rapid and not regulated carefully enough." It would like a moratorium on future industrial growth there, as well as the time to plan any new commercial developments in the town.

Hingham also feels it should coordinate all planning activities, in its case according to a well developed "master-phased plan." But with nearly all of its tax base (84 percent) coming from residential property and an industrial share of less than 1 percent, it would like to see light industrial growth in certain districts.

This might be realized in an area such as the Hingham Shipyard, which is already industrially zoned but which has, according to the town's policy growth statement, "deteriorated to the point of becoming an eyesore."

In addition to statistics already gathered, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce has begun a cost-benefit study of the property tax system for the South Shore. It might well prove timely, since a statement released this week by the Mass. Taxpayers Foundation predicted that approximately 75 percent of all state municipalities will have to bear an increased property tax next year.

Thomas Kiley Named First Asst. Atty. General

Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti announces the appointment of Thomas R. Kiley of Quincy as first Assistant Attorney General.

Kiley has functioned as interim first Assistant Attorney General since Robert M. Bonin was made Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court.

In a separate personnel move, Bellotti named Paul A. Good of Reading to be Acting Chief of the Civil Bureau. Good replaces former Asst. Atty. Gen. Kathleen Ryan Dacey who was named a Federal Administrative Law Judge.

Kiley served as Chief of the Elections and Veterans Divisions, and as acting first assistant attorney general for five months.

Kiley is a graduate of the Quincy Public School System. He graduated from Harvard in 1968. He served with the army in South Vietnam before entering law school. He lives in Quincy with his wife Kathleen and son Evan.

Good, who served as first assistant attorney general under former Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn, most recently served as Chief of the Contracts Division in the Department of the Attorney General.

He is a graduate of Boston College and Boston College Law School and has been in the Attorney General's office since 1969.

Marshall Turns $8,217 Over To County Treasurer's Office

Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall reports that outside earned income of the sheriff's department for the period July 1, to Sept. 30, this year, amounted to $8,217.

The amount, which has been forwarded to the county treasurer's office, represents $7,440 received from the federal government to reimburse the county for room and board costs related to federal prisoners incarcerated at the Norfolk County House of Correction during the period.

The remaining $777 is income earned from inmates participating in the work-release program at the house of correction. These inmates have room and board deducted from their outside earnings.

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) announces he will endorse a Tax Limitation Amendment to the Massachusetts Constitution at a press conference called Wednesday, at the State House.

The initiative Amendment sponsored by the Citizens For Limited Taxation will be endorsed by Representative Brownell, 34 other legislators, two Mayors, and the President of the Boston City Council at the press conference.

Brownell said, "The amendment is designed to limit state spending to a fixed percentage of what the taxpayers earn. It will also prohibit the state from mandating unfunded programs to the cities and towns, and force the state to return to its taxpayers any tax surpluses. Finally, the Tax Limitation Amendment will place a floor on the local aid fund so that the communities of the Commonwealth will be guaranteed a fixed amount of state aid each year. In a few words, the amendment will force the government to live within the means of its taxpayers."

Citizens interested in participating in the initiative petition drive are urged to contact Rep. Brownell at his State House Office (727-4646) or his Quincy office (773-0066.)

representing themselves as veterans for Tobin and seeking my vote for him; I would have to say that as a veteran of World War II and the Korean situation I could not, in good conscience, cast my vote for this individual.

I would like to point out that, on March 7, 1977, VETERAN Tobin denied a citizen of the city of Quincy the right to record a meeting of the Quincy City Council. And, on March 14, 1977, he attempted to repeat this act. These actions by VETERAN Tobin were committed in spite of the fact that VETERAN Tobin, on June 6, 1975, was a member of the Massachusetts Senate when Mass. General Law Chapter 39, Sec23b [OPEN MEETING LAW] was amended. VETERAN Tobin was also a member of the Senate when this section of the law took effect on Jan. 1, 1976.

This same VETERAN Tobin, on Feb. 2, 1976, accepted a copy of the open meeting law and signed a receipt for this document when it was given to him by Quincy City Clerk, John Gillis. This law clearly states: "A MEETING OF A GOVERNMENTAL BODY MAY BE RECORDED BY ANY PERSON IN ATTENDANCE BY MEANS OF A TAPE RECORDER". VETERAN Tobin's explanation, printed in the newspaper on April 2, 1977, indicated that he did not realize that a special rule of the Quincy City Council does not supercede the statutory laws of the Commonwealth. His personal catering to a local radio station does not satisfy the requirements of the law.

It would appear to me, gentlemen, after the circumstances I have described that VETERAN Tobin has not only technically violated his duties and responsibilities as a Mass. State Senator, a City of Quincy Councillor at-Large and an attorney-at-law but he has apparently forgotten the basic reasons that caused us to be veterans in the first place.

16 Pollard School Students Tour Quincy Sun

Sixteen students from Grade 5-6, Room 2-3, of the Thomas B. Pollard School, visited The Quincy Sun recently and viewed the workings of a newspaper first hand.

The students were:

Maria Andrews, Paula Foye, Dean Chaupetta, Alex Kerr, Elizabeth Dwyer, Cheryl Cullen, Ronald Hanson, Tracey Kyller, Michael Lomanno, Stephanie LeVangie, Kristin Fitzgerald, Danielle Morris, Tracy White, Carolann MacLellan, Michelle Streifer and Anthony Palmiero. School teacher, Marcia McCarthy and Frances Kerr, accompanied the students on their tour.

The boys and girls first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer typesetting system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

The students watched a paste-up artist place the story of their visit on a page of The Sun.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the boys and girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each student received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

MBTA To Install New Bucket Seats On Red Line

The MBTA announces it is planning to install new, more comfortable bucket seats on the Quincy-Harvard Red Line in late 1978.

The increased capacity is needed because of the expansion of the Red Line to Braintree in 1979, the need to provide access to persons confined to wheelchairs and the need for a more stable and safe ride for standees, the MBTA said. The arrangement will keep the same number of seats (64) but will feature six rows of four seats across divided by a center aisle and 40 individual seats.

Recent counts at the Quincy stations showed more than 17,000 persons are taking the Red Line into Boston each weekday, the MBTA said. The change in seating will give the present 44 cars the capacity of 49 cars, and will mean that 2,000 more South Shore residents can commute via the Red Line during both rush hours.

The MBTA has applied for a Federal grant to cover 80 percent of the cost for the new seats, which will be an average of $23,000 per car for the 79 cars.

Tobin Opposes Bucket Seats On MBTA Red Line

Senator Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) announces he has filed legislation to prohibit the MBTA from replacing the present seats on the Red Line transit cars with bucket seats.

"Squeezing more commuters into rapid transit cars at a cost of $23,000 per car doesn't make good transit sense for the MBTA," Tobin said.

"It's not as though our present cars are old. The seats are fine. They allow for comfort, privacy and a pleasant view."

"What is needed on the MBTA Red Line is better maintenance on the existing cars. When a passenger has waited for 10-15 minutes for a car at rush hour and then finds it is packed, it certainly is of no help to know that there are new seats proposed that the passenger can't reach anyway. The MBTA should treat the people of the South Shore like people."

"What South Shore transit riders need is a rapid transit car every five minutes, efficient maintenance service, and sensible planning to eliminate the bad weather equipment shortages we face every winter," Tobin added.

Dear Friend and Neighbor:

I have owned a home in this community for the better part of my adult life.

Like yourselves, I've read letters of both commendation and condemnation for political candidates, and they are usually signed by a "concerned citizen."

Concerned citizens can be advocates of specific programs or just someone venting his ire about an issue before the city government.

I'm sure there are thousands like myself who do not involve themselves in any part of our city affairs, and yet we are quietly concerned about rising taxes, city services, and neither speak up or speak out!

I'm one of those thousands who have decided to speak up! I'm not concerned about a specific issue, but I have a broad concern about my community and the caliber of people who will conduct her affairs.

I've watched from the sidelines, and I am confident that the one man who has shown down through the years, the ability the competence and the integrity to serve is Arthur Tobin!

This letter or advertisement is unsolicited, and I hope that you will show the same kind of concern that I feel and vote for a man for whom we can all be proud.

CP Center Crafts Exhibit At Quincy Savings Bank

Woodworking craftsmanship by members of the Quincy Adult Rehabilitation Center for Cerebral Palsy, 131 Billings Rd, Norfolk Downs, is on exhibit in the windows of the Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Centre, throughout November.

The display includes highly polished planters, rambler-scoop magazine racks, owl holders, bric-a-brac and other types of wood products produced by cerebral palsy sufferers working under the direction of Hugo Rusconi, 57 Penn St., South Quincy, a vetenar cabinet maker.

Peter Stenberg, director of the center, hopes to develop interest in the program which depends heavily on funds from friends to provide the materials needed for the project.

"These objects have a professional touch and would make ideal Christmas gifts," Stenberg said. "We would like to invite those interested to visit our workshop."

The workshop is open daily from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and members of the group welcome inspection of their work in progress.

"While we do receive funds from the federal government and the United Fund, we have to purchase wood and other materials for continuance of the program," Stenberg said.

In addition to making gift products the group also repairs furniture for a nominal fee.

Raiderettes Defeat First Ladies, 2-0

Christine Tedeschi scored the winning goal in the first period as the North Quincy girls' soccer team recently defeated Quincy, 2-0, for its first win. In their previous meeting, Quincy had won, 4-3, for its only win.

Tedeschi took a crossing pass from Linda Ayles to score.

In the third period, Ann Conley took a pass from Ayles and chipped it in, just catching the opper corner.

Leading the Raiderettes' defense were Julie Sheridan, Carol Watts, Jean Doherty, Paula Keany, Jeanne Burke, Eileen Mackey and Denise Galewski.

Last Friday, both teams, in only their first year of competition, turned in excellent performances, only to lose by 1-0 scores.

North bowed to Weymouth South, while Quincy was nipped by Newton North.

North Coach Jim Piccini was happy at the Raiderettes' fine effort.

"This is almost as good as a win for us," he said. "This is our first year and we've improved every game and we have cut down the scores the second time we played every team. The last time we played Weymouth South we lost, 10-0."

Goalie Michelle Schaefer was outstanding and continually frustrated the Wildcats. The winning goal came in the third period when Laurie Harkin passed to Pat Horne, who beat Schaefer to the far side of the net from about 20 feet.

North Quincy and Quincy instituted girls' soccer this fall to replace field hockey, which had been suffering from a drop in interest.

"I've had to work hard on skills," Piccini said. "The team has had a lot of enthusiasm. We had a fine turnout and we haven't enough soccer shirts and are using 11 field hockey jerseys."

In Quincy's loss to Newton North, Peggy Rugg was exceptional in goal for the First Ladies with 23 saves. But her mates were completely throttled by the winners and failed to get off a single shot on goal.

"Give these girls a lot of credit, they never quit," said Quincy Coach Ron Martin, who coached the boys' team for several seasons. "We have a long way to go, but the girls are learning fast and I think we should do much better next year. They are a dedicated group and have given me 100 percent at all times."

3 Local Boxers In Impressive Wins

Three outstanding boxers from the Quincy-based South Shore Youth Boxing Club scored impressive wins this week at the Civic Center in Providence.

Unbeaten Bobby Wahlberg, with 18 straight wins, stopped Joey Smithers of Pawtucket at 1:22 of the third round with a lethal right to the jaw. Bobby is the 1977 Southeastern and Lowell Golden Gloves champion. An 18-year old senior at Quincy Vo-Tech, he is now competing in the 188-pound class.

Pete Folkins, undefeated 135-pounder and winner of his last seven bouts, gained a third round win when Mike Taylor of Woonsocket was unable to continue. Folkins, 18 and a classmate of Wahlberg at Vo-Tech, was the 1977 N.E. Lightweight Silver Mittens titleholder.

Hard-hitting 175-pound John O'Brien scored a unanimous decision over Richie Gillis of Providence. The officials voted this as the outstanding fight of the night.

The South Shore Youth Boxing Club is a non-profit organization staffed by volunteers, open daily from 3 to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and serving the youth of Quincy and all South Shore communities. Additional information can be obtained by calling 472-9160 during class hours.

● Cross Country

Saville, Barrett Shine In State Meet

Although the North Quincy cross country team could finish no better than ninth, its poorest showing in four years, in Class C of last Saturday's state class championships over the Franklin Park course, the Raiders' Jon Saville and Mike Barrett turned in outstanding performances.

Saville finished fourth in 15:22, while Barrett placed eighth in 15:35. They have been the team's top runners this fall. Twenty-eight teams took part in Class C with 196 runners.

Coach Lou Tozzi's team was handicapped with two of its eight runners injured.

Saville and Barrett will compete in the all-state championships Nov. 12, in Gardner.

Earlier in the week the Raiders topped Weymouth North, 21-34, to hike their record to 6-2, as Barrett ran the second fastest time ever recorded in Weymouth. His time for the 2.9-mile course was 14:23.

Saville finished only six seconds behind him and had the third fastest time over the course. Paul McCormick was fifth, John Ricciuti sixth and Mike Ricciuti seventh.

Presidents Eye No. 5 Against Brockton

Quincy's football team, which went over the .500 mark [4-3] last week with an easy win over Weymouth North, hopes to capture its third win in a row and its fifth of the season Saturday when it hosts an up and down Brockton team in a 2 o'clock Suburban League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Brockton, despite a 3-3 record, is always tough. Each of the Boxers' defeats were to schoolboy powers, Chicopee, Newton North and Leominster.

Last Saturday Hank Conroy's Quincy team turned in another fine two-way performance to dispose of Weymouth North, 27-0, at Weymouth's Legion Field for its first Suburban League win.

"We had good balance today, putting together a fine offensive and defensive performance," Conroy said. "The boys were hitting hard on defense, the blocking was sharp, and we moved the ball well." Quincy ground out 257 yards on the ground.

"Rich Gilbody had his best day of the year both on offense and defense," Conroy said. "And Mark Giordani had another outstanding game both ways."

The Presidents' defense was at its best and the only scoring chance the Maroons had came after a dropped punt deep in Quincy territory.

Defensive coach Bill Maver singled out Gilbody, Len Picot, Ralph Pickering, Jim Maze, Rich Burnes, Dave Eastwick and Tom Conine for their efforts. The secondary was outstanding and

TD PAT Pts.

Giordani	4	2	26
Donovan	4	0	24
Picot	4	0	24
Gilbody	1	2	8
Maze	0	7	7
Harte	1	0	6
Sullivan	1	0	6
Lydon	1	0	6
Assad	1	0	6
Dedean	1	0	6

came up with three pass interceptions.

On offense Conroy had good words for Giordani, Mark Merlis, Picot, Tom Dedean, who returned to the squad only two weeks ago after an injury and has played two strong games, and in the offensive line praised Kevin Boudreau, Mike Duggan, Kevin Zambruno, Tod Cafilisch, Pete Cassidy and Vin Harte, whom he described as "exceptional".

"We moved the ball early but penalties hurt us," Conroy said. "We didn't pick up much yardage passing, but many of the passes missed by inches and some were dropped."

Picot, who had gained more than 100 yards in two earlier games, picked up 77 yards playing only three periods, and Giordani added 45.

The Presidents' first touchdown came late in the opening period when Picot clinaxed a 57-yard drive by scoring from the three. His 18-yard run had highlighted the drive. Maze kicked the point.

Giordani went 14 yards for a touchdown with only 43 seconds left in the half. A pass from Giordani to Harte set up the touchdown run. This drive also covered 57 yards.

In the fourth period Giordani again went 14 for a touchdown and Maze kicked the point. This drive covered 89 yards and was helped immensely by two roughing the kicker penalties against Weymouth. Maze again kicked the point.

Late in the game Rich Coose intercepted a pass at midfield and lateraled to Gilbody, who raced 47 yards for the final score. Maze kicked his third point of the afternoon.

While Quincy had 257 yards rushing, Weymouth had only 80. Quincy, with two for 10, had only 33 yards passing while Weymouth, with four for 10, gained 49. Quincy had 16 first downs to Weymouth's eight.

ENC Women's Volleyball Team Wins 7th In Row

The Eastern Nazarene College women's volleyball team continued its impressive performances last week as it defeated Wellesley College, 3-0, before 200 partisan fans in Lahue Center on the ENC campus.

The win was the seventh in a row for Coach Nancy Detwiler's team and moves its record to 10-4.

In the first game, Janet Ranstrom, sophomore from North Weymouth, served 12 consecutive points to give the Crusaderettes a commanding 12-0 lead. Wellesley was never able to get back into the game and lost, 15-0.

The second game was decided by ENC's strength up front as the home team won, 15-10.

The quickness of the first game left both teams a little unsettled, with neither team able to control a serve or put together any consistent team play. With ENC leading, 7-6, freshman Lois Malvesti of Quincy put on an impressive spiking display, as the Crusaderettes moved out to an 11-6 lead.

Wellesley again threatened, bringing the score to 12-9, before strong net play by 6-3 Donna Fandel clinched the decision.

Again in the third game, it was the play of the ENC spikers which decided the contest. Fandel continually scored on spikes and an excellent block by sophomore Cindy Tozzi of Quincy was the final touch in a 15-5 win.

ENC plays today (Thursday) at Brandeis, then travels to Boston College next Tuesday. The last regular season match is next Thursday when it takes on Northeastern and the University of Rhode Island at Northeastern.

Raiders To Face Big Test At Waltham

By TOM SULLIVAN

Back in 1933, '34 and '35, Pete Zoia was helping North Quincy's first three football teams go unbeaten against favored Quincy teams and gave the Raider fans plenty of thrills during those three years.

Pete captained the 1935 team which upset Quincy, 14-6, after his teams had played to a scoreless tie in 1934 and surprised the Presidents, 6-0, in 1933, the first year North had a football team.

Last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium, another Zoia came into his own and revived memories of his Dad's heroics.

Greg Zoia, used almost solely as a blocking back, was given a chance to carry the ball when the Raiders went into an inside "Belly" series against Brookline, and all Greg did was gain 93 yards on 10 carries and score two touchdowns in sparking North to its third win in a row, a 22-0 decision over its Suburban League rival.

The win gave North a 3-2 overall record but pushed it into a top tie with Waltham in the league with a 3-0 record.

The Raiders face their key test Saturday when they play at Waltham at 1:30 p.m. Waltham is 5-2 overall and 3-0 in the league and a few weeks back handed Quincy a 34-14 setback.

"We were sloppy in the first half and I think the boys just suffered a natural letdown after their big win at Newton," Coach Dave Burke said. "But we made a few adjustments and played much better in the second half. I hope we can bounce back and play at Waltham the way we did at Newton. Waltham has an outstanding team and we will have to be at our very best to beat them."

Brookline's defense gave North a bad time of it in the first half and put tremendous pressure on quarterback Kevin Cobban. However, North scored midway in the first period after a pass interception and added another score with five seconds left in the half following a second interception for a 15-0 halftime lead.

"We told the linemen they had to start blocking up front, something they weren't doing in the first half," offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "After that we did much better and Zoia picked us up. He did some great running and Colin McEachern and John Wilkinson also continued to run well."

"Tom Quinn, the alternate back for 'Wilkinson and McEachern, did very well today, and had a fine touchdown run. Cobban played another good game at quarterback but was really harassed by their defense."

Fitzgerald praised Pat McKenna, Jim Marinelli and Mike Gallagher in the offensive line.

"Co-Capt. Russ Chisholm, a bulwark in the offensive line, was not playing due to an injury and this left a big hole," Fitzgerald pointed out. Russ is expected back for the Waltham game.

As usual, North's defense was

	TD	PAT	FG	PTS.
Cobban	2	2	0	14
Zoia	2	0	0	12
Wilkinson	2	0	0	12
Greene	0	6	1	9
McEachern	1	0	0	6

outstanding, coming up with big plays when Brookline threatened. The secondary came up with two interceptions and the Raiders recovered five Brookline fumbles.

"Bob Schaezel did a great job for us today when he replaced Marinelli on defense," defensive coach Ken MacPhee said. "The McNamara brothers (Don and Paul) also were outstanding as were Jim Butler, who started; Vin Furlong, Ed Evanson, Jim Carroll, Mike Pitts, Tom McAleney, Tom Burke (who made a key play in knocking down a long Brookline pass), Harry Donaghue, Bruce Wilson and the whole secondary."

McAleney intercepted a pass on Brookline's 30 midway in the first period and three plays later, with fourth and four, Wilkinson took a handoff from Cobban and passed to Zoia in the end zone for a 24-yard scoring play. Kevin Greene kicked the point.

Donaghue recovered a fumble shortly after that to stop a Brookline drive and early in the second period Kurt O'Sullivan punted to Brookline's 30 and when the punt was dropped, North's McKenna recovered.

Late in the half Brookline drove to North's 21, clicking off three first downs, but another fumble was recovered by North's Carroll. Brookline recovered a North fumble on Brookline's 29 after Zoia had raced 34 yards to the 31, but on the first play North's Pitts intercepted a pass. Cobban hit Gallagher for 11 yards, then passed to O'Sullivan for 13. On the next play Quinn started to the left, then raced around right end for 14 yards and a touchdown with just five seconds left. Cobban, on a keeper, rushed for the two points.

North came out roaring in the third period. Quinn returned the kickoff from his 15 to his 49 and five plays later Zoia raced through the right side for 32 yards and the final touchdown. Greene kicked the point.

Brookline got one good drive going in the final period after Greene had missed an attempted 34-yard field goal. Brookline drove from its 20 to North's 15 only to fumble again and Marinelli recovered for the Raiders.

North had 255 net yards on the ground to 143 for Brookline. The Raiders added 48 yards through the air on three for nine, while Brookline gained only six yards on one for six. North had 15 first downs to 11 for Brookline.

North Girls Volleyball Team Improving

By TOM SULLIVAN

Although the North Quincy girls' volleyball team is winless in the Suburban League, Coach Ralph Koelsch is pleased with the improvement in the Raiderettes' play.

"We have been in every game this year and the opposing coaches and the referees agree our team is 100 percent improved," Koelsch said. "Last year we had only one senior and this year we have only two. Next year should be far different with nine of 10 seniors."

North did defeat Abp. Williams in a non-league game.

"The difference between getting 'blown out' of games and being 'in' games is tremendous," the North coach said. "But the difference between being 'in' games and winning is not so great. It is a tough psychological barrier."

The varsity is led by Co-Captains Jeanette Nolan and Ann Geribio (voted the team all-star by most opposing coaches.) Others on the squad are Debbie Belanger, Diane Kiley, Beth McCarthy, Patty Miceli, Lisa Green, Amy Constant, Phyllis Germaine, Cheryl Ayles and Claire Wildest.

Leading the junior varsity is Capt. Karen Melanson. Other jayvees are Kelly Peterson, Anne McDonald, Jane McGuigan, Teresa Joyce, Sharon Meyer, Dina Spiropoulos and Ellen McDonald.

"As you can see, the jayvee squad is small, so we are looking for girl athletes in next year's 10th grade," Koelsch concluded. "Volleyball is an excellent team sport and a great conditioner for winter and spring sports."

Little Loop

His 131 was also high single, while Wollaston Bowladrome rolled the high team three of 1381, and high team single of 489.

The standings: Atlantic Fire Oil, 8-0 (total pinfall of 2615); Atty. George G. Burke Club, 7-1 (2619); Bowladrome, 6-2 (2725); George F. Bryan Post VFW, 5-3 (2621); Quincy Lodge of Elks, 5-3 (2521); Joseph E. Brett Club, 4-4 (2526); Richard M. Morrissey Club, 4-4 (2474); Hennessy

Plumbing Supply, 3-5 (2645); Granite Lodge, 3-5 (2522); James R. McIntyre Club, 3-5 (2501); Hutchinson Oil, 3-5 (2468); Mayor Joseph LaRaia Club, 2-6 (2495); Councillor Paul D. Harold Club, 2-6 (2466); Montclair Men's Club, 1-7 (2460);

Dick Hatfield has high average of 114.3, followed by Mike Hatfield, 112.3; Chris Butler, 109.1; Mike Saruda, 103.0; Charles Petriello, 101.8; Paul Leonard, 99.5; Joe Crifo, 96.6; Dennis Harrington, 96.6; Mike Ellis, 96.5; Tom McCluskey, 95.0.

Butler's appearance on the Channel 7 Candlepin Champs program will be taped Nov. 16, and shown Saturday, Nov. 26, at 1 o'clock. Chris, 13, is captain of the Bryan Post team.

Quincy Girls Win, North Bows

The Quincy girls' cross country team last week defeated Cambridge Rindge Latin, 21-37, for its third straight win. The win raised the First Ladies' record to 3-4.

AAU champion Darleen Bickford won the meet for Cambridge and teammate Joanne Royster was second, but Quincy placed six among the next seven finishers.

Paula Constas placed third, Donna Reardon fourth, Paula Church fifth, Heidi Nault seventh and Ellen Caramonica eighth.

The North Quincy girls were not so fortunate as they dropped an 18-37 decision to Weymouth North.

Mary Leonard, Michelle Seltzer and Carol White placed 5-6-7 for the Raiderettes. Marie Voelkel was ninth and Ellen Robertson 10th.

QUINCY DOESN'T NEED ANOTHER SCANDAL, QUINCY NEEDS ANOTHER MAYOR.

It's no secret that Mayor LaRaia's administration has been one long story of scandal and error.

First, his Retail Stores Coordinator was found guilty of larceny.
Then his Superintendent of Cemeteries was found guilty of income tax evasion. (The same man was also under indictment by Suffolk County Grand Jury for larceny when appointed.)

And, just recently, his Public Works Commissioner and his Assistant Director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program were found guilty of extortion.

Incredibly, the corruption hasn't stopped yet. Just a few weeks ago a kickback scandal was uncovered in the South West Neighborhood House Painting Program. The FBI and the Quincy police are now investigating.

The courts have returned their verdict on the Mayor's appointees.

Now it's time for the voters to return their verdict on Mayor LaRaia.

It's time to vote for a man who's been untouched by scandal in 12 years of public service. It's time to elect a good and decent man who can make us proud.

It's time to elect Arthur Tobin mayor.

Former Quincy Officials Guilty Of Extortion

By JEFF GROSSMAN
Patriot Ledger Staff Reporter

BOSTON — Former Quincy officials Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci were convicted of extortion and conspiracy.

They were sentenced to a four-day trial.

Federal Judge Skinner scheduled sentencing Nov. 10. LoCicero, 62, was released on $1,000 personal recognizance.

Police, FBI Continue

Paint Program Investigation

Quincy Police and the FBI were continuing their investigation this week into alleged irregularities with payroll checks in the South West Neighborhood House Painting Program.

Mayor LaRaia ordered one worker fired and his final week's salary withheld in connection with the case.

Police and FBI were reported to be investigating allegations that payroll checks continued to be issued to an employee who left the program last May.

The FBI is in the case because federal funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the CETA program are involved in the painting project.

Tobin New Mayor By 5,050

By TOM HENSHAW

Arthur H. Tobin is the Mayor-elect of Quincy.

Tobin crushed Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia's bid for a second term by a margin of 5,050 votes as 66.8 percent [34,057] of the city's voters defied a rain and wind storm to cast ballots.

The final result was Tobin 19,096, LaRaia 14,046.

In other key races:

● Mrs. Joanne Condon became the second woman ever to be elected to the City Council and the first since Mrs. Edna B. Austin in 1959 when she defeated Walter J. Hickey for the vacant Ward 6 seat.

● Mrs. Mary Collins and Mrs. Joan Picard ran up the biggest vote totals in the School Committee race, ousting veterans Frank Anselmo and Charles T. Sweeney, who were seeking fifth and sixth terms respectively.

● Stephen J. McGrath, a 24-year-old law student who built up a following working in a Wollaston fast-food store, upset incumbent Councillor Warren A. Powers in Ward 5.

● Paul D. Harold, polling the highest vote total of anyone with 21,243, and John J. Quinn were re-elected to at-large seats on the Council but Dennis E. Harrington was edged by Francis McCauley for the third spot by a 263-vote margin. He may seek a recount.

Tobin, the president of the City Council who led the fight against Mayor LaRaia's programs, said his victory "shows that the people of Quincy are disturbed by the turmoil of the past two years."

"They want to see our city brought together again," he said. "I am going to keep my commitment to bring our city together."

Election Charts

He said his immediate plan was to "get together with some key people and select a screening committee to put my administration together. Then I'll take a rest."

Tobin captured all but seven of the city's 39 precincts in duplicating the stunning victory he won over LaRaia in the five-man preliminary race in September.

He took some 56 per cent of the vote.

LaRaia's strongest wards were, as expected, Ward 2, where he used to live, and Ward 4, where he lives now. He won Ward 2 by 54 votes and took Ward 4 by 238 votes.

Mrs. Condon resisted a landslide vote from Hickey's home precinct in Squantum to win out 2,809 to 2,371. Hickey outpolled her 1,173 to 316 in Squantum.

It was Mrs. Condon's first bid for public office while Hickey lost to Dennis Harrington in the Ward 6 race in 1975 after a recount.

"I'm thrilled," said Mrs. Condon, mother of three. "I couldn't be happier. This is just the beginning of doing the job

I've been elected to do.

"I'm going to go back and knock on all the doors in Ward 6 and thank the people and ask them what they think we need in the ward."

"My biggest disappointment in losing is not for myself but for the many "Hickey Helpers" who worked so hard in my behalf," said Hickey.

He asked his supporters "to join me in wishing success to Mrs. Condon, our new Ward 6 councillor."

Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Picard will join Mrs. Patricia Toland on the School Committee, evening things up with three women and three men. However, McCauley's apparent victory in the Council race would leave another seat open on the Committee, with his replacement to be chosen by joint vote of City Council and School Committee.

Vice Chairman John J. Sullivan was the lone incumbent re-elected to the School Committee.

The vote was Collins 16,916, Picard 14,617, Sullivan 14,464, Anselmo 13,604, Sweeney 12,736, and J. Thomas Mullaney 9,207.

Mrs. Collins, who is the mother of four, three of them in the Quincy public schools, was so excited that she could barely sit still for a 2 a.m. interview.

"I can't believe it happened to me," she exclaimed. "I was

'Deterrent To Others'

LoCicero, Reppucci Sentenced To Year In Prison

Former Quincy officials Vincent J. LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci were sentenced Monday to a year in the federal penitentiary for conspiracy and extortion.

LoCicero, ex-commissioner of public works, and Reppucci, who was assistant director of RSVP, were convicted last month of extorting $7,000 from the Rocheford Construction Co. of Natick in connection with a $1 million contract for an addition to the Merrymount School.

The sentence was stayed for 10 days by Federal Judge Walter Jay Skinner to allow their attorneys to file appeals.

In passing sentence, Judge Skinner said he felt a prison term would be a general deterrent to others in the matter of "hitting up public contractors... which seems to be a very serious problem."

Assistant U.S. Atty. Alan

Rose recommended a three year jail term and a $1,000 fine for each of the defendants, noting that they made "a naked demand for front money" from Rocheford.

He called the judge's attention to evidence that they "attempted to continue their scheme by getting Rocheford to bid on a $10 million North Quincy High School contract to complete the war chest" for the coming political campaign.

Neither of them, said Rose, had any record of service to the public prior to being appointed to their city jobs.

John Irwin, attorney for Reppucci, described his client as "a guy who stubbed his toe at the age of 63. It's sad that all he had accomplished in the past is going down the drain."

"I don't think Herbie realized what he had done until he was arrested," he said.

Irwin hinted that the federal government may have been overzealous in their pursuit of LoCicero and Reppucci when they placed a tape recorder on the person of Robert Rocheford during their meetings.

He said the Hobbs Act, under which the two men were prosecuted, was designed to enable the government to catch members of organized crime.

"I don't believe they had a person like Herb Reppucci in mind when they started out," he said.

Judge Skinner recalled Reppucci's voice on tape telling how he went to Las Vegas every year and made a lot of money and didn't have any expenses to pay out there.

"Maybe I'm getting suspicious in my old age," said the judge, "but that's not the sort of thing that happens to an average fellow."

Henry Sontag, attorney for LoCicero, pointed out to the judge that LoCicero did not participate in the extortion for personal gain.

"There was no viciousness, harsh language or threats made by Mr. LoCicero or in the presence of Mr. LoCicero," he said.

He characterized him as a "decent family man who worked with his hands. A prison term would expose him to sophisticated criminals and would not rehabilitate him."

He said LoCicero had "already been disgraced and lost the only political plum he had ever received in his life."

Irwin asked probation for Reppucci and Sontag asked either probation or a suspended sentence or a split sentence for LoCicero.

Judge Skinner said the actions of LoCicero and Reppucci "mark them as amateurs in this particular line of work. The whole adventure was notable for its lack of finesse."

Another mitigating circumstance, he indicated, was that they had "conducted themselves perfectly respectable on the way to this point."

Reppucci, in a final statement before sentencing, said he felt he got in trouble by being "a believer in matters I don't know much about." LoCicero let Sontag's plea stand for him.

U.S. Atty. Edward F. Harrington commended the Rocheford Company for informing the FBI of the events and he urged all private businessmen who are approached for money by public officials immediately to notify the FBI or the U.S. Attorney's Office.

$234,967 In New Wiring

The Department of Wire Inspection issued 124 permits for wiring estimated to cost $234,967 during October, it was reported by Assistant Inspector Thomas E. Purpura.

Major projects for the month were a new 68-unit apartment building at 999 Southern Artery, a new office building at 2-16 Willard St. and a new Mr. Donut building at 399 Sea St.

The department issued 54 certificates of approval, collected $2,861.25 in fees, made 151 inspections and noted 10 defects. There were eight reinspections and two fire calls.

New X-ray Equipment To Expedite Dental Care For 10,000 Youngsters

A new X-ray unit installed in the dental department of the John F. Kennedy Health Center is expected to speed up diagnosis and treatment for some 10,000 Quincy school children in need of dental care.

The most important part of the unit is a new high-speed x-ray camera, purchased with $2,200 in city funds, which cuts the amount of time that the person being x-rayed is exposed to radiation.

Auxiliary equipment in what is called the X-ray Screening Department includes a lead-shielded room.

The new equipment will take full-mouth x-rays which will determine the extent of work needed by the youngsters. The program is expected to get underway this month.

The Dental Department, under Dr. Richard J. Gavin, has also established an affiliation with the Tufts University Dental School which supplies two dental interns rotating at six-week intervals.

The affiliation also allows Quincy to use the facilities of the Tufts school.

"It's a big help in upgrading the services that we have available," said Dr. Gavin.

"We hope it will turn into a pilot program for surrounding cities and towns. Already we have had inquiries

Reno Marini Cites Harrassment

After Holdups, Breaks, He's 'Had Enough, Going Out Of Business'

By PETER BARNICLE

Exasperated by an on-going rash of break-ins, vandalism and holdups, Reno B. Marini, owner of Lawrence's Pharmacy, 47 School St., Quincy Center, is doing what a number of merchants have threatened.

He's closing up shop.

Marini, who is 62, announced his decision with two big signs, posted in the windows of his pharmacy, across from St. John's Church, announcing:

"Have Had It - Going Out of Business."

He disclosed that over the past two years he has been the victim of at least 11 breaks and on three occasions faced armed bandits. The constant harassment, the loss of his stock, and the ever present threat of bodily harm, he said, were all factors in his decision to close the door.

"The climax was Oct. 29," he said. "My daughter, Kathy [21], was behind the counter when a young fellow came in, pushed her, and pointed a gun at her. I was waiting on a woman customer and heard Kathy cry 'Oh, No!'. I knew immediately what was happening.

Marini said he grabbed for the gun he keeps behind a counter and the gunman fired, but missed. The bullet smashed a display of bottles.

"I dropped to the floor, expecting him to come around the corner. I was ready for him," he said grimly. However, the holdup man fired two more wild shots and headed for the door. Before leaving he fired a fourth shot which struck a sign and ricocheted, striking the druggist on the arm.

"I went after him, but by the time I got outside he was gone," Marini said.

Marini has been in business at the Lawrence Pharmacy for the past 16 years and before that, his uncle, Anthony Lawrence, operated the pharmacy for 25 years.

"I was born and brought up in Quincy," Marini said. "I went to Hancock Grammar School, Central Junior High and Quincy High. About five years ago I moved to East Bridgewater."

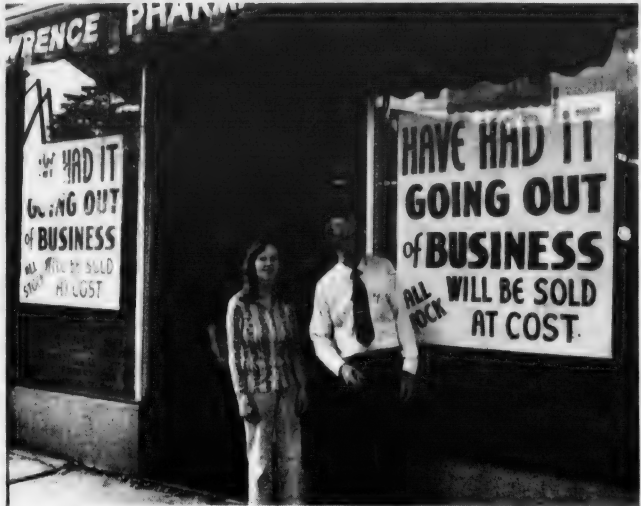

He doubts if any pharmacist would be interested in taking over his troubles and has no definite plans for his own future.

"I may look for a job in a hospital, or go to work for some outfit I like. I may not even stay in the pharmacy business," he mused.

Although he has always been ready to resist being held-up, Marini conceded that the recent invasion of his shop was the most unnerving. Previously a man had attempted to obtain drugs at the point of a gun, but fled when Marini drew his gun. On another occasion two armed girls sought unsuccessfully to hold him up.

Recounting his experiences with the police, Marini said:

"One time we had a sure

THAT'S IT says Reno B. Marini, owner of the Lawrence Pharmacy, as he and his daughter, Kathy Roberts, survey signs notifying customers of plans for the store.

catch. We had all the evidence, but because of a technicality they had to let him go. These guys walk in and out of court like it was a subway station. Somewhere to go and somewhere to come out of. The cops I meet are certainly not like the ones you see on television. These guys come in make some notes and disappear."

Marini said that his store has been vandalized a number of times by thieves who have broken in through windows, cellar doors, and most of them, in his opinion, are after drugs.

During a recent holiday weekend, while the store was closed, vandals broke into a second floor office, turned on the water in a restroom and caused nearly $4,000 damage to pharmaceutical stock.

Marini said he has filed several losses with his insurance company, but has absorbed most of the smaller losses himself.

"My customers are all expressing sorrow at seeing me go, but the time came when I could not take any more," he said with finality.

ACCIDENT 'BELIEVE IT OR NOTS'

Since 1903 the accidental death rate for all Americans has dropped dramatically, except for persons between 15 and 24. Americans in that age group are about as likely to be killed in an accident today as they were 75 years ago.

A man is much more likely to die in an accident than a woman. Last year, accidents killed 73,209 men, but only 31,413 women.

The death rate from poisoning has more than doubled since 1957. In the 25 to 44 age group it has tripled; in the 15 to 24 age group the death rate has grown ninefold.

Three workers are killed in accidents off the job for every one killed in an accident on the job.

Each year about 200 persons drown in the bathtub.

Cold kills more persons than heat. In 1974 excessive heat killed 140 persons in the U.S., while 348 were killed by excessive cold.

The Language of Flowers
Flower tips from Andre Moreau
Grow some tarragon for salads and to add a lovely licorice scent to poultry and fish sauces. It has a strong flavor, but tastes delicious and zippy. You must give this herb a little extra attention by allowing it a short rest each year and by dividing it periodically. Try the French tarragon plant which is easy to grow and lives a good long life. The Russian version has less flavor and aroma and is grown from seed. Just crush the leaves and you can tell the difference at once. This is a perennial that you can grow to add fresh spice to your table. Whether you are thinking in terms of an office, lobby, home or apartment nothing can grace your surroundings as well as lovely plants or floral arrangements from NORFOLK FLOWER SHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100. We encourage businessmen and shop owners to give us a call. We will handle your particular needs with personal attention. "For the Creative & Unusual in Floral Designing". Many types of silver boxes were made in the preceding centuries. Today, one may see some of these boxes on display in museums, or as prized items for sale in antique and jewelry stores. Some boxes were used by women for their dressing tables to hold hairpins and other items. As early as the seventeenth century, patch boxes were produced. These boxes were circular and had push-on lids with engraved designs. Every gentleman in days yore had a tobacco box. These were usually oval in shape, and no more than 1/2" deep so that they would fit easily in a pocket.

The holiday season will soon be upon us. Make your gift buying easy by coming to us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490. In addition to jewelry, we handle fine gift items of pewter by Reed & Barton and Royal Holland, crystal by Waterford, china by Bealeck and clocks by Cornwall. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Quincy United Fund At 4.8% Of $32,226 Goal

Andrew T. Walsh, United Way Community Chairman for Quincy, reports that, as of Nov. 7, the Quincy United Way Campaign has reached 4.8 per cent of its goal of $32,226.

Pledges to date total $1,558. "We've got a lot of work to do to meet goal," said Walsh. "And it's important that we do meet our goal, as a new study just released by the United Way points out."

The study Walsh referred to is a new Beneficiary Study - a study of United Way service statistics - which shows how many people are being helped by United Way agencies. In the United Way's South Region, for example, the study shows that 56,800 people have been served by United Way agencies. Twenty-eight agencies reported serving residents of Quincy. Nine are located in Quincy: Greater Quincy Chapter of the Red Cross; Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore; South Shore Mental Health Association; Quincy Visiting Nurse Association; Homemaker Services for the South Shore; Salvation Army; Blue Hill Girl Scout Council; Quincy YMCA; and the Quincy Jewish Community Center. The difference in numbers occurs because often residents will be served by agencies located in other areas, such as where they work.

The study, just in its first phase, was conducted by the United Way's agency relations and allocations department. It is based on reports from 94 agencies and covers a 12-month period ending June 30, 1977. To ensure confidentiality, agencies were not asked for names, addresses, or other identifying information.

Quincy is one of 21 communities in the South Region of the United Way and one of 66 cities and towns in the Mass. Bay area in which the United Way conducts campaigns.

City Council Reaffirms Opposition To Braintree Postal Facility

The City Council, candidates all, met on Election Eve Monday and breezed through their session so fast they only drew 13 of the planned 14 names called for jury duty.

Then, one by one, the Councillors stepped to the fore to speak in support of a unanimous resolution they passed some weeks ago in opposition to the proposed Post Office move.

Drawn for jury duty were: Janet C. Tantillo, 69 Plymouth St.; Kevin E. McLeod, 57 Quincy St.; Sophie Tidwell, 27 Beacon St.; Gerald D. Dhooge, 15 Hitchcock Terrace; Robert Y. Matson, 59 Bartlett St.; Russell J. Donovan, 2 Ellerton Rd.

Special Education - Book Week At Adams School

BOOKMARKS to be given to parents are prepared by Adams School pupils, from left, Marcy DiStefano, Michele Ekbon, Marilyn Burke and Terry Duggan.

In observance of American Education Week and National Book Week, the staff and pupils of the Adams Elementary School will present a special program on Wednesday, Nov. 16, from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Parents and friends are invited to visit classrooms and then assemble in the Media Center for a welcome by Dr. Henry F. Paterson Jr., principal.

A highlight of the program will be a slide presentation involving staff and pupils of the school and an illustrated talk by faculty members centered around the theme "Sharing Books with Children".

In addition there will be book displays, diaramas depicting favorite books and characters, special bookmarks prepared by pupils for presentation to parents, and a play "Chicken Soup With Rice". The pupils, dressed as story-book characters will act as guides during the open-house.

Throughout the week pupils will participate in a program entitled "D.E.A.R. [Drop Everything And Read]. On a set signal, during unannounced times of the school day, pupils, teachers, custodians, the nurse - everybody - will stop whatever they are doing to pick up a book and devote some time to reading.

Sheets Asks Bus Signs Be Posted

Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) has asked the MBTA to move forward with a proposed program of putting signs at every bus stop so that riders can more easily identify their stops.

Sheets said he first spoke to the MBTA about it a year ago and repeated the conversation last summer, when the authority held a public hearing in Quincy Square.

"It is my understanding that such a project is now being considered and I hope that the MBTA will move quickly on it," he said.

Sheets said the Brockton Area Transit Authority has had this type of sign for some time.

SUNBEAMS

By Henry Bosworth

It Was Also 'Ladies' Day'

The headline highlight was Arthur Tobin's win over Mayor Joseph LaRaia but Tuesday's city election was also "Ladies' Day".

The female side quadrupled its strength in Quincy's city government in just one day.

Before the election only one woman — School Committeewoman Patricia Toland — held a municipal elective office.

In January three more will join her: Joanne Condon as Ward 6 City Councillor, Mary Collins and Joan Picard on the School Committee. All three scored impressive victories Tuesday.

Mrs. Condon, of course, becomes only the second woman in Quincy's history to be elected to the City Council. The first was Mrs. Edna Austin, who retired in 1959.

Mary Collins was probably the biggest surprise in the election. She even surprised herself. She thought she would win one of the three School Committee seats but never dreamed of topping the race with 16,916 votes, leading runnerup Joan Picard by 2,299 votes and incumbent John Sullivan by 2,452.

A well wisher told her if she kept that up she could wind up as Quincy's first woman mayor.

PAUL HAROLD picked up Tuesday where he left off in the September preliminary. He was again the top vote getter on the entire ballot, rolling up an awesome 21,243 votes to top his preliminary election performance.

He led Mayor-elect Arthur Tobin by 2,147 votes and his nearest council-at-large rival John Quinn by 7,416 votes.

There seems little doubt that he'll be making a run for mayor himself one of these years.

THE SPECULATION CORPS is already busy wondering who will get the School Committee seat incumbent Francis McCauley will vacate to return to the City Council. McCauley finished third in the at-large race and unless Dennis Harrington files for a recount and overturns the results, McCauley will be a councillor instead of a school committeeman come January. McCauley topped Harrington by only 263 votes.

The new City Council and new School Committee will meet to elect someone to fill McCauley's, unexpired term on the school board.

Ironically, either incumbents Frank Anselmo or Charles Sweeney who lost Tuesday, could be eligible to be voted back onto the school committee if either can muster enough votes by January.

Of the two, it would seem that Anselmo might have the better chance. Former School Committeeman Paul Kelly is another possibility. Or, it could be a fresh face.

HIS COUNCIL COLLEAGUES and friends were sorry to see Ward 5 Councillor Warren Powers upset by political novice Stephen McGrath, 24-year-old law student.

You can't take anything away from young McGrath who went out and worked. But during a good part of the campaign, Powers was handicapped by a pinched nerve in his back which kept him from operating at full steam.

Public Hearing Set On CD Block Grant Application

The Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development will sponsor a series of four public hearings this month prior to submitting its 1978-79 CD Block Grant application for Federal Community Development Funding.

The first of the series is scheduled to be held at the Sterling Jr. High School cafeteria, 444 Granite St., Monday, Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Others will be held at Blessed Sacrament Parish Hall, Tuesday, Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m.; Atlantic United Methodist Church, 62 East Squantum St., Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. and at the City Hall Council Chamber, Nov. 17 at 10 a.m.

Purpose of the meetings is to give residents of Quincy an opportunity to discuss current community development activities and suggest future programs.

One of Thomas A. Edison's little known inventions was a talking doll, the first one of its kind, built in 1888. He made several hundred of them, but after his company sold the manufacturing rights to another firm, he destroyed all the dolls.

hoping for third place. It never entered my mind that I'd come in first. Did you hear that clap of thunder when the vote came in in Squantum?"

"We ran a good campaign and worked hard for a long time. My husband, Tom, and the kids put up with an awful lot for the past eight months."

On a more sober note, she recalled her brother, Michael Peatridge, an aide to the Mayor, who died in an automobile crash last December.

"I owe a lot to Michael," she said.

Mrs. Collins was enormously successful in only her second run for public office. She ran for State Rep three years ago and was defeated.

Right now, she said, she plans to take her family on a four-day vacation in New Hampshire "where we'll disconnect the phone and I'll bring a sewing machine to make six aprons for the Marianns."

Mrs. Picard said she owed her successful campaign to her husband, Thomas, who served as campaign manager.

"The day of woman's lib may be here but the husband still cracks the whip," she quipped.

"One thing," she said, "there's going to be a lot more things thrashed out in School Committee meetings. Many times I've seen matters that are passed by the board without discussion. That won't happen again."

McGrath's victory over Powers came as a mild surprise, even though Powers was reported to be in trouble in his ward, due largely to a back ailment that prevented him from getting around for the past six months.

McGrath won by 2,824 to 2,329.

Harold's 21,243 votes was one of the highest totals ever run up in a Quincy city election, apparently topped only by the 22,034 amassed by James R. McIntyre in his successful first bid for Mayor in 1965.

Behind him were Quinn 13,827, McCauley 13,626, Harrington 13,363, Joseph E. Brett 12,527, and Michael E. Faherty 9,463.

The loss may have ended the long political career of Brett, a onetime city councillor and longtime State Rep who was defeated for his state post last year.

Harold attributed his big victory to the fact that "I was able to project an image as an independent councillor, one who was not beholden to either Tobin or LaRaia."

"The biggest issue was politics. People were fed up with the pettiness and the bickering."

"I don't see the margin as a personal victory. It doesn't mean that they like me but that they like what I have been saying and my position on issues."

He became the first Councillor to hint out loud that he might like to succeed Tobin as Council president.

"I'll be in there trying for it," he said.

On the ward levels:

Leo J. Kelly easily turned back David J. Crowley Jr., son of a former city councillor, in Ward 1. His margin was 3,595 to 1,933.

"The people recognized the value of some of the programs that we got going," said Kelly.

"Now things should be a little quieter in City Hall and we can get to do bigger things in a more orderly manner. It will be a relief and comfort to serve in the City Council."

"I hope the bickering will stop and we can get on with the business of city government."

Daniel G. Raymondi prevailed handily over Robert K. Beniers in Ward 2. The incumbent's margin was 3,859 to 2,331.

John J. Lydon was unopposed in Ward 3. He drew 4,430 votes.

James A. Sheets was another big winner over Albert R. Barilaro by 4,372 to 1,007, but he faces another possible fight if Barilaro chooses to contest his election in court.

Barilaro sought a ruling prior to the election on whether Sheets could legally serve as a city councillor and a teacher at Quincy Junior College, drawing city salaries from both. City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams declined to rule.

Sheets said his win was "a vote of confidence in the work we've done for the last four years, not only by me but by the people who have helped me."

He expressed the hope that the political bickering in Quincy was over but he added a note of caution.

"Nothing should be taken for granted," he said. "We are going to have to work hard to establish good relations in the city no matter who is Mayor or who is on the Council."

Morrissey Seeks Action On Fires, Vandalism At Squantum Gardens

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has contacted Congressman James Burke's Washington office regarding Squantum Gardens residents' complaints of recent fires and vandalism in the project.

Robert Herring, spokesperson for Congressman Burke, said the Navy, "who has jurisdiction over the project has not yet decided what to do with it."

Morrissey said 34 of the 64 units in question are not involved with land. These units are presently being screened by Federal agencies to see if there are any interested in purchasing the units.

Morrissey said that if no federal agencies display any interest, then the buildings will be offered to the G.S.A. after 30 days. At that time, state agencies and the city of Quincy will be given the opportunity to take over the buildings.

Morrissey said the remaining 30 buildings have land attached to them and there will be no federal review on these until Nov. 14. This means it will be mid-December before State and local agencies have the opportunity to act on these buildings.

Morrissey said Congressman Burke's office will contact him soon with any information concerning the project.

Wollaston Beach Pedestrian Light Approved By MDC

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) and Thomas Brownell (D-Quincy) announce that their request to the MDC for a pedestrian light in front of Wollaston Clam Shop at 861 Quincy Shore Drive has been granted.

Morrissey and Brownell said that because of the large number of people having to cross the street in that area, a pedestrian light was necessary.

"It's a good step toward promoting pedestrian safety on Quincy Shore Drive," said

Morrissey. "We've been waiting for it for awhile."

According to Morrissey, the light should be in use by the end of next summer.

Brownell said the light should aid in pedestrian safety, especially in the busy summer months.

5,000 Signatures Goal Here

Petition Drive Underway To Limit State Spending

By PETER BARNICLE

An initiative petition seeking a change in the constitution of Massachusetts to place a legal limit on state revenue and state spending, is being circulated in Quincy and other cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth.

The Quincy Taxpayers Association is cooperating with Citizens for Limited Taxation (CLT) in the drive to obtain 5,000 signatures in the city. Harry E. Roemer, executive director of the taxpayers Group, said 55,644 certified registered voters throughout the state must sign before Nov. 28.

The proposed constitutional amendment would prevent the state from taxing or spending more than a predetermined amount each year. The allowable amount would be based on a formula worked out after average state income is determined.

Sponsors of the petition point out the amendment contains a growth factor. Thus, if wages increase five percent in a given year, state spending could increase five percent. What the amendment would do, according to Roemer, is prohibit the state from spending 15 or 20 percent in a given year when personal income in the state rose only five percent.

According to CLT, personal income in Massachusetts during the past 12 years has doubled, but during the same period, taxes and state spending has increased 650 percent.

The amendment also contains provisions to prohibit the state from mandating unfunded programs to municipalities, thereby raising the possibility of increased property taxes. Another section would specifically prohibit the legislature from decreasing the local aid fund and spell out a floor limit on this fund.

After the signatures have been certified by the various voter registrars throughout the state, they must be filed with Paul Guzzi, Secretary of the Commonwealth prior to Dec. 7. If it is determined that 55,644 valid signatures have been received, the legislature, in joint constitutional convention (before May 10, 1978) must act. If approved by 25 percent of the legislators, it must go through the same procedure in 1979, and then be submitted to the voters in Nov. 1980.

Chamber Seeks Successor

Swider Named President Of New England Council

Eric M. Swider, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed president of the New England Council for Economic Development, confirming a report in The Quincy Sun of Nov. 3.

Charles A. Pearce, president of the South Shore Chamber, noted that during the six years Swider has been with the organization it has "experienced a doubling in membership and a five-fold increase in dollar support."

"It is undoubtedly Eric's skill in 'turning on' business people and assembling and motivating a highly professional staff that brought him to the Council's attention and thereby provided an opportunity he could not refuse," Pearce said.

In announcing Swider's resignation Pearce also informed the membership he has named Paul MacElhiney, the Chamber's second vice president, to head a search committee to select Swider's replacement.

Swider, who assumes his new duties on Jan. 1, has promised the Council will continue its efforts to promote economic development throughout New England "with special emphasis on the region's energy and transportation needs."

Active in South Shore affairs, Swider is a director of the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council, clerk of the South Shore Economic Development Corporation, secretary of the South Shore Business and Industry Political Action Committee, director of St. Coletta's Day School in Braintree, and director of Sharing, Inc. He is also Massachusetts delegate to the National Employers Advisory Council, U.S. Employment Service.

A 1963 graduate of the University of Rhode Island, he completed the Advanced Management Program, Institute for Organization Management, Syracuse University, and attended the Academy for Organization Management, Notre Dame University.

Swider and his wife, Claudette, a teacher at Weymouth South High School, live in Hingham with their three children.

Maxwell's Parrot Offers Entertainment With Dinner

By ROBIN LORD

A "one-stop night out" is the idea behind Maxwell's Parrot, the new restaurant on 6 Maple St., Quincy Sq.

Partners, Eddie Coyle and Charles Grein, offer live entertainment Tuesday through Saturday night.

Recently opened, Maxwell's Parrot has a small supper club environment. It serves luncheons from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and dinners from 5 to 10:30 p.m., seven days a week. The moderately priced entrees offer basically American cuisine. An Italian Night on Tuesdays, featuring Louie Celona singing Italian songs and arias, offers Italian specialties from the kitchen. Wednesday through Saturday's entertainment is a special feature with Toby Hall at the piano and Maxwell's Singing Waiters serving.

Coyle, who named the restaurant after his own parrot, says the pair opened the dining and nightly entertainment business because "there wasn't this type of presentation on the South Shore. It is one of the few spots on the South Shore that offers entertainment with dinner."

Charles Grein, is head chef at Lisa Costello won in diving. Sweeney won the 500 freestyle and Tenney took the 100 breaststroke.

Oilers In 5-Way Tie For Top Spot

The Eastern Football League wound up in a five-way tie for first place last week as a result of the Hyde Park Cowboys' 7-6 win over the Marlboro Shamrocks.

The Randolph Oilers, coached by Quincy's Al Scibetta, Middleboro Cobras, Plymouth Rocks, Hyde Park and Marlboro all finished with 10-4 records.

After several conferences on the playoff format, it was decided the league's highest scoring team, Middleboro, would receive a bye into the final game, playing only that one game.

The Oilers will face Marlboro

Saturday night at 8 at Marlboro's Kelliher Field. Plymouth will host Hyde Park Friday night at 8:30 at Plymouth-Carver High School Field.

The winners will then meet for the right to face Middleboro for the title.

Raiders Look For Rebound Against Brockton

The North Quincy football team will try to shake off last week's nightmarish defeat at Waltham when it hosts Brockton Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

The Raiders, who had won three in a row, into a winning dervish in the person of John Nocera at Waltham and absorbed a 49-27 defeat, despite a fine offensive performance. It marked the most points scored on North team since 1969, when Quincy handed the Raiders a 53-0 setback.

All Nocera, one of the finest running backs in the state, did was score 32 points on five touchdowns and a two-point conversion. In an earlier game against Quincy he gained 235 points by himself and scored twice.

North still has a chance of at least tying for the Suburban League crown, but Newton North was able to defeat Waltham Saturday in order for the Raiders to keep their hopes alive. The loss dropped North's record to 3-3.

"They have one fine team," North Coach Dave Burke admitted. "Nocera is a truly outstanding runner, but it is their offensive line which makes them click. It is tremendous and they get off the mark awfully fast."

Sparking the Raiders on offense (they gained 237 yards on the ground), was John Wilkinson, who had the best day of his career and scored three touchdowns. He gained a bulk of the team's yardage on the ground. Greg Zoia and Tom Quinn also ran well and Kevin Cobban did a fine job at quarterback.

"The offensive line did a very fine job," Dave said.

Defensive coaches Ken McPhee and Jack Raymer were understandably upset. "We had several good cracks at Nocera but the boys just bounced off him. He is very slippery and one of the finest backs we've seen," McPhee said.

Raymer had good words for the secondary, Tom Burke, Tom McAleney, Harry Donaghue and Mike Pitts, who played his first game as a defensive back and played an excellent game.

Nocera scored his first touchdown early after a Waltham punt rolled dead on North's one. The Raiders fumbled the ball away and Nocera scored from the four. Bob Sergi kicked the point.

Early in the second period Waltham drove from its 45 and Nocera scored from the one. He also rushed for the two points.

Wilkinson scored from the two after Zoia had gone 50 yards to the four-yard line. Kevin Greene

Waltham added two more TDs in the second period to make it 28-7 at halftime. Nocera scored from the three following a long kickoff return and Sergi kicked the point. Nocera then scored on a nine-yard pass from Dave Hill and a pass for the points failed.

In the third period John Gergi raced 64 yards for a touchdown and Sergi again kicked the point.

Wilkinson made it 35-13 when he went in from the three and a pass for two points failed.

Bobby Martin made it 42-13 when he went in from the two and Sergi kicked the point.

Tom Quinn scored on a nifty 53-yard run and another pass for points failed.

It was Nocera's turn again as he scored from the six and Sergi kicked the point.

Wilkinson finished off the scoring for the day when he scored from the seven and Zoia rushed for the points.

Conroy has had virtually no chance to see his sons play for Scituate.

His oldest son, Mark, now one of his assistants, starred for four years at Scituate and later at Norwich University but Hank was always coaching on the days Mark played.

Last weekend, however, Quincy's game was postponed to Sunday and Hank finally got a chance to see his son, Rich, play for Scituate. He picked a good day as Rich gained 155 yards and scored the first touchdown on a 58-yard run as the Sailors surprised Hingham, 14-8. The previous week Rich had scored both touchdowns in topping Randolph, 13-0.

Hank couldn't see that game; but his wife and other sons, who usually watch Quincy, watched Rich instead.

The effective way to insulate your home

Insulation effectiveness is measured in its resistance to heat flow ... either moving out of the house in winter or flowing in, during the summer.

Celsius foam insulation has a high "R" rating which creates an efficient thermal barrier in ceilings, attics and walls. Celsius foam is pumped into walls cavities and flows around pipes, electrical outlets and other protrusions. It effectively seals against heat loss and drafts by completely filling the spaces without settling.

With Celsius foam you save on heating/cooling costs all year round and you get a return on your investment every time you receive your utility bill. You'll enjoy extra living comfort too!

Presidents Shoot For No. 6 At Brookline

By TOM SULLIVAN

The big game with North Quincy is coming up in two weeks and the Quincy football team is rolling into high gear as it approaches the classic.

If the Presidents can win Saturday's game at Brookline (1:30 p.m. kickoff) and they will be favored, they will take a four-game win streak into the Thanksgiving game.

Quincy not only defeated Brockton, 16-0, at Veterans' Stadium Sunday to hike its record to 5-3, but it scored its third successive shutout and the fourth of the season. The game was postponed Saturday because of the rain.

Brookline still has only one win, a 12-6 decision over Weymouth North, and unless the Presidents suffer a letdown, they should make their record 6-3, and have a lot of momentum going into the North Quincy game.

"We played another good game today and it is always good to beat Brockton," Coach Hank Conroy said. "We moved the ball well in the first half but fumbles and penalties hurt us. We made a few adjustments in our blocking in the second half and the offensive line certainly did its job."

"The backs ran well, but our passing game was off. The defense was again outstanding. Ralph Pickering ran well when we needed him, but I didn't want to use him too much as he has a bad leg. Rich Burnes played probably his best game. He has been one of our most consistent players, but has not received the recognition he deserves. We were able to contain their running game (Brockton made only one scoring threat early in the game,) and we also were able to stop their passing."

Len Picot, Pickering and Mark Merlis all ran well for the Presidents.

Offensive line coach John Bogan had good words for the entire line and hailed the performances of Pete Cassidy, Kevin Zambruno, Kevin Boudreau, Mike Duggan, Fran Donovan, Vin Harte, George McCarron and Tod Cafilich.

Defensive coach Bill Maver lauded the efforts of Burnes, Jim Maze ("his best game"), Cassidy, Mark Assad, who was coming off an injury, Dave Eastwick ("also his best game of the year"), Len Picot, Rich Coose, Pickering, Paul Grassie and Rick Gilbody.

Early in the game Brockton drove to a first down on Quincy's 11, but the Presidents held and the Boxers became disorganized as Quincy took over on its 24.

This was the only threat Brockton had as Quincy completely bottled up its running attack and also halted the passing game.

Quincy controlled the ball most of the half but fumbled away chances, and was set back by costly penalties.

In the second half, things changed and the Presidents dominated the rest of the game, putting on some good drives and this time holding on to the ball.

The first touchdown late in the third period was set up by a fine Picot punt which went out on Brockton's nine. The Boxers failed to gain and the punt went only to Quincy's 32. Mark Giordani, on a keeper, went around left end for seven yards and the touchdown with eight seconds left in the period. Maze kicked the point.

The Presidents drove to their second touchdown midway in the Quincy went to the 35 and Pickering put on a one-man show as he went for 23 yards, six yards and the final six yards on three successive plays with 6:10 remaining. Maze again kicked the point.

The final two points came a few minutes later after Picot's punt rolled dead on the Brockton two.

On the first play, Burnes broke through and spilled the ball carrier in the end zone for a safety and the final points of the game.

North Roms Over Quincy For 7-2 Windup

North Quincy's cross country team romped over Quincy, 18-39, last week to complete another excellent season with a 7-2 record. The Raiders' only defeats were to the Suburban League powers, undefeated champion Weymouth South and runner-up Brockton.

In the finale against Quincy North's Mike Barrett, who had a big lead, waited for teammates John Saville and Paul McCormick to finish hand in hand in 12:48.

"We've had four ties this year and in the past have had a history of ties," said North Coach Lou Tozzi. "We don't like to race hard against each other."

Quincy's John Furey, who later in the week finished eighth in the sophomore race in the State Coaches Meet, placed fourth, followed in order by North's John Ricciuti, Quincy's Joe Irvine, North's Mike Ricciuti, Quincy's John Banuk, North's Jim Coughlin and Quincy's Kevin Murphy.

"I was pleased with our season as we had only two returning varsity players, Saville, who ran for Quincy the past two years, and Barrett," Tozzi said. "We had only eight runners and two of them were hurt for the state class meet.

"I want to give credit to John Laverty and his Quincy team. They had a rough season [1-7] but they never gave up and did a good job against us."

Saville lost only to Barrett in Suburban League competition.

Tozzi paid tribute to juniors Jim Coughlin and John McGuigan and sophomore Mike Ricciuti for their efforts this fall.

The win marked North's 10th in a row over Quincy, covering cross-country, winter and spring track and the Raiders have never lost to the Presidents since the schools joined the Suburban League.

In the girls' finale, Quincy blanked North, 15-50, to record its fourth straight win and even its record at 4-4.

Quincy's Paula Constas and Paula Church finished in a first place tie, leading teammates Donna Reardon, Dotty Irvine, Heidi Dolan, Frances Maloney and Ellen Caramanica. Maloney and Caramanica tied for sixth place.

Pondering Parking ...

RICHARD D. BARKER, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, makes a point on downtown parking problems at a meeting before City Council's Downtown Development and Improvement Committee and downtown businessmen. Identifiable councillors are Dennis E. Harrington (back to camera) and Paul D. Harold (right).

After 4 Years Observing

Joanne Condon Now Able 'To Talk' At Council Meetings

By TOM HENSHAW

When the people of Ward 6 elected Joanne Condon to a first term on the City Council, they knew they were voting for a political novice.

But few were aware that she was no stranger to City Council meetings. In fact, she hasn't missed a Council meeting as a spectator in four years.

"The difference now is that I'll be able to open my mouth," Mrs. Condon told The Quincy Sun in a long post-election interview that touched many bases.

Among the points she made were these:

- She is proud of being only the second woman ever elected to the Quincy City Council and she feels that her biggest contribution will be in the area of the budget.

- She was elected to represent Ward 6 and, while councillors are called upon to deal with citywide problems, addressing the problems in her own backyard is the No. 1 thing for a ward councillor.

- Her election pitted Atlantic against Squantum and, while Squantum voted heavily against her, it's still part of Ward 6 and "they're going to have to learn to like me."

JOANNE CONDON: 'My house is clean. The dishes are done. The beds are made. That's just not enough for me.'

- The big issue citywide is development, both in downtown Quincy and Norfolk Downs, but each person has his own individual issue and all of them have to be addressed.

- Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets was her teacher at Quincy Junior College and has been a big influence in her life but she doesn't think of herself as his political protégé.

An edited text of the interview follows:

SUN: You're a newcomer to politics. Tell us something about your background.

CONDON: Well, I'm 37 years old. I went to North Quincy High School, graduating in 1957. I attended Quincy Junior College, which I started at the age of 31. I'm married. I have three children. My son, Michael, is in his first year of college in Ireland. My daughter, Susan, is a senior in high school. My youngest, Christopher, is 10 years old. I've been interested in the community for a number of years, going back to when the kids first got involved in the Cub Scouts and things like that. I've always been involved. Running for the Council was not any different. Chaos and confusion are my life. It's always been that way and I thrive on it.

SUN: The voting list calls you

Making It Easier To Pay Your Taxes

Parking meters along the City Hall side of Hancock Street, from McIntyre Mall to the entrance of the Della Chiesa Parking Area have been bagged since Monday - and appropriately by bank deposit canvas satchels.

The idea is to give Quincy taxpayers every possible access to the tax collector's office for the payment of their property taxes. Robert E. Foy, Quincy treasurer and tax collector, said the bills went out Nov. 10 and many people, particularly the elderly, are the first to make returns.

There are no statistics on the number of taxpayers who took advantage of the free parking, but Foy said that payments on Monday were "quite heavy".

P.S. The deadline for payment of the tax bill is Dec. 12.

$1 Million Retail Loss Seen Unless Garage Fully Open

Unless the top floor of the Ross Parking Garage is opened in time for the holiday shopping season downtown Quincy merchants will lose about $1 million in sales, it was estimated by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

"It's a life and death matter for some retailers during the Christmas season," said Martha Reardon of the Chamber.

The top floor of the garage, with its 120 parking spaces, has been closed since Sept. 22 when a car, traveling at an estimated 35 miles an hour, crashed into the wall, knocking a large spandrel of precast concrete from the roof to the ground.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson has refused to open the top floor to parking until Zaldastani Associates, Inc., of Boston, consulting engineers, have completed their investigation of cracks that were noted in some roof beams.

The situation has been aggravated by the fact that the parking lot with 40 spaces for city employees behind City Hall has also been closed for the groundbreaking of the new City Hall annex and city employees told to park in the public Della Chiesa Parking Area.

Miss Reardon explained the Chamber's reasoning behind the $1 million loss prediction like this:

If 160 spaces are lost to customer parking and each space is turned over four times [a conservative estimate] then the daily loss in parking is 640 shoppers' cars.

If each Christmas shopper spends $50 on presents and sundries that would make $32,000 in lost sales each day, or $192,000 for a six-day week.

Multiply that by a five-week holiday shopping season and add the four Sundays before Christmas on which merchants will be open for the first time and you come up with the $1 million estimate.

Richard D. Barker, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, explained the merchants' problems and suggested some solutions Monday at a hearing before the City Council's Committee on Downtown

Harrington To File For Recount

City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington plans to file for a recount of his recent 263-vote election loss before the deadline, Friday, Nov. 18, at 5 p.m.

Harrington, who is councillor from Ward 6, finished fourth in the race for election as councillor at-large with 13,363 votes to 13,626 for Francis X. McCauley. Three were elected.

"I am not indicating that I feel that any of the election workers were at fault," said Harrington, "but there may have been minor human errors that could change the result."

"I feel I owe a recount to the several hundred people who worked hard for me during the campaign."

Harrington said the recount filing will be done by his attorney, Edward H. Masterson Jr.

Most Stores To Open Noon-To-5 On Sundays

Quincy merchants taking advantage of the new Sunday opening law will, in general, observe 12 noon to 5 p.m. business hours.

All stores are free to set their own Sunday hours during the four weeks before Christmas, according to the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, but suggested that conforming to suggested guidelines would avoid confusion.

A Special Honor

Upland Rd. To Be Dedicated Thomas S. Burgin Parkway Sunday

An unusual honor will be conferred upon former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin Sunday [Nov. 20].

Upland Rd. from Adams to Granite Sts. will be named the Hon. Thomas S. Burgin Parkway with Burgin himself present at the dedication to accept the honor.

Later, when the Upland Rd. Extension is completed to the vicinity of Capen's Bridge in Braintree, that too will bear the Burgin name.

The dedication will take place at 2 p.m. Sunday at the corner of Upland Rd. and Granite St., where the event will be inscribed on a boulder of Quincy granite.

The inscription will say: "The Hon. Thomas S. Burgin Parkway, dedicated by the Quincy City Government in recognition of over 50 years of service; City Council president, representative, Mayor, senator and community leader."

Burgin was Mayor from 1935-42 and 1950-51, State Rep from 1929-30, State Senator from 1961-62, and City Councilor from 1925-29, 1933-34, 1950-51 and 1956-59.

He lost only once [for State Senator in 1961] and he was the only mayor of Quincy to run unopposed for re-election in 1940.

The move to honor Burgin began on Nov. 4, 1974, the 50th anniversary of his entry into public life, when the City Council passed a resolution noting his long service to the city.

The resolution cited him as a man "who has won an enduring place in the political history of the city of Quincy, ranking with such great citizens as the Adamses, Faxon and Hancocks."

"The Administration of Mayor Thomas S. Burgin will long be remembered for many civic accomplishments and the harmonious and unpretentious manner in which it was conducted," said the resolve.

"The Mayor, the City Council in behalf of all present and former members, the city officials and employees of the city of Quincy, and the citizens of this community do express to Thomas S. Burgin sincere and profound appreciation and thanks for his 50 years of faithful service."

But then it was decided that a simple resolve was not enough.

A special committee of the City Council, co-chaired by Leo J. Kelly and John J. Lydon Jr., with Council President Arthur H. Tobin as an honorary member, was appointed to rename Upland Rd in his honor.

Fittingly, the resolve was filed by Kelly, who represents Ward 1 from which Burgin was first elected to the Council in 1924 at the age of 22.

Other members of the committee include: Dr. Donald MacLeod, Russell Smollett, Robert Faxon, Mrs. Sam Mele and the late George Bonall.

"Mr. Burgin," said Kelly, "Is one of our outstanding mayors who also served with distinction in the City Council and as state senator."

"During his long, distinguished career he was always champion of progress and positive thinking.

"I feel this is a fitting tribute to him because the Thomas S. Burgin Parkway begins in Ward 1, where he grew up, and the proposed extension symbolizes progress."

"And appropriately, the parkway, when completed, will connect the Adams Birthplaces with the Adams Mansion, historic sites Mr. Burgin has long cherished as a proud resident of the City of Presidents."

The main speaker at the dedication will be Judge Paul Reardon, retired chief justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court.

Also on hand will be Magr. John Mullarkey and Rabbi Jacob Mann, longtime friends of Burgin, and the Rev. Keith Munson, minister of United First Parish Church, which Burgin attends.

Among the invited guests are Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin.

The Language of Flowers Flower tips from Andre Moreau

Are you ready to try an almost indestructible houseplant? One that thrives in polluted air and has been hanging out in apartments and homes through smoke and haze for a hundred years? Guaranteed to bounce along in good health, the India-rubber tree is a delight for the nonchalant indoor gardener. Feed it less often than more and keep it barely moist - wet soil is the only condition to avoid. The more light the better, dim light is not harmful, but will slow the growth of this handsome plant. Wipe the foliage with a damp cloth to remove dust, discard older leaves if they turn yellow and enjoy your India-rubber tree for years and years.

AGE AND THE GRIM REAPER

Murder is the number two cause of death among Americans aged 15 to 24 [notor vehicle accidents are number one]. Suicide is number three.

Accidents are the leading cause of death among all persons 1 to 38 years of age.

Falls kill more people aged 75 and over than in all the age groups combined.

Drivers between the ages of 20 and 24 are more likely to be involved in a fatal traffic accident than drivers in the under 20 age group.

The death rate from poisoning is highest in the 25 to 44 age group, and lowest in the 5 to 14 age group. [Children under 5 have the second lowest rate]. Adults aged 75 and over suffer almost twice the death rate from suffocation by choking as any other age group, including infants.

Silver casters were used to serve powdered spices and sugar as long ago as three hundred years. Casters are beautifully worked containers, ranging from four to nine inches in height, and of basically cylindrical shape. Frequently casters come in sets of three, perhaps with two small ones and one large one. The lids encompass approximately 1/3 of the total height of the caster. These lids were pierced with great care into intricate open-work designs. Sometimes one of the three casters had an unpierced lid, for the use of containing mustard powder. The lids of casters simply push into place. Be sure to see us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490 for all your jewelry and gift needs. Christmas is only a few weeks away and we want to be sure you select your gifts while our stocks are the fullest. Gift certificates are available in any amounts. Of course we have a selection of gifts in a wide range of prices - from as little as a couple of dollars to thousands and thousands. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. HELPFUL HINT Early casters were straight cylinders, but later ones were pear shaped.

A fish chowder luncheon will be served from noon to 1:30 p.m. Following the Fair, a turkey dinner with all the trimmings will begin at 6:30 p.m. For more information call 328-4311 or 843-8007.

Koch Club Launches Christmas Projects

The Koch Club of Quincy is planning its 29th season of Christmas Projects and finds itself a coordinating agency with persons and organizations providing toys, food and turkeys for distribution to those in need. Individuals and associations including various Koch Club bowling and basketball leagues assist and cooperate each year in providing toys and food for those in need. Others helping include the Massachusetts Fields School, Parker School PTA, Otis Elevator Employees, the Rainbow Fruit and a group of individuals who for the past 21 years have donated the funds for the purchase of turkeys.

The Koch Club's 22nd annual Christmas Basket Fund Drive is now underway. Any members or friends of the Koch Club wishing to donate canned goods or non-perishable foods are requested to leave them with the officers of their respective leagues, the Executive or District Director. Members may also donate money toward the turkeys that are given with each basket. The food baskets are distributed through local Charitable organizations and through the Koch Club to needy families. Thomas F. Nestor is chairman. The deadline for donations is Monday, Dec. 19.

The Koch Club's 29th annual Santa Claus visit to shut-in children will be conducted Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 17 and 18, between 2 and 5 p.m. This program is conducted for children who are shut-ins year round. Originally, the service was offered to Quincy people, however, calls from parents in Braintree and Weymouth were honored and the South Shore is now included. Only parents of the shut-in children may make the above request for Santa's visit and should contact Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, (328-8286), and arrange for the time most convenient for the parents of the children to be visited. Richard M. Morrissey is chairman of Santa's visitations to the homes.

The Koch Club is again seeking used toys, books, games and dolls for distribution to needy children at Christmas. In 1971, the Koch Club members and friends started a collection drive of gifts repairing, painting and distributing 200 in 1971 and continued increasing the project to thousands of toys, games, books and dolls distributed each year. Boys and girls are asked to help sacrifice one of your good used toys for someone less fortunate at Christmas.

The Koch Club Dress-A-Doll Program is being conducted for the fourth year. Women or girls wishing to help refurbish the dolls donated to the Koch Club for Christmas delivery are requested to contact Mrs. Simone Koch at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy or Mrs. Ginny Derringer, 4 Edward Cody Lane, South Weymouth.

School Health, Eye Care WJDA Program Topic Friday

School health and the proper care of the human eye will be the main topic of discussion as WJDA continues its series of "Operation Health" Friday at 3:10 p.m.

Mrs. Cheryl Thomas, a third grade teacher from the Lyons School in Randolph, will be the featured guest of host Win Bettinson and will discuss the Randolph Model Elementary Health Education Program. Based on the Berkeley Smoking and Health Education Project, this model program is geared to teach primary students the functions of the body's system, how they work together to enhance one's general quality of life and how and why they require proper care.

Each year the emphasis is on a different part of the body ranging from teeth, ears, eyes, to the respiratory, circulatory and nervous systems. Once the students understand how the body's system functions, they explore what makes it go wrong.

Students and teachers alike have responded enthusiastically to this innovative approach to health education and the program has recently been expanded to encompass special evening programs for parents.

"Operation Health" is a continuing Radio service jointly sponsored by the Quincy Community Action Program and the South Metro Health Council, the local branch of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston.

South Quincy Station To Be 'Quincy-Adams'?

The proposed MBTA station now known simply as South Quincy may eventually be known as the Red Line's "Quincy-Adams" station.

The MBTA Task Force, appointed some time ago by Mayor Joseph LaRia, will meet next Tuesday and one of the items on the agenda will be a name for the station.

Lars Norman Lundin, chairman of the Task Force and director of the department of planning and community development, says the committee has been asked to come up with an appropriate name which will be submitted to the "T" for approval. The "T", he pointed out, reserves the right to make the final decision.

"At the moment the MBTA people are leaning towards the name Quincy-Adams because it locates the station and has historical significance," Lundin said. "They are open to suggestions."

Communion By Hand Optional In Catholic Churches Saturday

By PETER BARNICLE

Roman Catholics in parishes of Quincy will join with co-religionists throughout the Archdiocese on Sunday, [Feast of Christ the King] in exercising the option of receiving Communion by hand or mouth.

Some parishes in the Quincy area permitted the practice at Masses last Saturday and Sunday.

Cardinal Humberto Medeiros in a pastoral letter said that the choice of receiving Communion by hand is left to the individual communicants. Those who prefer may continue to take the Eucharist with one hand resting on the other, palm up [ordinarily the left hand uppermost] extended towards the minister. The hands should be uncovered with no objects in them.

The hands should be extended sufficiently outward and upward so it is evident that the communicant wishes to receive the consecrated bread in the hand. The Sacred Host will then be placed in the hand by the minister after the usual words "The Body of Christ," and the person's customary response, "Amen."

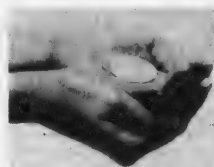

The communicant then steps to one side and places the bread

TO RECEIVE COMMUNION IN THE HAND

1. Approach the minister of the eucharist with one hand resting on the other, extended toward the minister, palm up.
2. The minister says "The Body of Christ." You reply "Amen."
3. The minister places the host into your open hand.
4. Take one step to the side, and then place the host into your mouth before moving on.

in the mouth. It was also pointed out that those who prefer to receive Communion on the tongue, simply do not hold out their hands.

In announcing the decision to permit reception of Communion by hand the Vatican Congregation for the Sacraments and Divine Worship said that the time may have arrived for increasing among the faithful "the sense of their dignity as members of the Mystical Body of Christ, in which they are inserted by baptism and the grace of the Eucharist." It noted that due to historical circumstances the "unworthiness" of the communicant to touch the Host was overstressed.

The Church points out that anyone who has been baptized is totally cleansed, consecrated and made to share in the priesthood of Jesus Christ. The tongue is not more holy than the hand. The total person is holy; no part of one's person is less sacred than another. Thus, every Christian has great dignity and holiness by reason of baptismal incorporation into Christ.

"What is important," the Vatican noted, "is that communion is always received with great faith, reverence and commitment."

Festival Of Choirs At Bethany Church

A Festival of Choirs will be held in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Sq., Sunday, Nov. 20, at 7 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Bethany Music Committee and under the direction of Miss Mary Lou Glaman.

The festival will feature choirs from nine churches including five from Quincy. They are: Salvation Army Church of Quincy, David Galbraith, director; First Church of Scituate, Mary Ruth Scott; Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Montclair, Mrs. Rachel Kasianowicz; Bethany Congregational Church of Quincy, Lambert Brandes and Wollaston Congregational, Donald Reade.

The choirs will sing one or two selections on their own and join together for four under the direction of David E. Brandes, who served as assistant conductor under John Oliver, Boston Symphony Tanglewood chorus director. Organist will be Lambert Brandes, his brother, who is Associate Professor of Music at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston.

An offering will be taken for the benefit of the Protestant Social Service Bureau, a counseling and child placement agency serving the South Shore.

The public is invited.

Service Of Thanksgiving

Adams Shore Church To Mark 60th Anniversary

Adams Shore Community Church, now United Methodist, will mark the 60th anniversary of its organization with a Service of Thanksgiving, Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Rev. Daniel D. Allen, pastor, will speak on "God, Our Help -- Our Hope!"

District Supt. Simon P. Montgomery and his wife will be guests. A luncheon will follow the service. An afternoon fellowship program will feature slides and pictures taken through the years.

"Quincy No. 1," an Adams Shore Bible Class organized as a result of the Billy Sunday Campaign in Boston, held its first weekly service Jan. 28, 1917, with 36 persons attending. They met in the second floor hall of Folsom's Seafood Market (now demolished) on Sea St. in the Post Island section of Adams Shore.

The group incorporated as "The Adams Shore Church of the Evangelical Association" May 23, 1917. In September, plans were made for a building, and in 1918 a lot at the corner of Albatross and Pelican Rds. was purchased for $931.53. A mortgage of $2,500 was secured to pay for church construction. The 48 by 26 foot wooden building was built by men of the parish, working often until midnight by electric lights strung across the grounds.

In 1932 an annex was needed to meet demands of a growing Sunday School. A portable school house about to be discarded by the City of Boston was purchased and placed upon a foundation dug by church members.

The church has been known for its thrift and practicality. In 1934, potatoes were grown on the church lawn to encourage later growth of grass on the sandy soil. Several evergreens, purchased in Maine at 10-cents each, still stand. Old chairs were first replaced by pews purchased from Bethany Congregational Church when it was rebuilt, and again in 1951 with discarded pews from St. Chrysostom's Church in Wollaston -- and are still in use.

In the belfry, a locomotive bell donated many years ago, will again be rung to call members to worship this Sunday.

In 1951, in order to have a resident minister, the church purchased a parsonage at 100 Albatross Rd. for $5,000. Four years ago this site was sold and a new parsonage built on church land at 70 Pelican Rd. Extensive renovations to the church were also made, much of them by men of the church. Today both church and parsonage are without mortgage.

The church has had 21 ministers. This includes Rev. Allen who came here with his family in 1975 from Warehouse Point, Ct. Both Rev. Allen and his wife were missionaries in India for more than 20 years.

The late Mrs. Emma S. Tossant, attorney, was the first and only woman president of the church corporation. In 1970-72, the church had its first and (to date) only woman pastor, Rev. Gwen Lurvey, co-pastor with her husband, Rev. John Lurvey.

There have been several changes of the church's corporate name. In 1948 the Evangelical Association affiliated with the Evangelical United Brethren Church which, in 1968, merged to become the United Methodist Church.

Majoring In Plant Science

3 Former Central Students Happy At Norfolk County Aggie School

[Ed. Note: Linda Trubiano, a senior at North Quincy High School, is a journalism intern at The Quincy Sun under Project Intocomp - Career Internship Program. As part of National Education Week, she was assigned to cover a day in the lives of three former Central Junior High School students now majoring in plant science at Norfolk County Agricultural School.]

By LINDA TRUBIANO

Students, do you know what you are going to be after high school? Have you thought about it? If you have, look at what you have chosen. Are you sure that's what you want to do?

Too many high school seniors are caught off guard when graduation time rolls around. Too many times they don't realize, until they are already in college or working, that what they are doing is not what they really want to do after all.

The most important factor in choosing a career is interest. Nobody likes doing something that they are not interested in. This also should be remembered when choosing courses in high school. Go with what interests you. Explore the possibilities and find out all you can about what you have chosen. This will make it easier for you to make that important decision, "What am I going to be?"

Because of a serious interest in agriculture, three eighth grade students at Central Junior High School took advantage of a two week orientation program being offered at Norfolk County Agricultural School, Walpole. They learned of the program when a pamphlet about the school was distributed three years ago. Today they are juniors at Norfolk taking plant science.

Paul Villa, Michael Walsh and Steven Whittemore, studying such subjects as nursery products, turf management, plant identification, greenhouse management and floral design. They also have their general academic courses along with their agricultural training.

Agriculture is more than just farming. Pre-high school students interested in any of the areas of plants, animals, agricultural technology, ecology, the environment and nature as well as machinery sales, operations and servicing might consider the wide field of agriculture as a career. Especially those who are considering attending a trade school rather than a regular public school.

Norfolk County residents. It is available to interested students who are candidates for regular advancement from the eighth or ninth grades. Applications should be filed after Feb. 1 and before May 15. There is no required test for entrance. Admission is based on seriousness of interest in agriculture and attendance, effort, conduct, scholastic and achievement records earned at junior high or middle schools, and performance at the spring seminar program.

The three major areas of study are plant science, forestry and animal science. In their freshman year, students are introduced to each of the areas, they then chose one field in which to continue their study in their sophomore, junior and senior years. Each major field is broken down into specific related fields.

Paul, Michael and Steven have chosen plant science as their field of study. Paul said that this year, they have their agricultural studies in the morning. This alternates each year. Freshmen have agriculture in the morning and academics in the afternoon as do the juniors. Sophomores and seniors have the opposite.

Transportation to and from the school is provided free by the school's buses. Each bus has its own route and the routes cover all of Norfolk county.

After catching the bus, and the ride to Walpole, the boy's school day commences at 8:10 a.m. with the homeroom period. Their first class starts at 8:27. Since the boys are juniors, they have their agriculture in the morning. All their classes are completed before lunch, however, their time in each class is flexible enough so that if more time is needed in one class to finish a project, it is arranged.

After lunch, juniors and freshmen have their academic courses. For Paul, Michael and Steven this includes the usual 11th grade courses such as English, Math, Science and History. The boys are members of the Future Farmers of America as are most of the students. Other extra-curricular activities include soccer, track and basketball. Cross country and cheerleading are offered for the girls who number 114 out of the present 360 students.

For Paul and Steven the day ends at 2:30, but for Michael, who is co-captain of the soccer team, 2:30 means time for practice. After sports practice there is a late bus for the players. Mike is also president of the junior class. Like other high schools, classes must raise money for such things as proms and yearbooks. To do this, Mike said that the junior class holds dances, collects dues and sells things at the annual Fall Expo held at the school every Fall. During this event, students compete against each other in different areas of agriculture. Parents and friends are invited to attend.

The statistics for employment of graduates are very high. According to a recent survey, 65.8% of Norfolk's graduates went on to work in major study areas, 22% went on to work in related study areas, 11% worked in non-related study areas. Only 1.2% were unemployed.

Not all graduates, however go straight to work. Many continue on to higher education. Mike Kelly, director of guidance, said that "approximately 35% of the seniors go on to college since most good jobs require a higher education." Students are eligible for local scholarships as well as those from colleges.

As part of their learning system, students, juniors and seniors, are released from school in April to go to work for the summer. Some students work at the school for lower wages but with free room and board. Kelly also said that "the student who has done exceptional work can get an early release to start work early, if the student has a job."

Quinn, Sheets Front-Runners For Council Gavel

Now that the city election is over it's behind-the-scene wooing time in the new City Council to be seated in January.

The big question: who will be the new council president -- the second most powerful political figure under Quincy's Plan A charter?

According to usually reliable sources, the two top contenders [at last check] are John Quinn and James Sheets.

The pair reportedly are deadlocked with three votes each. It takes five votes to win the gavel, and the political influence and prestige that go with it.

The sources see Leo Kelly and John Lydon lining up with Quinn and newcomers Frank McCauley [at-large] and Joanne Condon, [Ward 6], in the Sheets bloc.

Paul Harold reportedly has his own vote, as does Daniel Raymond. Newcomer Stephen McGrath [Ward 5] is believed to be uncommitted.

There will be some added lustre to the job because the man who wins it will be the first new city council president in 10 years. Mayor-elect Arthur Tobin was elected to nine consecutive one-year terms.

Thus, the new council president will kind of stand out. So will his committee appointments.

THE FACT THAT John Quinn is seeking the council presidency recalls the time when he could have been the president but turned it down because he wouldn't go back on his word.

It was back a few years ago and Quinn had committed his vote early to Charles Shea who is now the city auditor.

The councillors vote orally and alphabetically for the presidency on inaugural day. Because of his name, Quinn would be the last to cast his vote this particular day.

When the voting got to him, it was deadlocked 4-4 between Shea and Quinn. Quinn could have voted for himself and won the presidency. But he kept his word, voted for Shea, and gave it to the latter.

Quinn is now the all-time longevity champ on the council. He was elected last week to an unprecedented 11th term.

Now he'd like the council presidency to go with his "dean of the council" honor.

MAJOR Joseph LaRaia left a group of department heads wondering last week. At a meeting regarding the annual city report following his defeat at the hands of Arthur Tobin, LaRaia remarked he expects to be back with them in the future. And if not "in this capacity", than in some other. [That ought to trigger some speculation.]

SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN Charles Sweeney who lost his board seat in the city election reportedly is the frontrunner -- at the moment anyway -- for the appointment to succeed Frank McCauley. It will take 10 votes -- a two-thirds margin -- at a combined meeting of the new School Committee and City Council to win the seat. McCauley will relinquish to return to the City Council. Sweeney, inside sources say, has lined up six votes so far.

There will be 15 voting: nine councillors, five school committeemembers and the mayor [Arthur Tobin] as chairman of the school committee by virtue of his office.

Also being mentioned as possibilities, however, are Councillors Warren Powers and Dennis Harrington who lost re-election bids Nov. 8, and, School Committeeman Frank Anselmo, who also went down to defeat.

Of course, McCauley will return to the council if the recount sought by Harrington doesn't change the outcome. McCauley finished 263 votes ahead of Harrington.

HOW DID YOU forecast last week's election? Atty. Stephen Keefe, assistant city solicitor under Mayor Amelio della Chiesa, called it right on the button.

Keefe walked into The Sun office three days before the election and jotted his predictions down on a piece of paper: Tobin by 5,000 votes. Paul Harold, John Quinn and Frank McCauley to win the council at-large seats-in that order.

WJDA news director Herb Fontaine racked up two honors in the same week: the Quincy Jewish War Veterans "Man of the Year" and a special award from the Quincy Veterans Council for his service to the council which represents all of Quincy's veterans.

COUNCILLOR PAUL HAROLD gave the greetings of the city at Sunday's joint breakfast of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans and the Beth Israel Synagogue Brotherhood.

Harold noted that on a visit to Israel last February he met Menahem Begin in the cafeteria of the Israel parliament. At that time, Begin was merely the leader of what was then a minority party.

And what did Harold chat with the future Prime Minister about? Kosher food and Israeli beer.

Downtown Businessmen Make Parking Recommendations

Development and Improvement.

The chief complaint, according to Barker, was that parking spaces that should be filled by a turnover of shoppers were being preempted by store, office and city employees, even MBTA commuters, who arrive before the stores open and leave their cars there all day.

He predicted that the problem will become particularly acute during the Christmas shopping season, which, he said, "is the difference between making a profit or loss for the year" for many companies.

City Planning Director L. Norman Lundin promised to see what he could do about reopening the lot behind City Hall, sans pavement, during the Christmas season since construction work on the annex is not due to start until January.

Barker made the following recommendations to improve the immediate problems with downtown parking:

- Rope off all parking areas designed for customer parking at the end of each business day in the Ross, Della Chiesa and Hancock parking areas.

- First and second levels of the Ross Garage and ramps leading to those areas should be reserved for customer parking with the third and fourth floors assigned to store personnel.

- Parts of the Della Chiesa and Hancock parking areas should be assigned to employers and employees whose business is in direct proximity to those areas. All other areas should be reserved for customers.

- Areas assigned to customer parking should be closed until 9:15 a.m. each business day and, on the four Sundays prior to Christmas when stores will be open from 12 noon to 5 p.m., the areas should be closed until noon.

- Four hour parking should be permitted.

- Individuals violating the four-hour limit more than five times should be prosecuted. And violators should "truly be prosecuted for without prosecution no system of parking will work."

- A police officer should be assigned to the Ross Garage Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. through the year, from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. during the holiday season, and from 12 noon to 5 p.m. on the four shopping Sundays before Christmas.

- One of the two meter maids presently assigned to the Ross Garage should be assigned to the Della Chiesa area and adjacent streets while the second meter maid should be assigned to the Hancock area and adjacent streets.

- Comfort stations in the Hancock area should be kept open and maintained on a daily basis, particularly on days that the business district entertains parades, such as Veterans Day and Christmas, and other festive occasions.

- Repair the closed circuit television system in the Ross Garage which has not functioned for more than a year.

- Provide police officers at the corner of Granite and Hancock Sts. and School and Hancock Sts. during the holiday season.

A further suggestion by Barker, that an official of the city be held responsible for maintenance of the garage, elicited the information that no one is really sure who is in charge of the building.

Councillor Dennis E. Harrington explained that, while a building is under construction, it is the responsibility of the commissioner of public works, who turns it over to the proper authority, usually the Public Buildings Department, when the work is finished.

But, technically, the garage has never been completed, even though the construction bond issue has been depleted, and the building has never been turned over to anyone. Money to cover its expenses is included in the Police Department budget.

Harrington moved, and the committee concurred, to make the following recommendations to the Mayor:

- Permit the Public Buildings Department to make repairs to the garage and bill them to parking meter receipts.

- Allocate not more than $10,000 to the Police Department from parking meter receipts for enforcement of parking regulations, Saturday traffic duty at Cliveden St. and security in the garage.

- Continue to expedite a decision to open the top floor of the garage.

Mayor LaRaia's directive that parking be free during the Christmas season to make up for the loss of spaces was viewed with something less than enthusiasm by Capt. Roy Cavicchi, head of the Police Department's traffic division.

"Free parking at Christmas is wrong," he told the hearing. "As a matter of policy we always go easy on the tickets around Christmas. Now we're advertising that there will be no ticketing. It's asking for all-day parking."

Cavicchi expressed the opinion that, with the safeguards already taken, the top floor of the garage could safely be opened for parking.

Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. said he had been told by Zalastani Associates that they should have an opinion on the safety of the garage by the end of the week.

Local Ballots Protested In State Election

The election was over but the problems lingered on.

Democrats supporting losers John E. Swift for lieutenant governor and John P. Buckley for attorney general protested every ballot cast in Quincy as being in violation of state election laws.

They complained to City Clerk Emery L. Crane that precinct wardens failed to seal the votes in envelopes; instead, placed them in unsealed envelopes and sealed the envelopes in a package.

Meanwhile, Crane refused to accept a petition from Ray P. Clisham of the Leander-for-Mayor Committee asking a recount in Ward 6. Crane said it was requested only to settle an election bet.

Carl A. Leander finished third in the Mayor's preliminary contest, gathering 510 votes to 1,450 for Thomas J. McGrath and 1,449 for Charles A. Ross, whose names would appear on the December ballot.

In yet another post-election squabble, City Solicitor J. J. McAnaney ruled that Park Board Chairman William M. Trusselle, one of six successful nominees for City Council, could not withdraw his name.

Morrissey Collecting 'Toys For Tots'

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] and the U.S. Marines at the South Weymouth Air Force Base, announce they are seeking donations of new and usable toys for a float Morrissey has entered in the annual Quincy Christmas Parade Sunday, Nov. 27.

Theme of the float will be "Santa's Workshop" and will feature a workshop area complete with toys and elves.

Morrissey said there will be two drop-off points for donations: Fashion Quality Cleaners, 67 Billings Rd, and his district office at 69 Billings Rd, both in North Quincy. Toys will be accepted at the first location during regular business hours, and at his district office Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning, 9-10 a.m. and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings 6:30-8:30 p.m.

In the event residents are unable to get to one of these drop-off centers, the U.S. Marines will have a truck following the float during the parade. All of the toys will be donated to the U.S. Marines Toys For Tots program.

Residents can also call Morrissey at 328-0900 to make arrangements to have the toys picked up.

In past years, these toys have been given to many Quincy based service organizations. Any organizations interested in obtaining toys from the Marines should contact U.S. Marine Captain Carnody at the South Weymouth Naval Air Station at 326-5600.

Air Traffic, Noise Pollution Discussed At Atlantic Meeting

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey and Rep. James A. Sheets recently attended a meeting of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, concerning air traffic patterns and noise pollution from Logan Airport over the North Quincy and Squantum areas.

Massport representatives Thomas Callahan and Richard Letty explained the role of Massport and the F.A.A. with regard to air traffic control and noise levels. Donald Rogers, Atlantic association president and representative of General Electric, explained the role of industry and its research with quieter, more efficient airplane engines.

The Massport officials displayed detailed maps of air traffic lanes and their relationships to the North Quincy-Squantum area. Letty and Callahan explained that lowering the noise level was extremely difficult, due to the fact that noise decibels do not decrease readily - with minor changes in landing and take-off height.

Letty said, "Since the North Quincy-Squantum area is relatively quiet, noise generated by air traffic is readily noticeable to the residents."

Area residents were given the opportunity to ask questions of the panel. This resulted in a promise by Massport officials to closely monitor noise levels and to explore the possibilities of permanently located noise microphones being placed in the North Quincy-Squantum area in the near future.

Morrissey reminds area residents to take advantage of the Noise abatement offices SQUAWK [537-3333]. Residents may call this number and register a complaint when they feel the air traffic noise is excessive.

Sheets asked the Massport officials to take noise readings in the Quincy area.

Ethics

The Governor recently vetoed the section of the supplementary budget dealing with the abortion question, thus freeing up state employee's pay raises.

The Massachusetts Legislature is currently discussing House Ethics which will set the policy rules of conduct for elected officials. The Ethics Committee has presented its recommendation to the Legislature which includes financial disclosure guidelines for conflict-of-interest, disclosure of gifts by lobbyist and prohibits lawyer-legislators from practicing before state agencies. The House is currently voting on the Ethics proposal. I have constantly voted for a strict code so as to minimize conflicts and influence from outside interests.

The House recently considered a Capital outlay budget of $50 million which includes money for mental health programs and buildings, repairs to some state school facilities, a registry building and $4 million in Self-Help monies for cities and towns to buy conservation lands.

The governor was slated to sign a bill that would repeal the mandatory retirement for state employees.

Many people have inquired about the Cox Committee and Court Reform. After the Ethics proposal is completed, the House leadership has promised a Court Reform Plan.

I hold office hours at my district office, 69 Billings Road, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 8:30 - 10:00 A.M. and Wednesday evening 6:30 - 8:30 P.M. I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or in the State House by calling 727-7035.

Second Female Councillor 'No Women's Libber'

an administrative assistant. What's that?

CONDON: I work for Quincy Community Action. I'm administrative assistant to Rosemary Wahlberg, the director. I have been there for four years. I write proposals for grants and handle the funding. It's close to $1 million. All the programs are geared to low income people and the target areas are Southwest Quincy and Germantown.

SUN: You started at Quincy Junior College at age 31. That's a little late, isn't it?

CONDON: I graduated from high school when I was 16 and I didn't want to go to college at the time. I wanted to get married and settle down and have a family. I did just that. When I was 31 my family was getting older. I saw my children and how much smarter they seemed to be than I was and I thought I would like to go back to school. I didn't tell anybody because I thought if I told anybody and I didn't do what they would think I was silly. I graduated from high school but it was 15 years earlier. I went and talked to Dean Saluti. They were very obliging as far as arranging a schedule around a family. He told me to take the courses that were required first in case I got a little frustrated halfway down the line and I had a lot of things left to take that were hard and I didn't finish. From Day 1 I loved it. It was quite a bit different than when I had been in school 15 years ago. The thing that I liked was the questioning why. When I was in school you never asked the teacher why. You just sat there and whatever they said you accepted. Now it was a whole different thing. I just loved it. I would be a professional student if I had the opportunity. I won't have it until my children are grown and then I probably will do that.

SUN: You were in one of Jim Sheets classes there, weren't you?

CONDON: I took every class Jim Sheets offered. I did what Dean Saluti said and took the required courses. Once I finished taking them I found that the thing I liked the best were the history and government courses. Jim Sheets taught the American government and international relations courses. He also taught state and local government and a political geography course. I took every course he taught. At this point I had transferred from days to nights. The school has a cafeteria so that during the breaks you can go down and have a cup of coffee. But our courses were in the courthouse and there was no place for us to go. We were only there a couple of weeks when I asked Jim: Could I bring in a coffee pot? By the second week I was bringing in a cake and by the third week we had half the class baking cakes. It really became a very close-knit group. We had Christmas parties. We would make sandwiches. It was really like a big family. I think a lot of us took his courses because we became good friends.

SUN: Can we call you Jim Sheets' political protege?

CONDON: This is the first time, I think, that you've had a teacher and a student together on the Council. But, no, I don't know that you'd call me his political protege. He was a big influence on my life. He's the kind of a man who always would say, "If you want to do something badly enough, if you really want to accomplish something, go ahead and do it. It's hard work but if you want it, it can be." I started going to Council meetings because of Jim Sheets. He was inaugurated separately, you know. They weren't accepting him as a councillor because of the conflict in the beginning. I went to City Hall for his inauguration. I know it sounds silly; I was 33 years old then, but I was extremely impressed with City Hall.

SUN: Was that the first time you were in it?

CONDON: The first time I was in the Council Chamber, yes. I really had no reason to be in it prior to that. Who goes upstairs. I wasn't a frequent visitor of any Mayor.

SUN: I know you're at meetings regularly now.

CONDON: I go to every meeting.

SUN: When did that start?

CONDON: Four years ago. That first night, I started going twice a month on Mondays. I've worn out every friend I have. I would bring people with me. My best friends would last three or four or five months and they would be so frustrated, so bored. You can't do anything at City Council meetings except sit and observe. You can't say anything. It's very difficult, especially for an outspoken woman. So I would sit there and wear out friends.

SUN: That sounds like a reason for running.

CONDON: It was a reason for running. For four years I watched not a great deal get accomplished in North Quincy. I don't know whether I blame anybody in particular for that but I did see a great deal get accomplished in other communities. Community development was one of the first things I got involved in. That was about four years ago when Mayor Hannon published a brochure saying: "Mayor Hannon has $1 million. What would you like to do with it?" I had a million suggestions. They were holding public hearings and I knew that it was important to get a lot of people at the public hearings because I had watched how Jim Sheets operated in Southwest Quincy. I listened to people and how receptive they were to him and how he could get a group of people together to accomplish something. I thought, "Well, that's what you have to do." One thing I learned a long, long time ago is to do my homework.

SUN: What kind of homework does a city councillor do?

CONDON: The biggest homework a city councillor does is admit she doesn't know everything and that there's someone else out there who does. There isn't anything you should ever have to vote on that there isn't an expert somewhere who you can get some advice from. I will look for that advice and input from people because I think there is a lot to learn. Some of the homework you do is sit there for four years and see what goes on. I would find it very difficult to even consider being a councillor having never attended a Council meeting. Yet I looked at the candidates and most of them had never been to a Council meeting. I wonder what they think it is? It's not something simple. It's very complicated. A lot of it doesn't go on in front of the audience. I've sat at committee meetings and I've sat through the budget hearings on Saturday mornings. That's your homework. That's the kind of thing you should at least have some familiarity with before you even attempt to run for office.

SUN: When did you first think of running and when did you decide to run?

CONDON: I never thought about running. I just got deeper and deeper involved in the community. I got deeper involved because I liked it. An awful lot of people think I'm paid for the things I've done at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center. I've done it all as a volunteer. People asked me to run for City Council, friends, different friends. You find that you can go just so far as Joanne Condon.

SUN: You speak so much of the community that it sounds like you're going to be the city councillor from North Quincy and not a Quincy city councillor. Is there a distinction?

CONDON: Absolutely. The ward councillor has to act on many, many issues that affect the whole community. But she's also elected to represent a ward. The ward has boundaries and it has problems and it's very important that you represent these people and their problems. That is something that a ward councillor doesn't always think in terms of. In a way, all the issues are citywide. Street plowing in North Quincy is just as important as South Quincy or West Quincy. But addressing the problems in your own backyard is the No. 1 thing for a ward councillor.

SUN: What do you think won the election for you?

CONDON: A lot of hard work.

SUN: Anything else?

CONDON: I don't know as you can define anything as winning the election for you. We started a year ago. We've worked hard since then. We went out on the streets knocking on doors last May and we worked against an awful lot of odds. First of all, there was being a woman. We never said I was campaigning to be a city councillor because I was a woman and that was going to change things. But that was one of the odds. Another one of the odds was that a lot of people ran against me in the primary election. I never ran against anybody. That was one of the things we decided in the beginning. I was not running against anybody. I was running for city councillor.

SUN: You say "we". Who is

Squantum Will Not Lose Out Condon Promises

CONDON: "We" is everybody. I started talking about "we" a long time ago and that's the hardest thing I had to do when I started to campaign, stop saying "we" and start saying "I." "We" is many times and "we" is we many times. That sounds kind of silly but if you understand what I'm trying to say. We've always done a lot of things together, "we" being the community people. The people who ran my campaign were Mary Weafer and Dan Driscoll. Mary and Dan were both from the City Planning Department. Mary met me four years ago when I first became involved in community development. Mary was probably one of the best teachers I had. I went to council meetings and I saw that the city was going to get money and I didn't see anybody looking for much of anything for North Quincy. I saw other councillors looking for things for their areas so I decided we should do something more concrete here. Again, not the "we," but I thought of things like the paint program and we ended up getting $35,000. Mary is the one who sat down with me and I convinced her that the paint program wasn't such a bad idea. Dan and Mary were my best critics. They never "yessed" me to death. The first Atlantic candidates night, I talked for three or four minutes like all the candidates. A couple of days later in the paper I saw that this candidate said this and that candidate said something else. But I never saw anything about Joanne Condon. Finally I said to them: "How come we didn't put anything in the paper about me?" They said: "Because you didn't say anything." They were my best critics. They were very objective with me. You have to credit Mary Weafer. Mary told us at the end of the primary, it wasn't 24 hours later, how many people voted on each street, where our supporters were and where they were not. We knew our support was in Atlantic. It was a case of Atlantic vs. Squantum. I didn't want it to be that way. But it's a fact of life. Squantum absolutely supports a Squantum candidate so Atlantic got together and supported the Atlantic candidate.

SUN: Does this mean Squantum is now going to lose out on the City Council?

CONDON: No. Absolutely they won't lose out. I don't see why they would I represent Ward 6. Ward 6 includes Squantum. Sometimes Squantum may not want to be included in Ward 6 but they are. They're an integral part of it. They're a very important one. They're a very important one.

SUN: That precinct voted pretty strongly against you.

CONDON: They voted pretty strongly against me and they're going to have to learn to like me. I'm going to try very hard for them to like me. We tried to address a campaign that was positive and the positive things that I have done were in Atlantic. But let's be honest. What would I have even done in Squantum? What reason would I have had in the last four years to go to Squantum? I don't even know anybody out there.

SUN: Did you campaign much in Squantum?

CONDON: I knocked on every door in Squantum three times. We did everything in Squantum that we did here in Atlantic and we spent twice as much time because of the distance between houses and the hills, the up and down of the area. When we went into the primary, we identified 15 supporters in Squantum and we got 112 votes. When we went into the final election, we identified 33 people and we got 320-odd votes.

SUN: You're only the second woman to be elected to the Council. What does that mean?

CONDON: I'm very proud of that. People have told me a lot about Edna Austin. She's somebody that the city is proud of. A lot of people liked her and a lot of people disliked her. She brought a different philosophy, a different outlook, to the Council. I hope that I have the same thing. When I knocked on doors, it was an advantage being a woman. Men said it's time for a woman. Women said it's time for a woman. Some of them said that instead of going out and buying a new tractor a woman would figure out how to fix the old one. Most women are very aware of the cost of living and budget kinds of things. That's something I do for a living, so I think I have an advantage when it comes to that. Also a lot of times a man gets into politics as a profession. I don't think a woman does. I think a woman's profession often times is a home and a family and then it expands. That's not enough for her. It was never enough for me. But my husband, Tom, is probably the best one to tell you about that. My house is clean. The dishes are done. The beds are made. Fifty percent of it is done by him. God love him. But that's just not enough for me.

SUN: Are you going to be a councilman, a councilwoman or a councillor?

CONDON: I'm going to be Joanne, the same person I've been for the last 37 years. I personally am not any different but I find that people treat you differently. It's incredible. People looked at me for the whole campaign differently. I found it very difficult to still be Joanne and not to be a politician. People would say: "Who are you campaigning for?" not realizing that it was me. Or they'd say: "Oh, you're the politician." I don't think a politician needs to be anything more than the same human being or person they were to begin with.

SUN: A lot of women place great importance on being called "person."

CONDON: I'm not a woman's libber, if that's what you're trying to ask me. I never have been. That's not my thing.

SUN: How would you like to be the first woman mayor?

CONDON: People like me about it. Am I going to run for Mayor next? I want to be a good Ward 6 councillor. I really don't want to be anything more than that. There's a lot to be learned in North Quincy. There is a lot we have done. We've made great strides in defining the community. Atlantic used to be something. When I was a kid, you went to the Atlantic post office and the Atlantic train station. Somehow in the past 20 years that has all disappeared. It became North Quincy. And North Quincy wasn't defined. It was hard to deal with because the people didn't have a community. This is why Squantum is so successful. Squantum has boundaries. Squantum has a certain population. They have needs that can be addressed because of those boundaries.

SUN: What do you feel are the most important issues facing the city and the ward?

CONDON: Ward 6 has many issues and it depends on the person what the issue is.

SUN: Is there one big, overriding issue?

CONDON: I don't think there is. When we first announced our candidacy, one of the first things we did was try to find some issues so we could address them in our campaign. We found that the issue depends upon the neighborhood. Squantum is very concerned about the Boston Harbor Marina development. To some people the big issue is having lights on their street or having a pothole fixed or having new curbstones. The issue is what's important to the person. Each person has his own individual issue. You have to address all of them.

SUN: How about citywide issues?

CONDON: Development is an issue citywide, downtown development, Norfolk Downs development. The Downs area is an area that is slowly deteriorating. Businessmen up there are very concerned about it. Norfolk Downs is very important to the surrounding area, to North Quincy. Downtown Quincy is a major issue. The Planning Department has some very lovely books with beautifully colored pictures of the proposed downtown development. On a regular basis, I look books from the Planning Department, 50 or 60 at a time, and give them out at coffee hours. I said, "Here this is something that's being proposed for the city of Quincy. Maybe you're not being asked about it yet but look at it. And if you have any input, please, study it and address it to somebody because it's important."

SUN: How about real estate taxes as an issue?

CONDON: When I went to coffee hours, taxes was an issue. It was something people asked about and you know what I told them? I told them if you elect me city councillor, I'm not going to lower the tax rate. It's impossible. You and I know that nothing is going to go down. It's only going to go up. If things stay status quo, if you never provide any more services, you still would be paying more for the services you are providing right now. So if you elect me city councillor, I'm not going to lower the tax rate because I'm not going to be able to. I addressed people honestly. I made no promises. I just sat and talked and they listened and they loved it. People don't want promises as much as they want to get involved in the community, the people I talked to anyway.

SUN: There has been a lot of turmoil in the city for the past two years. How do you look back upon it?

CONDON: I've sat through four years of Council meetings. I've watched things get accomplished and I've watched things not get accomplished. Obviously, turmoil is the reason for a lot of things not getting accomplished. I look forward to two successful years on the Council. The arguing and the bickering maybe will go away. Maybe people will sit down and look toward accomplishing something, getting something done.

SUN: Did you find yourself on anyone's side in the last couple of years?

CONDON: No. I don't think "sides" is the answer. Something interesting about our campaign was that people who worked for both mayoral candidates also worked for me. We really didn't address a side or that this person was right and that person was wrong. We addressed positive things. I think things will be a lot better than they've been because I think there has been just a conflict of personalities.

SUN: Are you going to attend the next Council meeting?

CONDON: Sure I am. Do you know where I was the night before election? At the Council meeting. The night before the primary? At the Council meeting. I mean, that's the only place I'd be.

SUN: This is not going to break up your routine, then?

CONDON: People have asked me: "How are you going to do it? Where are the hours going to come from?" It's not going to be any different than it's been in that respect. But I'm going to have a lot more information. I'll be able to see the whole pie now, not just a piece of it. And I'm going to be able to open my mouth -- which you can see I do a lot of.

North Girl Swimmers Defeat Stoughton For Third

The North Quincy's girls' swim team defeated Stoughton, 111-58, for its third win of the season.

Despite the absence of Capt. Maureen Santry, who missed her first meet in two years, the Raiderettes had little trouble as Jeanine Rich, Jill Sweeney and Mary Tenney had good days.

North's Bernadette Feeney, Tenney, Rich, and Carolyn O'Toole won the 200 medley relay, Sweeney and Betsy Johnson were 1-2 in the 200-yard freestyle, Tenney and Lisa Costello were 1-2 in one-meter diving, Rich and Liz Leonard placed 1-2 in the 100 butterfly, Donna Walsh was second in 100 freestyle, Sweeney and Johnson were 1-2 in the 500 freestyle, Tenney won the 100 backstroke and 100 breaststroke, and the 400 free relay team of Cathy Boudreau, Maureen Clabby and Julie Evanson was second.

Quincy finished its season with only one win as it dropped a 99-70 decision to Newton South. The First Ladies finished 1-9 despite several outstanding individual performances throughout the season.

Quincy's Mary Wright won the 100-yard butterfly and the 100-yard breaststroke, Janet Sines won the 200-yard individual medley, Patty Howe won the 100-yard backstroke and took second in the 50 and 100-yard freestyles, and the 200-yard medley relay team of Sines, Wright, Susan Murphy and Howe won.

Murphy was second in one-meter diving and Laura Davis took a third in the 200-yard freestyle.

The North Quincy cross country team finished in the Suburban League championship meet last week just where it did in the regular season, third behind first place Weymouth South and runnerup Brockton.

North Coach Lou Tozzi was one of the happiest men at the meet as his two standouts, John Saville and Mike Barrett, finished hand in hand in front, well ahead of the other 90 runners.

"The conditions at the Franklin Park course were pretty bad, but they did a great job," Tozzi said. "John had a 15-yard lead at the two-mile mark and he slowed down a little so he and Mike could finish together. They have done this many times and that is perfectly okay with me. They don't like to run against each other."

During the Suburban League season, Saville lost only once and that was to Barrett.

Quincy's John Furey, a sophomore, placed 10th and North's Paul McCormack was 20th.

Moody's 107.4 Paces Koch Men's League

Jim Moody has taken over the lead in the average department of the Koch Club Men's Bowling League with a 107.4 while Paul Koch, Jr., holds the high three string individual total of 368 and high single string of 142.

Other bowlers in the top 10 averages include Steve Mancuso, 103.7; Koch, 102.7; Al Mancuso, 101.8; Jim Cocce, 100.6; Jack Callahan, 100.1; Tony Monti, 99.3; John O'Malley, 99; Walter Zukauskas, 98.5 and George Jakub, 98.2.

Steve Mancuso and his team hold high team three string total of 1487 while his dad, Al

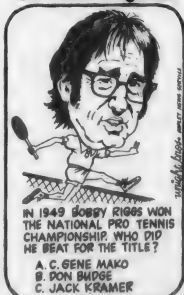

Mancuso and his squad retain high team single of 513.

Capt. Don Thomas's team leads the league with 14 wins and two losses while Moody's team and Steve Mancuso's team are tied with 12 wins and 4 losses each.

The league is enjoying its 28th season of competition and bowls every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowadrome, 679 Quincy Shore Drive, Wollaston.

Men are invited to join as regular or spare bowlers and may attend and sign up with President Don Thomas.

Presidents Win 4th Shutout In Row But --

Maybe it was thinking too much of the North Quincy game or maybe it was a letdown after three straight shutouts.

Whatever it was, neither Quincy football coach Hank Conroy nor the players were happy after last week's game at Brookline.

True, the Presidents did defeat Brookline, 16-0, to carry a streak of four successive shutout wins into the Thanksgiving classic, but the coaches and players were concerned about the points they didn't score.

"We should have scored a few more touchdowns," said Conroy whose team, in racking up its fifth shutout of the year, improved its record to 6-3. "We pushed them all over the field but several times we were pushed back by penalties after Marching deep into their territory. It is nice to go into the North Quincy game with four wins in a row, but none of us is happy at the way we played today. The players knew they hadn't played well and it was the quietest bus ride coming back that I remember in a long while."

The game was played at Northeastern University's field and marked the first time on artificial turf for the Quincy players.

Quincy had one touchdown nullified by a penalty and another solid threat was thwarted by a holding penalty after Rich Gilbody had personally carried the ball from the 50 to Brookline's seven.

"This was a game in which we wanted to try everything and gave a lot of players a chance, but we didn't give ourselves that chance," Conroy added.

Despite the disappointment of not scoring more, there were several bright spots.

All the backs, Len Picot, 103 yards in 17 carries [his third game over 100 yards], Mark Giordani, Ralph Pickering, Gilbody and Mark Merlis ran well and Conroy marveled at Merlis' TD, when he was hit by virtually every Brookline defender but brushed them off.

Conroy had praise for Kevin Zambruno, Tod Cafilisch, Mike Duggan, Pete Cassidy and Kevin Boudreau for their work in the offensive line. They continued to open gaping holes for the ball carriers.

Defensive coach Bill Maver singled out Rich Coose, Don Heath, Ron Donovan, filling in for Giordani; Cassidy, Dave Eastwick, Mark Assad and Pickering.

"Everyone played a great game on defense," he said. "They reached our 20 on their first series, but after that they failed to get closer than our 45." Giordani capped a 53-yard march with a nine-yard touchdown run in the second period and Jim Maze kicked the point.

Later in the period Maze kicked his first field goal, a 37-yarder which Conroy said "went over with plenty to spare." This was set up by a fumble on the Brookline 16.

In the final period Merlis shook off several defenders and scored from the 11. The drive covered 59 yards and was highlighted by a 27-yard pass play from Giordani to Ron Donovan.

Quincy had 170 net yards rushing to 133 for Brookline. The Presidents added 44 yards passing on three for six while the losers had only 17 yards on one for seven.

Something Extra At Stake

Quincy, North Sophs In Thanksgiving Preview Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy sophomore football teams meet in their annual pre-Thanksgiving "classic" Saturday morning at 10 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

There is something a little extra at stake in this game as Pete Chella's Quincy sophs seek an undefeated season.

The young Presidents carry an 8-0-1 record into the game, while the young Raiders, coached by the dean of all Quincy and North coaches, Ted Sadowski, have a 4-3 mark with two games cancelled by the weather.

Quincy has had an outstanding year, both on offense and defense. While scoring a lot of points, the team has held the opposition to 20 points, only six against the starting team.

The 6-6 tie with Dedham came in the opening game, followed by wins over Weymouth South, Weymouth North (twice), Newton North, Waltham, B.C. High, Hingham and Brockton.

"The boys have done an excellent job," Chella said. "I've been platooning at most positions and have been able to use a lot of players."

Quincy's squad includes Dave Austin, Charles McCall, John Kavanaugh, Todd Veale, Paul Tocchio, Dan Goldrick, Scott Richardson, Bill Flynn, Paul Martin, Lou Matthews', Paul Ilacqua, John Streiford, Tom

"Our team has maintained good team spirit and morale during a season with its ups and downs," Sadowski said.

North lost its first two games to Milton and Scituate, came back to defeat Weymouth North and Weymouth South, lost to Newton North and won the last two over Brockton and Waltham.

The offense is led by quarterbacks Rick Anderson, Dave Cavanaugh and Kevin Durkin. The running backs are Pat Carrol, Paul Graham, Bob Biagini, Bill Dailey and Joe Crifo.

The offensive line comprises Joe Mullen, Mark Sullivan, Brian Downing, Jim Dodd, Ed Miller, Glen Ross, John McNamara, Dave Penzo and Tom McCluskey.

Defensively the team has Kevin Doherty, Dave Howley, Joe Cremin, John Coughlin, Fran Maldero, Bill McCarthy, Bryan Eaton and Jim Nolan up front.

Linebackers are Chris Pettillo, Tom Mulvey and Paul Graham and defensive backs are Tony Camillo, Steve Mastorelli, Rich Ostby, Steve Pike, Bill Cooke and Chris Bell.

Bob McCabe is the sophomore manager.

Last year North won one of the series' most thrilling games, 24-18, rolling to a 24-6 lead and just holding the young Presidents off.

Raiders In Makeup At Weymouth S. Friday

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team's defense, which was shocked by Waltham's 49 points the previous week, was suffering another letdown in the first half of last Saturday's game with Brockton at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

But, in the second half following a few adjustments, the Raiders made a complete about face and the defense, doing a tremendous job, played a key role in the Raider's comeback which resulted in a 28-17 win, North's first win ever over a Brockton team.

The Raider offense, sparked by Colin McEachern, who had his best day during which he gained 97 yards and scored three touchdowns, was impressive from the start and when the defense found itself, it was too much for Brockton, which also had bowed to Quincy the previous week at the same field.

North now must get by Weymouth South in a non-league game Friday at South's field, a 2 p.m. make-up of a rained out game. Meanwhile, Quincy is off until the Thanksgiving classic. A win will give North a 5-3 record. Quincy is 6-3.

"This game was nerve wracking," Coach Dave Burke said. "Brockton played a far better game than it did against Quincy and it moved well against our defense in the first half. However, the defense came through in the second half and it was a different game."

"The offense was superb today," said offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald. "McEachern was outstanding. He has done well all year but he was at his best today. All the backs did well. John Wilkinson, Greg Zoia, Tom Quinn and quarterback Kevin Cobban.

"And the offensive line was tremendous. Mike Gallagher, Kurt O'Sullivan, Pa McKenna, Dave Cramond, Brian McGilvray, Russ Chisholm, Paul Ahern and Dan McIntyre were just great."

Defensive coaches Ken McPhee and Jack Raymer were admittedly disappointed in the first half showing but were delighted with the way the defense came back in the second half.

"The boys showed what they were made of today," McPhee said. "After giving up 49 points at Waltham and letting Brockton move the ball the way it did in the first half [132 yards rushing], they could have been demoralized and given up. But they are not that kind and they played the way we knew they could in the second half."

Jim Marinelli, who has been outstanding all year, had another great day as did Jim Hanrahan, Kevin O'Connell and Mark Robinson.

"The secondary was just fantastic in the second half," Raymer said. Brockton was three for four for 32 yards in the first half but was only one for five for 18 yards in the second half. The secondary was especially strong in the final minutes when Chuck Colombo threw some bombs in an effort to take the lead.

Lauded for their defensive efforts were Mike Pitts, who had a stellar game; Tom McAleney, Tom Burke, little Harry Donaghue, Bruce Wilson, Paul McNamara and Pat Ennis.

Fitzgerald also had good words for Ed Boudreau, who returned after missing two games with an injury.

North received the opening kickoff but failed to gain and punted. Brockton marched 65 yards, clocking off five first downs and big Rod Hegar who gained 117 yards, scored from the two. Matt Walsh kicked the point.

The Raiders bounced right back, marching from their 24 and picking up three first downs. Runs of 26 and 23 yards by McEachern and 19 yards by Wilkinson sparked the seven-play march. McEachern scored from the one and, on a fake kick, Cobban passed to Zoia all alone in the corner of the end zone to put North ahead, 8-7.

Brockton again drove 65 yards after an O'Sullivan punt, adding four first, downs and Hegar again scored from the two. Greg Dunn rushed for the two points and Brockton led, 15-8, at the half.

North recovered a fumble on Brockton's 20 early in the third period and Wilkinson followed up McEachern's eight-yard run with a 12-yarder for the touchdown. A messed up pass from center foiled the try for the tying point.

Late in the period, an O'Sullivan punt rolled dead on Brockton's one. The Boxers failed to gain and Walsh punted on third down only to Brockton's 29 and six plays later McEachern scored from the seven and Kevin Greene kicked the point.

Brockton was well on its way to a touchdown early in the final period but fumbled and North's Marinelli recovered on the eight. Hanrahan forced the fumble.

O'Sullivan took an intentional safety, rather than take a chance on punting.

Brockton made one first down but then three passes were incomplete and Colombo was spilled as North took over on Brockton's 49.

O'Sullivan punted with 30 seconds left and the ball was mishandled by Walsh, North's Cramond recovering on the one. McEachern put the frosting on the cake with another one-yard score and Greene kicked the final point.

31 Game EBA Schedule

Chiefs Open Season At Washington Saturday

Quincy's new professional basketball team, the Chiefs, will open a 31-game Eastern Basketball Association season Saturday night in Washington, D.C., where they will face the Washington Metros.

The Chiefs' have working agreements with the Celtics and the Kansas City Kings and will receive the Eastern Association rights to all players cut by either club.

The Quincy club will play the Brooklyn Dodgers Saturday in New York City and will open its home season Sunday, Nov. 27, against the Long Island Ducks, at 7:30 at the Vo-Tech gym.

Eleven of the 13 home games will be played at Vo-Tech, and the other two will be played at Eastern Nazarene College.

The Eastern Association is 32 years old. It is basically a weekend circuit but the Chiefs will play six weekday games.

Initially the league consisted of franchises in New York and Pennsylvania, but has since expanded to include teams in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Allentown, Pa., Lancaster, Pa., Brooklyn, Long Island, Jersey Shore, N.J., and new franchises in Quincy, Washington, Providence and Anchorage, Alaska.

The Chiefs are coached by Quincy native Leo Papile, who had great success coaching Quincy's O'Brien Club the past several years. The O'Briens won the New England semi-pro championship the last two years.

Leo, New England AAU Basketball Chairman and a member of the AAU National Basketball Committee, coached the Boston team in the World Youth Games last summer.

He is being assisted by Allen Dalton, former Suffolk University Division 3 All-American, and Leo Osgood, former Northeastern star who played several seasons in the EBA. He will also be the Chiefs' head scout.

The team played two exhibition games last weekend at Long Island and Jersey Shore. The club has been undergoing pre-season drills since the beginning of October and Papile and his aides have a roster they feel will make a good showing in their first season.

"The roster may have some additions and I've been negotiating with former Celtic Norm Cook," Papile said. "But, even with no additions, we feel this club can do the job."

The starry roster includes Jerry Forte (6-2), a previous Celtics draftee who was picked up in a deal with Anchorage; Billy Endicott (6-3), a Somerville High all-scholastic and former UMass. standout; Brian Hammel (6-2), considered one of the best small college players in the country while at Bentley; Earl King (6-1), from North Texas State; Steve Strother (6-2), a stickout at Providence College; Captain Ken Boyd (6-5), a BU graduate who played briefly with the New Orleans Jazz of the NBA; Joe Pride (6-7), from Rutgers; Mike Spencer (6-5), from E. Connecticut State; Bill Wurm (6-9), from Assumption; Jim Garvin (6-7), from B.U. and Gary Bowen (6-9), from Fairfield. Garvin played for a while with the Buffalo Braves.

Bowen and Hammel played for the O'Brien Club and played key roles in the N.E. titles of the past two years.

Houghs Neck Post Champs Receive Trophies At Little League Dinner

The Quincy Little League recently held its annual awards night at Montello's with 350 in attendance.

League Commissioner George Derrane and President Peter Capola presided. Mayor Joseph LaRaia thanked the league officials and managers for their work on behalf of the youth of Quincy.

Members of Houghs Neck Legion Post 380 team, city champion, received trophies for their second straight title. Tom McLaughlin and Ace Abboud received the Bart O'Leary Memorial Trophy, presented each year to the managers of the city championship team. Each player received gold-crowned trophies symbolic of their victory.

Keohane's winners in the National League for the second year in a row, received silver trophies and Burgin Platner players received trophies as finalists in the playoffs and runnersup in the American League. The Houghs Neck coaches and six 12-year old graduates were presented jackets by Commander Mary Timco of Houghs Neck Legion.

Individual awards went to Jim Austin, MVP in the 12-year old all-star game played in July; Mike Cullen, Steve Hogan and Chris Bunker, first place finishers in the 12, 11 and 10-year old hit, run and throw contests, and Mike Malloy for his outstanding playoff performance.

The key award, a closely guarded secret until the awards night, was the Most Valuable Player of Quincy Little League Award. It is presented each year by George Richards, who polls all coaches while arriving at his decision. The award is given to a 12-year old player who not only was outstanding in hitting, fielding and throwing, but exhibited leadership and good sportsmanship.

This year's winner was Marty McLaughlin, who compiled a .605 batting average, a 14-0 pitching record, including playoff wins, and led the Quincy Little League team to a semifinal finish in the New Bedford tournament.

This year's choice was a difficult one, with players such as John Balzano and Jim Austin also demonstrating strong performances throughout the year.

Koch Club Changes Atlantic Program Schedule

The North Quincy District of the Koch Club has changed the time schedule of its Thursday evening basketball program at Atlantic Junior High School.

The starting time for boys in the 7 through 9 year old age group has been changed to 7 p.m., one hour later, while the 10-12 year old boys will be held at 8 p.m.

The Young Adult program will begin at 9 p.m., one-half hour later than the previous starting time.

The Koch Club Thursday evening program was changed at the request of the Quincy School Department to allow additional time for the high school students presently confined in athletics to the Atlantic Junior High School while the North Quincy High School is under construction.

The North Quincy District is the oldest of the three basketball programs conducted by the Koch Club and started in 1949 at the original North Quincy High School gym on Hunt Street.

The Koch Club Broadmeadows and Montclair Districts conduct their basketball programs on Monday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m.

How Sweet It Is!

North Quincy's 28-17 win over Brockton last Saturday was especially sweet for North assistant coach Jack Raymond.

"I went to Archbishop Williams my freshman and sophomore years and Armond Colombo [Brockton Coach] was my coach there. Then I moved to Quincy for my last two years. This was my first chance to enjoy a win over Brockton since we started playing them."

Crusaderettes Win State Volleyball Crown

The Eastern Nazarene College women's volleyball team won the state Division II championship last Saturday with a win over Salem State College in the finals of the MAIAW state tournament.

Coach Nancy Detwiler's squad, the number one seed with a 15-4 record and unbeaten in Division II competition, advanced to the finals with victories over Gordon College and Fitchburg State. ENC finishes the season with an 18-4 record and has a six-year record of 74-13.

The Crusaderettes completely dominated the number eight seed, Gordon, in the opening match, winning by 15-0 and 15-3 scores. In the first game, senior Co-Captain Donna Brickley of Quincy and freshman Sue Bish served for 15 points as the team lost serve only three times.

The second game was again controlled by ENC as the team's serve was broken only twice. Donna Fandel and Lois Malvesti of Quincy led the way with well-timed blocks.

In the semi-finals ENC took fifth-seeded Fitchburg State, which was coming off a close win over Wellesley. The first game was all ENC, winning 15-1.

Malvesti and Quincy sophomore Cindy Tozzi controlled the net with blocks and spikes. The Crusaderettes had allowed only four points in three games going into the second game with Fitchburg State. However, Fitchburg came back strong and ENC had to work for a 16-14 win.

Fitchburg had a 14-13 lead but Malvesti, on a fine spike, broke Fitchburg's final serve and, with Brickley serving, scored with a spike to clinch the win.

The final opponent, Salem State, had improved greatly since ENC had defeated them two games out of three earlier in the season. The Crusaderettes could not hold serve in the first game as Salem broke to an early 10-4 lead. ENC threatened only once when, with Salem leading, 14-6, Fandel served for five points. The comeback, however, did not fully materialize and Salem won the first game, 15-11.

ENC came back to record an easy 15-2 win as its serve was broken only three times as Janet Ranstrom of Weymouth, Bish and Brickley combined to serve all the Crusaderettes' points. Every player turned in excellent performances.

In the third and deciding game, ENC did not play its best ball but did what was necessary for a 15-11 win and the state championship.

This is ENC's first state championship and is particularly impressive in light of the fact there are only 400 female students and no physical education major is offered.

The state title is a well-deserved climax to an exciting season for Coach Detwiler, senior co-captains Brickley and Fandel and veteran players Tozzi, Bish, Malvesti and Nanette Baumgartner.

Over 300 Compete In Junior Olympic X-Country Meet

More than 300 runners competed last Sunday in the New England Junior Olympic cross country championships at Pageant Field, sponsored by the Quincy Track Club.

Several Quincy members did well. The competition was outstanding in every age group and most of the course records were broken.

The top ten from each race will proceed to the Region I AAU Junior Olympics in Baldwinville, N.Y., but the Quincy club will pass up this meet to concentrate on the girls' New England championships Saturday at Franklin Park.

Although none of the QTC boys placed in the top ten, many ran personal best times, showing the calibre of the competition.

In the Girls 9 and under race, 40 competed with Geraldine Murphy placing fifth and Janice Libby ninth.

In Girls 10-11, Elizabeth O'Connor took third among the 37 starters and Sheila Barrett placed seventh.

In Girls 12-13, Margaret Osterman was sixth and in the 14-15 race, Mariellen Rose, a new club member, finished second.

Bridget O'Connor sixth and Mary Crehan eighth.

In the 16-17 division Ramsey Hassan, another new QTC member, made an auspicious debut by winning.

Runners from Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Rhode Island competed.

A Quincy team comprised mainly of players from the Bobby Dodd Pub and County Line teams of the Quincy Softball League won the Brockton Men's Slo-Pitch Tournament over the weekend at Brockton's East Side Improvement Association Field.

The tournament, which attracted 24 teams, had begun back on Sept. 23, but a number of rainouts put off the finals until Sunday.

Quincy, coached and managed by Paul Newton, had a 6-1 tournament mark and defeated Sponsors of Braintree in the final series. Quincy defeated Hardie Club of Somerville, 6-2; Canton, 17-3; Dorchester, 4-3; D'Ann's of Holbrook, 12-11, and the Southeastern Mass. champions, K.C. Pub, 10-7, to advance to the finals against Sponsors.

Sponsors, beaten once in the double elimination event, advanced through the losers' bracket and qualified to meet Quincy in the championship series with a 10-9 semifinal win over K.C. Pub.

The Braintree team upset Quincy, 14-12, in the first game but Quincy won the second game, 7-6, to clinch the crown.

Quincy, trailing, 6-5, won the game with two runs in the bottom of the seventh on singles by Dennis Sullivan, Tom Daley, Peter Daley, and Jamie Williams. Pete Daley's hit tied the game and Williams' hit won it.

The tournament was highlighted by numerous defensive gems and outstanding plays were turned in by Quincy's Sullivan and Joe Cunningham.

Offensively, Pete Henson, Herbie Kay, Rocky Connolly, Jim Baulding, Tom and Pete Daley and Roger Homan all hit more than .600. Homan pitched five of the six games and was 5-0, and Williams, pitching the other two, was 1-1.

Christmas Lights To Be Turned On Friday

The Christmas season gets underway in downtown Quincy this weekend with the annual Christmas Festival ceremonies.

At 6:30 p.m., Friday, the lighting ceremony at the McIntyre Mall will open with a program by the "Marching Pirates" of Hull High School. The official turning on of the lights will take place at 7:30 p.m. after Santa Claus arrives and candy canes are distributed to the children.

The annual parade with 100 units will get underway at 1 p.m. sharp from Southern Artery and Hancock St. The parade assembly area has been changed because of the need for a larger staging area.

Mayor's Commission Finds

Temporary Shelter For Battered Women 'Critical'

The search for a place to provide temporary shelter for battered women, an update of a social services booklet, and programs planned by the Women's Center were the major topics of discussion at the November meeting of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Ann McLaughlin, chairwoman of the Task Force on Battered Women notes that last year the Task Force researched and collected data on the problem of battered women.

"Based on this study and experience in other areas, the most critical need is for temporary shelter and support groups for women who are physically abused," she said.

She said the Task Force had been contacting church groups and public agencies to determine if space is available as well as examining funding sources such as LEAA to purchase or rent a facility.

"Finding a facility is the first step in helping to combat this serious problem and will be the focus of our Task Force this year," she said.

An update of the social service booklet, "Where Do I Turn?" is another project underway by the Commission. Citing the tremendous demand and success of the booklet, Christina Morrison, chairwoman of the Commission, said the booklet would be up-dated and reprinted this spring. The booklet which lists a multitude of services available to women on the South Shore is presently available through the Commission and neighborhood centers.

Mrs. Morrison also distributed a new book, the "Credit Handbook for Women" published by the American Express Company.

"Explaining the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, the Fair Credit Billing Act, the role of credit bureaus, and other important laws relating to credit, this handbook is a very useful guide to women," she said.

New programs being planned by the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College were reported on by Alicia Coletti, Director. Plans are underway for a special program for divorced women and a program for women who are widows.

In other business, the Commission voted on proposed by-laws changes.

Can you imagine life without the fork? Although rudimentary forks existed from the earliest of times, it was not until the Restoration that forks came into general use at the table. Queen Elizabeth had several forks in her palace, but they were used to serve fruit. Only one fork from before 1650 has survived until today. It has two prongs and a long flat handle with a square end. The fork did not become a regular table feature until many years after Charles II. However, one set of nine three-pronged forks has survived. The number of prongs on forks varied through the eighteenth century, with four prongs coming into vogue toward the end of this period.

Whatever the latest fashion vogue you can be sure of finding jewelry to compliment your outfits by coming to us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490, "South Shore's Family Jewelers". For someone not familiar with jewelry knowing and having confidence in your jeweler is of utmost importance. We provide you with personal service, and are concerned that you make the right purchase for your needs. Hours: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat. Have a nice Thanksgiving.

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

Episcias by any other name would be just as spectacular in your hanging baskets. Peacock plant, chameleon plant, carpet plant - they spread by runners or stolons like strawberries and plantlets root well to provide lots of new plants. The leaves are vivid and the flowers brilliantly colored in trumpet shapes of orange, lavender, white, yellow, and pink. The foliage is exceptional and varied with surface textures that range from shiny or velvety to quilted or embossed. Some leaves are patterned with contrasting colors in reds, silvers, browns and greens. See your plant dealer and choose of the many species of episcias or hybrids that are easy to grow. It's the striking beauty of the plant family.

'Mulligan Stew' Nutrition Program Starts Nov. 28

Fourth and fifth grade teachers in the elementary schools throughout Quincy and their pupils will participate in a six-week education nutrition program under the direction of the Norfolk County Extension Service and Kenneth Rickson, coordinator of physical education and health in the Quincy Public Schools.

The program, "Mulligan Stew" takes its name from a five piece rock band of the same name. The youngsters in the band use music to illustrate the basic factors of good nutrition. In addition to the six films, the teachers are provided with guides and student work books with suggested project activities, puzzles and games.

The Massachusetts Field

School, 26 Rawson Rd., will start its program on Monday, Nov. 28. Other schools will follow as the program expands.

The films were produced by Iowa State University Extension Services with a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The educational materials were produced by Michigan State University Extension Service and supplemental materials were developed by the University of Mass. Cooperative Extension Service.

Educators have found that in developing a program around a group of their peers, the fourth and fifth graders are inclined to pay more heed than they would to a lecture on nutrition from an adult.

Toland Attending Meetings Of School Committee Members

Quincy School Committee-woman Patricia Toland attended a meeting of school committee members from the Greater Boston area recently to discuss budgetary procedures as they are practiced in individual towns and cities and unequal educational funding.

"I have been meeting with this group for 18 months informally in homes or at the school board rooms in various communities to discuss ideas and issues of mutual concern," Mrs. Toland said.

"The group, composed mostly of women, provides a forum for the exchange of ideas, discussion of timely issues, update on information, as well as intellectual stimulation and emotional support."

"My experience has been that these sessions provide an excellent sounding board for volatile issues and that solution-oriented group brainstorming has been good training for newer school board members."

"Issues we have discussed or have slated for future agendas include: techniques for being a better board member, techniques of problem solving, leadership and decision making, evaluation of teachers, evaluation of superintendent, RIF clauses, job descriptions, group dynamics, the structure and role of children's

Quincy CETA Program Employee Awarded $876,000 In Accident Case

By PETER BARNICLE

A part-time employee of the Quincy CETA program, legally blind and almost totally disabled as a result of an industrial accident nearly eight years ago, has been awarded $876,000 by a six man jury in Federal District Court at Boston.

Jeremiah Kelleher, 44, father of four, was awarded the verdict in his suit against Omak Industries of Portland, Ore., manufacturers of a so-called 'stud-gun' which allegedly malfunctioned causing the fastening pin to fire irregularly, ricochet off a wall and pierce his brain.

Kelleher's attorney, Frederic N. Halstrom, Boston, told the jury that the stud gun, used to penetrate steel I-beams or concrete, had an extension barrel. This barrel, Halstrom contended, was not explained and tended to override the central safety system. He further told the jury no instructions came with the extension barrel.

Prior to the accident Kelleher was active in church affairs and worked as a volunteer at the Quincy District Court, helping young people. In his own parish, St. Jerome's, he operated a coffee house for teen-agers.

A Navy veteran of the Korean war he was working as a carpenter at Western Electric in Watertown at the time of the accident. He spent two months in Mount Auburn Hospital, Cambridge, and later spent three months at Holy Ghost Hospital, now Yonville Hospital.

Halstrom told the court that the pieces of the fastening pin are still embedded in his client's brain and that as a result of the accident he is legally blind and has less than 10 percent use of his left leg and arm.

Despite his disabilities Kelleher attended Quincy Junior College for two years, through the efforts of the Massachusetts Commission for the blind. He then went on to receive his bachelors and masters degree in vocational counseling from Boston University.

His wife, Marilyn aided him by helping with his reading and research.

Although he has his degrees he was unable to locate a position in his field because of his disabilities.

Last September the CETA program at Quincy arranged through a Title I grant to obtain a part-time job for him as a vocational counselor at North Weymouth High School.

The case was heard before Judge Frank Freedman, Atty. Halstrom is associated with the Boston law firm of Parker, Coulter, Daley and White.

Hannon Boosted For Swider Job

Eric Swider's appointment as director of the New England Council leaves a king-sized void at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

During his tenure as executive vice-president since 1971, the Chamber's membership has doubled [to 1,000] and its financial support has risen from $67,000 to over $300,000 annually.

No one can blame Swider, who is young, ambitious, energetic and talented for leaving the Chamber for a $50,000 post with new challenges.

His work at the Chamber certainly had something to do with his selection to fill the New England Council post vacated by Edward J. King who resigned to seek the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1978.

Swider, although he now lives in Hingham, is not a local boy. He was born in Cumberland, R.I., and came to the Quincy based South Shore Chamber of Commerce via Columbus, O., where he was director of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce District in Ohio.

He leaves big shoes to be filled. A selection committee, named by Chamber President Charles Pearce and headed by Paul MacElhiney, is already at work to find Swider's replacement.

And, already there seems to be grass roots support building for former Mayor Walter Hannon. Hannon has been a Chamber executive since shortly after the 1975 election in which he was unseated by Joseph LaRaia.

In his post at the Chamber, Hannon has been active in industrial development. He, of course, is also close to the legislature having served as a state representative. He has a business background and is well regarded by his associates.

Some would like, to see a local boy move into the post -- not necessarily a Quincy resident, but at least someone from the South Shore area.

The feeling is that someone with deep local roots is more apt to remain here instead of picking up and moving on to greener pastures. Hannon, they feel, would make a good candidate.

There is no doubt he will be among those considered by the committee. But there will be quite a few candidates to be screened before Swider's successor is picked probably by year's end.

MAYOR-ELECT Arthur Tobin will officially take over the reins of city government Tuesday, Jan. 3. Inaugural ceremonies will be held at 10 a.m. in the Quincy Vo-Tech School gymnasium. There'll be an inaugural ball there that evening.

INSIDERS SAY. It may be a long time before anyone puts together the necessary 10 votes among the new City Council and School Committee to fill the school board seat to be vacated by Francis McCauley when he returns to the City Council Jan. 3. [Providing of course, this weekend's recount asked by Dennis Harrington doesn't change anything in the Council at-Large finish.]

School Committeemen Frank Anselmo and Charles Sweeney, both of whom were defeated in the Nov. 8 election, are campaigning hard trying to line up the votes. Sweeney reports he has six votes put together so far.

Meanwhile other contenders reportedly are Pat Conroy who ran for the Ward 6 council seat, Kenneth Runge, grand knight North Quincy Knights of Columbus, and Atty. Dean Nicastro, former candidate for the school committee. Also being mentioned are Ward 5 councillor Warren Powers, defeated in last month's election and Dennis Harrington.

PAT MCCARTHY quite obviously is getting ready for another bid for the 11th Congressional seat. McCarthy, running out of Randolph, lost the Democratic nomination to incumbent James Burke last year. He's been here and there ever since on what looks very much like a campaign trail.

Recently he and his wife, Diana, spent "an evening with their friends" at the Lantana, Randolph. Tickets $10.

THE QUINCY POLICE Betterment Association has a brand new slate of officers: Paul Quinn, president; Steve O'Brien, vice president; Tom Malvesti, secretary, John Garafalo, treasurer. Quinn succeeds David Doherty who took over from John Tocchio. Doherty was not a candidate for re-election. The association represents 185 patrolmen.

Members of the detachment will walk along the sidelines to pick up the toys and put them in a Marine vehicle.

Thomas S. Burgin:

'A Little Pat On The Back While You're Living Is Far Greater. . .'

By TOM HENSHAW

On snowy days the boy used to coast down Dimmock St. on his double runner sled, skimming across Presidents Lane, Upland Rd. and Hancock St., where his father stood watch for the electric cars clanking and rumbling their way to Boston.

Sunday, they renamed one of those streets, Upland Rd., in honor of the boy turned man and elder statesman -- the Thomas S. Burgin Parkway.

"I thought you had to be dead before they named anything in your honor," said Tom Burgin, obviously pleased that the city of Quincy had chosen to break precedence at least this once.

"A little pat on the back while you're living is far greater than flowers after you're gone."

Burgin, now 75, stopped by The Quincy Sun last week to reminisce about his 40-odd years in public life as mayor of Quincy, city councillor, state representative and senator.

He was the youngest councillor ever [22] when he was first elected to the City Council 53 years ago. He recalls the day he became a politician and he recalls who planted the seed.

"In the late summer of 1924, I was at a meeting in the old YMCA building on Washington St.," he said. "The speaker was Mayor

Edwin O. Childs of Newton. In his talk to us young men, he said, 'I hope that some of you will take your positions in city government and do what you can to contribute to the welfare of your city.'

"I was so impressed by his remarks that I went home and thought about it for perhaps a week or 10 days and decided that someday I'd like to run for some position in the city government."

"Just about that time, Perley E. Barbour was the councillor from Ward 4. He resigned at the end of the first year of his two-year term to run for mayor against Gustave B. Bates, thus leaving a vacancy for one year on the Council."

"I said to my father [Clarence Burgin, treasurer of the Quincy Savings Bank], 'Dad, I think I would like to run for the City Council. What would your advice be?'"

"Tom," he said, "the best advice I can give you is this: Go ahead and run. If you win, the experience will be very helpful in your future life. If you lose, a licking will do you good."

Burgin did run and he won, beating his closest rival, Carl A. Leander, by more than 400 votes.

"Carl and I went to school together at the Cranch School on Whitwell St.," said Burgin. "We were always very good friends and good political opponents. He ran against me two or three times and he never did make it. But we were still great friends."

"There were some rather serious differences of opinion between mayors and city councillors but we never went out of the Council Chamber at night but what everything was forgotten and dropped. We'd go over to Thompson's Restaurant, which was where McIntyre Mall is today, and we would all sit around and have a cup of coffee and a piece of pie together."

There were heavy weights on the City Council that year [1925] and Burgin can still name them all without the aid of notes or prompting:

Charles A. Ross and Thomas J. McGrath, later bitter rivals for mayor for nearly 20 years, and Angelo Bizzozero, with Burgin the only surviving members of the Council today, were the councillors at large.

Frank Coffman represented Ward 2, Alexander Clark in Ward 3, William P. Hughes in Ward 4, Robert E. Comins in Ward 5, and Welcome G. Young, for whom the playground is named, in Ward 6.

"I took my seat on the Council the first Monday in January, 1925," recalled Burgin. "That same day I went into the insurance business in the Adams Building. I had been asked to join Herbert T. Whitman, who was in the real estate and

Burgin's Children, Brother At Dedication

Upland Rd. is now the Hon. Thomas S. Burgin Parkway.

The street between Adams and Granite Sts. was rededicated Sunday, Nov. 20, in ceremonies attended by former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin himself.

Also attending were Burgin's brother, C. Rodgers Burgin of Milton; and his son and daughter, John Harvey Burgin of New York City and Mrs. Claire Burgin Allen of Williamsville, N.Y.

The main speaker was Judge Paul Reardon, retired chief justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court.

William A. O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society, expressed the Society's pleasure at being invited to share in the dedication ceremonies.

"Quincy, the city is on display," he said.

"It is a whole city. It is not living in the past. It is a diverse city. It respects the race, color and creed of all. It recognizes the quality of the past. It is concerned with the quality of the present. It has great hopes for the quality of the future."

"The Hon. Thomas S. Burgin personifies the being of this good city."

Later, when the so-called Upland Rd. Extension is completed to the Braintree line, it too will bear the Burgin name.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Bradford, Bates Campaign Heats Up

Political campaigning heated up in Quincy as Election Day neared.

Mayor William A. Bradford, seeking a second term; held a rally at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murdock Cameron, 482 Beale St., Wollaston, and defended himself from attacks by the challenger, former Mayor Gustave B. Bates.

Atty. John D. Mackay, a Bates supporter, assailed Bradford as "the hand-picked candidate of the bankers and the millionaires" and chided him for making extravagant claims for his administration's accomplishments.

Charles French, formerly of Quincy and ex-mayor of Concord, N.H., told a Bates rally sponsored by the Montclair Improvement Association that Bates was handicapped during his term as mayor in 1916 by a City Council that was against him.

French charged that Health Commissioner Dr. F. E. Jones, a Bradford appointee, was using city-owned automobiles for private business while the city was paying for gas, oil, tires and repairs. Jones denied it.

HOUGHS NECK WOMAN SLAIN

The body of Mrs. Ida G. Anderer, 41, was found in a pool of blood in the cellar of her home, 25 Bell St., Houghs Neck, by her daughter, Marie, when the girl returned from freshman classes at Quincy High School.

Police were searching the islands of Quincy Bay for her suspected slayer, who left a rambling note at the Anderer home saying he planned to commit suicide.

QUINCY TIES BROCKTON

The Quincy High School football team was halted on Brockton's seven-yard line late in the game and had to settle for a scoreless tie in the annual contest at Eldon Keith Field in Brockton.

The Quincy lineup included: MacLeod, Schenkelberger, ends; Reed, Cole, tackles; Dingwell, Young, Olson, Jacobson, guards; Sjersstrom, center; DeBoer, Vallee, Guinan, Neal, Thompson, Listman, backs.

"The committee," he said, "will enable my administration to avoid the problems of the past and ensure the selection and appointment of dedicated citizens willing to serve their fellow man."

Before and during his campaign for Mayor, Tobin criticized the calibre of Mayor LaRaia's appointments, some of whom were convicted of conspiracy, extortion and larceny in connection with their offices.

"The primary purpose of the committee," said Tobin, "is to establish a process by which the very best qualified candidates for positions within the city can be selected and recommended to the mayor."

He promised to give the committee "wide latitude in its operation" but noted that it has the power of recommendation only.

"The final appointive authority rests by statute with the Mayor," he said.

Thanksgiving Day Services At Christian Science Church

Familiar words from the 100th Psalm will be read Thursday, at all Thanksgiving services of Churches of Christ, Scientist.

"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands....Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name."

These services are a traditional annual worship occasion in branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. Services will include reading of the Thanksgiving Proclamation of President Carter and Governor Dukakis, and a Bible Lesson-Sermon on the subject of Thanksgiving.

Among citations also read from the denominational textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following:

"To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said, 'If ye love me, keep my commandments'."

The service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center, will begin at 10 a.m. conducted by Mrs. Kathryn B. Selden, First Reader, and Miss June B. Wilson, Second Reader. Mrs. Barbara Cosseboom is soloist and Miss Carol Shephardson, organist. No collection will be taken. All are invited to attend.

On Thanksgiving Day the Masses will be at 8 and 9 a.m. There will not be a 5 p.m. Mass.

On Saturday the Women's Club will hold its annual bazaar in the church hall. A covered dish luncheon will be served in the rectory social hall from noon to 2 p.m.

Better Access, Parking, Services Revitalization Project Underway In Business District

Helping to restore vitality to the North Quincy business district is a current project of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's special projects staff.

North Quincy, the Chamber notes, is typical of many older downtown business districts throughout the country that have suffered neglect since the advent of modern shopping malls and plazas. Residents and merchants of North Quincy both want their business area to become a pleasant alternative to the economic and energy constraints of commuting to the large malls, the Chamber said.

Recognizing these needs, the Chamber has been working closely with the North Quincy Business and Professional Association, the Quincy Planning Department and Sasaki Associates of Watertown, planning consultants for the project.

The project is being jointly funded by Quincy and the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council.

A meeting was held recently at Walsh's Restaurant, North

Quincy, at which a preliminary presentation was given on some of the findings made by Sasaki.

One of the more striking statistics is that 25 per cent of the local residents apparently never shop for convenience items in North Quincy itself. This implies that certain goods and services are not being provided for them.

Another significant factor is access and parking. A parking survey being conducted by the Chamber showed a familiar pattern: the North Quincy shopping district appears to suffer not so much from a lack of parking, but from poor distribution and control of existing space.

Through the efforts of the Jeteam and Jayne Morovich, director of business councils, the South Shore Chamber has also conducted a retail survey and a study to identify the trade area in North Quincy. In addition to continuing to help that area, the Chamber's plans call for working with members in other South Shore communities where rebuilding central business districts is necessary.

Sheets Seeks Noise Monitor For North Quincy-Squantum Area

Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) has asked the Massachusetts Port Authority to establish a noise monitoring station in the North Quincy - Squantum area.

Sheets said the request stems from a meeting with MassPort officials during which residents aired the noise problems they were having due to flight patterns over their homes.

Sheets noted that Revere, Chelsea, Winthrop and parts of Boston have monitoring devices which help the Port Authority to plan aircraft noise abatement program.

"It is only right that the North Quincy - Squantum residents; who are equally affected by noise problems, get the same type of systems," said Sheets.

'Y' Fitness Tests Sunday

What are the effects of physical activity on your heart? Should you participate in active sports? How much exercise should you do? How does your cardiovascular health compare to that of others your own age.

The Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St., in cooperation with the New England Cardiovascular Health Institute will provide the answers in a program of exercise training, risk factor evaluation and exercise prescription to be held at the YMCA Sunday.

Will am Johnson, fitness director at the YMCA, advises that those interested must make advance appointment. There is no fee.

The tests will be carried out by doctors and staff of NECHI after a thorough medical evaluation, including an electrocardiogram.

During the test, the participant pedals a stationary bicycle at different work levels while NECHI staff continue to record the electrocardiogram. Pedaling is then stopped and staff will continue to record the electrocardiogram. The response of the heart to the work of pedaling is then compared with results obtained from thousands of others. Blood pressure, heart rate, and electrocardiogram measured and recorded during the test provides NECHI with the information necessary to determine whether cardiovascular function is normal or whether there is a serious risk of disability from cardiovascular disease in the future.

In addition to the exercise test, NECHI will obtain samples of blood to be analyzed for serum cholesterol and plasma concentration of glucose. The test does not stop here! As part of the program, they will follow up and make recommendations to help decrease your risk of developing serious cardiovascular disease.

If you have an abnormal electrocardiographic response to physical activity, they may recommend an additional test of an exercise prescription.

Karl Molner Exhibit

At Crane Library

An original painting and prints of several birds done in watercolor by Karl J. Molner, graduate of Eastern Nazarene College, are on exhibition throughout the month in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Square.

Molner has specialized in painting birds, particularly those familiar to New England. Before painting Molner spends a great deal of time in fields and forests sketching birds and observing their habitat.

Carmen Ungar, art librarian at the Crane Library, describes his work as "very realistic and beautifully detailed."

S.S. Center For Blind Marks First Anniversary

By BETTY WOISLAW
Approximately 45 members, friends, and volunteers gathered recently at the South Shore Center For the Blind to toast its first year in operation.

On hand to add their congratulations were Mayor LaRaia and Robert Tweedy, Council on Aging Director, both of whom were instrumental in initiating the program.

Those present enjoyed a roast beef dinner prepared by the center's director, Wayne Lester. A moment of silence was observed in honor of late member Harold Vaughn.

Lester proposed a toast to the first successful year of the center and his hope that it would continue to grow.

During the center's first year, it has grown from the four charter members of June Stone, Florence White, Jo Douglas and Wanda McNally, to approximately 30 members. The staff includes Rayne O'Gara, assistant director, and 12 to 15 volunteers headed by Mae Purpura who teaches the crafts.

On Tuesdays and Fridays they meet at the Drop-In Center, 24 High School Avenue for craft classes and in the summer outings. This gives the members an opportunity to get out and socialize together as well as learn the different crafts.

Next big event is the Christmas Fair to be held at the Drop-In Center Dec. 2-3, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. On sale will be many of the items members have made, such as belts, tile trivets and knitted and crocheted items plus Christmas novelty decorations.

The sentiments of the entire group are aptly expressed in these lines from a poem entitled "The Making of Our Family" written by member Florence Gobel in honor of the occasion.

"A year has gone by, and our love for each other is greater than ever. To give all this up? We'd all cry. Oh, Never!"

insurance business.

"I was scheduled to report for work at his office at 9 o'clock in the morning and then go to City Hall at 10 o'clock to be sworn in. The night before that Monday morning a telephone call was received at my home that Mr. Whitman had passed away that evening.

"The next morning I reported to the office as scheduled and the members of Mr. Whitman's family told me they wanted me to continue on. That small insurance office has developed into what is now Burgin and Platter. So my political career and my business career started on the same day."

Burgin went on to be one of Quincy's most successful politicians in terms of victories at the polls.

"I never lost an election until 1962 when my two-year term in the State Senate was expiring," he said. "I told the Republican City Committee that I didn't want to run for re-election. It was taking up too much of my time. But they talked me into it."

"I was defeated by a young man from Quincy [James S. McCormack] who was an ardent Democrat. I have been a life-long Republican and that was the year that Gov. Volpe, a Republican, and many Republicans in the House and Senate lost because of the Democratic sweep. It was disappointing but I was very much relieved."

Burgin was elected mayor for the first time in June, 1935, in a special election after a three judge panel in Superior Court had removed Mayor Charles A. Ross from office.

"It was a violation of the Corrupt Practices Act, which in essence meant that he spent more money on his election than was allowed for a city the size of Quincy," said Burgin.

The voters of Quincy, however, regarded Ross' offense as so inconsequential that they elected him mayor again seven years later and re-elected him twice more. He holds the Mayoral longevity record [9 years] under the Plan A form of government.

Burgin had just turned 33 when he was elected mayor and one of the raps on him as a candidate against Leo E. Mullin, then the president of the City Council, was his youth.

"In those days there was a cigarette known as Sweet Caporal," said Burgin. "On the package, underneath the name, it said: 'Ask Dad, He Knows.' They called me 'the Sweet Caporal candidate.' They said if I was elected, I wouldn't be mayor, my father would be mayor."

"Well, someone mentioned that at a rally down at the Montclair School one night so I got up and I said, 'I'd just like to ask you in this audience: Where better could I go if I did go for advice than to my father?' He was pretty well known and liked and they never mentioned it again."

Burgin's first move as mayor was to clean house of Ross appointees.

"I made practically a complete change when I was elected," he recalled. "In my campaign I said I was going to remove everybody because you can't leave the same people on."

"There was one man who knew me very well. He said, 'But you can't let me go. We've been friends for so long.' I told him, 'I said I was going to make a complete change of appointed officials. I didn't say everybody but you. I said everybody. What else can I do?' I let him go but we were still good friends."

In 1940, Burgin was the only mayor of Quincy ever elected without opposition and he was mayor on Dec. 7, 1941, which he recalls as the most hectic time of his nine years in the executive office.

"I had taken the weekend off to go by myself down to Harwichport, down to the Snow Inn," he said. "I had my Sunday dinner and I took a walk up the beach that afternoon, just to be alone and think."

"When I came back, Mrs. Thompson, who ran the inn, said to me, 'Isn't it awful?' I said, 'Isn't what awful?' She said, 'The Japanese have attacked the United States at Pearl Harbor. It's been coming over the radio.'"

"Well, I walked right upstairs to my room, packed my suitcase, got in the car and started back to Quincy. I never shut my eyes to sleep for 48 hours."

"We had troops coming in the next day. The officers who preceded them called me in the morning and said, 'We want to be able to billet 1,700 soldiers tonight.' We took over the Masonic Temple, the Fore River Clubhouse, any place we could get for them to billet."

"At noontime, I was having lunch when the call came about the air raid. At least, they thought it was an air raid. They said the planes had been sighted."

"We let the schools out. Fore River was let go, all the workmen. They just dropped their tools and beat it. The women's club was having a meeting on Presidents Lane. They came out of there crying and went home to see if their children were all right."

"The troops landed here with their guns and put them in place. A big convoy came up from Camp Edwards on the Cape and they arrived without ammunition. The ammunition didn't get here for two hours after the troops. There was a mistake somewhere in the convoy."

"That was quite a day." The Great Hurricane of 1938 was quite a day, too.

"We had 3,800 trees down in Quincy," said Burgin. "Every fire alarm box in the city was out of commission. Every police box was out, too. I had to call out two companies of National Guard. It had never been done before, except in wartime."

"I was in Squantum that afternoon, speaking at the Squantum Women's Club. As we drove back, I noticed the wind picking up and blowing quite a bit. I didn't know about the hurricane. They didn't have the advance warnings that they have today."

"I lived up on Presidents Hill then, on Monroe Rd., with my father and mother. There were beautiful elm trees on Presidents Hill that the Adams family had brought over from England. We saw five of them go right over; all the roots and everything came right out of the ground. My mother stood there and she was crying."

"That night I had to sign an order calling out the Guard to patrol the streets because down near Remicks and all in through there the plate glass windows were gone and people were starting to loot. The soldiers were there all night and the next day with their rifles and bayonets on. I was up all night, too."

Burgin has been out of active politics now for more than 15 years but he's still available as an elder statesman with a word of advice to the newcomers, whether they heed it or not.

"Mayor LaRaia is a fine young man," he said. "I think it was unfortunate that things worked out the way they did."

"I remember so well the day he was inaugurated two years ago. After the inauguration, when things had quieted down a little, I went over to him and I said, 'Joe, or Mr. Mayor,' I said, 'I'm quite a lot older than you are. I've been all through the mill.'"

"I said, 'Remember, I'm only as far away as the telephone. Anytime a problem comes along and you'd like to talk to somebody who's been through the mill, feel perfectly free to call on me. You don't have to take my advice but I'm perfectly willing to give it.'"

"Do you know I haven't got that phone call from that day to this."

Quincy Sophs Romp Over North, 36-6

Quincy's undefeated sophomore football team lived up to expectations last Saturday as it walloped North Quincy, 36-6, in the annual game at Veterans Memorial Stadium to wind up with a 9-0-1 record.

The young Raiders finished their season with a 4-4 record.

Coach Pete Chella's young Presidents completely bottled up North's attack in the first half and, with some great running by Bill Flynn, Scott Richardson, Dan Goldrick and Paul Tocchio, they went off the field with a 24-0 edge at halftime.

"This was a fine effort by every player," a pleased Chella said. "All the backs ran well, Dave Austin was outstanding at quarterback and both the offensive and defensive lines were tremendous."

On offense Chella praised Geoff Caflich for his blocking, Paul Bandera, Jeff Heath, Tom Rand, Jim McLaughlin, Howard Chadbourne and John Kahler.

On defense he had good words for Steve Santuosso, Ed Quinlan, Jim Maguire, Caflich and John Griffiths.

Chella also paid tribute to his assistant coach, Joe Goguen. "He did a great job for us this year," Chella said.

North Coach Ted Sadowski had high praise for Leo Graham, who played on excellent game both ways, and also hailed Bob Biagini, who ran well in the second half, reserve quarterback John Kavanaugh and Tom Mulvey for his defensive performance.

North's defense shone in the first period as it held the Quincy team several times but early in the second period Austin pitched out to Flynn, who ran down the right sidelines 66 yards for a touchdown. Austin rushed for the two points.

Quincy went from North's 28 later in the period after Joe Cremin kicked from his end zone.

Flynn went to the 16, Tocchio picked up six, Flynn, on a pitchout, went to the two and Richardson scored. Austin again rushed for the points.

Quincy's Jim McNeil recovered a North fumble on Quincy's 34 and Austin threw a long pass to Charlie McCall, who took the ball on North's 40 and went all the way to complete a spectacular 67-yard play. Again it was Austin through tackle for the points.

Early in the third period Tocchio raced 39 yards for a touchdown but this time the try for points failed.

Biagini put North on the scoreboard later in the same period after North had recovered a Quincy fumble. First Biagini went 15 yards to North's 45, then raced 55 yards for the touchdown.

It appeared that would be the final score but on the final play of the game McCall broke loose and went 50 yards for Quincy's last touchdown as time ran out.

Track Club Captures 3 Age Titles

The Quincy Track Club made its strongest showing of the year Sunday when it captured three age group titles in the New England AAU girls and women's cross country championships over the Franklin Park course.

In the Bantam division, 9 and under, Geraldine Murphy placed fifth in 6:41 over the one-mile course. Janice Libby and Donna Hassey were right behind at 6:43 and 6:50. Claire Murphy was 10th and Kathy Shea finished 14th as Quincy won the team crown with 42 points.

In Midgets, 10-11, the QTC successfully defended its title with 35 points. Elizabeth O'Connor and Sheila Barrett finished 2-3 and received AAU championship medals. Linda Kennedy ran her best time in taking seventh place, Eileen Crehan was 11th and Bernadette Murphy 12th.

Quincy also won the Youth Division [12-13] team championship as Margaret Osterman placed fourth in 12:57 for the two-mile course, Kara Crehan finished 10th at 13:39, Amy Teehan took 11th, Michelle Millane 13th and Karen Lindenfelzer 14th.

The three championships marked the 25th, 26th and 27th won by QTC since the club began in 1974.

"Our kids proved what can be done when you are psyched up for a meet," Coach Jeff Hennessy said. "Everyone ran her best race and a season of hard work, all of it on their own, paid off."

Presidents To Bring Momentum With Them

QUINCY

By TOM SULLIVAN

Neither team needs added incentive in the Quincy-North Quincy game, but the Quincy team has several things going for it on the holiday.

First, the Presidents have a lot of momentum, bringing a streak of four successive shutout wins into the classic.

Secondly, a win will give them a fine 7-3 record, improving greatly on last season's 4-6 mark.

And thirdly, it is Hank Conroy's final game as coach and the Presidents will be going all out to give him a win in his final game.

And Hank needs a win to even his record against North at 7-7.

North has won the last two games but Conroy sees this as one of the most interesting games in the series and plans no changes in his offense or defense.

"We have been successful in what we have been doing and we will continue to go with the stuff we have," he said. "The teams look very even and the one making the fewer mistakes will win."

"We have no super stars this year and the boys have a lot to be proud of. They have come along well and done a fine job. They were out of only one game, Waltham. The other two losses could just have well been wins."

Q-N Official To Referee Army-Navy Classic

The Thanksgiving Day game will have a new referee for the first time in 15 years due to the untimely death of Joe Berman, who collapsed and died during a North Quincy game earlier in the season at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quarterback Mark Giordani has been out with a shoulder injury since the win over Brockton but Conroy feels he will be able to play. Mark not only is a fine quarterback on offense but an outstanding safety man.

The veteran coach, rounding out 14 years as Quincy's head man and 25 years as a coach overall, will start only one junior on offense, left end Vin Harte.

Ron Donovan will start at the other end, Pete Cassidy and Mike Duggan will be at tackle. Kevin Zambruno and Tod Caflich at guard and Kevin Boudreau.

Joining Giordani in the backfield will be Halfbacks Len Picot and Rich Gilbody and Fullback Mark Merlis.

Also seeing action on offense will be George McCarron at guard, Glen Lydon at end, Tom Dedian in the backfield and Rich Coose at end.

Kicking specialist Jim Maze will handle the extra points and, if needed, field goals. He has kicked 10 extra points and also has a 37-yard field goal.

Starting on defense will be Picot and Rich Burnes at end, Dave Eastwick and Cassidy tackles, Mark Assad at middle guard, linebackers Ralph Pickering and Coose, monster back Don Heath, cornermen Maze and Gilbody and safety Giordani or Donovan.

"Everyone says we have momentum going, but so do they," Conroy said. "They have won five of their last six games and have looked good."

Conroy's assistants are John Bogan, Bill Mavor, Mark Conroy and Peter Chella.

Joe had refereed the big game for the last 14 years.

This year's referee will be Al Benson. John Krikorian will be the umpire, Edgar Stowell the field judge and Charles Petti the head linesman. Benson, Stowell and Krikorian all worked last year's game.

Benson, incidentally, two days later will referee the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia.

Jim Shaw will be the clock operator.

Only $2 Tickets On Sale At Gate

There will be no special gate for reserved seat ticket holders Thursday.

According to Athletic Director Carl Leone, reserved ticket holders can enter at any gate.

There will be only tickets at $2 each on sale at the stadium on the holiday.

This year Quincy is host team and will occupy the cement stands and North will occupy the wooden stands.

National Anthem

As has been the custom the past few years, the outstanding bands of both schools will combine for the National Anthem at the holiday classic.

The Quincy band will march into the stadium from one end of the stadium and the North band from the other. Each, facing its home stands, will play its school song, then mass at the center of the field for the playing of the National Anthem.

But Raiders Planning 'A Few Surprises'

NORTH

North Quincy's football team goes after its third straight win over Quincy on the holiday and Coach Dave Burke admits "we may pull a few surprises."

Burke, who has directed the Raiders to wins over the Presidents in each of his two years as North coach, feels the defense will be the key to the game.

"We have been moving the ball well but it will be up to the defense to stop Quincy, which has also been moving the ball very well," Burke said. "Our defense has been sharp except for the Waltham game and I think it will do its job again."

The Raiders will also be facing an outstanding defense. Quincy has won its last four games by shutouts and has five altogether.

"We are facing a team which has a lot going for it," Dave added. "They want to give Hank [Conroy] a win in his last game as coach and also want to finish with an excellent 7-3 record. But we'll be ready and we will show the same old North Quincy spirit.

North takes a 5-3 mark into the game and has won its last two games. The Raiders lost their first two games, came back to win three in a row, were bombed by Waltham and came back with two more in a row.

Burke will start an offensive lineup of Kurt O'Sullivan or Dan McIntyre and Mike Gallagher at end, Paul Ahern and Brian McGilvray at tackle, Dave Cramond and Russ Chisholm at guard and Pat McKenna at center. Kevin Cobban will be at quarterback with Colin McEachern and John Wilkinson halfbacks and Greg Zoia at fullback.

Tom Quinn at halfback, Ed Boudreau at center and Jim Marinelli at tackle also will see action on offense.

The starting defense is up in the air at several positions. Ed Evanson or Fran McLaughlin Others who will play on defense include Brian Balzarini, Paul McNamara, Pat Ennis and Brian Hewitt. Kevin Greene will take care of the extra points and field goals, if any are needed. He has done a fine job kicking all year.

McEachern, who scored three times against Brockton; Wilkinson, Zoia and Quinn have all done some excellent running and Cobban has been excellent at quarterback.

Burke is hoping for good field conditions and feels, as always, there is no favorite. "Neither team can ever be favored in a game like this," he said.

Burke's assistant coaches are Tom Fitzgerald, Ken McPhee, Jack Raymer and the dean of them all, Ted Sadowski.

Game Expected To Attract Nearly 13,000

With good weather, Thursday's crowd at the Quincy-North game should again approach the 13,000 mark.

Both teams have been playing good ball of late and the game could be one of the most interesting in the long series.

A year ago the crowd was about 13,000 as North breezed, 24-0.

The record crowd of 18,003 in 1946 is certain to remain untouched. Many estimate that crowd was actually near 25,000, counting the many watching from the walls and trees and those who lined the MBTA bus garage yard.

The effective way to insulate your home

Insulation effectiveness is measured in its resistance to heat flow... either moving out of the house in winter or flowing in, during the summer.

Celsius foam insulation has a high "R" rating which creates an efficient thermal barrier in ceilings, attics and walls.

Celsius foam is pumped into walls cavities and flows around pipes, electrical outlets and other protrusions. It effectively seals against heat loss and drafts by completely filling the spaces without settling.

With Celsius foam you save on heating/cooling costs all year round and you get a return on your investment every time you receive your utility bill. You'll enjoy extra living comfort too!

Call us today for more information on our homeowner's warranty and a free estimate. You need to insulate your home only once. Do it right. Call us today!

SEATBELTS WEAR OUT

The National Bureau of Standards found that 60 per cent of well-used seatbelts that were from three to ten years old were tested and found to be unsafe based on Federal standards for seatbelts.

Dirt, dust, rubbing and even sunlight can break down the strength of a seatbelt. If you slam the door on a seatbelt or get it caught in moving the seat back and forth, the effective strength is weakened. Oil spilled on a seatbelt will also weaken it.

Whenever you see signs of wear or decomposition on a seatbelt, it should be replaced. Continued adjustment can be a major cause for wear. Inertia reels should also be checked by driving about 10 miles per hour and hitting the brakes hard [on an empty road or large, open empty parking lot]. If the reel doesn't hold you in, have it tested and replaced.

Last 8 Days Unreported

Tobin, LaRaia Total Campaign Spending Over $100,000

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin spent more than $100,000 between them in their campaign for the city's highest office.

And that's just the semi-final report.

Tobin, who won the election, raised $56,836 and spent $53,661, according to figures reported by Nina Tobin, treasurer for the Tobin for Mayor Committee.

LaRaia, the loser, raised $49,178 and spent $47,966, according to the report of Adolph Fabrizio, treasurer of the LaRaia Committee.

The reports were filed on the eighth day preceding the Sept. 20 primary and on the eighth day preceding the Nov. 8 election.

The final report is due under state law on Jan. 10.

Tobin's fund-raising efforts reflected his lopsided victory in the primary.

His first report told of collecting $41,755 while the second reported only $15,081. He spent $21,570 before the primary and $32,091 before the election.

LaRaia raised $24,517 prior to the primary and $24,661 after. He reported spending

Second Appointee Named New Team But No 'Massacre' Promises Tobin

Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin has promised there will be no "January Massacre" of city employees when he takes over City Hall from Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia Jan. 3.

Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin has promised there will be no "January massacre" of city employees when he takes over City Hall from Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia Jan. 3.

"Every new administration brings in its own people," he told a luncheon meeting of the Quincy Taxpayers Association Monday. "But there will be no wholesale slaughter."

"At the right time, I'll talk to the people who have to go. I'll tell them I want my own team. I'm sure they'll understand. Maybe there'll be places where I can move some of them."

During the meeting at State Street South, Tobin also:

- Announced the appointment of William J. Callahan, 75, of 85 Sea Ave., Houghs Neck, a Quincy attorney, and former chairman of the Quincy Board of Assessors, who specializes in real estate and appraisal, as his financial advisor.

- Disclosed that he has been in contact with a Boston firm that has 235 employees and $11 million yearly business and wants to relocate in Quincy, possibly in the downtown area.

- Revealed that he has decided upon a city solicitor, a "top notch trial attorney" who turned him down three times before agreeing to submit a resume to Tobin's screening committee next week.

- Scheduled a meeting with the screening committee for last Tuesday and said that his next meeting after that will be with City Auditor Charles L. Shea to begin work on the 1978-79 budget.

Tobin hailed Callahan as one of the elder statesmen of public life in Quincy.

He was a Quincy assessor for 30 years [1939-70] and, for the past 12 years, he has been legislative agent for the Association of Assessors of Massachusetts. He's a Quincy native.

"I cut my teeth sitting next to his elbow learning city government," said Tobin, who was a member of the board of

Presidency Situation

Sheets Willing To Withdraw For City Council Harmony

The presidency of the 1978 City Council apparently has narrowed down to a choice between John J. Quinn and James A. Sheets, with Sheets prepared to withdraw in the interests of harmony on the Council.

Sheets acknowledged that he met with Quinn Monday night but he declined to go into detail about their conversation. However, he did say:

"I expressed to him that any decision I make to seek the Council presidency more enthusiastically or not seek it at all will be based on what I consider best for the unification of the Council."

Quinn, the dean of the Council starting his 11th term, appears to be able to call on the votes of Councilors Leo J. Kelly, Daniel G. Raymond and John J. Lydon Jr., in addition to his own.

Five votes are needed to succeed to the post that has been held for the past eight years by Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin.

McCauley Picks Up 24 Votes In Recount

Francis X. McCauley is officially a city councillor-elect and it cost $7,000 to find out for sure.

McCauley picked up 24 votes in a recount Saturday and Sunday to increase his margin over Dennis E. Harrington to 287 votes for the third and final councillor-at-large seat.

McCauley, a member of the school committee, held a 263-vote margin over Harrington, who is the current councillor from Ward 6, in the original count. Harrington asked for the recount.

The recount produced the following revised figures:
Paul D. Harold, 21,246.
John J. Quinn, 13,886.

Francis X. McCauley, 13,659.
Dennis E. Harrington, 13,372.

Joseph E. Brett, 12,528.
Michael J. Faherty, 9,457.
Blanks, 18,032.
Write-ins, 11.
Total, 102,171.

City Clerk John M. Gillis said the recount involved the services of 24 people working from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Sunday, with some accountants working on to 5 p.m. Sunday.

It cost the city about $7,000, he said, with most of the money going to pay the police details that were posted to guard the ballots from election night to recount day.

'A Slight Disaster'

Cold, Parade Put Dent In Stores First Sunday Opening

"We look back at it as a public service," said Jay Feldman, proprietor of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop. "We kept a lot of people's feet warm."

Feldman's wry witicism just about summed up the reaction of downtown Quincy merchants to their first legal Sunday opening, which coincided with the annual Christmas Festival parade.

Business just wasn't that good. The unusually long [more than three hours] parade was a big factor. And the cold weather didn't help, either.

"It was a slight disaster," said Richard Barker of Barker's stationery store. "If any store in the Square broke even it did well. Everybody came to see the parade. If they went inside any of the stores, it was to keep warm."

"It certainly wasn't any big bonanza," said Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods. "I don't think Sunday opening ever will be."

"All it did was spread the dollars out over seven days instead of six and it gave the people who normally stay home on Sunday a place to go and hang around."

"It was 4:30 p.m. by the time the parade passed our way. By that time the kids were frozen and the people were ready to go home. In the future they should have the parade in the morning or on Thanksgiving."

"Personally, I think the last two Sundays will be meaningful, not the first two."

A newly enacted state law permits merchants to open for afternoon business on the four Sundays prior to Christmas.

"It didn't work out," said Sumner Cohen of Kincaide's Furniture store. "Buying habits are ingrained. It takes time for people to change their habits."

"It was a nice parade, business was slow and it was cold. People came in out of the cold and sat on the furniture and watched the parade."

"I don't think anybody likes the idea. A majority of the merchants would just as soon be without it. We expected a lot more."

Cohen said Kincaide's will be open on the next two Sundays but may close Dec. 48.

Mike Stone of Stone's Jewelry store said he plans to do just the opposite.

"We'll close this Sunday," he said, "and we'll be open the last two Sundays."

"Business was terrible last Sunday. It was a waste of time. The parade and the cold weather were no help at all. If there is any business to be done in the cold and the rain people will take to the malls."

"The parade hurt business," said Jay Feldman. "It was so long and no one wanted to hang around when it was over. The people who came to see the parade filled the parking spaces early and the shoppers couldn't get into the Square."

"We'll know better how things stand next Sunday when there's no parade."

Slightly more optimistic notes were struck by Ove Strandskov of Sears Roebuck and Joseph Angelo of Remick's.

"It's difficult to put a handle on it," said Strandskov. "It was entirely different from any other day in my experience."

"The parade made it difficult to do business. The only customers were those here for the parade since the police had the town blocked off. On the whole, though, it went well."

"It went very well," said Angelo. "The parade and the Sunday opening brought a lot of people to the Square. I hope they continue to come. As we get closer to the holiday, I think each day will get a little better."

After 19 Months Negotiations Substantial Pay Raises For Teachers, Custodians, Maintenance Dept.

After 19 months of negotiations Quincy school teachers, school custodians and maintenance personnel have signed two year contracts bringing them substantial pay raises.

Custodial and maintenance employees have been granted increases totaling 22 percent over the life of the contract signed with the Quincy School Committee. Teachers, represented by the Quincy Education Association, will receive 10 percent pay hikes.

Employees in the custodial and maintenance departments were granted a seven percent increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1977. A second raise retroactive to July 1, 1977, will give them an additional four percent.

The agreement calls for a third pay hike of four percent on Jan. 1 and another seven percent on July 1, 1978, according to John A. Osterman, assistant superintendent of Quincy schools. The contract will terminate on June 30, 1979.

The teachers' agreement calls for a five percent increase in salary, retroactive to Sept. 1, and a similar hike on Sept. 1, 1978. Their contract runs until Aug. 30, 1979.

The custodians were represented by the Quincy Custodial Association and the maintenance employees by the Quincy Maintenance Association.

CONTRACT SIGNING marked successful close of long negotiations between Quincy Education Association and the Quincy School Committee. Shown at the signing are (seated), Mary Curtin, president of the teachers' group, and School Committeewoman Patricia Toland. Standing are Anthony Perilli, past president of the QTA and School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley.

ENC Women's Fair Proceeds To Start Scholarship Fund

Proceeds from the Eastern Nazarene College Women's Craft Fair will form the base of a new scholarship fund, announces Barbara Howard, Club President.

At the club's last meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Lillian Irwin, Mrs. Howard announced that just over $500 was raised to launch the newly-created ENC Women's Scholarship Fund.

The club plans another fair for Alumni Day, May 27, with proceeds going toward the fund. The club hopes to award its first scholarship this spring.

The Craft Fair, held during the ENC Homecoming in October was modeled on a country store and featured items such as Christmas decorations, plants, baked goods, woodcraft, needlework and dried flower arrangements, all made by club members and other friends of the college. The event provided a good opportunity for alumni, neighbors, students, faculty and staff to get to know each other by working together on a worthwhile cause.

Coming club events include sponsorship of the Annual ENC faculty/Staff Christmas Party Dec. 15 and a visit to the Adams Academy in January.

HIGHWAY FATALITY FACTS

More than half of all traffic fatalities result from accidents involving only one vehicle.

In spite of icy road conditions, the highway death rate is lowest in January and February, and highest in August, September and October.

About one-sixth of all fatal traffic accidents occur on Friday or Saturday night between 10 p.m. and 3 a.m. It's a good time to stay off the highway.

The motor vehicle death rate is three times higher at night than it is during the day.

Almost two-thirds of all fatal traffic accidents take place in rural areas. But two-thirds of the accidents that result in an injury occur in urban areas.

Three of every eight persons who are killed in city traffic accidents are pedestrians.

From 1900 through 1975, motor vehicle deaths totaled 2,100,000. American battle deaths in all 20th century wars — both World Wars, the Korean War and the Viet Nam War — add up to less than one-fourth that number — 425,783.

The Language of Flowers

Flower tips from Andre Moreau

Everyone should have their own mint planted somewhere around the house. It's the perfect herb for lamb dishes, iced tea and an occasional julep. You can grow mint in many delicious flavors including orange and peppermint. All the flavors emanate from the oils produced in the plants. Spearmint grows one to two inches high and sprouts flowers, orange mint smells like the real thing, peppermint grows to three feet and has tiny purple blossoms. Mint loves plenty of water, full sun or partial shade and the more often you cut the springs, the better the plant grows.

At NORFOLK FLOWERSHOP, 49 Beale St., Wollaston, 472-7100 we are multi-lingual so we can assist you in French, Italian or Spanish. Jews Begin Festival Of Hanuka Sunday

By LESTER H. GLASSER

On Sunday evening, the Jewish people will usher in the festival of Hanuka (dedication) with the kindling of one candle and adding a candle each night for eight days.

Hanuka is a joyous holiday celebrating the first great victory for the religious freedom won by the Jews more than 2,000 years ago.

In those days, the Jews of Palestine were dominated by the rule of Antiochus 4th, a Syrian-Greek emperor who demanded that everyone in his empire follow his ways of worship. Attempting to force the Jews to adopt his pagan way, he seized their temple in Jerusalem. He filled it with idols and ordered the Jews to abandon their faith on pain of death. However, the Jews refused to give up their faith in the One God.

Mattathias the elder of the town of Modin in Palestine in defiance of the tyrant called on the Jews to revolt. They followed their leader into the hills of Judea, where Judah Maccabee, one of Mattathias' five sons, organized them into an army. Judah was called the Maccabee which means "hammer" because of the blows he struck for freedom. For three years the Jews fought the army of Antiochus. The account of this struggle is recorded in the Book of Maccabees.

There is one story that tells how the Maccabees much smaller in numbers and arms than the enemy force set up a dummy camp. The Syrian-Greeks believing this to be the complete Jewish encampment attacked in full force, only to find themselves surrounded by the major part of the Hebrew Army, which under cover of darkness, had left the dummy camp and encircled the entire area.

George Washington who had studied the Book of Maccabees used this same strategem against the British when the outnumbered American troops were also struggling to achieve independence.

Judah Maccabee was finally able to lead his troops victoriously into Jerusalem. There the Jews cleansed and purified the Temple of every pagan object that had been brought into it and made it once again a house for the worship of God. It is told in Jewish legend that when Judah's men were cleaning out the Temple, they found just a single jar of holy oil, only enough to keep the Eternal Light before the Holy Ark burning for one day.

Miraculously this one jar burned for eight days and nights. Judah Maccabee, then proclaimed an eight-day holiday to celebrate the rededication of the Temple to God. Thus, the festival received its name

Hanuka, meaning "dedication."

It is generally agreed by scholars that if the Jews had been defeated by the Syrian-Greeks, the religious foundations upon which Christianity was later established would have been lost to the world and neither Judaism nor Christianity would have exerted their influence upon civilization.

Today, the children love this holiday, not only because it has become a time for the giving of gifts -- very often distributed on each of the eight nights -- but also because Hanuka is the traditional time for playing the dreidel game.

The dreidel is a small four sided wooden or metal top that is spun by hand. The sides are inscribed with the four Hebrew letters which begin with the words "Nes Gadol Haya Sham" (a great miracle happened there). It is also traditional to serve "latkes" a kind of potato pancakes, during this holiday season.

However, the big event of Hanuka is the candle-lighting ceremony, commemorating the light that burned for eight days during the re-dedication of the Temple. Each night of the festival, the father -- sometimes the mother or members of the family take turns in lighting a candle, starting on the right with one candle the first night, two the second and so on until eight candles are lit on the last night, using a helper candle called a "Shamos." The blessing is recited during the ceremony and reads as follows:

"Blessed art thou, O Lord - Our God, Ruler of the Universe who has sanctified us by thy commandments and commanded us to kindle the light of Hanuka."

The lighting of the Hanuka Lamp should take place between sunset and until there is no wayfarer left on the street. Because Hanuka symbolizes the triumph of faith in God over brute force, it has long been a source of inspiration to the weak and small in number who fight for liberty and justice against stronger and tyrannical foes.

It strengthens the conviction that religious freedom is the right of every people and that God desires man to worship Him in Freedom.

Abp. Williams Marks 'Hunger Week'

World Hunger Week was observed at Archbishop Williams High School with a series of programs designed to promote awareness of students for the hungry throughout the world.

Awareness Day Monday, Nov. 14 began the week's activities. The entire student body viewed a closed circuit telecast conducted by Rev. John Murphy, S.J., whose presentation dealt with the issue of hunger and the Christian's response to it. Nov. 15 was set aside as a Day of Prayer. Each period of the day began with a short reading from the Bible pertaining to hunger. Rev. James McCarthy, school pastor, gave the reading over the school's public address system. A Mass was celebrated to pray for the hungry of the world.

On Nov. 16, Tag Day, students and faculty members obtained a tag for a donation of $1. The tag entitled the owner to wear dungarees to class. Proceeds were donated to a hunger relief organization.

A Day of Food and Fast was observed Nov. 17. All students brought in to school non-perishable food items. The food was placed in a "Food Box" in each homeroom. In addition, students and faculty members fasted from lunch and donated their lunch money to OxFam America. Nov. 17 was a National Fast Day for a World Harvest sponsored by OxFam America. The lunch money donations were given to this hunger relief organization.

Nov. 18, the final day of World Hunger Week, was a Day of Thanksgiving. Students and faculty members participated in a Mass of Thanksgiving celebrated by school pastor, Rev. James McCarthy.

The "Food Boxes" were offered by each homeroom during the Offertory of the Mass. At the conclusion of the Mass, the students presented the food donations to the Little Sisters of the Assumption. These sisters assist and care for the poor and needy in the Boston area.

Pfc. Charles Manning In Maneuvers

Barry, Riley Seen Tobin Appointees

It will soon be coming-and-going time at City Hall as Mayor-elect Arthur Tobin puts his administrative team together.

Among the first expected to depart are Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson, administrative aides Arthur Casey and John Salenius, Solicitor Tom Williams, Assistant Solicitor Louis Bertucci and Budget Director Sarah Saccone.

Other top level appointees from Mayor LaRaia's administration will soon follow them as their terms expire or as they resign. The rank and file, however, seem safe.

Who will replace LaRaia's top people? That question is the center of City Hall's current guessing game.

Usually reliable sources think Atty. Richard Barry will be named city solicitor. Barry, a former city councillor and former Norfolk County assistant district attorney, is one of Quincy's top lawyers. He has an outstanding courtroom record and is highly regarded in legal circles.

Being mentioned to succeed Bertucci as assistant solicitor is Ward 6 Councillor Dennis Harrington who lost his bid for a council at-large seat. And, also expected to return as an assistant solicitor is Robert Fleming who held down the job under former Mayor Walter Hannan.

Close sources would not be too surprised if former Purchasing Agent George Riley returns to the political scene—this time probably as Mayor-elect Tobin's executive secretary. His name seems to be the most often mentioned as the guessing warms up.

There is speculation that James J. Ricciuti, public works commissioner under Mayor McIntyre may return to that post.

Sarah Saccone who battled with Tobin and the rest of the City Council over the tax rate and other financial issues is certain to be removed from that post. And, in fact, that post may be removed, too.

With the city auditor [Charles Shea] playing a bigger role in budget matters—as big a role as Alexander Smith did under Mayors Amelio della Chiesa and James McIntyre. The city auditor is considered the top financial officer in the city and Tobin is expected to restore the post to that plateau. Under Mayor LaRaia, the auditor had little to say in any money matters.

If additional financial brain-power is needed in preparing the annual budget, the services of an expert will probably be retained for a month or so rather than pay an entire year's salary to a budget director.

Under civil service, Saccone has the right to return to her job in the city auditor's office. She, of course, had a furious battle going with Shea the final few months before the Nov. 8 city election. The auditor's office will probably get smaller each day with the two of them in it at the same time. Shea, who is a pretty good scrapper himself, isn't about to let Sarah get the upper hand.

MEANWHILE, the next big question around City Hall [and elsewhere] is: What's Mayor LaRaia going to do when he leaves office?

An easier question at this time would be: What's he not going to do? What he's not going to do—for sure—is to be appointed to anything by Arthur Tobin.

LaRaia has burned his political bridges between the City Council chamber and the mayor's office in the past two to three years. His chance of getting a political appointment would be about the same as that North End Boston newspaper proclaiming Arthur Tobin its "Man of the Year".

LaRaia will have the opportunity to return to his old job at the welfare department from which he took a leave of absence to run for mayor.

Which is ironic, in a way. Mayor McIntyre appointed LaRaia to his original job in the welfare department after defeating him for mayor in 1965. And now he can return there if he so desires after his defeat to Tobin.

INSIDERS report the City Council presidency is still a toss-up between James Sheets and John Quinn. Neither has a firm necessary 5-vote bloc.

SPEAKING OF SHEETS, does he have a much bigger political office as his true goal and may soon reveal it?

THE UNITY DINNER meeting hosted by Mayor-elect Tobin at the South Shore Bank last week was a big step in the right direction, those present agreed. Attending were the new City Council and School Committee and their wives [husbands] and the news media. The nice part was to see people smiling again and thinking positive. They were looking to the future once again.

South Shore Bank President Robert Blair and the bank—whom picked up the tab—deserve a commendation for the nice gesture.

OBSERVATION: Mayor LaRaia seems to have gone into seclusion since his defeat in the Nov. 8 city election. He has been conspicuously absent from recent public attracting events including: the Veterans Day parade, the dedication of Thomas S. Burgin Parkway and Sunday's Christmas Festival Parade.

What a difference—two years make. In 1975 he marched triumphantly along the Christmas parade route. This year Arthur Tobin and his wife, Shirley, had the honor.

assessors himself a dozen years ago.

"I guess you could say I broke him in," said Callahan, who was present at the QTA luncheon. "He started his political career with me."

Tobin said the relocating Boston firm, which he declined to name, currently occupies two floors in one Boston building and one floor in another. It employs 235 and made $11 million last year.

"They want to come to Quincy and they have an option on some land near the Expressway," said the Mayor-elect. "I asked them if they would consider locating in downtown Quincy."

"They want to put up a new building. If they could put a retailer on the first floor and occupy the second and third floors themselves it would be an asset to downtown Quincy."

"They haven't made a commitment yet but they want to come."

Tobin said he has scheduled a lunch meeting with representatives of the company for Dec. 12.

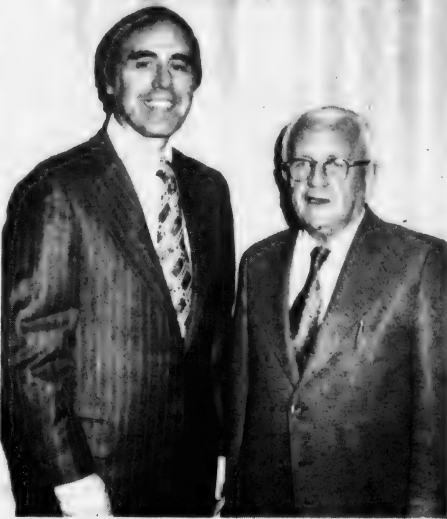

"I'm going to bring with me Rev. Bedros Baharian [his downtown business development director] and City Councillor Leo Kelly and someone from the Chamber of Commerce," he said.

"We're going to try to sell them on downtown Quincy but if we can't do that we'll get them to come to Quincy anyway."

The man he has asked to become city solicitor, Tobin said, "is the kind of a man Quincy needs" in the top legal post.

"I know how important it is to get a top-notch city solicitor," he said, recalling his friendship with the late Harry Pavan. "I went out to get one of the best."

"The individual turned me down three times but I wore him down. He didn't turn me down the fourth time. He's going to submit an application to the screening committee next week."

Tobin said his meeting with the Screening Committee is the first step in acquiring "good, competent people advising me."

"I want to go back to the people in a year or two and be able to ask them not to judge me on rhetoric but on what I have done," he said.

"But I can do things only if I have the best people around me to do it, not just political appointments."

"I talked with the business people and they told me that the downtown business area has been studied to death. They don't want to see any more committees. They're looking for action."

"I wanted to assure them there would be no political hacks imposed upon them. That's why I announced that the Rev. Baharian would have the job at $1 a year.

"Mr. Baharian turned me down the first time but he knew that I would not take no for an answer."

Tobin said he also plans a meeting with Baharian and State Public Works Commissioner John Carroll to coordinate work being done by the MBTA and the Army Corps of Engineers in South Quincy.

During a recent trip to Washington, he said, he discovered that there was a danger of the MBTA extension being built without allowance made for a culvert needed by the Corps of Engineers' Town Brook project.

"If the culvert is not built now," he said, "the MBTA tracks will have to be ripped up later so it can be put in. It's the responsibility of the administration to see that the two projects mesh together."

Council Presidency Still Toss-up opposition to Quinn are Sheets, Paul D. Harold, Francis X. McCauley and Joanne Condon with Stephen J. McGrath indicating no opinion.

McCauley told The Sun that Quinn is "definitely not my candidate but right now I have no commitment to anyone else. Harold is acceptable to me and I think very highly of Jim Sheets."

McCauley said he plans to talk with Sheets in the near future "and then the situation will be clearer. I'm not sure where he stands on it. I'm not sure he wants it."

Harold, who says he has "an interest of my own in the presidency," said that he has talked with McCauley, McGrath, Sheets and Mrs. Condon about the presidency since election day.

"I'd like to try to keep the five of us together—in general, not just for one candidate," he said.

He said he thought Tobin and Quinn are "too cozy" to be Mayor and Council President at the same time.

"I don't think it's in the best interests of the City Council or the city," he said. "It's best to keep things out in the open with all nine councillors involved, not just one or two."

Pearl Harbor Attack Sends City Into Action

Quincy responded with feverish activity to word that the Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor.

"The time for play at civil defense is past," said Edwin J. MacEwan, controller of the Fifth Civilian Defense District, which included Quincy and 10 South Shore Towns.

"If the Japanese can bomb Hawaii, which is 3,000 miles away, then the Germans can bomb Quincy, which is only 2,700 miles away."

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin cut short a Cape Cod holiday and returned to confer behind closed doors with Police Chief John J. Avery, Solicitor John D. Smith and Fore River Police Chief Howard H. Dacey.

I Co., commanded by Capt. John Brewer, one of Quincy's two state guard companies, was mobilized and ordered to report to the Armory at 7 p.m. Sunday night.

Z. Cranston Smith, chief air raid warden, sent out a call for 1,000 additional volunteers to augment the force of 300 air raid wardens that were to be graduated on Monday.

Chief Avery directed members of the Quincy Police Department not to leave the city without permission and he cancelled orders to put the Police Boat "Guardian" in winter storage.

Police, alerted by the New Haven Railroad that a Japanese was aboard a southbound train, stopped the train at Wollaston and took him off only to find it was a prominent Chinese laundryman from Weymouth returning from a weekend date in Boston.

BURKHARD ASKS RECOUNT

City Councillor Christian A. Burkhard, defeated for re-election in Ward 4 by George P. McDonald, asked for a recount and an investigation into alleged irregularities in the election.

"One election official alone told me that about 75 persons, all registered voters, had been refused the right to vote because their names were not on the voting list," charged Burkhard.

He lost to McDonald, 614 to 558.

QUINCY ALUMNI WIN

Don Buckley scored two touchdowns and his brother, Ed, the third to lead the Quincy Alumni to an upset 19-0 victory over the North Quincy Alumni, the Raiders' first City League defeat of the season.

The winning Quincy lineup included: Erickson, Parziale, Sylva, Norman, ends: Dodd, Hekkila, DiBona, Maki, tackles: Kautioli, DiRado, Knowles, Tangertini, guards: Erwin, McDonald, centers: E. Buckley, D. Buckley, S. Buckley, Hamilton, Hurley, backs.

Tobin, LaRaia Spend Over $100,000 In Mayoral Race

$18,618 before the primary and $29,348 afterward.

The most expensive items in the Tobin and LaRaia campaigns were public relations.

Tobin paid $12,450 to David Duffy of Providence for PR advice and LaRaia paid $5,104 to the Edwards Group of Boston for similar counsel.

Advertising took another big bite out of both budgets.

Tobin spent $7,426 for advertising in the Patriot Ledger and $1,173 for advertising in The Quincy Sun.

LaRaia's bill with the Patriot Ledger was $5,918, with The Sun $559, and with WJDA $2,575.

In addition, LaRaia paid $5,915 to the North End Press, 5 Prince St., Boston, for tabloids.

Tobin's phone bill was $1,496 and LaRaia's was $2,373. LaRaia spent $1,860 on stamps and Tobin laid out $1,329 to the Post Office.

Odd items in the LaRaia report included: $95 to Ellenda Lipsitz, 40 Harriet Ave., for wine and cheese at a coffee hour; and $178 to Ben Weiner of Milton for hats.

Tobin, whose expenses leaned heavily toward food, paid the Hollow Restaurant $114 for cheese and purchased $151 worth of pizza on two occasions.

READER SPEAKS OUT

School Committee Vacancy Issue

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The election is over but problems keep marching on. Why? Because of the corruption of human nature which allows any astute and unscrupulous individual to take advantage of our imperfect political machine to cheat the will of the people. The Quincy charter has a loop-hole which allows this chicanery, and it should be corrected. It reads as follows:

"SECTION 36. Except as provided in this section, if a vacancy occurs in the school committee by failure to elect, or otherwise, the city council and the remaining members of the school committee shall meet in joint convention and elect a suitable person to fill the vacancy until the first Monday in January following the next regular municipal election; and, if there would be a vacancy on said first Monday, it shall be filled at such regular municipal election for the balance of the unexpired term. The mayor, if present, shall preside at the convention."

Ironically, the main theme of the last election in Quincy was that Peoples' faith and trust in their elected officials would be restored. This will not be done unless respect is had for the will of the majority of the voting citizens. Let me illustrate: At the very last meeting of the School Committee a thorny issue whether to transport 21 kindergarten children for this year was settled to leave things as they are because 12 parents agreed to this: 5 were opposed; 2 did not care; and 2 could not be reached. A simple problem but the majority ruled. The vote of the School Committee was unanimous.

In contrast look at the problem that must be settled by the members of the School Committee and the City Council in a joint session. Should it be so hard? Watch for the outcome.

Look at the facts: The runner-up, Frank Anselmo, received a total vote of 13,604; Charles Sweeney received 12,736; That is a plurality of 868 for Anselmo.

The question is who shall fill the vacancy created by Francis X. McCauley moving into the city council? Simple question for normal, honest people. Avoid the suspicion of political shenanigans, respect the will of the majority of the voters: live up to the expectancy of the pledge that faith and trust, to do the honest thing, shall be restored to the majority of the voting people of Quincy. By so doing the road ahead will be smoother for all in our, as of now, politically tormented city.

By the way, our new Mayor, Arthur H. Tobin, becomes the new chairman, ex-officio, of the new School Committee, regardless of the outcome. I wish him success for the good of our city and its people.

A Father's Tribute

Linda's Faith And Courage Live On

By TOM HENSHAW

Linda Cordone Morrison died Jan. 14, 1976, but the memory of her faith and courage lives on in the pages of The Family, a magazine published by the Daughters of St. Paul in Jamaica Plain.

Linda, who died of cancer at the age of 24, was the daughter of Anthony Cordone, of 63 Central St., Weymouth, a longtime Quincy resident and insurance man. She was married to Bruce Morrison for three years.

Linda was a registered nurse, a 1972 graduate of the Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing. She and her husband, Bruce, taught Sunday School at St. John's Church.

LINDA CORDONE MORRISON

Her grieving father describes in the November issue of The Family how her courageous acceptance of death wrought changes in the people around her and restored to him the faith that had slipped away.

Cordone is a little surprised to find that he is neither bitter nor angry about his daughter's untimely death and he thinks he knows the answer to the question, "Why?"

"Linda said there is a reason and we'll all know one day," he writes. "She brought all of us who loved her just a little bit closer to God.

"Linda saw many changes take place during her illness.

"Friends who stopped going to church now found the road back to God and prayer. They wanted to share their faith with Linda and Bruce.

"Still others are trying to improve their lives because of Linda. They have a different outlook on life now.

"Linda wanted that faith in God to carry on in her absence and that is what we're trying to do. It's not easy but that's the way life is.

"Whatever the reasons, if some of these answers satisfied Linda, then we accept them too."

Cordone relates how, just before Linda died, he told her that he had lost his faith when her uncle Matt was killed in an auto accident.

"She looked at me sadly," he says, "shaking her head, not wanting to believe what I was telling her.

"I went on to say that because of the tremendous courage and faith she had, watching her determination not to quit, giving us her continued love and generosity, she was responsible for giving me back my own faith.

"Linda had put me back together again."

Jewels & Gems

by Stan Manin

Did you know that your birthstone is supposed to insure good luck? The fashion of wearing one's birthstone began in 18th century Poland. Today, there are few gifts more personal than a birthstone ring. Garnet is the appropriate gemstone for people born in January. The sentiment inherent in this stone, constancy, is supposed to guarantee the wearer constant affection. Most garnets come in shades of red, although some are purple, orange, and even green. The pyrope garnet - the reddest one - takes its name from the Greek words meaning "fire eye". This gem has been confused with the ruby for hundreds of years. There is a famous legend surrounding this birthstone which tells how a single huge garnet provided the light in Noah's Ark. Birthstones are always welcome gifts. Come in soon and see our fine variety at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., 696-1490. We try to have a relaxing atmosphere in our shop and give you help with all your needs. TOO COLD FOR FRANKIE AVALON

Singer Frankie Avalon, scheduled to be the first-ever grand marshal of Quincy's Christmas Festival Parade, took one deep breath of Sunday's bone-chilling temperatures and decided that he would be better off snug and warm in his Revere motel.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barry drove up to Revere to pick up the singer, who was appearing at a Saugus nightclub, but returned without the grand marshal.

Barry, a member of the Festival Committee, reported that Avalon had apologized for his withdrawal. The singer explained that he had a recording engagement later this week, and did not want to take a chance at catching a cold.

His failure to appear was a disappointment to many of his fans who braved the cold weather and brisk winds in the hope of seeing one of their favorites.

MARCHING ALONG together, Mayor-elect Arthur H. Tobin and his wife, Shirley, acknowledge friendly applause of crowds as they step along the two-mile Christmas Parade route.

Win Cotton Bowl Invite, State Championship

Presidents Marching Band Double Winner In Parade

By PETER BARNICLE

Quincy High School Band scored a double victory in the annual Christmas Festival Parade, winning the state high school marching band championship and the competition to select a band to represent New England at the 1979 Cotton Bowl Parade at Dallas, Tex.

A chilled crowd, estimated at 200,000, jammed Quincy Center as the "Presidents" successfully defended the state championship they won last year in the same parade.

In addition, the Quincy High School Color Guard placed third in its competition.

Parents with heavily clothed children were several deep along the route which moved from the Veterans Memorial Stadium along Hancock St., through Quincy Center to School St., where the reviewing stand was located in front of St. John's Church.

Many spectators complained about the wide gaps between units in the three-hour parade, and the crowds thinned out considerably before Santa Claus came into view atop an aerial ladder truck of the Quincy Fire Department.

Members of the Christmas Festival Committee said that the delays were due in part to the complex judging of the bands in front of Central Junior High School.

Richard A. Venna, a committee member, said he thought the bands and the youngsters aboard the floats displayed "a lot of guts" in braving the cold and the bone-chilling wind while waiting to get away from the starting point. He noted that some of the bands, like those from Blue Mountain Union, Vermont, Meridan and Derby Conn., and Freeport, Me., faced the hours long bus trip home after completing the two mile march.

In winning the Massachusetts High School Marching Band championship, Quincy High School piled up a score of 87.8. The "Marching Pirates" of Hull High School were in second place in the Class A division with a score of 83.8. Silver Lake Region High School was third with a score of 76.

In Class B, Gloucester High School took top honors with a score of 83.5; second was Mansfield High School, 80.6, and Beverly High School was third, 78.2.

Chicopee Comprehensive High School won the Class C title with a score of 83.4; Somerville High School was second, 76.7, and Medway High School was third, 71.1.

In the Open Class for the New England title, Quincy High School was tops with Hull in second place and Gloucester High School in third.

Among the Color Guards, Hull High School and Gloucester tied for first place with a score of 9.4 out of a possible 10. Chicopee Comprehensive was second, 9, and Quincy was third, 8.8.

In the competition among the majorettes, Milton High School was first with a score of 80; Falmouth High was second, 61, and Holbrook finished third, 59.5.

Among the floats, first prize in the adult category went to Quincy Lodge of Elks with its entry "Snoopy Loves Woodstock." The float won $500 and a trophy.

In the youth division, St. John's entry "Once Upon a Time" was in first place, winning $600 and a trophy, and the Mayor's Trophy was awarded to "Silent Christmas Love" entered by Supporters of Survival.

In the commercial category, A & T Movers' entry "Kids Love Jack-in-the-Box and Toys" was the winner. Michael Morrissey's float "Everybody Loves Santa's Workshop," was declared the winner among the individual entries. A trophy will be awarded to each.

The trophies will be presented to the winners at the Awards Night to be held under the auspices of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, sponsors of the parade, to be held in mid-January. A definite date has not yet been set.
